A LINDSAY MAN'S EVIDENCE.

Says that Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Cured Him in Short Order.

If anyone were to take the trouble to make inquiries in Lindsay about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, he would be surprised the number of people there that had taken that remedy with the most beneficial results for backache, kidney and bladder troubles of one kind and another.

On making inquiries of Mr. Geo. Gain, of that town, respecting his case, he gave our representative the following statement:—"Hearing of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, I procured a bottle from my druggist, and I want to say that they are excellent. I had a very bad backache, the result of cold settling there, and they cured it in very short order, so I feel I can recommend them strongly to anyone suffering from backache or kidney troubles."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

[NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—ED. TIMES.]

—The 57th will parade to-morrow evening.

—The Board of Education will meet this evening for general business.

—Grace church Sunday school held their rally service yesterday at 2.30 p.m.

—The Ontario Government has granted $100 to the Peterborough Historical Society.

—The excursion from Midland and intermediate points on Saturday was largely patronized, a large number of visitors from the north remaining in town Sunday.

—Mr. C. Korgan, the sewing machine expert, has a repair shop at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets. His charges are reasonable, and satisfaction to customers is guaranteed.

—The Schneider Challenge Cup, won by Geo. H. Taylor, now champion amateur 100 yard runner of the county, is on exhibition at H. P. Kennedy's meat market, 340 George street.

—At T. J. Parker's repair shop, opposite St. John's Church, Hunter street special attention will be given to the repairing of all kinds of firearms, locks, perambulators, etc. Bicycles for hire.

—Cool weather and short evenings—just the time to have a good book on hand to read. Novels by such authors as Sir Walter Scott, Thackeray, Dumas, Reynolds, Dickens, Lever, etc., going at ten cents each at Times Bookstore.

—You will make no mistake when you go to G. E. Whiten's for your photos. He has taken first prize whenever he showed his work in Peterborough and Toronto. Studio, 168 Hunter street, sign of the Golden camera.

—Robert Smith, who pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of copper wire from the Canadian General Electric Company, will come up for sentence before Police Magistrate Dumble at 9 o'clock this morning.

—Orders have been received by Lt.-Col. Edwards to the effect that the 57th will embark for Toronto on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 8th, at 8 o'clock, arriving at the Exhibition Grounds at Toronto at 10.30 p.m.

—The muddy street crossings yesterday was a source of much annoyance to pedestrians. In some towns, after a rain like that of yesterday morning, the corporation has men to clean the crossings for the accomodation of church-goers.

—Ratepayers who have not already done so, should walk around and see the repairs to the granolithic walks now being made at the Morrow corner, George and Brock streets. This is a sample of how the street department is mismanaged.

—It will be a week or ten days before the break in the Light & Power Company's dam is repaired, but the company will to-day put in the necessary machinery for getting power from the Dickson Company and hope to give an uninterupted light service.

LAID AT REST.

Funeral of the the Late Mother Superior of St. Joseph's on Saturday.

On Saturday morning the remains of Rev. Mother M. Austin, Superior of the Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph, in Peterborough diocese, were laid at rest. Solemn requiem mass was sung at St. Peter's Cathedral, after which interment took place in the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The celebrant of the mass, was Very Rev. Dean Murray, of Coburg; Rev. Father Maguire, of Hastings, officiated as deacon, and Rev. Dr O'Brien, of Peterborough, as sub-deacon. The sermon was delivered by Very Archdeacon Casey, from the text, "And Jesus saith to him, if thou wilt be perfect, go sell what thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have a treasure in heaven. Then come and follow Me."—St. Matthew 19th chap., 21st vs. Other priests who were in attendance at the funeral were Rev. Father O'Connel of St. Joseph's Hospital; Rev. Father Conway, of Norwood; Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point, and Rev. Father Phelan, of Peterborough.

A telegram was received from his lordship O'Connor, who is in New Ontario, expressing his great sorrow and extending kindest sympathy to the bereaved Sisters on the great and irreparable loss which they have sustained.

The deceased was known by her good works and her largeness of heart. Possessed of a beautiful character the Mother Superior was dearly beloved by all with whom she came in contact.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Events Under This Head Transpiring in and Around Peterborough.

[NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature, either by 'phone or in writing.—ED. TIMES.]

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Dingman of Northumberland County, have taken up residence in town.

—Mr. T. O. Rush, manager of the T. O. Rush Clothing Co., is in Montreal sorting up stock for this company.

—Mr. James Rose, who returned a few days ago from Buffalo, saw the remains of the late President McKinley.

The many friends of Miss Ipsa Martyn are pleased to welcome her back to town. She is spending a few weeks holidays with her mother, Mrs. R. B. Martyn, before returning to the Queen City.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hammond, Mrs. John Hammond, and Mrs. Moses Boyd, of Orillia, were in town on Saturday, on their way to Norwood, where they will visit Mrs. Fry and Mrs. Hendron. Mr. Hammond, who is one of Orillia's manufacturers, speaks hopefully of the business outlook up north this winter.

—Miss Lena Martyn has tendered her resignation with the Canadian General Electrical Company, in order to accept a position in Rochester, N.Y. Miss Martyn will visit Toronto and the Pan American before commencing the duties of her new position. She carries with her the best wishes of her many friends for success.

—Councillor W. S. Frost, of Orillia, took in Saturday's excursion, and remained in town over Sunday, the guest of his brother, Mr. R. J. Frost, of "Diamond Hall." Mr. Frost, who is associated with his brother in the jewelry store on George street, is favorably impressed with the industrial prospects of Peterborough, which he regards as having a bright future before it.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner and two sons arrived home from an extended visit to England yesterday. They reached Montreal on Saturday at 3 o'clock, and took the train for Port Hope, where they arrived at half-past five yesterday morning, and were met by Mr. John Turner, who had driven down on Saturday evening to meet them. They had a somewhat rough passage on their way home, but are both looking remarkably well.

WONDERFUL RESULTS.

Follow the Use of Dr. Clarke's Little Pills—No Cure, no Pay.

To the Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills are a wonder in my case at least. I was for 16 years a sufferer from rheumatism, and my system became so emaciated and run down that I had given up all hope. Doctors did me no good, or could I get anything to relieve my sufferings. I was only able at times to move around with the greatest pain. By merest chance I saw an advertisement of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills, and, like a drowning man reaching for a straw, I concluded to try them. I took three boxes, without much change, but before three more had been used I was nearly well. Six weeks after I took my first box I walked a mile without the aid of a stick.

I am now, thank God, a well man, and cheerfully write this letter in the hope that others may be benefitted. John D. Askin, (formerly of Hamilton), Peterborough, Ont.

Sir,—I gladly write a line to say that Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney and liver troubles of many years standing. I bought a box after trying hundreds of remedies, and felt so much improved that I continued using them—Isaak Richardson, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 60 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS.

The Time Honored Church Festival Fittingly Observed at St. John's.

Yesterday was the Festival of St. Michael and All Angels, and all the services in St. John's Church were marked by special music, which was of a festal character, the splendid vested choir being assisted by an orchestra of a dozen instruments. The decorations used at the Harvest Home Festival on Thursday were still in place, and were much admired. The altar presented a beautiful appearance, with its white covering, surmounted by the brass cross—the symbol of our common redemption. At Evensong every seat in the church was crowded with devout worshippers. In his sermon the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, M A. spoke of the ministry of the guardian angels—the nature of their service to God; their ministry to man. During the offertory a magnificent anthem was rendered. At the close of the service a very enjoyable recital was given, to which the majority of the congregation remained. Miss Cochrane, the talented organist gave two exceedingly well rendered organ selections with orchestral accompaniment —Tozier's "Magnificat," and "What Shall I Render" (Mendelssohn). The feature of the recital was the singing of Miss Margaret McCarter, of the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston. This talented young lady possesses a voice of exceptional purity and sweetness, and of wide compass. It is hoped the people of Peterborough may have another opportunity of hearing this gifted vocalist. A baritone solo "Enough," from "Elijah," was rendered in faultless style by Mr. Pope. It is some time since the congregation have enjoyed such a musical treat.

Sciatica put him on Crutches—Jas. Smith, dairyman, of Grimsby, Ont., writes: "My limbs were almost useless from sciatica and rheumatism, and, notwithstanding my esteem for physicians, I must give the credit where it belongs. I am a cured man to-day, and South American Rheumatic Cure must have all the credit. It's a marvel.—34

Sold by H. H. Edmison.

—At Madill's drug store, can be seen the famous vapor bath cabinet, manufactured by T. Patterson & Co., of this town. It was one of the principal features at the Central Ontario Exhibition, where it carried off a diploma. It is recommended by local physicians for rheumatism, la grippe, and other ailments. Mr. Madill will be pleased to show it to those wishing for information concerning its curative properties.

THE Y. W. C. A.

Opening Services at the New Rooms Yesterday Afternoon

The new quarters of the Y.W.C.A. on George street were crowded to the doors yesterday afternoon, when the dedicatory services took place. The audience was composed almost wholly of women. The services were conducted by Rev. Messrs Wilson, Yule and Potter. Mr. Potter presided and gave a short address before introducing Miss Carson, the speaker of the day. Mr. Potter praised the local press for its encouragement to the Y.W.C.A. and said that in many places the press was not altogether favorable to the movement. Miss Carson, who is the Field Secretary for the Dominion of the Y.W.C.A., gave a very interesting account of her life in New York city, showing how through the influence of Christian young women of the metropolis she was led into her present path. A statement that she made strikingly illustrates the advances made by women of recent years into domains formerly occupied almost exclusively by men—viz: that there are half a million self-supporting young women in the city. Another statement shows that our "exodus" is not confined to one sex. In a factory in New England where a large number of women were employed she delivered an address and afterward the question arose where they had all come from, and it turned out that more than half were Canadians, their homes being all the way from Sydney to Winnipeg.

Mr. Potter and Miss Carson each eulogized Miss Dickson as exceptionally qualified for the work in this town.

There will be a reception at the rooms to-night at 8 o'clock, when Miss Carson will again deliver an address.

CONTRACT COMPLETED.

The Finishing Touches Being Put on Pier and Boom Work.

Messrs. S. David Conroy & Son, who have the contract for putting in the piers and glance booms on the Trent Valley Canal between Nassau and Lakefield, will complete their contract in about a week.

The piers are all down and all that remains to be done is to have the booms in their places and attach them properly. The work is first-class in every respect, and reflects credit on Mr. Ed. Ed. Conroy, who has had charge of the operations.

There is no reason why the Canal should not now be used to bring wood to town. Scows can be brought to the Warsaw road, close to Curtis's brick yard, and unloaded. A great deal of the wood cut around Buckhorn Lake is taken by boat to Lindsay; a good deal of this traffic might be diverted to Peterborough in the future. Here is a pointer to our wood men.

RABBIT AND RAREBIT

The Barbarous Collocation of the Words Used by the Majority of People.

It is high time that all lovers of English should unite in common protest against that barbarous collocation of words, "Welsh rarebit." Every now and then in the past some good man has raised his voice in a plea for the right phrase, "Welsh rabbit," and has then disappeared. Such staccato protests have proved unavailing. The word rarebit has now insinuated itself upon ninety-nine per cent of all the menus in New York. The smaller hotels caught the habit from the greater ones. The French and German hosteiries imitated their American contemporaries. Nor is this the worst. Owners of chop houses and restaurants flaunt the offensive word on their gilded signboards in the very faces of the public at large.

Now, why is this? Not a dictionary of today sanctions the use of "rarebit," though in a temporary abberation of judgment Worcester and Webster once did. Perhaps hotel men are too busy to consult dictionaries. Then let them hearken to the indirect reproof they are continuously receiving from their customers.

I have been in many, many places where the menus announce "rarebits." I have never heard any one order anything else than a rabbit. Nay, the very waiter who repeats the order to the cook says "Welsh rabbit."

That is, indeed, one of the most curious of all philological feats—that by which some amateur etymologist of the past forced the wrongful substitution of "rarebit" for "rabbit" upon the world. It has ever been a common habit with the etymologist of this breed, when the meaning of a word does not seem obvious to him to remedy the difficulty by a slight change that makes it seem superficially reasonable. Coming across the term "Welsh rabbit," he gazed through solemn spectacles at this mare's nest and decided that a bit of toasted cheese could not by any stretch of the imagination be considered a game animal, though it might be a "rare bit," so he jumped at the conclusion that time, and the corruptions which time effects must have done their evil work upon this word. Hence he decided to restore it to its original beauty and significance. Hence "Welsh rarebit."

Now this is all wrong. "Welsh rabbit" is a genuine bit of slang belonging to a large class of similar terms describing in mock heroic language the favorite dish of special product of a particular district. Here are a few examples that are absolutely analogous: In London a sheep's head stewed with onions is called "Field Lane duck." Potatoes are called "Irish apricots" and "Munster plums." A herring is called in different localities of England a "Digby chicken," a "Norfolk capon," a "Dunbar wether," or a "Gourock ham." In France it is humorous to call a herring a "poulet de careme" (Lenten fowl).

In our own country, in New England, codfish is frequently known as "Cape Cod turkey."

Similar examples abound in the language of every country. Yet in the face of all these analogies the amateur etymologist refuses to accept the common sense explanation that the name "Welsh rabbit" is simply a humorous recognition of Taffy's fondness for toasted cheese.

A Novel Proposition.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I take the following from a Woodstock paper, and would suggest that a similar affair be given in the drill shed in aid of the fund to procure band instruments:

Though the weather yesterday afternoon was cold and things did not improve after the sun went down, there was a large attendance at the picnic given by the band of the Oxford Rifles at the Street Railway Park. The bandsmen had sold a large number of tickets for last Thursday, the date first decided upon for the picnic, but which had to be postponed on account of the rain. These tickets were good yesterday and most of those sold were used. There wasn't much of a crowd out at the park in the afternoon, but the street cars after tea took out great crowds. Two cars left the Avenue at 7 o'clock for the park and every available spot on them was occupied. The other early evening cars were also well filled.

The excellent band played very entertainingly all evening. A platform had been fitted up and on this many young people tripped the light fantastic. At a booth near by, hot boiled corn, sandwiches, coffee and other refreshments were served. The hot corn was a new feature. Dr. Ickes said it was all the go at picnics across the line, so the bandsmen decided to try it here. It took well with yesterday's

The band realizes a snug sum from the proceeds. They got a percentage on the street car tickets. Everybody will be pleased to hear that the picnic was a success. The band is an institution deserving of the highest good will and patronage of the people of Woodstock.

Now, Mr. Editor, a picnic on these lines in aid of our band, given in the drill shed, with coffee, bread and butter and hot corn would be a novelty, and everybody would go. What do you think?

A FRIEND OF THE BAND.

Worthy of Praise.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—As a travelling man I have occasion to stay over Sunday in Peterborough sometimes, and having visited several of its churches, could not fail to remark the excellence of the music rendered. It is seldom I have visited a town of the size of Peterborough which can boast so many good choirs, and I must congratulate the citizens on the possession of such splendid musical talent in their midst. It is seldom I have enjoyed such a musical treat as that furnished Sunday evening in St. John's Church, the voices of the surpliced choristers blending beautifully, and the playing of the orchestra reflecting credit on performers and leader alike. The decorations were faultless, with out one exception—an arch at the foot of the chancel, which, although very pretty, obscured the view of the altar, which should always be in plain view of all the worshippers. Thanking you for publishing these remarks, I remain,

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I have been making the rounds of the churches during the past few Sundays, and what struck me most was the comparatively few persons who contribute when the collection plate is passed. It is obvious that the churches cover many sanctimonious sinners in this respect. It reminds me of a story I once heard, of a child who accompanied his father to church for the first time, and who was deeply impressed with the collection. Nestling up to the parent, he whispered: "Pa, mor'n half the folks has got in free."

Annual Harvest Festival

The Salvation Army will celebrate the annual harvest festival on Saturday, Oct. 5th, to Tuesday, Oct. 8th, inclusive. The officers in charge of the local corps solicit from the public a tithe of the bountiful blessings of field and store, in kind or cash, as a thank-offering to God. Anything received will be turned to good account, and it is more particularly to help its officers in this and poorer corps, who toil incessantly for the good of humanity, that this effort is being made. Plans and specifications of the work may be seen on and after Thursday, the 26th day of September, 1901, at the office of the Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal, at Peterboro, Ont., where forms of tender can be obtained.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the tender the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further an accepted bank check for the sum of $1,000 must accompany the tender. This accepted bank check must be endorsed over to the Honourable, the Minister of Railways and Canals, and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The accepted cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

LESSONS OF THE WAR ARE NOT WELL LEARNED

Leading British Newspapers Aroused by Gen. Buller's Appointed.

LORD KITCHENER HANDICAPPED IN SOUTH AFRICA

War Secretary Brodrick Breaking a Promise—Britain's Plan Not Legal.

London, Oct. 1.

The defeat of Botha seems to have been more severe than at first believed. His forces were beaten with heavy loss, in killed and wounded, it is estimated that nearly 100 were killed and 200 badly wounded.

Surrendered Boers state that the forces now in the field are badly clad and in need of ammunition and food. They have plenty of rifles, but lack in everything else except horses.

London, Oct. 1.

The attacks on the Government in regard to army reform and the conduct of the war have been resumed. The appointment of Gen. Sir Redvers Buller to the command of the First Army Corps is assailed bitterly on every hand, from the Times and Spectator downward.

Secretary of War Brodrick distinctly stated when he announced the establishment of the army corps system that no General should henceforth be appointed on a peace assignment who would not be fit to hold his command in time of war. The Spectator asks whether any reasonable person can suppose that in the event of war Gen Buller would be allowed to take command in the field. It goes on to say that unquestionably he ought not to be and would not be.

Other papers reassert openly and specifically allegations that Gen. Buller heliographed after the battle of Colenso categorically ordering Gen. White, the commander at Ladysmith, to destroy the cipher, to destroy the stores, and make for 12,000 armed Britons, the flower of the British Army, the best terms possible. The Spectator says that now is the time that a plain statement should be made by the War Office on this point.

The other two appointments so far made to the Army Corps are also criticised on the ground that they are directly in opposition to Secretary of War Brodrick's promise. Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood is to command the Second Army Corps, and the deafness which prevented him from serving in South Africa will apply to every war. The Duke of Connaught has been named to command the Third Army Corps. There is no criticism as to his fitness, but as the King's brother he would not be allowed to take the field, and, therefore it should be looked upon as disqualifying him for a peace command.

Accordingly these appointments are considered to prove that the War Office is slipping back to its old ways and is making reform a mere mockery. The recent reverses in South Africa, the details of which have already been cabled coupled with reports that Lord Kitchener is hampered by the home authorities, have also aroused angry feelings, which can only be compared with those expressed freely both in Government and opposition quarters in the early disastrous stages of the war.

Despite the official denial that Lord Kitchener tendered his resignation because the promise that he should have a free hand was broken, the story caused the deepest uneasiness and there is no doubt that he is greatly dissatisfied. There is no doubt also that he and Lord Milner, Governor of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, will not pull together, while his own plain statement of the uselessness of the mounted men sent to him in response to his urgent appeal for 15,000 in last February proves that he feels that his army is unequal to the work before it. The conditions in Cape Colony and the Transvaal and Orange River Colony give ample evidence that Lord Kitchener's feelings are fully justified.

BRITISH PLAN NOT LEGAL.

London, Oct. 1.

Prof. John Westlake, of Cambridge Law University, a well-known authority on international law, referring to the much discussed question of the right to put Boers on trains in South Africa with the object of preventing train wrecking, declares against it on the following grounds:

Annexation converted the Transvaal and Orange River Colony burghers into subjects of King Edward. Those who are living peacefully under his government are not governed by the laws of war, but by those of the land, and Great Britain claims their allegiance as was proved in the arrest of Dr. Krause, the former governor of Johannesburg on a charge of treason. Therefore to put a possible ex-Boer on a railway train as a defence would be the same as doing it to a natural born British subject.

If it is suggested to take the victim to the concentration camps a dilemma arises. If they are free to leave the camps they are within the category of persons who have accepted the King's change in status by living peaceably under the King's government. If they are not free the British have no right to assume that it is their option. If they had any they would have no If they had any they would have no overreached it as to make they still enemies of Great Britain.

Apart from the legal point, even the Germans did not put the French notables on trains without giving notice, which is difficult to give to all the scattered bands of the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies.

THE PRESIDENT'S WILL.

Bequeaths the Bulk of His Property to His Wife and Mother.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Yesterday afternoon Judge Day and Secretary Cortelyou went to the offices of the Probate Judge and offered the will of President McKinley for probate.

The following is a text of the will:

"I publish the following as my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills:

"To my beloved wife, Ida S. McKinley, I bequeath all of my real estate wherever situated, and the income of any personal property of which I may be possessed at death during her natural life.

"I make the following charge upon all of my property, both real and personal. To pay my mother during her life one thousand dollars a year, and at her death said sum be paid to my sister, Helen McKinley. If the income from the property be insufficient to keep my wife in great comfort, and pay the annuity above provided, then I direct that such of my property be sold so as to make a sum adequate for both purposes.

"Whatever property remains at the death of my dear wife, give to my brother and sisters, share and share alike. My chief concern is that my wife from my estate shall have all that she requires for her comfort and pleasure, and that my mother shall be provided with whatever money she requires to make her old age comfortable and happy.

"Witness my hand and seal, this 22nd day of October, 1897, to my last will and testament, made at the city of Washington, District of Columbia.

(Signed),

"WILLIAM McKINLEY."

HE KILLS HIMSELF.

Prof. Cornwell, Who Shot Girl Who Would Not Wed Him Surrounded in a Barn

Rolla, Mo., Oct. 1.—Surrounded in a barn, but a few blocks from the scene of his crime, Prof. J. S. Cromwell, who last Monday night murdered Miss Mollie Powell, a bride-elect, sent a bullet through his own heart last night to prevent being lynched by an angry posse.

Ever since the tragedy at the Powell home on Monday evening Cromwell had been hiding from a large posse of citizens and college students that ransacked buildings and searched almost every spot in the city.

Cromwell was located last night in a barn near the centre of the town, where he had been hiding probably ever since his flight from the Powell home. When discovered he ran to another barn near by and stood at bay.

Just as the attack was to be made the report of a pistol was heard inside the building, and when the pursuers broke in they found the murderer dead upon the floor.

ANARCHY FACES A PROBLEM

Emma Goldman Finds No Hall in Which to Lecture.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Anarchism in Chicago has received its first effectual setback from the laity and not from the lawmakers. No hall can be secured in which Emma Goldman may lecture on her doctrines and score the government. Not until late yesterday, after a three days' search, could the publisher of Free Society, Abraham Isaak, find a printer who would consent to run the red sheet through his press. Even then an exorbitant price had to be paid to an obscure printer.

Where the anarchists will secure a place to hold their meeting next week is a problem that they have not yet solved. The police will not let them use the streets or parks and a tent is regarded as too unstable against attacks by unbelievers. Isaak tried to see Police of Police O'Neill yesterday but failed.

The editorials in the issue of Free Society which will appear to-day or Monday deal with three subjects, the assassination of President McKinley, an arraignment of the Chicago police and the movement set on foot by the Marquette club and the city council for the extirpation of anarchism.

The efforts which have been started to crush anarchy in the United States are characterized as farces and guaranteed to create a boom in the "movement" of the reds.

An organization for the suppression of anarchy has been started in Austin. The society is known as the "Republic," and it is charted under the laws of Illinois. It promoters contemplate a secret, oath-bound organization with a grand lodge and auxiliary societies throughout the United States.

THE CORDAGE COMPANY.

The Work on the Buildings Being Pushed on Rapidly

Mr. J. J. Hartley, who had the contract for the erection of the necessary buildings for the Canadian Cordage Company, is pushing the work along rapidly. The stonework for the foundation of the boiler house is well under way, and the brick work will be started, it is thought, to-day.

The boiler house is to be completed first in order that the interior of the other buildings may be heated as soon as the walls are up and the roof placed in position. The work of completion can then be carried on inside.

The main building is to be built in three sections divided by fire-proof walls. As soon as the first section is erected the work on the interior will be started and the carpenters and painters can then be given a chance on their contracts while the other two sections are being built.

MR. HAYS RESIGNS.

Former Manager of the Grand Trunk Makes A Statement.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct 1.—After a week of rumours and contradictions President Charles M. Hays, of the Southern Pacific, has made the first official statement declaring he resigned several weeks ago and will retire from the presidency on October 1. His statement is as follows:

The change in policy and organization of the company, consequent upon a change in the ownership and control of the Southern Pacific shortly, after my taking service with the company, has made the place, originally attractive to me, so much less so that I, several weeks ago, voluntarily placed my resignation and surrender of my contract with the company at the disposal of the executive committee, to take effect on such date and upon such conditions as might be agreeable to them. We have agreed upon October 1 as the date upon which my resignation shall become effective.

"The announcement as to my successor, etc., will doubtless be made shortly. I have no definite plans as yet, but expect to remain some weeks enjoying the country with my family at Menlo Park, and will probably go East some time early in December."

It is understood the chief cause of Mr. Hays' retirement was the bitter dislike shown toward him by several prominent railway officials, who, on any pretext, telegraphed to H. E. Huntington, in New York, to get Mr. Hays' orders revoked.

Not even high officials of the company here are sure who will be his successor.

RAILWAY CONSOLIDATION

Various Lines Controlled by the Rutland System Come Together.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Oct. 1.—The stockholders of the various lines controlled by the Rutland Railway Company met in the company's office here yesterday for the purpose of voting on the proposed consolidation of the Ogdensburg and Lake Champlain Railway, the Rutland road, the Rutland Canadian, and the Bennington and Rutland. Of the forty-four thousand votes, all but ten forty-four thousand votes all but ten were represented. Louis Hasbrouck, an Ogdensburg attorney and well known railroad counsellor, held a large number of the proxies. The vote was unanimous for consolidation. The new concern has been incorporated, and the amalgamation will take effect Monday next.

The object in placing all the branches under one management is to increase the efficiency of the various lines, and to reduce the operating expenses.

The Ogdensburg and Lake Champlain Company will really pass out of existence Monday next, but the company will retain its name until all indebtedness has been liquidated. The companies which are affected by this move do a very large portion of the business in this section of New York State and Vermont. The head offices of the company will probably be located here.

A MANIAC MOTHER.

Drowns Her Four Children and Herself in a Well.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 30.—The small town of Little York, a station on the line of the Bedford & Cleveland Railroad, 15 miles south of this city, was the scene of a terrible tragedy early to-day. Mrs. Perry Curtis, the wife of a farmer, 38 years old, drowned her four small children in a well and then committed suicide by jumping in herself. Her husband, Perry Curtis, was in Cleveland with a load of potatoes, and knew nothing of the tragedy until he read an account of it in the newspapers.

Following are the names and ages of the dead:—Mrs. Perry Curtis, 38 years; Rosa Curtis, 2 years; Anna Curtis, 4 years; Harry Curtis, 6 years; Harold Curtis, 9 years. The latter was Mrs. Curtis' stepson.

Mrs. Curtis was released from the Massillon Insane Asylum recently as cured, and it is thought that while suffering a relapse, she committed the terrible deed. The body of Harold, the oldest boy, was terribly bruised. He had evidently made a desperate struggle to save himself.

TO WIPE OUT ANARCHY.

Loyal League of America Calls Upon Canadians to Assist Them in This Work.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—Mayor Morris has received a circular letter from the headquarters of the Loyal League of America at Tacoma, Wash., calling upon residents of the United States and Canada to unite in suppressing Anarchy. The league has, as its stated object, "the utter annihilation of Anarchists and Anarchistic teachings within the borders of North America and to prevent disloyalty to existing forms of government."

"The precise line of work," the communication states, "cannot at present be outlined; this must follow more complete organization. State and national legislation is, of course, its ultimate object. At present organization of public sentiment that will keep these vipers in holes and their tongues silent is essential."

The move has been started by old soldiers and the Mayor says he will probably send the communication to Mr. Wm. Borthwick, commandant of the Ottawa Veterans.

HUNDREDS OF MILES ALONE.

A Little Six-Year-Old Tot From St. John to Toronto.

"Harriet Williams, I am going to my papa at Toronto." These words, printed on an apron worn by a little girl, who passed through on the C.P.R. yesterday evening, were sufficient to ensure her protection and care from all the train men. Harriet Williams is only six years old, and her home was in St. John, New Brunswick, where her mother died a short time ago. She was on her way to join her father, who is a mechanic in Toronto. The little one was just as safe on her long journey as if she were the daughter of every conductor with whom she came in contact. The Times was informed by one of the train hands that the little one has nearly twenty dollars, given her by passengers who became interested in her on the journey. She was quite happy, and was amusing herself with a doll which had also been given her by a kind-hearted lady.

JUNK SHOPS REGULATED AND LICENSED

A By-Law to This Effect Passed by Council Last Night.

A PUBLIC POUND FOR THE TOWN

Town Council met in regular session last night, when there were present Mayor T. H. G. Denne, and Aldermen Edgcumbe, Shortly, Rush, Clinkscale, Batten, Corkery and Best.

The minutes of the preceding meetings were taken as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From John Montgomery, asking for two weeks holidays, commencing Nov. 1st.—Referred to Fire, Water & Light Com. with power to act.

From the Town Solicitor, enclosing a draft covenant and agreement between the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., Limited and the Town, for the conveyance of the new street as the performance of the work necessary for its construction and saying that he had submitted to Mr. Pousette, the Cereal Co.'s solicitor, the by-law and terms of the covenant. Mr. Pousette suggests that the by-law be read before Council to-night, the first and second readings and terms of the covenant approved of by Council, and the third reading adjourned for a couple of weeks, within which time a conveyance should be made and the covenant executed by the Company.—Received.

From a number of ratepayers, re the Canadian Cordage Company's application for leave to have a railway siding extended from the main tracks of the Grand Trunk along Bethune street to connect with their factory. These petitioners represent that such a siding would be a serious detriment to the property in that neighborhood and would make the street impassable. That if such siding is once built there will be no means of preventing it being used for other purposes and becoming a public nuisance as are other sidings. Also that the building of said siding would render useless a plot of land lying immediately to the east of the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, which has been set apart for a public park, and the loss of which would greatly reduce the value of adjoining lands. That there is no necessity for granting such a right in the public lands since there has already been granted to the said Company a block of land sufficiently large for all such purposes.—Received.

From J. H. & Fitzgerald, complaining of the unsafe condition of the bridge over the creek at the corner of Brock and Aylmer streets.—Referred to Board of Works.

From Miss Wm. Godfrey, asking for remission of taxes.—Court of Revision.

From John Rowe, asking for remission of dog tax.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Wm. Henderson, Superintendent of the Peterborough Water Company, to the effect that the Company are prepared to lay water mains on proposed new street past the American Cereal Co.'s property, provided street is put in shape for doing the work.—Received.

The resolution passed at a recent meeting of the Working Men of Peterborough opposing the lease of No. 5 dam to the Otonabee Power Co., and suggesting municipal ownership of power, was referred to the Manufacturers' Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

The following amounts were referred to the Finance Committee:

Salisbury & Co	$ 5 65
John E. Belcher	45 00

COM. OF THE WHOLE REPORT.

Ald. Clinkscale submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That Ald. Batten, Chairman of the Property Committee, ask each of the dealers in town by letter for tenders for a boiler for heating the town buildings.

2. That the matter of having the market scales fixed be left with Ald. Batten to have it done.

3. That the matter of levelling the street at the corner of Perry and Aylmer streets with earth from the Cordage Company's lot be left with the Town Engineer to deal with.

4. That the Engineer examine the bridge at the intersection of Brock and Aylmer streets and keep it in repair.

5. That the Treasurer issue cheques for sand and gravel for the sidewalk at the corner of Brock and George streets on the certificate of the Town Engineer.

6. That the Treasurer be instructed to complete the assessment to make up the shortage on the sale of debentures for granolithic sidewalks in accordance with the opinion of the Town Solicitor, and that the rate of interest be four per cent. and the sinking fund figured on a 5 per cent. basis.

7. That a four foot sidewalk be constructed on Park street from the present sidewalk to Townsend street.

8. That $1,000 of the appropriation made for the reception of the Duke of Cornwall and York be transferred to the appropriation for Streets and Bridges.

9. That the Durham Field Battery be permitted to take the grey town team to Toronto to the Duke of Cornwall's reception, on condition that they take the driver and that they are responsible for the safe return of the horses, and that the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to engage horses to take their places while away.

10. That the Village of Ashburnham be notified that the Village will be required to pay to the Town $350 a year from January 1st next to continue the present arrangement for fire protection.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted as read.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Ald. Best submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That any person or persons on Antrim street desirous of connecting with the sewer on George street be permitted to do so, provided that the connecting sewer on Antrim street shall be constructed under the supervision of the Town Engineer, of nine inch sewer pipe and in the centre of the street, and that the town own the sewer when constructed and that if so constructed the town pay the cost of so much of the sewer as shall be upon George street & being understood that any other person who may wish to connect with the said sewer on Antrim street shall be allowed to do so upon paying to the person or persons who constructed it a fair proportion of the cost of construction, having regard to the frontage owned by the person so desiring to make the connection; and that the Town Solicitor be instructed to prepare such By-law or agreement as may be necessary to give effect to this recommendation.

2. That the Engineer report what is required to repair Donegal street between Hunter and Brock streets to take the water off the east side with an estimate of the cost.

3. That the Chairman be given authority to purchase gravel from E. Archambault.

4. That the application of Wm. Batten to enclose the part of Downie street between McDonnell street and the Grand Trunk Railway be granted, subject to the consent of the property holders affected, and to continue during the pleasure of the Council, provision to be made for the storage thereon when required of any town property.

The report was adopted as read.

A PUBLIC POUND.

A by-law establishing a public pound and providing a keeper for the same passed its several readings.

This by-law provides for a pound at Roberts' place on Murray street, and that Wm. H. Roberts be the keeper thereof.

CLOSING OF MILL STREET.

A by-law providing for the closing of part of Mill street between Hunter and Murray streets, and the opening of a new street in lieu thereof, and conveying to the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., Limited, that portion of street so closed, passed its first and second readings.

JUNK SHOPS.

A by-law to license and regulate junk shops, second hand stores, and like institutions, passed its several readings.

Under the provisions of this by-law the keepers of such stores shall pay a yearly license of $10; they are to keep a register in detail of all goods they purchase, such articles to be held at least two days before being sold, and to be kept apart from the other goods in a separate compartment, which is to be open at all times for inspection. They are not allowed to purchase any article which they have reason to think has been stolen, and in such case shall advise the police of their suspicions. The premises are to be open to the police at all times for investigation, and no goods shall be purchased of minors under 16 years of age. A copy of this by-law is to be hung in the store, and any person guilty of an infraction of the same shall be liable to a fine of not less than $5 and not exceeding $50; in default of payment of such fine collection of the same may be made by distress.

On motion of Ald. Rush, seconded by Ald. Edgcumbe, Ald. Shortly was appointed to interview the County Council with a view to getting a similar by-law to the above passed.

THE CHEMONG BRIDGE.

On motion of Ald. Best, the whole Council were appointed a deputation to go with the County Council to Chemong on Thursday morning to open the new bridge.

PAYMENT OF DEBTS.

Ald. Best moved, seconded by Ald. Corkery,—That $35 be paid the Township of Douro for work done on the boundary road.—Carried.

Ald. Best moved, seconded by Ald. Corkery,—That E. Archambault be paid $18 for gravel furnished town.—Carried.

Ald. Best moved, seconded by Ald. Corkery,—That the whole Council be a committee to consider the advisability of acquiring and developing power for industrial purposes.

In submitting this resolution Ald. Best remarked that in the past twelve years the Town had paid out $60,000 in land and money grants and exemption from taxes to new industries, which means a yearly expenditure of $5,000. His idea was to avoid, if possible, this increasing expenditure in the way of bonuses, and to put the Town in a position, by acquiring municipal ownership of one of the splendid dams to the north of us, to offer inducements to manufacturers from a business standpoint—that of furnishing them power at a very much cheaper rate than at present available.

The resolution was carried.

A NEW SIDEWALK.

On motion of Ald. Shortly, seconded by Ald. Batten, the Engineer will be instructed to proceed with the work of constructing a four foot sidewalk on the west side of Reid street.

Council then adjourned.

SPECIALLY WELL EQUIPPED

Gaselee Compliments American Fighters in China

London, Sept. 30.—General Gaselee, who was commander of the British force in China, was interviewed to-day regarding the international troops in China. He said the Americans were specially well equipped with hospitals and commissariat, and spared no expense in making their troops comfortable. He added: "We always got on splendidly with our American comrades. It is most important that we should keep in with these fine soldiers. The officers and men seemed to me to be full of soldierly spirit and capable of great things. All ranks of our army got on splendidly with them, and I feel sure that such intercourse helped to cement the friendship which, I trust, will always exist between us."

The General said he did not think there was any danger of a serious rising in China, and, in his opinion, during the railroad dispute in Tien Tsin there never was any danger of an actual collision, as the British and Russian troops were held so well in hand.

FOUGHT WITH THE BOERS.

Return of an American Who Escaped For the British Camp.

New York, Sept. 30.—John O'Connor, who fought in South Africa for the Boer cause, and after capture escaped from a British military camp and came here as a stowaway, was allowed to land by the immigration authorities, who had held him a prisoner on Ellis Island for 19 days. He was born in Philadelphia, in 1869. Some years ago he went to South Africa as a gold miner and became a naturalized citizen of the Transvaal Republic.

After his escape he made his way to England, and at Southampton stowed himself on the steamer Haverford. He was discovered on the way over and turned over to the immigration authorities at this port.

MINISTERS' OFFER TO SCHOOL BOARD

Proposed to Give the Pupils Religious Instruction.

A COMMITTEE WILL CONSIDER

The Board of Education met last night and disposed of arrears of business for two or three months.

Communications were received from P. Collins, notifying the secretary that Minnie Young, of whom he is guardian, intended entering the Collegiate Institute; from John Millar, Deputy Minister of Education, containing report of inspections of Cadet Corps, everything being satisfactory under the various headings; from G. C. Robb, enclosing report of boiler inspection; from Duncan Walker, reporting that that Stanley Yelland and Hazel Chowen are entitled to one year's free tuition as the boy and girl who took the highest standing at the entrance examinations; from the Deputy Minister of Education giving the names of candidates receiving highest marks at the departmental examinations at Peterborough as follows: Junior Leaving Part 1—Violetta Eileen Eyres; Junior Matriculation Part 1—F. Ormond Orr; Junior Leaving, Part 2—Leza Howson; Senior Leaving and Honor Matriculation—Percy Campbell.

There were five applications for the position of teacher in the Central Kindergarten.

The applications for increase of salary from Mr. McPherson and Miss Fife were referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Hartley, Langford, McBain, Eastwood, Caldwell, Burnham and Hayes, who are to ascertain the ruling salaries in other towns.

The committee on appointments recommended Miss Donell and Miss Bell as first assistants at Central kindergarten at $10 per month and Miss Harding as second assistant at $8 per month.

Motions were adopted to instruct Principals to keep a lookout for and appropriating $25 for books for the Collegiate Institute.

At the conclusion of the regular business the Board gave a hearing to Rev. J. C. Davidson, who appeared in behalf of the Ministerial Association. Mr. Davidson said that the association had been discussing the matter of religious instruction in the schools. The statutes provide that with the consent of the Board a half hour weekly may be set aside for instruction of the children by the clergy. The association had decided to propose as an experiment that between now and Christmas the Ministers should pay one visit to each of the various rooms in the several schools and devote half an hour to moral and scriptural teaching.

Chairman Hill favored the proposal but said it was not a matter to be decided hastily. After some discussion it was resolved on motion of Mr. Hartley that Messrs. Eastwood, Ferguson, Bamford, Dr. Burnham, the mover and the inspector be a committee to consider the matter and have power to act.

Inspector Walker explained the provisions of the law. The instruction may be general or a clergyman may address only his own denomination. If parents object, children can not be compelled to remain for the religious instruction.

Where Medical Science Fails

to cure rheumatism, and all the time you suffer dreadfully, why don't you get a bottle of Polson's Nerviline, and try that? Rub it into your stiff joints, sore arms, lame back, bent shoulders—wherever the pain is. Nerviline has cured plenty of people in this way, and that ought to be proof enough that it will cure you too. It is an unusually strong liniment that cures rheumatism in unusually quick time. Best household liniment known. 25 cents.

POWER AND PROSPERITY

Shall The Natural Resources of The People be Given up ?

AND GO TO SPECULATORS

The People Must Wake up or it Will be Forever too Late

What Peterborough Really Needs is Cheap Power, and Every Effort Should be Made Now to Secure it for the Future.

With all who are engaged in the development of industry, whether workingman or capitalist, we are in sympathy. Whether the dam be No. 5 or No. 6, it is nothing to us, so long as the great principle is observed that the people (who own all) shall be treated fairly. The popular dread of capital is not unwarranted. Capital is accustomed to take the lion's share. This is not right nor will it in the end be tolerated. "Fair play for all, but special favors for none," should be the war cry of the mass of the people. Is it to be trusts and slavery or fair wages and a happy people? The answer cannot remain in doubt. No man must be elected to any position, whether it be for the Council or for Parliament, who is not pledged to preserve the heritage of the people. Electricity has been hitherto a phantom fluid under slender control. New inventions make electrical power as easily distributable as the water which generates it. Who will be mad enough then to put priceless water-powers in the hands of those who do not wish to utilize them for the development of industry, but merely for the purpose of collecting a toll upon that industry? The determination of the Dominion Government to reopen Dam No. 5 for public tender is really of small importance. The proposed contract was not a bad one. The people were protected in that they were to receive cheap power, but the contract by which Burleigh Falls passes into the hands of a syndicate which is to have the dam there maintained at the public expense is a monstrous one. Will the people submit to a scheme by which 4,000 h.p. maintained and developed by the people is to pass into the hands of the Culverwell Company for a mere pittance unworthy of mention? We are greatly out if this monstrous bargain will pass muster with an intelligent people. Rather destroy the dams and let the power go free than such a crime against public interests. A syndicate maintained at the public expense and yet free to peddle the power at what price they please, is a public nuisance, and must be abated. We await the awakening of the federations of labor and of the taxpayers with confidence. Another public meeting should be held to free the government from the influence of lobbyists and capitalistic usurers.

A WOMAN'S CURSE.

Mrs. Bresci, the Anarchist's Wife Denounces Mayor.

New York, Sept 30.—"May the curse of God rest on all that are interested in the plot to hound me out from my house, where I tried to make my living in the world, which is turning against me."

Carried away by passion, Mrs. Gaetano Bresci, widow of the assassin of King Humbert, so addressed the Borough Council of Cliffside, N. J.

She appeared before the body to denounce and question the authority and actions of Mayor A. E. Mottmann in ordering her to leave the country. She stood up, facing the councilmen, and characterized their actions in scathing terms as "unmanly and cowardly."

Mrs. Bresci stated to the Council that two men had appeared at her house and, in the name of the Council, ordered the boarders to move. Mrs. Bresci informed the councilmen several times that she was not in sympathy with the anarchists and then almost in the next breath she interrogatively remarked, "Well, what if my friends are anarchists?"

Councilman Pender asked her who the people were who had inquired the way to her house on the day of the supposed anarchist meeting, coming in parties of six and seven. It was then she delivered her curse.

The Duke's Speeches.

New York, Oct. 1.—The Herald says: Wherever he has gone the Duke of Cronwell impressed the people with his shrewd common sense, with his knowledge of affairs and with the strength of his personality. His speeches are no mere recitations of a colourless official secretary's words. They are definite and statesmanlike, and the Duke in delivering them leaves no doubt of his convictions upon the minds of his hearers. Those people who have had only the vapourings of society newspapers upon which to found an estimate of their future King have not known him till he came among them.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 1 1901

MRS. EDDY "EXPLAINS."

Mrs. Eddy's explanation of why prayer failed to save President McKinley should effectually destroy every vestige of faith in spiritual treatment as practiced by the Christian Scientists, and all such charlatans, that is if it be possible that there is a sane person living who believes that Mr. McKinley's wounds were not "real," physical injuries, and that any sort of spiritual treatment would have saved him!

Mrs. Eddy admits that Christians of every sect, including her own prayed with all their might for the recovery of the President. She does not claim that he himself was lacking in sincere religious belief, and still the prayers were wholly unavailing. But she has her excuse, of course, just as she has in all other cases of failure. She does not ascribe the President's death to the fact that he was not a Christian Scientist—at least, she does not do so in direct terms; but she says there was a compound of prayers, and that they worked against each other. That is to say, the prayers of the other sects prevented those of the Christian Scientists from being effective. Closely analysed this is the purport of her statement. Then, what value is Christian Science prayer as a curative, if its effect can be destroyed by the circumstance that other people are praying at the same time? The idea that the supplications of a Christian Scientist can overcome the most malignant of diseases, and the most dreadful of injuries, but cannot succeed because other good people are praying to the same end, is literally the capstone upon the mountain of absurdity which makes up the creed of this sect.

The whole world is interested in the exposure and squelching of the fraud and "Mother" Eddy's explanation of why Christian Science was ineffectual in Mr. McKinley's case is a complete demonstration of the utter worthlessness of the claim which is the foundation of the entire creed.

The Times noticed an advertisement in an exchange which calls for a teacher of mathematics and botany at $50 a month. Trustee W. H. Hill gets support in his theory of the practical value of a college education from an unexpected source.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

For the Province of Ontario Will Meet in Toronto This Month

The Times has been requested to publish the following:

The Sabbath School Association of Ontario will hold their Annual Convention in the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, on October 22nd, 23rd and 24th next. Every preparation necessary to insure a good convention has been made. In addition to some noted Canadian speakers, including the Hon. G. W. Ross Premier of Ontario; Mrs. J. W. Barnes, of Philadelphia, a prominent Primary worker, and the Rev. Jos. Clark, D. D. General Secretary of the State of Ohio, will be in attendance.

The Metropolitan Church is one of the largest in Toronto, as large gatherings are anticipated. Every school in the province should be represented. Single fare rates will be issued to delegates, who at the Railway station on starting obtain from the ticket agent a Standard Certificate which on being signed by the Secretary of the Convention will entitle them to single fare.

Will Sabbath Schools who may not receive official notification accept of this as such and see that their schools are represented.

IN THE KLONDIKE

Port Townsend, Wash., Sept. 30.—According to reports from Nome, brought by the steamer Oregon, the Indians in that section are threatened with starvation. During the past few months about 300 natives have visited Nome, bringing furs to trade for supplies. As soon as their goods were disposed of however, whisky peddlers got among them, and they changed the proceeds of their sales for liquors. The Indians again camped on the beach, generally in a drunken stupor, allowing the season to pass in which they could lay in supplies of fish for use during the long winter period. Unless they are assisted by the Government, it is said suffering and starvation will follow.

Destitute miners from outlying districts are arriving at Nome. The United States steamer Bear on August 31 landed eighteen men at Nome. These men were found on the beach at Kotzebue Sound, penniless and out of supplies. They had for some months been depending on what fish they could catch and game they could kill. This party joined in the rush to Kotzebue in 1898, and have been there ever since. They report that during three years they failed to find more than a few colors of gold.

The Nome banks have given out an estimate of the output of gold for the season. They place the amount at $5,000,000, which is only a half million more than last year.

The Cause of Hay Fever

It's a microbe that floats in the air, gets into the throat and lungs, develops rapidly, excites inflammation, &c. The cause is as simple as a thistle in the finger. Extract the thistle, away goes the pain. Destroy the Hay Fever germ—you get well. That's why Catarrhozone acts so marvellously in Hay Fever. Its fragrant vapor to you brings cure, but to the microbe death. Catarrhozone is as quick to act on these microscopic organisms as lightning. Prevents as well as cures, and and is always successful. The Pace That Tells.

In the six day bicycle races the pace tells terribly at the end. Man after man falls out exhausted. The victor wabbles wearily over the line. In the business race it's the same. Man after man drops out exhausted. The successful man is often a dyspeptic, unable to enjoy success. When the stomach is diseased there is not enough nutrition assimilated to sustain the body and repair the daily waste of tissues. The result is weakness, tending to collapse.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect assimilation of food by which the body is built up with sound, healthy flesh.

"I have taken one bottle of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and liver complaint," writes Mr. C. M. Wilson, of Yadkin College, Davidson Co., N. C. "Have had no bad spells since I commenced taking your medicine—in fact, have not felt like the same man. Before I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I could not eat anything without awful distress, but now I can eat anything I wish without having unpleasant feelings. Last summer our baby was teething and was so poor he was almost a skeleton. We gave him your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and now he is as healthy and well as any child. I will speak a good word for your medicine whenever I have an opportunity."

EUROPEAN POWERS MAY CARVE TURKEY

Paris, Sept. 30—The Courier du Soir, which is usually well informed, makes the following sensational statement:

"One of the results of the conferences between Emperor Nicholas and President Loubet, M. Waldeck-Rousseau and M. Delcasse during the czar's visit to France is an exchange of views between European cabinets, now progressing, with the object of arriving at an understanding as to action against Turkey.

"Germany's concurrence is assured, as Emperor William has consented, but Count von Bulow has raised objection to some of the details of the action proposed, thus necessitating a further reference to the other governments before final decision can be reached."

Inquiries made in official quarters here elicited expressions of doubt that there was any such agreement between Germany, Russia and France as is referred to by the Patrie and no confirmation was obtainable regarding the alleged alarming situation, which is evidently built on the fact that three British warships happened to go at Koweyt and that it is reported the British are encouraging the local sultan to repudiate Turkish suzerainty.

AFTER BREAKFASTING ON MALT BREAKFAST FOOD
DIGESTION IS REGULATED FOR THE DAY

Physical comfort, good sleep and bodily vigor are results of good digestion.

The experience of users of Malt Breakfast Food points to the fact that it is the ideal health grain food, always true and reliable in its work of building up flesh, bone and muscle for men and women of every station in life. It is strongly recommended by the medical profession and food experts because it is free from the many objectionable features present in oatmeal and other grain foods. Malt Breakfast Food gives a relish at the morning meal that no other food can offer, and sends young and old forth to the duties and cares of the day with a vim that will overcome all ordinary obstacles and difficulties. Malt Breakfast Food regulates digestion and makes people happy. Your Grocer sells it.

A COWMISSIONER FROM CAPE COLONY

Montreal, Sept. 29.—Sir Chas. Elliott, special Railway Commissioner of the Cape Colony, is in Montreal, and was interviewed. He said:

"Yes, I feel sure that there will be a long reign of prosperity throughout South Africa at the close of the present war. You see the great mineral resources of the Transvaal district never been any way nearly properly developed, while the great gold mines of the district of Rhodesia are practically unexplored".

Sir Charles has been General Manager of the Cape Colony Government Railway since 1873, when the only railway was first taken over by the Government. At that time there were about forty-five miles of track in the country, while at the present time there are upwards of three thousand miles.

SOUTH AFRICA WILL PROSPER.

Sir Charles has been sent to Europe and America by his Government to inspect the various railways and see what improvements can be made in his own country. He has at all times been deeply interested in all questions relating to South Africa, especially those in which the native Boer is concerned.

"But what is your chief reason for saying that things will prosper in the country?"

"Well you see the great amount of plant that will be brought into the country, or is already in the seaports waiting till the war is declared off, in order to be forwarded, is a positive sign that the value of the resources and with that known, it is impossible of the country have been recognized, that there should be not general prosperity. The lines of the Government Railway at present run from Cape Town to Johannesburg, Bloemfontein, Pretoria and Kimberley, and the officers expect that the freight capacity of the road will even be overtaxed for some time to come carrying stock for the various mining companies.

"Do you think that the Boers will return to work for the English?"

"Yes. I think they will. While for many years to come they may entertain unfriendly feelings towards the English, which, perhaps, is not to be wondered at, still I do not think they will betray it by any of their actions. I have always gone a good deal among the people, and many of my relations have married Dutch people and my own experience has been that they are a very fine people, will likely always be loyal, and unlikely to have done many of the things that have been attributed to them."

THE CLOSE OF THE WAR.

"Is there much prospect of the war being brought to a close in the near future?"

"On that question I would almost prefer to remain silent. I have noticed that lately there has been some talk of further hostilities, but I do not expect that this will prove true."

"During you visit in England France Germany and the United States, have you noticed that any wonderful progress has been made in the railway world?"

"What is, in my opinion, the greatest mark of the progress that has been made is what is known in England and the United States as the compound engine. Besides being more powerful and capable of attaining greater speed than any other engine, it saves between 10 and 16 per cent. in fuel, which will in time mean an enormous saving to railway companies.

"Next to it is the use of the electric wire signal at present in use in Germany. England still retains the use of the much more expensive electric rod, but with the means found to prevent contraction or expansion of wire, I do not see any reason why the electric wire may not be brought into general use."

CANADIANS MADE GOOD IMPRESSION.

"Did you find much difference in the roadbed of the railways in the different countries you visited?"

"Oh, yes, I certainly did. This difference was especially noticeable in France and England and the United States. In France you can even notice the movement over the joints, but in the other two countries the roads are too smooth to notice anything of the kind."

"As regards our Canadian troops, do you think that they made a favorable impression during the war?"

"Most assuredly so; perhaps it would be unfair to mention any particular corps, but the Strathcona Horse was considered one of the finest troops sent into South Africa."

SHOOTING BOERS IS WARM WORK

This Soldier Got in a Tight Corner and Killed His Man.

The soldier's lot in South Africa seems to be traditionally rough, if we may judge from the following extracts from a letter just received by Mr. Alf Gerette of Gibson's Davenport Hotel from Corp. F. Downes of the S. A. C., dated Springs, Transvaal, Aug. 21. The writer begins with the voyage out, as follows:

Talk about a rough house, when the ship started rolling it was a corker. I woke up one night when some sucker cut the hammock down and had tied five or six bottles to my toes. This was a common occurrence for two or three days, then the men commenced to get sick, and before we arrived in Cape Town we buried five and 22 were sick. I never was so tired of a trip in my life. After we got off the boat we were loaded on open coal cars like a lot of sheep. Talk about Canada; why it is a heaven to this. However, we went up country 1400 miles in the same cars night and day.

For over a week, rain or shine, we never even had a bath. When we arrived at our headquarters, a place called Heidelberg, our drilling started. This kept up for about one month, then we started for the front, where we have been ever since.

Two weeks ago to-day, we had a very lively time for about three hours. About 8 o'clock at night our dog started barking. Of course, that alarmed the camp. I went out to see what was the matter, but I soon got in again when the bullets commenced to sing. Just as soon as I got in the trench the fun started; about 20 or 30 made a rush for us, but they soon went back.

I got one, he rolled over and I shot him again to make sure. However, this thing kept up for about three hours, when we got help, then they retreated. None of our men were very badly hurt. This is a very common thing now. We have lost about five men altogether, and quite a lot are in the hospital, so you can judge for yourself what kind of a time we are having. I have just got a message that a column is starting from Springs that means more burning and killing.

They burn everything in their way. I never saw so many dead horses, cattle and sheep—thousands of them. Everything smells rotten from their decaying. The country is all shot to pieces, and the Lord knows what it will be like before the war is over. As for myself, I am feeling well at present. The fever season is on now, so we have to be very careful. All the water has to be boiled before we can drink it. I often wish that I had a big lager. All we can get is a little rum, which is issued to us twice a week.

There is lots of money here, but you can't spend it. I am making about $65 a month, board and clothes. That is not so bad, especially when a fellow can't spend any. If I get through I expect to have about $2,000 in three years, which is better than I can do in Canada. Please excuse this paper, but it is the best. I took it from a Boer house that I burned last week.

WAR HONORS FOR CANADIANS

London, Sept. 28.—Twenty-eight pages of the Gazette were taken up last night with the names of officers and men decorated for distinguished service in South Africa. The list included the following seventeen members of the Canadian contingent: Lieut.-Col. Cartwright to be Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George; Major "Gat" Howard since killed in action; Major Sanders, Captain Stairs, Captain Macdonnell, Lt. Morrison and Lieut. Mason, Companions of the Distinguished Service Order; Sergt. Major Richards, Sergt. Nelles, Strathcona's Horse; Sergt.-Major Gimblett, Gunner Laidlaw, Canadian Artillery; Sergt. Miles, Corp. Callahan, Trooper Crawley, Canadian Mounted Rifles; Trooper Waite Canadian Mounted Infantry, and Pte. Mulloy, who lost his sight, to have the distinguished conduct medal. The American scout, Burnham, is appointed a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order.

Lieut.-Col. Robert Cartwright, now inspector of Musketry, with headquarters at Ottawa.

The late Major A. L. Howard, of Gatling gun fame, who served in the North-West rebellion, and who, after the return of the Canadian contingents from South Africa remained with the Canadian scouts. The manner of his death has not been definitely known, but he was recently killed, some reports said, "in cold blood."

Major Sanders, formerly a superintendent in the North-West Mounted Police, went to South Africa in command of a squadron in the second battalion of the Mounted Rifles. He is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, served in the North-West rebellion, and was wounded in South Africa on the 6th of September last.

Captain Stairs of Halifax was in command of "H" Company, R.C.R.I., and was mentioned in despatches March 1, 1900.

Capt. Macdonnell is probably Capt. A. C. Macdonnell of the C.M.R., an inspector of North-West Mounted Police, who was wounded in South Africa on June 12, 1900.

Lieut. E. W. B. Morrison of Ottawa went out with "D" Battery, was mentioned in despatches for his work at Koomati Poort, and was given the brevet rank of Captain.

Lieut. J. C. Mason, 10th R.G., Toronto, went as a officer of "B" Company, R.C.R.I., and was wounded at Paardeberg, February 18th, 1900.

Of those who receive the distinguished service Medal Trooper Mulloy's heroic bearing of the loss of his sight has made his name a household word in Canada. Gunner Laidlaw is of Barrie, Ont.; Sergt.-Major Gimblett of the R.C.A.; Sergt. T. Miles of Pincher Creek, wounded June 22, 1900; Trooper Crawley of Pincher Creek; Trooper A. S. Waite of the North-West Mounted Police, and Corp. M. J. Callahan of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

SHOT HIMSELF THROUGH HEAD

Silas B. Card's Spectacular Suicide on a Wharf at Swansea.

Silas Bert Card of 783 Queen street east committed suicide in a spectacular way at Swansea last night. He was seen by a young man named Heber Howard to walk out to the end of the dock which covers the intake pipe at Swansea, pull out a revolver, fire twice into the water, and then, raising the weapon, fire a bullet into his own head. He fell into the water and Howard, with the assistance of Mr. Nurse and others, recovered the body, life being extinct. Coroner Cotton examined the body, finding a bullet wound over the right temple, and that death had been instantaneous.

The body was that of a young man apparently about twenty, clean shaved, and becomingly dressed in a dark tweed suit, and a fine frieze overcoat, and patent leather shoes.

An examination of the contents of his pockets showed that the name of the young man was Silas Bert Card, 783 Queen street east. At the investigation instituted by the coroner it was shown that the young man entered Nurse's Hotel about 10 o'clock at night and asked if he could have a room. Mrs. Nurse asked him what he wanted it for, and upon his not giving any satisfactory answer, was told that he could not have one. He left about 10.15, and went out on the pier, where after a short time, he was seen to shoot himself as described above. The examination showed that his watch had stopped at 10.40 p.m.

The following letter was found on his person, dated Sept. 28, which would seem to give a clue to the motive of the deed:—

"Dear Friend,—I am intending to go out to-night for good, so I will not have time for me to see. Eunice will find the ring, and you had better keep mine. Good-bye. BERT CARD."

There was no indication as to who "the friend" is. In the letter was found a gold ring which had originally contained six garnets, but two of them were missing. There was also a photograph of the young man in one of his pockets together with a number of trinkets and an autograph album.

Another letter was found on the body, dated September 9, and signed Maude Tarrell. It opened as follows: "I hope you will not think me bold in writing to you, but I feel so awfully lonely that I just got to say something to you and I have not had a chance for a long time." It contained protestations of love, and arranged for a meeting "to-night in Eastern avenue, near the Woodbine," when the girl promised to "try and get away from Mabel."

Coroner Cotton thinks an inquest unnecessary.

DID SIFTON DIE FROM A FALL

London, Sept. 30.—The principal evidence given at the Sifton trial on Friday and Saturday was that of medical men.

Dr. McNeil swore to the presence of a boggy, soft mass on top of the head and abrasions behind each ear. Dr. Anderson described the first fracture as a radiating fracture. He said that the injury might possibly have been caused by a fall, but it was only a bare possibility, a practical impossibility.

"You have heard the story told by Herbert, and you have read the post-mortem report. Do you think the condition of the skull is consistent with the story of Herbert?" "I do." Continuing, Dr. Herbert said that the principal injury, the fracture, might have been caused by a blow from an axe, and the other conical injury might have come from the corner of an axe, or by the projecting corner of a stone or board. The crushing effect of a blow of an axe would depend upon the force of the blow, the position of the head, whether fixed or movable, the amount of hair on the head and the thickness and elasticity of the skull. The condition of this skull was consistent with a number of impacts rather than one. A blow from an axe would not cause the abrasions found behind the ears, but these might result from the body being dragged along the floor. The "boggy mass" found by Dr. McNeil on top of the head the witness thought, might be due to impact with some broad surface, such as an axe.

From the injuries the witness said he did not believe that the body could have moved after it struck the ground. There would be little trace of blood on the hay and chaff of the barn, especially if the search for it was made three weeks after the tragedy. He said that he had examined stains on the chip of wood handed him, and had found blood on one of the chips said to have been taken from the ladder in the barn. In cross-examination Dr. Anderson said that he believed the injuries to be quite consistent with the story of Herbert. He admitted, however, that if the blows described by Herbert were as heavy as they were stated to be by the counsel, the man's skull would have been smashed. He differed from Mr. Johnston in the interpretation of Herbert's description of the "top of the head" and said that Herbert did not confine himself to lateral margins.

The witness finally admitted that the injuries were possible from such a fall as was described by the counsel, that is, a fall in which the skull would receive several impacts by striking several objects.

Dr. George A. Bingham, of Toronto was the second medical expert for the Crown. He said that in his opinion all of the fractures could be produced by the fall, but he was at a loss to explain the injuries to the softer tissues in the same way. There were five separate injuries to the softer tissues, all of which could not result from a fall. The extent of the fractures depended upon the thickness of the skull, the location of the injury, the nature of the weapon, the degree of violence of the blow, and the shape of the skull. "Considering everything," said Dr. Bingham, "I am satisfied that all of the fractures could be produced by a fall, except a portion of the transverse fracture, which indicates a separate point of impact."

London, Ont., Sept. 30.—The evidence given on Saturday at the Sifton trial was wholly that of medical experts called to express opinions as to the possibility of Joseph Sifton's injuries being caused by a fall or by blows from an axe. It is the least interesting testimony from the layman's point of view, yet produced, but the court room remains crowded all the time. The jury asked this morning that they be allowed to revisit the Sifton home to get clearer ideas upon certain points, and his lordship decided to adjourn court for the afternoon to let them do so. The first witness called was Dr. Charles P. Bente, of London, a graduate of McGill College, Montreal, who has practiced eight years in London, and three on the Pacific coast. It was very possible, he thought, that the injuries described might have been caused by a fall. Taken with the fact that the body was lying on the left side, face downward when found, witness said the injuries were not compatible with a fall. The injuries taken in connection with the evidence were more consistent with two or more separate blows with an axe. Witness said he could not account for the abrasions behind the ear by fall. Witness could not take Herbert's evidence in its entirety, and as a medical man, say it accounted for the nature of the injuries found. The blows would have to be milder than described by Herbert.

To Mr. Riddell's question as to whether Herbert's evidence must be discounted, witness said that the blows as described by Herbert, would have fractured the skull more.

Dr. Gustin, a practicing physician of St. Thomas, thought there was a bare possibility that the injury could be produced by a fall. It was quite possible they were produced as described by Herbert.

One blow on the side of the head might be sufficient to produce all the fractures found, but there must have been contact at different angles to produce the wounds. Taking Herbert's evidence, witness would expect to find the skull smashed.

To Mr. Riddell witness then said that taking all the evidence as heard he believed the wounds to have been produced by the axe.

Dr. McHarty and Dr. Eccles, of London, gave evidence of the same character. The latter was on the stand when court adjourned at 1 o'clock.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D., President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directores—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1896.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for not securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June.

New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is to-day the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town sells the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but shows their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1866, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print. The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.

New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

PABST BREWING CO.

J. R. Kathrens, Adv. Mgr.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7, 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and most successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others followed. His publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the gross stupidity of imitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD,

Advertising Manager for Sapolio.—In Fame, March, 1901.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,

FRANK ROE BATCHELD,

Clerk of the Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1899.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,592 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspapr directories gratis; but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13, 1900.

JOS. H. HANNEN,

Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation, as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

S. H. HARDWICK,

General Passenger Agent.

Washington, D. C., May 21, 1901.

BALTIMORE.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system. [illegible]

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE

Death of Mrs. Wm. Deyell, of Otonabee Aged 86 Years.

On Sunday last there passed away one of Otonabee's oldest and most esteemed citizens in the person of Mrs. Wm. Deyell. The deceased lady was stricken with pneumonia about a week before her death. Mrs. Deyell's maiden name was Mary Shannon, and she was born in the year 1815, in the county of Monaghan, Ireland. She came to Canada when about 19 years of age, settling in the township of Cavan. About 60 years ago she was married, her husband dying about 18 years ago. She and her husband being amongst the first settlers in these parts they could relate many interesting experiences of the hardships and privations endured by the early pioneers of the country. She was a devoted member of the Methodist church and lived an exemplary Christian life.

Five sons and two daughters are left to mourn her demise. The former are Messrs. John, Robert A. and Samuel, of Otonabee, and Wm. and Joseph, of Emily. The daughters are Mrs. Jas. Ruth, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Robert Hanbridge, of Otonabee.

The funeral will take place from deceased's late residence lot 19, in the 6th concession of the township of Otonabee, to-day, Tuesday, at 2.30 o'clock, and will proceed to Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

THE Y. W. C. A. RECEPTION

The Reception at the Rooms Last Night Very Largely Attended.

The new quarters of the Y. W. C. A. were filled to overflowing last night when a very pleasing and successful reception was given. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun officiated as chairman and gave a very eloquent address in which he outlined the educational and industrial work set apart for each of the rooms, and the pressing needs of the same, which he felt sure would be shortly supplied by a generous public. (The gymnasium has already been fully furnished in every detail by the young men of the Y.M.C.A., who are to be commended for their generosity in this respect).

A very acceptable program of instrumental and vocal music was furnished.

Miss Carson, the Field Secretary for the Dominion, gave a very instructive and interesting address, defining the splendid work accomplished by the Y. W. C. A. in other towns in both Canada and the United States, and illustrating the many advantages derived by young women from such institutions.

Refreshments were furnished by members of the board.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Opening Concert of the St. Peter's T. A. S. Last Night a Success.

The first of the series of concerts to be held fortnightly by the St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society took place in the commodious rooms of the Society last night, and was a success—both in point of attendance and the excellence of the program provided. Long before the hour for opening, the rooms were filled to overflowing, and extra chairs had to be brought in to seat late arrivals.

Mr. J. J. Hickey made an ideal chairman, but with characteristic modesty forbore to deliver an opening address. Later in the evening, however, in response to innumerable calls for a speech he expressed his pleasure at the large attendance in a few well-timed remarks, in which he commended the objects of the Society, and the grand results to be achieved in bringing the young ladies and gentlemen together.

The program opened with an instrumental duet by Misses McCabe and Doherty, which was well received. The feature of the evening was the recitations given by little Carrie White, who displayed amazing versatility for one so young. This clever little lady had to respond to repeated encores throughout the evening, and has a bright future before her as an elocutionist. A couple of well rendered vocal solos were given by Mr. John King. The Misses Hallihan gave "The Holy City," and in response to an encore another song, both of which were deservedly applauded. Miss Gertie McLellan delighted the audience with a Highland dance in costume, which must have warmed the heart of every Scotsman present. Later in the evening she executed a skirt dance with considerable skill. Six young ladies of the choir, Misses Hurley, Hallihan, Begley, Simons and Mahoney, rendered, "The Honeysuckle and the Bee" in good style. Mr. James Browne sustained his reputation as a vocalist in two well rendered and difficult selections, which displayed his clear tenor voice to advantage. Miss May Callaghan's vocal selection was loudly applauded.

The cathedral clergy were represented by the rector, Ven. Archdeacon Casey, Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Rev. C. J. Phelan, all of whom, when called on for an address, expressed the pleasure it afforded them to see such a large and happy audience at this, the initial entertainment of the season. The witty remarks of the Archdeacon and Dr. O'Brien, as might be expected, excited the risibilities of their auditors to a high pitch of merriment. The chairman came in for some good-natured badinage, but bore it all with heroic fortitude and unruffled dignity. The Misses Hurley exemplified their ability as skilled pianists in two well rendered selections. The national anthem, sung with great fervor, brought a delightful program to a close.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien and his co-workers of the St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society are to be congratulated on the success which has crowned their efforts in a good cause.

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures Chronic and Complicated Cases of Rheumatism

IT BANISHES EVERY TRACE OF POISONOUS ACID FROM THE BLOOD

Has Made More Permanent and Wonderful Cures Than All Other Medicines in The World.

All rheumatic sufferers dread the variable and trying weather of October and November. Sufferers from the various forms of rheumatism—articular, muscular, inflammatory, gout and lumbago—suffer more intensely in the autumn months. Chilling winds, damp air, cold rains and night frosts, aggravate existing misery and agony.

Thousands of victims of rheumatism have come back from summer health resorts only to find themselves as badly tortured and crippled as they were before they started for their false Meccas of health. Mineral springs, baths and massage systems can never drive out the morbid principle of terrible rheumatism from the blood and joints.

Careful medical tests and a long experience prove that Paine's Celery Compound is the only agent and medicine for the cure of all forms of rheumatism, and succeeds when everything else fails. With a confidence created and strengthened by thousands of victories over rheumatism, we urge suffering men and women to use Paine's Celery Compound. Its marvellous virtues will meet your case and do for you what it has done for others. Mrs. J. Vince, Barrie, Ont., says:

"I am happy to say I have taken Paine's Celery Compound with great results. I had sciatica so badly that I could not turn in bed or walk without help, and for a period of three weeks was helplessly laid up and suffered pain that at times was almost unbearable.

"I tried many medicines, but all in vain. I was afterwards recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound. I used six bottles and am entirely cured, and enjoy good health. I take great pleasure in recommending the valuable medicine that cured me."

TWO YEARS IN CENTRAL PRISON

Robert Smith's Heavy Sentence at the Police Court Yesterday

Robert Smith, who pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of wire from the Canadian General Electric Company, was sentenced yesterday, to two years, less one day, in the Central Prison. In delivering his judgement, Police Magistrate Dumble said:

"The prisoner is charged with the theft of a quantity of copper wire, the property of the General Electric Co. At the hearing he elected to be tried summarily, and pleaded guilty. It appears from the prisoner's evidence given in the prosecution of Stevenson and Doig for receiving this stolen wire, that the prisoner formerly worked at the Canadian General Electric Company's Works, and thus became familiar with the premises. After leaving the company's service he made a key by which he was enabled to enter the wire store house and that he entered it about eight times at night, always carefully timing his entry when the nightwatchman was out of sight; that on each occasion he removed from 400 to 1000 lbs. of new copper wire, worth about 20c. per lb. This wire he sold to junk dealers, who destroyed the quality of the wire by passing it through fire and chopping it up. They paid the prisoner less than half its value, and then sold it to dealers in Toronto. The prisoner spent his share of the spoil in high living.

"The crime was cooly planned and carried out. The prisoner is young, only 19, and as far as I could judge, he laments his being found out more than his offence. I do not think that it is a case which calls for suspended sentence. The offence was large, nearly $1000 being stolen deliberately, and I see nothing extenuating in the offence, save the fact that the prisoner made a clean breast of the business, but only when the crime was brought home to him by those who got the wire from him, and who thus thought to clear himself. The judgement of the court is that the prisoner be confined in the Central Prison at Toronto, for two years less one day. The crime calls for seven years imprisonment, but I make this light sentence in the hope that prisoner may at the expiration of his sentence turn to honest and better ways."

DIAMOND DYES

AND

DIAMOND DYE MAT AND RUG PATTERNS

Are the Favorites Everywhere

For over twenty years the Diamond Dyes have been the chosen and popular home dyes all over the civilized world. In Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia, Diamond Dyes are as eagerly sought for as in the homes of this continent. Diamond Dyes dye perfectly all weights of fabrics, producing rich and brilliant colors that never fade.

The "Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns" are also deservedly popular. The designs are artistically colored on the best Scotch Hessian and ready for hooking. Any lady in her spare time can make up a pretty mat or rug at small cost. Send your address to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, and you will receive free of cost sheets of designs to select from.

THE FALL ASSIZES.

Opened Before the Honourable Mr. Justice Falconbridge.

The autumn court of assize opened in Peterborough yesterday at 1.30 o'clock before his Honour Mr. Justice Falconbridge, Chief Justice of the King's Bench Division of the high Court of Justice of Ontario.

Amongst the members of the bar present were Messrs. A. P. Poussette, K. C., W. A. Stratton, K.C., D. W. Dumble, A. E. Peck, R. M. Dennistoun, D. O'Connell, County Crown Attorney Wood, E. B. Stone, E. B. Edwards, K. C., G. M. Roger, J. W. Bennett, R. R. Hall, A. O. Langley, Lakefield, A. Ruddy, Millbrook, A. B. Aylesworth, K. C., Frank Denton, W. F. Johnston, John Greer and others.

Mr. Denton is looking after the interests of the Crown. The only criminal case is that of the Crown vs. Hull. However, there are nine civil actions put down for hearing, four of which are jury cases, and five non-jury.

The Grand Jury was empannelled as follows: Henry Best, merchant, Peterborough, foreman; Joseph Gatten, blacksmith, Peterborough; C. N. Brown merchant, Peterborough; F. N. Delafosse, gentleman, Lakefield; N. B. Ashhurst, farmer, Asphodel; Samuel Edwards, farmer, Dummer; Samuel Purser, merchant, Smith; G. A. Reid, farmer, Smith; E. R. Tate, farmer, Douro; Jas. Thompson, merchant, Havelock; Robert Telford, farmer, Smith; Henry Winch, gentleman, Peterborough; Francis Young, farmer, Smith.

His Lordship addressed the Grand Jury briefly as to their duties, after which they withdrew to pay their customary visits to the public institutions receiving Government aid.

The first case taken up was that of Morrison vs. the Canadian General Electric Company.

Stabler Gets Off.

The charge against James K. Stabler, of Smith, of procuring money under threats with intent to steal, came before County Police Magistrate Edmison for judgement. The magistrate found that there was no intent to do any wrong in the mind of Mr. Stabler—that he misunderstood his powers as a fishery guardian, and that therefore he was not guilty of any criminal offence as charged. Mr. E. E. Wood appeared for the Crown, and Mr. W. A. Stratton, K. C., for the defendant.

Will Be Buried Here

The death in Lindsay is announced of William Morgan, son of the late Harry Morgan, proprietor of the Commercial House, Peterborough. The funeral will take place from the Grand Trunk station, Peterborough, on the arrival of the Lindsay train at 11.22 a. m. to-day. Interment will be in the Little Lake Cemetery.

Strong words by a New York Specialist. "After years of testing and comparison I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the quickest, safest, and surest known to medical science. I use it in my own practice. It relieves the most acute forms of heart ailment inside of thirty minutes and never fails."—35

TRENT CANAL

TENDERS FOR WATER POWER.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tenders for Water Power," will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on the 21st day of October, 1901, for water power at Dam 5, between Peterborough and Lakefield.

The conditions and Form of Tender may be seen and obtained on and after the 30th day of September, 1901, at this Office and at the Office of the Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal, at Peterborough, Ont.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the Tender the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further an accepted bank cheque for the sum of $5,000 must accompany the Tender. This accepted bank cheque must be endorsed over to the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to execute the lease for the water power strictly in accordance with the terms expressed in the conditions.

The accepted cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the highest or any tender.

By Order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

WONDERFUL RESULTS.

Follow the Use of Dr. Clarke's Little Pills—No Cure, no Pay.

To the Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills are a wonder in my case at least. I was for 16 years a sufferer from rheumatism, and my system became so emaciated and run down that I had given up all hope. Doctors did me no good, or could I get anything to relieve my sufferings. I was only able at times to move around with the greatest pain. By merest chance I saw an advertisement of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills, and, like a drowning man reaching for a straw, I concluded to try them. I took three boxes, without much change, but before three more had been used I was nearly well. Six weeks after I took my first box I walked a mile without the aid of a stick.

I am now, thank God, a well man, and cheerfully write this letter in the hope that others may be benefitted. John D. Askin, (formerly of Hamilton), Peterborough, Ont.

Sir,—I gladly write a line to say that Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney and liver troubles of many years standing. I bought a box after trying hundreds of remedies, and felt so much improved that I continued using them—Isaak Richardson, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the disease having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

—At Madill's drug store, can be seen the famous vapor bath cabinet, manufactured by T. Patterson & Co., of this town. It was one of the principal features at the Central Ontario Exhibition, where it carried off a diploma. It is recommended by local physicians for rheumatism, la grippe, and other ailments. Mr. Madill will be pleased to show it to those wishing for information concerning its curative properties.

THE BOER LEADER ON GENERAL BULLER'S BLUNDERS HOW THE BRITISH WERE REPULSED AT COLENSO

The Chief of the Staff of General Botha Sheds Fresh Light on the Subject.

How the Bullets of Spion Kop and Colenso Were Mismanaged by the British

The Old Story of These Battles Again Told With Interesting Details.

London, Oct. 2.—A correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, who lately met Commandant Edwards, the chief of General Botha's staff in the Natal campaign, has obtained from him an account of the battles of Colenso and Spion Kop. On several points the narrative modifies the generally accepted views of these battles, and coming from so prominent an officer it may be regarded as a semi-official piece of history from the Boer side. Commandant Edwards is a prisoner on parole, and is described as "a light, spare man, of anxious expression of face, shrewd eyes, and of deferential manners."

THE BATTLE OF COLENSO.

For several days before the battle, expecting that at any moment General Buller would attack, we were subjected to a very heavy fire of lyddite and other shell from Chieveley, which, however, did us no harm, but good rather; for finding that the shelling before the battle had so little effect, our men were to some extent indifferent to it when the real attack came. Acting on the defensive, we were depending on the effectiveness of our rifle-fire, and hoped fervently against a night attack, for in that case the enemy, probably creeping into our positions unawares, would be driven off with difficulty, and the sphere of our execution would to that degree be contracted. Attack by night, then, was what we dreaded; and we thought, too, that it would be made through Colenso by the railway bridge, and that General Buller's first act would be to take Fort Wylie. But as it is the unexpected that happens, this did not, and we experienced proportionate relief, for we had been on the qui vive nervous occupying and sleeping in our positions for several nights before the 15th. Soon after dawn on December 15 it appeared that the British intended to wait until their attack would be covered by their big guns. At dawn on the 15th we knew this to be imminent, and shortly afterwards we saw the troops in three directions, moving towards us. There were General Hart's column, which advanced upon our right; General Hildyard's and General Barton's with Colonel Long and the artillery in the centre, and Lord Dundonald in a direction on our left.

General Hart's men came along over an open plain towards a bridle drift that crossed the Tugela opposite the position occupied by our Zoutpansberg men and Swazilanders, under Commandant Chas. Botha, at a place more or less in flood, and was very difficult to cross, there being on either side of the bridle drift long stretches of deep water and very high banks. Dundonald's column advanced on our left towards the hill called Hlangwane, held by General Fourie; and the centre column of General Hildyard moved over the plain in the direction of the railway bridge over the Tugela, which we had already destroyed. There were no obstacles in their march to the river, for our men received orders to keep absolutely still until the British had come well within range, and if their first attempt was to come over the Waggon bridge they were to be allowed to cross it on to our side of the river, so that in case of retreat it would be difficult for them to get back, for at this part, too, the river was deep. Moreover, our guns (of whose positions they were in ignorance) could, from the hills on the rear of Fort Wylie, have played on to them and the bridge. We had already the day before tested from our positions the different ranges for riflefire—some at 800, some at 1,200 yards; and as soon as Colonel Long's guns were in the right place for us we poured a deadly fire on them from Fort Wylie.

JUST LIKE AT ALDERSHOT

The sound was as of a hailstorm upon corrugated iron; but the hail was lead and it mowed down men. For the British at Colenso were as at Aldershot, save that they were in khaki. They marched over the plain in battle array. The day was clear, bright and windless. Not one Boer was discerned upon the hills, and none were seen while the engagement lasted, but bullets fell—fell with pitiless, pelting fury; for our men were upon the high ground and were so placed there that they covered the whole line of advance from the British side, and all the drifts or places of passage through the river also were so covered by our guns, and trenches that they could not possibly have crossed without terrible slaughter. As it was, the British advance was completely taken by surprise.

It was between 6 and 7 a.m., that our first fire opened upon them, before they had come quite so near as had been intended, and this was the signal for the first along the whole line of our positions. The force with the guns had no chance—it could not live, and as the majority fell, the remainder of the men began to retire in confusion. But several times they tried to come on afresh, falling flat and so remaining for a time and then advancing again. The effect of this firing seemed to surprise our men: they had not known what I had for long maintained—that no big guns could ever get a chance of doing damage to men armed with the Mauser rifle if the latter had anything like cover and could get in a volley before the guns could be placed in position. But, even holding this opinion, I did not expect that rifle fire in such circumstances could be so effective at distances over 800 or 600 yards.

In the meantime Colonel Hart's column (on our right) had been beaten back at the bridle drift to the west of Colenso by the Swazilanders and Zoutpansbergers. Their guns also would have been taken if only the commandants—General Cronje, of the Free State Commandant Viljoen—had carried out their orders. Instead, these men looked on during the whole battle and did not fire a shot, although they had nearly 2000 men with them.

But to return to the officer commanding the central division. I was surprised to see the whole of his men retiring. I thought that as soon as they got out of our rifle-fire they would have occupied until dark the donga leading down to where Colonel Long's guns stood; and that, remaining, they would have prevented our removing the guns by covering them with their fire when, after crossing the river, we advanced into the open to make that attempt, and even that after nightfall they would have got the guns away.

WHERE THE BLAME LAY

This is what we should have done had we been in the same circumstances, but, as everyone knows, nothing like it was done by the officer in command of this division. This was their mistake, but their only one, for the disaster of their losses up to this point resulted from the erroneous idea held by General Buller that he had shelled us out of our position in the vicinity of Fort Wylie during the three previous days (December 12, 13, and 14). The blame of the disaster as a whole, therefore, is assignable only to the then British Commander-in-Chief, inasmuch as the responsibility of having the locality sufficiently scouted, rested with him. Had Colonel Long and his guns been stopped anywhere short of the spot where we caught them with our riflefire they would have been exposed to the fire of our pom-poms and all our big guns, which could not bear on them as it was. Moreover, if he had gone further to the right his guns could have done very little good and he would have incurred risk from an advance of our men along the river bank below, he was not in a position to know that this part of the river (the south side), which was full of dongas, was not occupied by our men. In fact the direction chosen by Colonel Long was the best he could have taken under the circumstances.

"THE DISASTER OF THE GUNS"

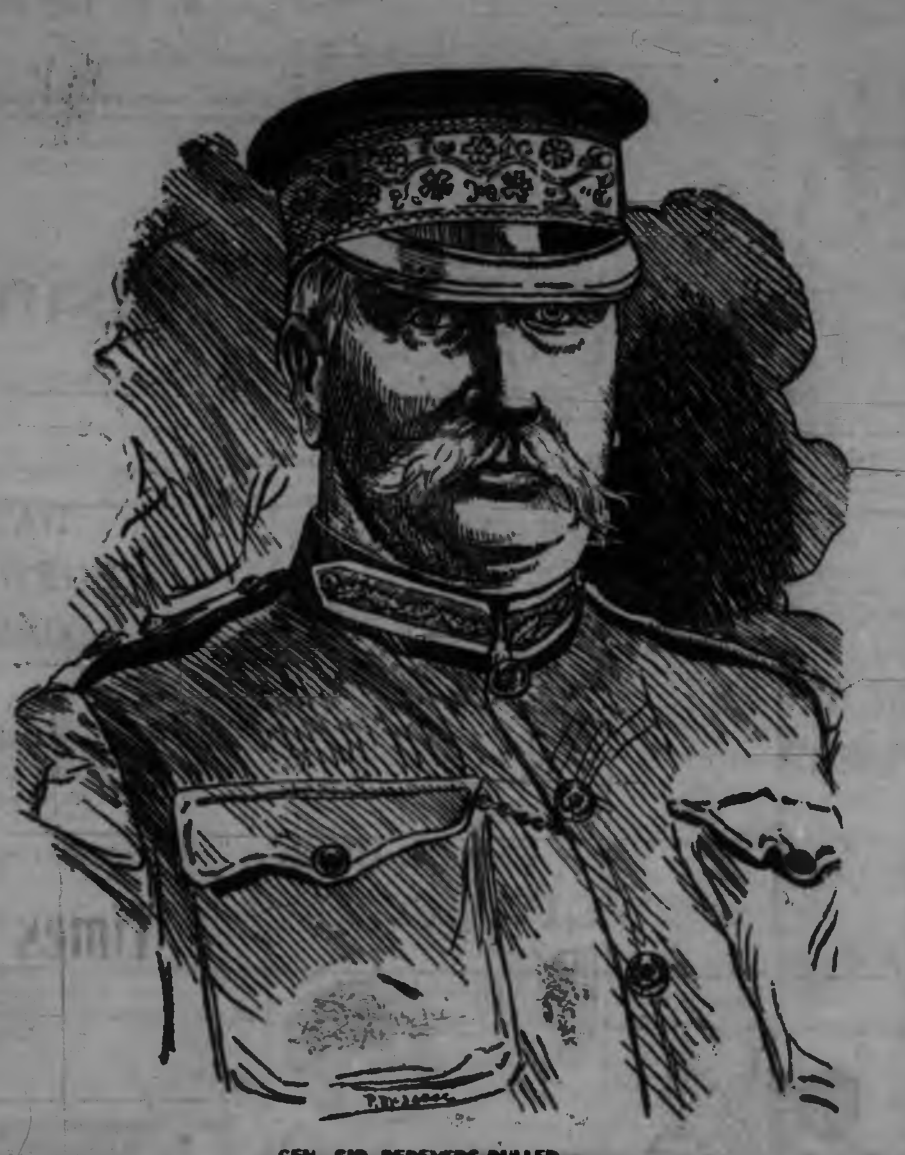
Many misstatements have been made about the disaster of the guns, and I should like to correct some of them. This I can do with absolute certainty. Dr. Conan Doyle, for example, says that upon this occasion "the British naval guns silenced the Boer guns." They did not injure one of our guns at Colenso. Neither did we "dam up the river to deepen it," as he says. Then, to say that 'Long's guns were 700 yards" from our rifles is again a mistake, the nearest of Colonel Long's guns being in fact 1200 yards from our rifles on Fort Wylie. Further, it is not true that we had men along the river bank near Colonel Long's guns and also in the village of Colenso. The nearest men to Colonel Long's guns were those at Fort Wylie, and as to there being men below the river bank below that height, they would have been useless there, for from that position they could not have seen these guns or the British advance, and in fact none were there.

As it was, shrapnel from Colonel Long's guns fell in our positions on and near Fort Wylie, and was the only shell fire from the British which did us any harm on the 15th. On the other hand, it struck me that some of the shell from your field guns was bursting among your own men during the fight, but I make the statement guardedly, simply as a strong impression received at the time, which I was not able to corroborate.

Of course if Colonel Long had succeeded in silencing our riflemen at Fort Wylie the British would have had no difficulty in crossing at the railway bridge, and would then have got a footing upon our side of the river. But, as everyone knows, he could not stand, and was not supported, and when our people crossed the river after the main body of the force had retired they captured the guns left there with Colonel Bullock, and took some 200 prisoners, all the time dreading that we should be shelled from the heights near Chieveley while doing so.

Colonel Long's experience was only in a greater degree that of the columns separately under Generals Hart and Dundonald. For Hart had suffered heavily at the bridle drift and had retired, and Dundonald, advancing in the early morning on Hlangwane with the impression that this also was not occupied, found himself unable to extricate his men before they had suffered heavy loss in some mealie fields within range of our rifle fire under the mountain, where burnt ground made the khaki of the British soldier's clothing a conspicuous mark.

It was about noon when all three British columns at Colenso had met their reverses, and sunset saw your people in the positions that they had held at dawn. In an attack on the Boer positions at Colenso, which was virtually an attempt to secure the key of the position on that route to Ladysmith, General Buller should first have taken Monte Cristo, the range to the east of Hlangwane, and thence he might have taken the key to the position, Hlangwane itself, as indeed he did two months later. It is a strange fact that Hlangwane was not occupied by us before the 12th December, and only on that day after pressure had been brought to bear upon our General in my advice and that of Mr. Diepriak, of Johannesburg.



GEN. SIR REDEVERS BULLER.

DRIFTING MATCH BETWEEN YACHTS

The Shamrock Crosses the Line First, Outside of Time Limit

WIND WAS NOT BLOWING STRONG

New York, Oct. 1.—A 15-knot breeze was ruffling the ocean when the crews of the Columbia and the British cup challenger turned out with the sun this morning to prepare for the second race for the America's cup. All night the wind had blown strongly from the northwest, but it began to subside at sunrise, and fears were expressed that the beautiful 15-knot wind would not hold long enough to get the race fairly started. The wind shifted around to the northeast, but the sea, owing to the off-shore wind of the past day or two, seemed to have subsided, and there was very little surf on the Jersey coast.

The members of the committee stated last night that it was their earnest desire to send the yachts to the windward leg of ten miles from the start so that in case the wind should shift the yachts would at least have a hunt in some portion of the race, but ten miles from Sandy Hook Lightship would have brought the yachts upon the Long Island shore, and in order to give them a beat of ten miles in that direction it looked this morning as if the committee would have to shift the starting point to very close to the Jersey shore near Sea Bright.

At 9 o'clock the observer at Sandy Hook reported the wind as fourteen miles from the northeast, and the sea smooth. The Columbia was the first to start for the lightship.

The tug flint puffed up to her a few minutes before 9 and passing a line to the defender started out around the Hook, followed a few minutes later by the Shamrock.

At that time the Lower Bay presented a prettier and more animated sight than it had on either of the previous race days. There was a large fleet of pleasure craft hovering about and a noticeable increase in the number of sailing yachts.

The Shamrock did not raise her main sail as she rounded the point, as she did on the two previous days, but remained in tow. By 10 o'clock the racers were at the lightship, and the skirmish line of the excursion fleet was sweeping around the Hook.

The Columbia and Shamrock were both making sail now, and swarms of nimble-footed sailors were busy on their decks. A few minutes after 10 o'clock the Shamrock had set her club topsail, staysail and jib, in addition to her mainsail, and a minute or two later the Columbia followed suit. Meanwhile, the wind had fallen so slight that the two big yachts stood up like churches, the breeze not being strong enough to give them scarcely any heel.

The Shamrock had hard luck, for she stood in too near the line and went over before the starting gun was fired while the Columbia, on the other hand, was in a beautiful position, and poked her bow across the line a few seconds after the gun. The Shamrock had to wear to recross the line, and this mistake badly handicapped her at the outset. The wind was not more than four knots, and both yachts headed for the Long Island shore on the starboard tack. The Columbia was far to windward, but the yachts were apparently on equal terms as far as footing was concerned.

After about 15 minutes jockeying for position the Shamrock went around on the starboard tack, and stood across Columbia's wake, but less than a minute afterward. Captain Barr swung the Columbia around on the starboard tack, still holding her in a nice berth to the windward of his rival.

The wind continued light, and shortly after 12 o'clock the yachts were practically becalmed, although the Columbia still maintained the lead which she had secured at the start. About half past twelve the wind freshened again, but the yachts were unable to finish inside the time limit. The Shamrock finished several lengths ahead, but as the time was not made, the race was declared off.

Robbed at the Station.

Lindsay Post: On Saturday evening Mr. J. H. Hunter, commercial traveller, complained to Mr. Wardrobe, proprietor of the Benson House, that his overcoat had been stolen, and soon after, Miss Annie Gilchrist, of Woodville, missed her fur collarette. Mr. Wardrobe's suspicions at once centred upon the members of the Pan-American Vaudeville Co., whose visit to the town had not been a pecuniary success. As the troupe proposed to leave town on the first train, a search warrant was procured and entrusted to Chief Nevison, who overhauled the baggage. The overcoat and collarette were found in the trunk of Jas. Fairbanks, comedian, of Toronto, and the festive Rube was taken to the cells. This morning he appeared before Magistrate Steers on the charge of having stolen the overcoat, but elected to be tried by jury, he was committed to gaol to await the assizes on Oct. 29th. Owing to Miss Gilchrist's absence, the theft of the collarette was not pressed.

Horse Meat in Demand.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The consumption of horse meat in Vienna is constantly on the increase, and 25,646 horses and 58 donkeys were slaughtered in that city for food purposes in the year 1899, according to a report to the state department from Consul General Hurst.

The high price for beef, mutton and pork put these beyond the reach of the poorer classes, and for nearly a half century they have turned to horse flesh for strength-giving food.

The price of horse meat ranges per pound of forequarter from 5 to 8 cents; hind quarter, 6 to 9 cents; choice cuts for steak and roast, from 5 to 11 cents. The same cuts in beef average from 20 to 21 cents per pound.

The horse meat is also worked up in sausages, and as such sells at correspondingly low rates.

There are 125 horse meat butcher shops in the city and they present a clean appearance and are distinguished from the shops where the usual kinds of meat are sold by the sign announcing their specialty.

NOVEL JAPANESE WEDDING.

All the Guests of the Ceremony were Seated on the Floor.

The Japanese, notwithstanding their marvellous progress in civilization, still adhere to many of their former customs. Some of these are certainly picturesque, and none is more so than the celebration of the marriage ceremony. A missionary writing from the land of the Mikado sends to a friend in the east the following interesting account of a wedding in that country: The bridegroom was Rev. H. Yoshimura, who visited this country a few years ago, the pastor of the Universalist church at Osaka. The bride, Miss Naka Yamada, was a member of the Methodist Church. The ceremony occurred immediately after the close of the service one Sunday morning in May, the entire audience being seated on the floor. It was performed in both English and Japanese.

At its close the "middle man" and his wife arose and made themselves responsible for the marriage, this being necessary in order to comply with Japanese law. An address by the groom followed, at the close of which he gave a present to everyone in the audience. After this the relatives and a few friends repaired to a hotel, where Mr. Yoshimura, had provided a dinner. Again the guests were seated on the floor, the men, on one side of the room in two long rows facing each other and the women similarly arranged in a group by themselves. Two songs were sung, one by a youth and the other by an old man. The one described married life at the beginning, the other, after long years have passed and the couple have grown old together.

The food was brought in on trays or low tables, one being provided for each guest. Before the feast began the usual ceremonious invitation to partake was given and the response returned. "Do not ask," says the writer, "how we managed to use the chop-sticks, for they are still very uncertain things in our hands." One dish which looked especially inviting was left by each patron, why we did not know, but followed suit. It was all made clear when two waiters entered with their arms full of small wooden boxes. The food was taken from the untouched dish at each place, put carefully in a box with any other fragments remaining, and the box was then tied with a frail rice straw string and handed to the guests. Thus we discovered that it is a Japanese custom to take home with you all that you leave of the food provided by the host.

A TRAGEDY BETWEEN STATIONS

Told The Times by a Well Known Railway Man.

The train had just left the station, where Frank Sandy and John Sim were so earnestly at work.

Station is a better word than daypo, because there is no dispute about the pronunciation of it.

But this is a digression.

The conductor, having worked the smoking car, entered the next car, carrying his conductor face with him.

A digression seems necessary here, lest the conductor face, which is one of the oldest of the faces, does not receive the attention it deserves. It is a face that conveys an impression of high personal and official responsibility, together with a certain coldness, reserve, and no-you-don't-ness, the whole tempered by a sort of impersonal dignity, as becomes the representative of a vast corporation indispensable to the public welfare. But it seems to have escaped classification, as a face.

Carrying this face with him, then, not as a mask, but rather as an external phase properly belonging to his job, the conductor entered the car.

Sitting in the seat next to the door was a brighteyed young woman with a Graeco-pug nose and a beaver jacket.

The face vanished.

In his own proper person the conductor grasped the hand she extended to him with a ticket in it, and sat down beside her.

"I haven't seen you," he said eagerly, "since the night of the conductors' ball. Remember?"

"O, yes," she replied with a charming smile.

"How's that? Don't you go to the city every day, as you used to?"

"Yes."

"Then you don't go on my train any more. Do you think that's just the kowgee thing?"

"Why not?"

"Get a double nelson lock on a fellow and then slide him down the fire chute?"

"I don't know what you are talking about, Mr. Tickafus"

"Going to give me the chilly gazoo?"

"What do you mean?"

"Look here, Linnie," he said, lowering his voice to a confidential pitch, "this is the straight tum-tum with me. I'm hooked, all right, all right. There isn't any silly willy wink on that. It's a case of couple on or sidetrack. No more standing against the bumper waiting for orders. Connections with the pay train are old persnoodle. No fuss on that, either. It's your shoot."

"I'm sure I don't know what you're talking about, Mr. Tickafus."

"Linnie, do we hitch or do I get the double cross?"

"We don't hitch."

"You give me the razzle dazzle?"

"What?"

"And the clammy flipper?"

"What?"

"Turn me down, do you?"

"Yes, sir I'm going to marry Lip Grigsum next week."

He rose up.

He put on his conductor face again, and all he said, as he reached for her pasteboard and moved down the aisle, was——

"Tickets!"

RABAH'S SON MAKES APPEAL

Fateralla Asks the British to Protect Him From the French

WAS DRIVEN ACROSS BORDER.

London, Oct. 1.—Reuter's Agency is informed that, according to intelligence just to hand, Fateralla, the son of Rabah, having been driven across the French and German frontiers, is now encamped right in the center of British territory at Fika, sixteen marches northeast of the post of Ibi, on the Benue, with a very strong force. Reuter's Agency is enabled to give the following particulars regarding the negotiations between the British and this chief, the result of which is regarded as being of great importance. It appears that in June last Fateralla sent emissaries down to the British, complaining that he had been driven out of his country by the French, who had driven him across the French and German frontiers for a considerable distance into British territory, and asking for British protection. Accordingly, Major McClintock, Seaforth Highlanders, and Lieut. McGregor, Coldstream Guards, with an escort, proceeded from their post at Ibi, and in due course reached the chief's camp at Fika without incident. The British mission was well received by the chief, who gave a review in their honor.

Fateralla has with him a force of 2,000 men armed with firearms, about 50 of which are rifles of modern pattern. His troops are disciplined and organized in companies each under its own leader, and the names of all the men are registered, together with the description of gun with which each is armed. Fateralla also has about 1,000 horsemen and a host of bowmen and others. The cavalry merely use their horses for scouting, and dismounting when fighting. Fateralla bitterly complained of being driven out of his country by the French, and asked for British protection. On the conclusion of the conference Major McClintock returned to the Benue, at Yola, being accompanied part of the way by Fateralla, and thence proceeded by steamer to report the result of his mission at headquarters. While no definite action will be taken with regard to Fateralla until the arrival on the spot of Sir Frederick Lugard, who sails from England in October, it may be stated that the question is under consideration of agreeing to Fateralla's request for British protection, and of installing him at Kuta as Emir under strict British supervision. In this case it is possible that a British officer will be despatched to Lake Chad and established as British Resident at Kuta.

Accidents at Lindsay Fair

Lindsay Post:—On Friday afternoon a handsome team of chestnuts, owned by Dr. Gregg, Little Britain, took fright at some object as they were entering the track near the sheep pens, and one of the animals kicked and smashed the tongue of the carriage. A new tongue was secured in time for the popular veterinary surgeon to enter and capture the first prize.

—Mr. Simon Marshall, of the south ward, lost a valuable colt which had won first prize in the general purpose class. The colt was in a stall with its mother and somehow the rope with which the mare was tied became twisted about the colt's neck. The mare took fright and pulled the rope tight choking the colt to death. Mr. Marshall had been in the stall giving the mare water a few minutes before the accident occurred. He feels his loss very keenly as he had just refused an offer of $125 for the colt.

Snake Bites Killed 24,[illegible]

London, Oct. 2. — The number of Hindoos killed by snake bite in India in 1899 was greater than England's total losses through the Boer war. The official statistics just issued show 24,[illegible] deaths from snake bites.

The total number of deaths in India from wild animals that year was 27,585, the highest since statistics have been collected. Tigers killed 899 human beings, while 98,687 cattle were destroyed by different animals.

Eighteen thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven wild beasts were slain and 95,291 poisonous reptiles.

How a Sprain Does Hurt!

But is isn't the pain alone that is dreaded, just think of the loss of time and wages. Sprains without number have been cured by rubbing Polson's Nerviline well into the pores of the skin surrounding the joint. No matter whether it is a sprained wrist, ankle, knee or back, just try Nerviline on it, and see how quickly it will cure. There is only one liniment that can be depended upon to cure sprains, strains and swellings, and that is Polson's Nerviline. Large bottle 25 cents.

Jealous Man Stabs His Wife.

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 2. — William Siresco stabbed and fatally wounded his wife to-night. Jealousy was the cause of the deed. Siresco had just been discharged as a patient from the Pottsville Hospital.

A BRUTAL IDEA

New York, Oct. 1.—The New York Herald has received the following letter from Robert T. Pehry, city judge of Princeton, Ky.:

"On receiving the sad news of the death of our beloved President William McKinley I wish to say that there should be no delay whatever in getting rid of the brutal murderer of our honored and beloved President, and it is unnecessary to waste any time on him at all.

"And after discussing the mode of punishment that should be inflicted upon the assassin, Leon Czolgosz, should be this: First to make a box just the length and width of the assassin, and make it out of three inch well seasoned oak lumber, put together with 40-D nails, and then saw the box in two with a red hot cross-cut saw running at the rate of one stroke per minute and by the time the box is in two pieces, and if Czolgosz does not think that hell has broke loose in old Georgia, I will set up the cider and ginger cakes."

TWO DAYS AT POCIFIC CAPITAL

Splendid Weather For the Royal Welcome at Victoria Tuesday.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 1.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall arrived at Victoria at 11 o'clock to-day and were given an enthusiastic welcome. They made the last stage of the journey westward in the steamship Empress of India, which was convoyed by the North Pacific squadron. The day was bright and clear, and the Royal party enjoyed the ride through the Gulf of Georgia.

The Empress of India landed at the outer wharf, where the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Henri Joly, formally welcomed the Duke and Duchess. The addresses of welcome were presented at the Parliament Buildings, where a great crowd was gathered. The Royal couple were then driven to Esquimalt, where they lunched on the flagship Warspite. Later the Duke opened the

The city was splendidly decorated, and the Duke and Duchess were loudly cheered wherever they appeared. The Royal party remain here two days and then start eastward. The Duke will probably spend two days hunting in Manitoba, during which time the Duchess will rest at Banff.

You Prevent Hay Fever, or Cure It.

in a prompt, pleasant and effective way by inhaling the germ-killing throat and lung healing Catarrhozone. Delightful to use, simple in its operation, free from stomach nauseating and destroying substances. It is a marvel of scientific efficacy. Catarrhozone kills the germs that excite the disease, heals the inflamed surfaces and prevents absolutely a recurrence of the malady. Catarrhozone cannot fail to cure Hay Fever because it destroys its cause. Druggists, 25c., $1.00, or mailed to your address if price is forwarded to Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Lures Man to His Death

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 1.—Charles Hudspeth of Mason City, Ill., at midnight shot Charles Curry of Lexington, Mo., because of jealousy over the attentions paid to Mrs. Hudspeth. Curry died early this morning. The shooting took place in the Hudspeths' rooms in Wyandotte street, where Curry had been enticed by a letter written by Mrs. Hudspeth at her husband's command. When the police arrived Curry was unconscious. Mrs. Hudspeth, who was crying, greeted the officers with: "My husband shot a man who was not armed." Hudspeth submitted to arrest calmly. He is 30 years old and says he and his wife have been married five years and that they have a child. He had recently returned from a trip to Oklahoma and said he had come to look for his wife.

BORN.

BRADLEY.—on Saturday, September 28th, the wife of H. E. Bradley, of a daughter.

Gives Money to Spinsters.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 1.—Miss Susan Cabot Richardson, an aged spinster of the suburb of Milton, who died June 28, left a peculiar will, which was read in the Norfolk county probate court yesterday. By its terms the income of her $200,000 estate is left to two girlhood friends, Josephine M. Hicks and Louisa McKeown Topliff, provided they remain single. They share the income until one weds, when the other is to receive it, and should both wed the estate goes to Radcliffe college, where single women are educated.

This singular will was drawn fourteen years ago, when marriage was by no means a remote possibility to either Miss Topliff or Miss Hicks. Now they are growing gray and Miss Hicks says she don't believe they'll ever wed. It is stated that when girls all three were disappointed in love by the sudden death of affianced sweethearts.

A HOPE BUILT ON SAND

Though Oom Paul has given up the trip to the United States, he does not despair of the intervention of the great American Republic in South Africa affairs. True, the Transvaal commissioners or emissaries were refused a hearing at Washington, but that was by President McKinley. The new expectation of Kruger arising from the change of rulers shows with what a large capital H the word Hope lives in his patriotic consciousness. Not much has been said in the papers across the waters about it, but the subject is said by a London correspondent to be widely discussed since Mr. Roosevelt took office, how far his Dutch origin might induce him to adopt a less friendly attitude towards England in the matter of the South African war. The correspondent adds that Mr. Kruger and his associates clearly cherish hopes of this kind, and they know what an entirely different aspect Washington support might put on the attitude of certain European powers towards their cause. Whatever early fears existed in England of any such change in the American attitude mostly passed away in the face of Mr. Roosevelt's announced adherence to McKinleyism. England, in a word, means to remain friends with America, and believes that America means to remain friends with her.

HASTINGS

Mr. H. G. Buck, one of Hastings' leading merchants, has decided to build a steam yacht, which will be for private use only, and will have its headquarters here. Mr. Buck has purchased a piece of land centrally located, on which he will build a house for his new yacht.

The steam dredge "Trent," with a gang of men, has been engaged for the past few days in taking rocks out of the channel immediately below the locks. The dredge did a considerable amount of work in the few days it was at work here. The number and the size of rocks lifted out of the channel surprised even the men engaged on the dredge. Rocks that have been blasted when the locks at Hastings were first built, and weighing a ton or more, were lifted to the canal bank. How the steamboats, previous to this work being done, were able to navigate the canal is a wonder, but now they can pass down into the river below without any fear of accident. The dredge is this week being taken to a point about three miles below Peterborough.

The Rathbun Co.'s steam alligator "McClintock" was loaded on a flat car at the station here last week and taken to Trenton.

The 40th Regimental Band will play at the annual fall show of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society at Norwood on October 9th.

Sunday was Children's Day at the Presbyterian Sunday School, and the attendance was exceptionally large. The church was very prettily decorated for the occasion, and the services passed off very successfully. The subject was "Our Lands, its People and its Missions," which was taken by Rev. D. A. Thompson.

Sunday was Rally Day in the Methodist Church, when services of a special nature were held.

Dr. W. E. Wilson, Hastings' new dentist, reports business brisk. The Doctor visits Roseneath once a week and is now making arrangements to visit Keene weekly also.

Mr. Ashworth Anderson, formerly of the Union bank here, and recently of Quebec, has been transferred to Winnipeg.

Mr. W. P. Plant and his son, C. H. Plant, have returned from the Pan-American.

The canal department will this fall place in new gates in the locks at Hastings. The present ones are in a pretty bad condition. The new gates are already built.

STEEL TRUST'S EARNINGS

New York, Oct. 1.—It was semi-officially stated today that the net earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the past six months amounted to $54,000,000.

The Finance Committee of the Steel Corporation, which was in session in J. P. Morgan's office on Wednesday, considered the financial statement of the company preliminary to formulating its resolution on the dividend, which will be presented to the directors.

The resolution, which, it is understood, calls for a dividend on both classes of stocks, will be acted upon at the meeting on Tuesday. It is expected that a public statement to the stockholders will be made showing the earnings and expenses since the corporation was formed.

WAR IN ISLES CONTINUES

London, Oct. 1.—War in the Philippines is by no means over, according to advices received recently by General Wesley Merritt from a staff officer in the islands. General Merritt said this morning:

"The present situation is a source of great anxiety to the authorities in the field. There is a strong feeling among them that the real facts in the case have been kept back by the Washington government. The United States are in possession of a rich but small area of the whole territory. The insurgents are likely to maintain guerrilla fighting for an indefinite period, thus seriously retarding the final conquest of the island. The enemy is blackmailing the native towns and villages without difficulty, obtaining all necessary supplies, since a native can live on a handful of rice a day.

"Doubtless the American people will be sorry to be assured that a permanent army of 40,000 soldiers will be required to hold the Philippines, but conservative officers on the spot first convinced that this view of the situation is correct.

"In the opinion of my correspondent the policy of civil government for the islands is an absolute mistake. The Filipinos are thoroughly dishonest, and unreliable, according to his view, believing with a celebrated diplomat that language was given to conceal thought so that it is impossible to place the slightest reliance on their promises. The idea of appointing such men to official positions, he thinks, distinctly foolish, since it only serves to impress the natives with the belief that the United States are [illegible] and [illegible] them to show their teeth accordingly.

Baby's Birth.

How many a woman dates a life of chronic invalidism from baby's birth. She tries "different doctors and different medicines" with little benefit. Then, fortunately her attention is called to the remarkable cures resulting from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and she gives the medicine a trial. Her experience is that of ninety-eight women out of every hundred who use "Favorite Prescription" for womanly ills—she is cured.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is peculiarly a mother's medicine. Its use before maternity makes the baby's advent practically painless. It gives the mother strength to nurse her child. It cures diseases peculiar to women and cures them permanently.

There is no alcohol, opium, cocaine or any other narcotic in "Favorite Prescription." It is purely a vegetable preparation and cannot disagree with the weakest constitution.

Mrs. Emerson Allen, of Dorset, Ontario Co., Ont., writes: "I can truly say that I think Dr. Pierce's medicines the best I have ever used. I was in very poor health for a long time, dating from the birth of my little girl. I tried different doctors and different medicines. I derived very much more benefit from your medicines than from any other I have ever used. I took four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I always keep the 'Pellets' in the house."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper bound, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MR. HAYS RESIGNS.

Former Manager of the Grand Trunk Makes A Statement.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct 1.—After a week of rumours and contradictions President Charles M. Hays, of the Southern Pacific, has made the first official statement declaring he resigned several weeks ago and will retire from the presidency on October 1. His statement is as follows:

The change in policy and organization of the company, consequent upon a change in the ownership and control of the Southern Pacific shortly, after my taking service with the company, has made the place, originally attractive to me, so much less so that I, several weeks ago, voluntarily placed my resignation and surrender of my contract with the company at the disposal of the executive committee, to take effect on such date and upon such conditions as might be agreeable to them. We have agreed upon October 1 as the date upon which my resignation shall become effective.

"The announcement as to my successor, etc., will doubtless be made shortly. I have no definite plans as yet, but expect to remain some weeks enjoying the country with my family at Menlo Park, and will probably go East some time early in December."

It is understood the chief cause of Mr. Hays' retirement was the bitter dislike shown toward him by several prominent railway officials, who, on any pretext, telegraphed to H. E. Huntington, in New York, to get Mr. Hays' orders revoked.

Not even high officials of the company here are sure who will be his successor.

Where Medical Science Fails

to cure rheumatism, and all the time you suffer dreadfully, why don't you get a bottle of Polson's Nerviline, and try that? Rub it into your stiff joints, sore arms, lame back, bent shoulders—wherever the pain is. Nerviline has cured plenty of people in this way, and that ought to be proof enough that it will cure you too. It is an unusually strong liniment that cures rheumatism in unusually quick time. Best household liniment known. 25 cents

TO WIPE OUT ANARCHY.

Loyal League of America Calls Upon Canadians to Assist Them in This Work

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—Mayor Morris has received a circular letter from the headquarters of the Loyal League of America at Tacoma, Wash., calling upon residents of the United States and Canada to unite in suppressing Anarchy. The league has, as its stated object, "the utter annihilation of Anarchists and Anarchistic teachings within the borders of North America and to prevent disloyalty to existing forms of government.

"The precise line of work," the communication states, "cannot at present be outlined; this must follow more complete organization. State and national legislation is, of course, its ultimate object. At present organization of public sentiment that will keep these vipers in holes and their tongues silent is essential."

The move has been started by old soldiers and the Mayor says he will probably send the communication to Mr. Wm. Borthwick, commandant of the Ottawa Veterans.

The Duke's Speeches.

New York, Oct. 1.—The Herald says: Wherever he has gone the Duke of Cromwell impressed the people with his shrewd common sense, with his knowledge of affairs and with the strength of his personality. His speeches are no mere recitations of a colourless official secretary's words. They are definite and statesmanlike, and the Duke in delivering them leaves no doubt of his convictions upon the minds of his hearers. Those people who have had only the vapourings of society newspapers upon which to found an estimate of their future King have not known him till he came among them.

$25,000 Our Grand $25,000

Ornithological Contest

Something entirely new and interesting. Read what you are to do. You may get $1,000. Our contest is to one who can make the largest list of names (or kinds) of birds from the following list of letters:

W D O O O C C K Q U L I A P R T
A R I D G E S P N I E L V E B
R D I M W A D O H T L

(We will recognize as a bird anything belonging to the feathered tribe, whether it be a Hen, Crow, Singer or any other kind. You can use any letter as many times to make a name as it appears in the list of letters above; for instance Woodcock, Plover, Snow Bird, etc. To any person who can make a list of 25 or more different names of birds, we will give, absolutely FREE a beautiful Prize value $1,000 or less.

BIG PRIZES AWARDED DAILY.

When you have made out your list fill out the line on the bottom of this advt. and send it to us with a Stamped, Addressed envelope, stamp of your country will do, then if you are awarded a prize you can if you desire get the prize by becoming a subscriber to THE WOMAN'S WORLD. We shall award a prize to every person who sends the name of 25 birds and our gifts will be as follows: For the best list, received each day, a Gold Watch; for the second best solution each day a beautiful Imported Tea Set; for the seven next best solutions each day, a [illegible] Diamond and Ruby Ring; for the next best solution, a Gold Piece; and for all other correct solutions, Prizes of Good Value. These Prizes will be forwarded daily, you will not have to wait a long time in uncertainty before you know the result. There is no element of lottery in our plan, it makes no difference whether we get your solution late or early in the day. All you need is to mail this Advt. to us, and on the day it reaches us, if your list is the best, YOU SHALL HAVE THE GOLD WATCH or if second best the beautiful Tea Set, and so on. We guarantee that we will award you a prize. There is absolutely no opportunity for deception on our part—we cannot afford it. We want to get 1,000,000 well satisfied subscribers, and for that reason we don't want you to send any money until you know exactly what prize you have gained by answering the puzzle. As soon after 4 p.m. each day as possible, the examiners will judge the lists to the best of their ability, and will designate the prizes. We will write to you at once notifying you what prize has been awarded you, then if you are satisfied, you can send your subscription to THE WOMAN'S WORLD and your prize will go by return of mail carriage paid. To a person of narrow ideas it seems impossible that we should be able to make such a gigantic order, but we have the money, brains, and reputation, we know exactly what we are doing, and if we can legitimately gain a million subscribers by this grand idea we know that this million of well pleased subscribers can be induced to recommend The Woman's World to all friends, thereby building up our circulation still further. We are willing to spend $25,000 in this contest in building up a big subscription list, and when this money is spent we reserve the right to publish a notification that the contest has been discontinued. Don't delay until it is too late. The contest will continue until Jan. 1902.

We give A Bonus Prize of $250 independent of all others to the person who sends in the list gotten up in the best and handsomest manner. Our Committee will decide and award prizes daily, but the special $250 prize will be awarded in March 1902. Any bird's name found in the dictionaries accepted.

SOUTH AFRICAN NEWS

London, Oct. 1.

The defeat of Botha seems to have been more severe than at first believed. His forces were beaten with heavy loss, in killed and wounded, it is estimated that nearly 100 were killed and 200 badly wounded.

Surrendered Boers state that the forces now in the field are badly clad and in need of ammunition and food. They have plenty of rifles, but lack in everything else except horses.

The attacks on the Government in regard to army reform and the conduct of the war have been resumed. The appointment of Gen. Sir Redvers Buller to the command of the First Army Corps, is assailed bitterly on every hand, from the Times and Spectator downward.

Secretary of War Brodrick distinctly stated when he announced the establishment of the army corps system that no General should henceforth be appointed on a peace assignment who would not be fit to hold his command in time of war. The Spectator asks whether any reasonable person can suppose that in the event of war Gen Buller would be allowed to take command in the field. It goes on to say that unquestionably he ought not to be and would not be.

Other papers reassert openly and specifically allegations that Gen. Buller heliographed after the battle of Colenso categorically ordering Gen. White, the commander at Ladysmith, to destroy the cipher, to destroy the stores, and make for 12,000 armed Britons, the flower of the British Army, the best terms possible. The Spectator says that now is the time that a plain statement should be made by the War Office on this point.

The other two appointments so far made to the Army Corps are also criticised on the ground that they are directly in opposition to Secretary of War Brodrick's promise. Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood is to command the Second Army Corps, and the deafness which prevented him from serving in South Africa will apply to every war. The Duke of Connaught has been named to command the Third Army Corps. There is no criticism as to his fitness, but as the King's brother he would not be allowed to take the field, and, therefore it should be looked upon as disqualifying him for a peace command.

Accordingly these appointments are considered to prove that the War Office is slipping back to its old ways and is making reform a mere mockery. The recent reverses in South Africa, the details of which have already been cabled coupled with reports that Lord Kitchener is hampered by the home authorities, have also aroused angry feelings, which can only be compared with those expressed freely both in Government and opposition quarters in the early disastrous stages of the war.

Despite the official denial that Lord Kitchener tendered his resignation because the promise that he should have a free hand was broken, the story caused the deepest uneasiness and there is no doubt that he is greatly dissatisfied. There is no doubt also that he and Lord Milner, Governor of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, will not pull together. While his own plain statement of the uselessness of the mounted men sent to him in response to his urgent appeal for levies in last February proves that he feels that his army is unequal to the work before it. The conditions in Cape Colony and the Transvaal and Orange River Colony give ample evidence that Lord Kitchener's feelings are fully justified.

BRITISH PLAN NOT LEGAL.

Prof. John Westlake, of Cambridge Law University, a well-known authority on international law, referring to the much discussed question of the right to put Boers on trains in South Africa with the object of preventing train wrecking, declares against it on the following grounds:

Annexation converted the Transvaal and Orange River Colony burghers into subjects of King Edward. Those who are living peacefully under his government are not governed by the laws of war, but by those of the land, and Great Britain claims their allegiance as was proved in the arrest of Dr. Krause, the former governor of Johannesburg on a charge of treason. Therefore to put a peaceable ex-Boer on a railway train as a defence would be the same as doing it to a natural born British subject.

If it is suggested to take the victims to the concentration camps a dilemma arises. If they are free to leave the camps they are within the category of persons who have accepted the King's change in status by living peaceably under the King's government. If they are not free the British have no right to assume that it is their option. If they had any they would have no[illegible] if they had any they would have so exercised it as to make they still subjects of Great Britain.

Apart from the legal point, even the Germans did not put the French notables on trains without giving notice, which is difficult to give to all the scattered bands of the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies.

ANARCHY FACES A PROBLEM

Emma Goldman Finds No Hall in Which to Lecture.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Anarchism in Chicago has received its first effectual setback from the laity and not from the lawmakers. No hall can be secured in which Emma Goldman may lecture on her doctrines and score the government. Not until late yesterday, after a three days' search, could the publisher of Free Society, Abraham Isaak, find a printer who would consent to run the red sheet through his press. Even then an exorbitant price had to be paid to an obscure printer.

Where the anarchists will secure a place to hold their meeting next, week is a problem that they have not yet solved. The police will not let them use the streets or parks and a tent is regarded as too unstable against attacks by unbelievers. Isaak tried to see Police of Police O'Neill yesterday but failed.

The editorials in the issue of Free Society which will appear to-day or Monday deal with three subjects, the assassination of President McKinley, an arraignment of the Chicago police and the movement set on foot by the Marquette club and the city council for the extirpation of anarchism.

The efforts which have been started to crush anarchy in the United States are characterized as farces and guaranteed to create a boom in the "movement" of the reds.

An organization for the suppression of anarchy has been started in Austin. The society is known as the "Republic," and it is charted under the laws of Illinois. It promoters contemplate a secret, oath-bound organization with a grand lodge and auxiliary societies throughout the United States.

THE PRESIDENT'S WILL.

Leaves the Bulk of His Property to His Wife and Mother.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Yesterday afternoon Judge Day and Secretary Cortelyou went to the offices of the Probate Judge and offered the will of President McKinley for probate.

The following is a text of the will:

"I publish the following as my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills:

"To my beloved wife, Ida S. McKinley, I bequeath all of my real estate wherever situated, and the income of any personal property of which I may be possessed at death during her natural life.

"I make the following charge upon all of my property, both real and personal. To pay my mother during her life one thousand dollars a year, and at her death said sum be paid to my sister, Helen McKinley. If the income from the property be insufficient to keep my wife in great comfort, and pay the annuity above provided, then I direct that such of my property be sold so as to make a sum adequate for both purposes.

"Whatever property remains at the death of my dear wife, give to my brother and sisters, share and share alike. My chief concern is that my wife from my estate shall have all that she requires for her comfort and pleasure, and that my mother shall be provided with whatever money she requires to make her old age comfortable and happy.

"Witness my hand and seal, this 22nd day of October, 1897, to my last will and testament, made at the city of Washington, District of Columbia.

(Signed).

"WILLIAM McKINLEY."

WONDERFUL RESULTS.

Follow the Use of Dr. Clarke's Little Pills—No Cure, no Pay.

To the Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills are a wonder in my case at least. I was for 18 years a sufferer from rheumatism, and my system became so emaciated and run down that I had given up all hope. Doctors did me no good, or could I get anything to relieve my sufferings. I was only able at times to move around with the greatest pain. By mere chance I saw an advertisement of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills, and, like a drowning man reaching for a straw, I concluded to try them. I took three boxes, without much change, but before three more had been used I was nearly well. Six weeks after I took my first box I walked a mile without the aid of a stick. I am now, thank God, a well man, and cheerfully write this letter in the hope that others may be benefitted. John D. Askin, (formerly of Hamilton), Peterborough, Ont.

Sir,—I gladly write a line to say that Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney and liver troubles of many years standing. I bought a box after trying hundreds of remedies, and felt so much improved that I continued using them—Isaak Richardson, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1900.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.,
President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1900.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for no securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June. New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is to-day the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year, is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but shows their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1866, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print. The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.
New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be equal for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

PABST BREWING CO.
J. R. Kathrens, Adv. Mgr.
Milwaukee, Wis., June 7, 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and almost successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others followed his publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the great stupidity of imitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD,
Advertising Manager for Sapolio.
—In Fame, March, 1901.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,
FRANK ROE BATCHELD,
Clerk of the Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, U. S.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1899.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,900 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspaper directories gratis; but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13, 1900.

JOS. H. HANNEN,
Adv. Dept. Southern Railway.

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

S. H. HARDWICK,
General Passenger Agent.
Washington, D. C., May 21, 1901.

BALTIMORE.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

A LINDSAY MAN'S EVIDENCE.

Says that Dr Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Cured Him in Short Order.

If anyone were to take the trouble to make inquiries in Lindsay about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, he would be surprised the number of people there that had taken that remedy with the most beneficial results for backache, kidney and bladder troubles of one kind and another. On making inquiries of Mr. Geo. Gain, of that town, respecting his case, he gave our representative the following statement:—"Hearing of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, I procured a bottle from my druggist, and I want to say that they are excellent. I had a very bad backache, the result of cold settling there, and they cured it in very short order, so I feel I can recommend them strongly to anyone suffering from backache or kidney troubles."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

(NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed. Times.)

—Influenza is prevalent.

—Mr. J. H. Burnham will be host of the golf tea to be given this afternoon.

—The annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, of the Y.W.C.A., will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3.30.

—Routley, the Park street grocer, near Elm, has one of the freshest and best assorted stock of groceries in town.

—The Lindsay Central Fair was a howling success this year. The attendance on Friday was said to be 12,000.

—There will be a meeting of the Executive committee of the Rugby club at the Y.M.C.A. this evening at eight o'clock.

—The seventh annual convention of the Peterborough District Epworth Leagues took place in Fairmount church, Cavanville, yesterday.

—T. Paterson & Co., manufacturers of the celebrated vapor bath cabinets, report an unusually large demand for these health restorers. Call at Medill's drug store and examine it.

—The poles are being erected for the transmission of electric power from the Canadian General Electric Co.'s power house at Nassau to their works.

—"Barney" Devlin attended the Chicago Board of Trade, during the corn boom, but it wasn't in it with the recent Board of Trade meeting in Peterborough.

—Brother Graff, of the Bobcaygeon Independent, thinks the Governor General, in conferring decorations on the occasion of the Duke's visit, made two serious omissions—his coachman and his gardener.

—The annual meeting of the National Home Reading Union will be held this evening, in the Y.W.C.A. parlor, at 7.30. The President, Dr. Symonds, will take the chair. A large attendance of the members is requested.

—Cool weather and short evenings—just the time to have a good book on hand to read. Novels by such authors as Sir. Walter Scott, Thackeray, Dumas, Reynolds, Dickens, Lever, etc., going at ten cents each at Times Bookstore.

—You will make no mistake when you go to G. E. Whitten's for your photos. He has taken first prize whenever he showed his work in Peterborough and Toronto. Studio, 188 Hunter street, sign of the Golden camera.

—Mr. Frost, the hustling jeweler, who is making a bold bid for trade at "Diamond Hall," informs us that he is now more than pleased with the kindly welcome and good business the Peterborough people have given him. His store is now completed, and it certainly is one of the finest we have ever seen. Everything seems to be right up-to-date, including the proprietor, who is a high-class workman and thoroughly understands his business.

OBITUARY.

Bobcaygeon Independent.—Word has been received from Mugford, North Dakota, of the death of Mr. Jas McConnell, at one time a resident of Bobcaygeon and Verulam. Mr. McConnell was born in the Isle of Inch Ireland on Aug. 13, 1827, and came to Canada with his parents when he was five years old. His parents were among the first settlers on the lakes and theirs was the first house in Bobcaygeon. In '53 Mr. McConnell married Miss Griselda Kennedy, and raised a family of twelve children, five sons and seven daughters, all of whom survive. In '82 he decided that his large family would have more scope in the West and he moved to Dakota to start life again on the prairie. He prospered well in the new country and leaves his widow and family in comfortable circumstances. About three years ago he lost his eyesight and for a lengthened period suffered with stomach ailments which finally caused his death on the 9th inst. Four sons and six daughters were at the funeral—Thomas, James, John and Albert, Misses Minnie and Lottie and four married daughters; the absent ones were W. McConnell in British Columbia, and Mrs. Wm. Simpson, of Lindsay. The interment took place at Rosemount cemetery, the services being conducted by the Anglican minister of Pembina. A brother, Mr. John McConnell, and two sisters, are still resident in Bobcaygeon.

To Visit The Pacific Coast

Washington, Oct. 1.—President Roosevelt expects to make an extended visit to the Pacific coast next year. The President has spoken of his intention to several of his friends, among them H. W. Scott of the Portland Oregonian and S. A. Perkins of the Tacoma Ledger. It is proposed that the President shall visit Washington and Oregon first, going from there to California and returning through the Central or Southern States. The President has never visited the Pacific slope.

THE FALL ASSIZES.

W. J. Morrison Recovers $250 From the C. G. E. Co.

In the case of Morrison vs. C.G.E. Co., which began on the opening day of the Assizes, the jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $250. Plaintiff claimed that a scaffold on which he had been ordered to work for the company was in a dangerous defective condition and the company, he alleges, had knowledge of that fact. Mr. Morrison now lives in Toronto and Toronto counsel were engaged on the case, viz: Denton, Dunn & Boultbee, solicitors for plaintiff; A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., and Smith, Rae & Greer, for defendants.

The Grand Jury brought in the following presentment:

To the Honorable Chief Justice Falconbridge:

May it please Your Worship,—We, the Grand Jurors, beg leave to present as follows:

We are pleased to note the absence of crime in this county, as shown by the fact that there is no criminal case for us to investigate, and we congratulate the county on the fact.

We examined the County Jail, and found everything in good order and well kept. There are two men confined in the jail to whose cases we wish to direct attention. One is a man suffering from paralysis, and the other a man seriously afflicted with St. Vitus Dance. These men are unable to support themselves owing to their afflictions, and we believe some provision should be made for them in some other place than the county jail, and there is also a young woman known as Bertha Freeburn now confined in the jail afflicted with fits and partial insanity, who should be removed to some institution better suited for one so afflicted.

We visited St. Joseph's Hospital and the House of Providence in Ashburnham, and were pleasantly surprised with the capacity of the new House of Providence, and the accommodation it affords for old and infirm persons. It and the Hospital are good institutions, and well kept by the Sisters in charge. Also visited the Nicholls Hospital in Peterborough, and found every evidence of careful management.

We would direct the attention of the County Council to necessary repairs to the Court House building.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY BEST,
Chairman.

The Hull larceny cases are carried over to the County Judge's Criminal Court.

The case of Dunlop vs. Perth Mutual Life Insurance Co. was in progress yesterday.

STEEL TRUST'S EARNINGS

New York, Oct. 1.—It was semi-officially stated today that the net earnings of the United States steel corporation for the past six months amounted to $54,604,000.

The Finance Committee of the Steel Corporation, which was in session in J. P. Morgan's office on Wednesday, considered the financial statement of the company preliminary to formulating its resolution on the dividend, which will be presented to the directors.

The resolution, which, it is understood, calls for a dividend on both classes of stocks, will be acted upon at the meeting on Tuesday. It is expected that a public statement to the stockholders will be made showing the earnings and expenses since the corporation was formed.

COFFEE FOR MOTHERS.

The Kind that Nourishes and Supplies Food for Mother and Child.

"My husband has been unable to drink coffee for several years, so we were very glad to give Postum Food Coffee a trial and when we understood that by long boiling it would bring out the delicious flavor, we have been highly pleased with it.

It is one of the finest things for nursing mothers that I ever saw. It keeps up the mother's strength and increases the supply of nourishment for the child if partaken of freely. I drank it between meals instead of water and found it most beneficial.

Our five year old boy has been very delicate since birth and had developed slowly. He was white and bloodless. I began to give him Postum freely and you would be surprised at the change. When any person remarks about the great improvement, we never fail to tell them that we attribute his gain in strength and general health, to the free use of Postum Food Coffee, and this has led many friends to use it for themselves and children.

I have always cautioned friends to whom I have spoken about Postum, to follow directions in making it, for unless it is boiled fifteen or twenty minutes, it is quite tasteless. On the other hand, when properly made, it is very delicious. I want to thank you for the benefits we have derived from the use of your Postum Coffee." Mrs. W. W. Barnett, 97 6th. Ave., Moline, Ill.

THE PEAT FUEL WORKS.

Visit of Leading Citizens to Balsam Lake Yesterday.

Through the kindness of Mr. A. L. Davis, of the Ontario Peat Fuel Company, a number of our leading citizens visited the works of the Ontario Peat Fuel Company, at Balsam Lake yesterday. A more delightful day for the outing could not have been had, and those who participated were more than pleased with their trip. The party took the regular train for Lindsay, where they were joined by a number of gentlemen from that town, and embarked on the steamer Manita, which was placed at the disposal of the party by Mr. Boyd, of the Trent Valley Navigation Company. The following gentlemen were on board:

Messrs. A. L. Davis, Jas. Kendry, M. P., W. H. Meldrum, F. J. Jameson, T. F. Attrill, R. M. Dennistoun, A. H. Stratton, Jas. Stevenson, ex-M.P., Rev. D. O. Crossley, Rev. J. C. Davidson, Thos. Main, Mayor Denne, Ven. Archdeacon Casey, Ald. Rush, Col. H. C. Rogers, W. H. Hill, Richard Hall, Dr. Gray, R. Innes, M. LeBrun, J. J. Lundy, A. G. Dickson, W. Bunton, R. B. McKee, C. Stanley, P. Campbell, W. D. Parker, R. C. McHarrie, E. B. Stone, J. M. Kilborn, A. A. Cox, T. M. Fortye, B. Winch, Adam Hall, H. C. Strickland, W. G. Ferguson, Geo. G. Morrow, T. F. Matthews, R. Belcher, J. E. Belcher, A. Elliott, John White, W. J. Thompson, Judge Weller, F. H. Dobbin, R. H. Wood, J. M. Brooks, Geo. Edmison, T. E. Bradburn, Adam Dawson, J. J. McBain, F. J. Bell, F. R. Yokome, W. H. Robertson, J. H. Brandon, Fenelon Falls, and the following gentlemen from Lindsay: J. D. Flavelle, Wm. Flavelle, Judge Dean, Fred C. Taylor, Rev. T. Mannis, and Dr. Bucke, Hamilton.

Messrs. Long Bros. very successfully catered to the party, who arrived at the Peat Works about two o'clock.

After viewing the splendid works of the Peat Company, which is destined to be one of the most successful enterprises of the age, the party re-embarked, and reached Lindsay in time to make connection with the train from Toronto.

On the way down from Fenelon Falls, Col. Rogers was voted to the chair, and Judge Weller, in a few words, returned the hearty thanks of the party to Mr. Davis for the splendid day's outing. Mr. John E. Belcher, in a well worded speech, seconded the remarks of Judge Weller.

Mr. Davis responded, giving a history of the peat works since its inception, which impressed those present with the great future which the industry had before it.

Speeches were also made by Mayor Denne, Rev. J. C. Davidson and others, which were only cut short by the arrival of the steamer at Lindsay.

At a future time the Times will endeavor to give its readers some idea of the work that is being done by the Peat Fuel Company, and the extent of its operations.

HOPE FOR THE BALD

Plaster Death Mask of Palmerston Grows Whiskers.

It is reported on unimpeachable authority that a plaster death mask of Lord Palmerston in the possession of Laurence Hutton, of Princeton, New Jersey, has grown whiskers. When the mask was placed in its present position, many years ago, the face was smooth, but now the jaws and chin have a stubby reddish beard, the hairs of which have increased in length within a few weeks. A professor of Princeton University ventures the opinion that when the cast was made some of the hairs adhered to the plaster, and remained hidden until the humid weather of this year softened the plaster and allowed them to force their way to the surface. The objection to this theory is the recent further growth of the whiskers. It is probable that the skin adhered to the plaster, and that contained hair bulbs, which have been brought to the sprouting condition by the hot and humid weather. In this is a hint for bald-headed persons. Since transplanted hair bulbs will sprout in plaster, they will flourish when grafted on a bald head. By scraping the surface of a hairy head and transplanting the scrapings to a bald head, the surface of which has been rubbed vigorously with a nutmeg grater or sandpaper, baldness may be cured. Thus the bald-headed man may choose what color of hair he likes for his crown. Some of the most valuable discoveries of science have been due to accident.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL.

A Series to be Given at George Street Methodist Church.

The first of a series of entertainments that will be given under the auspices of the Epworth League of George Street Methodist Church, took place Monday night in the school room of the church. The following program was rendered: Piano Duet, Misses Hurley; Vocal Solo, Miss Kendry; Solo, Miss Daisy Yenney; Reading, Miss Mark; Piano Solo, Miss Ida Sanderson; Quartette, Messrs. Thewlis, Maguire, Dodge and Turner; Reading, Miss A. White; Vocal Solo, Mr. J. A. MacDonald; Reading, Miss Curry; Piano Duet, Misses English; Vocal Solo, Mr. Parks.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments, consisting of dainty sandwiches in great variety, and coffee were served, and a pleasant half hour of social intercourse brought the entertainment to a close.

The League meeting next Monday evening will be withdrawn, to allow all to take part in the union meeting at Charlotte street church. The following week is the League Rally, when it is hoped all members will make a special effort to be in attendance.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Trainer, Peterborough, and Mrs. Crough.

At the advanced age of seventy-five years, Mrs. Mary Trainer, long a resident of Peterborough, passed away Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Miss Trainer, Rubidge St. The funeral will take place to-day from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. O'Leary, postmaster at King's Wharf, to Downeyville cemetery.

Death came very suddenly yesterday morning to Mary Sweeney, wife of Wm. Crough, lot 6, con. 6, Ennismore. Deceased had been in town as late as Saturday, and had subsequently complained of no serious illness. Heart failure was doubtless the cause of death. Mrs. Crough was only 27 years of age and was highly esteemed. The funeral will take place to-day to Ennismore cemetery.

Mud on the Streets

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I have a complaint to make through the columns of your excellent paper. The men who have the contracts of watering the streets, in order to save a second trip during the day, put so much water on the streets on the first round that they are turned into long stretches of mud.

Surely, Sir, this is not necessary. I am forced to clean my buggy and harness daily, owing to this filthy method.

I hope that it will not be necessary to refer to this matter again.

A LIVERYMAN.

A Pointer for Board of Trade

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I would suggest through the columns of the Times, Peterborough's brightest and most widely read newspaper, that the Board of Trade might devote its energies to better advantage if its members, instead of squabbling over power matters, would take up the matter of sinking a test well for coal oil and natural gas.

I have great faith in the theory that oil and gas exist here, and I am sure an effort should be made to find it.

I hope, Mr. Editor, you will continue to keep the matter before the public until a start is made.

VOX.

A Puzzle.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see you write contributions to the Times on all subjects. I enclose the following, which I clipped from a local paper:

Take the number of your living brothers, double the amount, add to it three, multiply the result by five, add to it the number of living sisters, multiply the result by 10, add the number of deaths of brothers and sisters, subtract 150 from the result. The right hand figure will be the number of deaths, the middle figure the number of living sisters, the left figure the number of living brothers.

Now here is a puzzle for you if you are anxious to tie your brains up into double bow knots.

A Reader.

Note—Of course, if you have'nt any brothers or sisters, you can't play.—Ed. Times.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No—Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Sir,—I gladly write a line to say that Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney and liver troubles of many years standing. I bought a box after trying hundreds of remedies, and felt so much improved that I continued using them—Isaak Richardson, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Dr Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

A LITTLE BOYS PURNS HIS MOTHER IN COURT

Resented Her Appeals For Affection and Beats Her Faca in an Effort to Get Away.

WHIPPED HIM TO PREVENT EXPOSING HER GUILT

New York, Oct. 2.—One of the most dramatic scenes ever witnessed in a court room was enacted yesterday in the Supreme Court, when Mrs. Adeline Oakes, wife of Millionaire Francis J. Oakes, who is suing her for an absolute divorce, knelt before her nine-year-old son, Paul Sullivan Oakes, begging him with tears to permit her to embrace him.

The little fellow resisted her vigorously. Twice he wriggled out of her encircling arms, and when she still persisted doubled up his little fists and tried to strike her.

The Oakeses were married in 1891 and separated last June. Mr. Oakes took the boy. Mrs. Oakes then sued out a writ of habeas corpus to regain the custody of her son, and the matter came up before Justice Andrews yesterday.

PUSHED HER AWAY.

Mr. Oakes and the boy Paul were first to arrive in court. They took seats in the rear of the room to await the arrival of the justice. Mrs. Oakes, tall, beautiful, elegantly clad, arrived a few minutes later. When she saw her son she gave an hysterical cry, rushed toward him, and attempted to take him in her arms. The little fellow pushed her away, and with a cry squirmed out of her reach. Mr. Oakes, who seemed very much embarrassed, rose from his seat, and crossed to the other side of the court room.

Then Mrs. Oakes, regardless of the curious stare of the spectators, took the seat vacated by her husband, and began to coax. "Paul, my darling Paul," she murmured, "won't you speak to your mother?"

"No, go away!" cried the boy.

The mother leaned over and placed an arm around her son endeavouring to draw him to her, and all the while addressing him caressingly.

"Come, my son, kiss your mother."

"Let me alone; get out!" roared the little fellow, kicking and struggling.

Then she sank to her knees crying hysterically, threw both arms around the boy, while she implored him to give her one kiss. The boy put his hands against her face and pushed her from him.

As she wouldn't let him go he doubled up his fists and struck at her.

Then he threw off her arms and ran to where his father was sitting.

The mother sank in a heap to the floor moaning. Her counsel, Mr. A. H. Hummel, raised her gently, and at that moment Justice Andrews, black-robed and impressive, entered the court room and ascended the bench.

WHY HE SPURNED HER.

Mr. Oakes set forth that the boy had no love or affection for his mother, and did not want to go with her. He charges his wife with misconduct with a dancing master, Delsol, and goes on: "On one occasion she absolutely stripped the child, put him to bed, and whipped him with a dog whip until she drew blood. The occasion of the whipping was, so the defendant has been informed by the maid, when the child looked through the keyhole in the door at the Hotel Cecil, London, England, where he saw the co-respondent named in this case. The child was compelled before the whipping ceased to say that it was not Mr. Delsol he saw through the keyhole."

He says his wife was a spendthrift and that once when he authorized her to spend $1,000 for jewelry, she spent $9,000. She also, against his wish while she was in Europe, he says bought a victoria and liveries, which she caused to be shipped to this country.

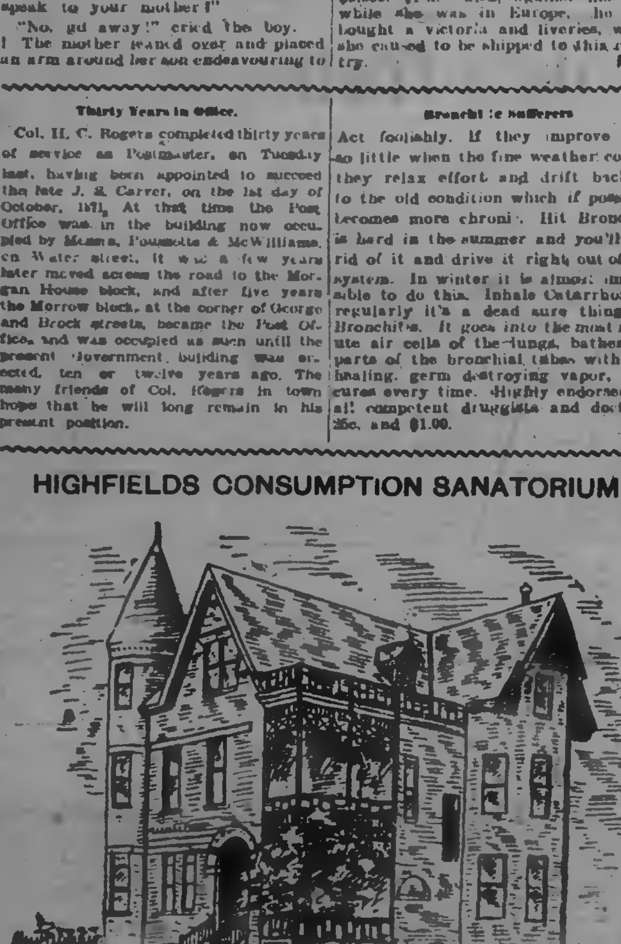
Thirty Years in Office.

Col. H. C. Rogers completed thirty years of service as Postmaster, on Tuesday last, having been appointed to succeed the late J. S. Carver, on the 1st day of October, 1871. At that time the Post Office was in the building now occupied by Messrs. Poussette & McWilliams, on Water street. It was a few years later moved across the road to the Morgan House block, and after five years the Morrow block, at the corner of George and Brock streets, became the Post Office, and was occupied as such until the present Government building was erected, ten or twelve years ago. The many friends of Col. Rogers in town hope that he will long remain in his present position.

Bronchitic Sufferers

Act foolishly. If they improve ever so little when the fine weather comes, they relax effort and drift back into the old condition which if possible, becomes more chronic. Hit Bronchitis hard in the summer and you'll get rid of it and drive it right out of the system. In winter it is almost impossible to do this. Inhale Catarrhozone regularly it's a dead sure thing on Bronchitis. It goes into the most minute air cells of the lungs, bathes all parts of the bronchial tubes with its healing, germ destroying vapor, and cures every time. Highly endorsed by all competent druggists and doctors. 25c. and $1.00.

HIGHFIELDS CONSUMPTION SANATORIUM



The above is an illustration of the southern aspect of Highfields Consumption Sanatorium, established for the special treatment of the more advanced cases and with a view of proving that the disease can be often cured in any stage. It is situated in a high northern suburb of Toronto, and overlooks, from its balconies, the city and lake. Those who have been most active in establishing it, besides a number of the leading city physicians, are Mr. Robert Darling, President of the Trustee Board, Lieut.-Col. James Manson, Treasurer, and Lieut.-Col. Henry M. Pellatt.

Besides a large staff of consulting physicians, specialists and others from amongst the leading practitioners of the city, Dr. Edward Playter, whose book on consumption has received the highest commendations from the leading medical journals of London (Eng.), New York, Chicago, Toronto, and other large cities, and who has given special attention to the treatment of this disease for forty years, is in constant attendance in the institution.

During the eighteen months since Highfields was opened for patients, many have been treated there, and with highly satisfactory results. Two cases especially are noticeable which other institutions would not take in because of being too far advanced and hopeless, and which are now practically cured; one being engaged in an occupation.

Bay windows and tower alcoves permit of beds being so placed in them that the patient's head, properly protected, is half encircled by three windows, always open. And patients, well wrapped, sit or lie on the balconies in the coldest, stormiest days.

Fresh air alone is not sufficient to arrest [illegible]. Advantages must be taken of every other remedy which modern medical progress has proved to be of use. Instead of treating the disease alone, the patient must be treated, each, specially, according to his constitution and particular condition from day to day.

At Highfields almost every meal of each patient is under medical supervision, the digestive and assimilative powers being weak and variable. Special long and deep breathing exercises are practised. These, too, are carefully adapted to each individual case to avoid the hemorrhages often caused by the deep breathing necessitated in high altitudes.

To still further obtain the fullest benefits from out-door oxygen there is an apparatus—a peculiarly constructed cylinder of glass, aluminum, and platinum, in which ozone for inhalation is generated by electric sparks. Oxygen and a variety of medicated inhalents are used, hot and cold, by means of a large, complicated inhaler, heated by gas. Much rest rather than exercise is enjoined; indeed most of the patients are not able to take exercise. Cod liver oil and creosote are used chiefly externally by inunction, few advanced cases being able to take them inwardly.

Contributions will not be solicited but any received will be devoted to providing more beds and treating patients not able to pay much, but who are too sensitive to become objects of charity as "city patients," of whom there are many.

For this season, and the fact that some patients have been taken in as low as $4.50 a week, the management claim there is no more useful or important charity for its size in existence.

The terms are, therefore, strictly professional, as in any general or public hospital. Patients have been often taken in almost without question, and terms arranged after, in order not to lose time in treatment.

For single-bed or private rooms the terms are as in other hospitals.

McKINLEY WAS AN OPAGRTUNIST

Goldwin Smith Estimate of the Deceased President's Character

WAS NOT THE SAME AS LINCOLN

Goldwin Smith, writing in the Weekly Sun, gives the following estimate of the late President McKinley's character:—

The tragedy of President McKinley's death, filling all hearts with pity and sorrow, at the time forbade criticism of his character and career. He now stands fairly before the tribunal of history. That his private character was spotless need not be said. Personally he was amiable and popular in a high degree. Nor need it be denied that his intentions were fair. Here eulogy must pause. Comparison with Abraham Lincoln is absurd. Lincoln studied popular sentiment, the sentiment of what he called the plain people, and with singular success. But he did not shift his principles to suit the market. He only took care in giving them effect, to watch the current of opinion and act when he could feel that it was on his side. The policy which he embraced at the outset he pursued to the end. The late President was an opportunist, a trimmer, as he would once have been called. When Silver seemed the winning card, to Silver he inclined. When Gold prevailed, he was for Gold. When Protection was in the ascendant, he pandered to it by framing the most illiberal of Protectionist tariffs. At last, seeing that Protection was losing hold, he began to slide over to Free Trade. It seemed certain that in his conscience he was opposed to war with Spain. Yet, yielding to prejudice, he went into it without the shadow of a cause, and lent himself to the expedient of firing the popular heart by countenancing the charge against the Spanish authorities of blowing up the Maine, in which it is impossible to imagine that he could believe. He solemnly abjured annexation of territory; yet he annexed, and went about saying that Duty had taking the hand of destiny. On the Porto Rican tariff question he also abandoned his position. Lincoln did his own thinking, with little influence from without; McKinley was believed to be greatly under the influence of a party manager, not the most scrupulous of the tribe. If ever the honor of the country appealed for vindication to its chief, the honor of the American Republic appealed to the President for vindication in the case of the lynchings; yet there was no answer to the appeal. Mr. McKinley was no doubt personally incorrupt. But he was not unwilling, for a party purpose, to lend his countenance to the barefaced corruption by which Mr. Addicks has been trying to capture a Senatorship in Delaware. Mr. McKinley's popularity of late was largely sustained by the national prosperity, with the production of which he had nothing to do; which, on the contrary, would have been greater still had it not been for his tariff policy. The best plea, perhaps, for him is that he was nominated for the Presidency, not as a great statesman, but as an availability, and that an availability cannot be expected to do what is done by a great statesman.

ONTARIO FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The Report of the Superintendent now Issued and Gives Valuable Information

The report of the Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes for Ontario is always of a valuable and interesting character on account of the amount of practical information embodied in the papers and discussion presented. The report for last year has just been received and affords an idea of the varied and extensive operations undertaken by the Department, and the advantages of the system as a means of improving the standard of agriculture.

Among the important alterations made in the methods of work is the transference of the lecture system hitherto carried on by the Horticultural Societies to the Farmers' Institutes, with marked results for the better. An excellent plan for disseminating a knowledge of advanced horticultural methods has been adopted by many of the local Institutes in holding their annual meetings at the Fruit Experiment Stations, where demonstrations in budding, grafting, pruning, etc. are given by specialists.

A great deal of consideration has been given to the subject of poultry, special poultry meetings being held. Addresses by such prominent experts as R. Graham, Prof. A. G. Gilbert and G. R. Cottrell, have been given, setting forth the most approved methods of killing, dressing and preparing fowls for market.

The management manifested a good deal of interest in the success of the Winter Fair and endeavored to secure the attendance of Institute members, with such success that 34 Institutes were represented by 152 members. On that occasion a special program was arranged for Institute workers, addresses being delivered by Hon. John Dryden, Dr. James Mills, Prof. I. P. Roberts, F. W. Hodson, Profs. Day, Dean, Reynolds, Zavitz and Graham of the Agricultural College, and others.

There has been a remarkable increase in the number of Women's Institutes, for which a special report is now published. The number now organized is 34, some having one hundred members.

As in previous years the Institute have been interested in getting up excursions to the Agricultural College, which was visited by many thousands of farmers.

Seed Fairs, held annually in March, have been organized in connection with several Institutes, to which the farmers bring seed grain for prize competition, as well as for the purpose of sale and exchange.

The subject of Cold Storage—the importance of which is everywhere appreciated—received much attention at the meetings. During the meeting of the Experimental Union the cold storage plant at the Agricultural College was utilized to exhibit the process of refrigeration, for the benefit of the delegates.

An important step was taken by the Canadian Association of Fairs and Exhibitions by appointing Superintendent Creelman, assistant secretary and editor for the organization.

The report indicates steady progress and highly satisfactory conditions, and more recent information shows that the membership of the Institutes has increased from 18,565 at the end of June 1900 to 20,887 the end of June this year.

BOER RAIDERS LOST HEAVILY

But Their Strength Does Not Appear Seriously Affected

BRITISH CONVOY WAS TAKEN

London, Oct. 2.—The following despatch from Lord Kitchener has been received by the War Office:—

"Since September 23, 27 Boers have been killed, 24 wounded, 274 prisoners have been taken, and 48 have surrendered. In addition to the above, the prisoners taken by the Boers in the attack on Fort Itala, Zululand, on September 26, and since released, state that they saw 60 Boers buried in the enemy's laager."

These returns bring the total number of Boers surrendered, wounded, and killed during the past month to about 2,000. Thus the Boer force, estimated in July by General Kitchener at 13,500, has been reduced by 5,000, according to the returns. It is obvious, however, that the force of burghers, small as it is, is sufficiently powerful to maintain an effective resistance in Cape Colony, and make a formidable demonstration on the borders of Zululand.

BRITISH CONVOY CAPTURED.

London, Oct. 2.—The Boers surrounded and captured a British convoy, which was leaving Melmouth, Zululand, on September 29, in charge of a small detachment of native police, most of whom were killed in defending the wagons.

A Pretoria despatch to The Times says that recently a party of forty Boers belonging to Botha's column raided Zululand, and carried off a number of the natives' cattle. The raiders then offered to return the cattle if the natives would promise not to defend the Zululand border against the Boers. This the native chief would not consent to, replying that he would remain true to his King, referring to King Edward.

The same correspondent says that Botha's move on the Zululand border was very clever and enabled him to strike a point a long distance from any railway. His only alternatives now, however, are an invasion of Zululand or a rapid retreat along the frontier.

STILL EXPECT INTERVENTION.

London, Oct. 2.—A sharp fight has taken place near Kierksdorp between about forty men of the Imperial Bushmen (Australians), and the 18th Hussars, and about three hundred Boers. The horses stampeded when the post was surrounded and galloped away.

Some of our men were taken prisoners, but were released after the usual stripping. The officer in charge of the Boers informed the released prisoners that they would soon be relieved from active service, as France and Germany had arranged to take over South Africa, restore peace and prosperity and remove the British element from the land.

London, Oct. 2.—Lord Kitchener today reports that two officers and 31 men have been killed in an attack made on Col. Kekewich's camp at Moedwill. The Boers, who were under Commandants Delarey and Kemp, had 11 officers and 114 men wounded after two hours' night fighting, when the Boers were driven off. Col. Kekewich was among the wounded.

MR. KING'S HORSES.

The Great Kansas Stock Man to Return Home for the Winter.

A letter received from Mr. John King, the great Kansas stock man, whose horses have become so well known throughout Ontario during the past year, intimates that he will not import any more of his stock into Canada for the present. He will return to his home in the south for the winter.

This will be a disappointment to many in this district, who were looking forward to securing some of Mr. King's horses. Those who purchased these animals have been, in nearly every instance well satisfied. Of course there is an occasional case where a man who knows little or nothing about handling young unbroken horses, has had trouble; but as a rule Mr. King's horses are kind, gentle, and easily broken. They make the best kind of driving animals, being tough and hardy.

It is to be hoped that Mr. King may yet change his mind, and continue his importations during the fall and winter, when farmers and stockmen generally have time to attend the sales as well as money in their pockets.

Mr. King enjoys a well-earned reputation for fair dealing that has made him very popular. He never tries to mislead or to take advantage, but conducts his sales on strictly honorable business principles.

SPAT IN ENEMY'S FACE.

The Insult Provokes a Murder in Southern Missouri.

Mountain Grove, Mo., Oct. 1.—R. A. Woody of Birch Tree, Mo., shot and instantly killed Ed Depriest, whose home was in Eminence, Mo. Both men were on the excursion train going to Springfield, and as the train was pulling up to the depot here yesterday morning the shooting occurred. From what could be learned bad feeling has existed between the two for some years. About Sept. 18, 1897, Depriest killed a brother of Woody at Eminence, for which he was sentenced to the penitentiary for ten years, but he did not serve much of his sentence, securing a pardon from Governor Stephens.

From witnesses it seems that Woody tried to avoid any trouble and left the car, but Depriest followed and spat in his face, at the same time throwing his hand on his hip pocket.

Woody supposed that he was after his revolver, and, drawing his pistol, fired, the ball striking Depriest in the left temple and lodging over the right ear, causing instant death. Public sympathy is with Woody, as Depriest was considered a dangerous man of an overbearing disposition, while Woody was a man who never had any trouble with his neighbors or anyone.

THE REALM OF SPORT

RUGBY.

The Rugby match on Saturday with St. Mary's will be called off, St. Mary's having defaulted. The home team will play Ottawa on the 12th.

LACROSSE.

Stratford and Port Hope play at Port Hope on Friday. A large crowd of sports from Peterborough will take place in the games.

Football Player Killed.

Ludlow, Mass., Oct. 1.—Zefirent Bruchu, 21 years old, played in a football game between the Ludlow and Holyoke teams Saturday. He was kicked in the head and received injuries which proved fatal. Claims were made that he was kicked purposely by one of the players, and the matter was placed in the hands of Medical Commissioner Breck for investigation. His body was taken yesterday to his home in Holyoke, where the funeral services will be held. Bruchu was to be married next month.

The Granites' Request.

Kingston, Oct. 2.—Manager McCammon has notified Secretary McMurrich of the O.H.A. that the Granites have found time to play at Ottawa on Saturday.

THE ONTARIO ELECTIONS.

LIST OF CANDIDATES NOMINATED UP TO DATE

Many Ridings Equipped and Ready for the Conflict The Elections not Far Off.

Toronto, Oct 3.—The elections for the Ontario Legislature may or may not take place till after another session. If sooner, they will probably be brought on in November or December. The whole thing seems to rest with the chances which Mr. Ross will have of increasing his following in the house by creating new constituencies in New Ontario. It is exceedingly doubtful whether the government has anything to gain by a reconstruction of the constituencies. If Mr. Ross is brought to think this way, then look out for the storm, which may break at any moment. The following are the nominations to date, the name of the Conservatives Candidate being first in each case, and the Liberal second:

Obituary.

Lindsay Post: Friends in town and district, and in Peterborough, his old home, will learn with regret of the death of William Morgan, office clerk at the Simpson House. The deceased, who had made his home with his cousin, Mr. W. H. Simpson, for a number of years, had been in poor health for a long time, and on two occasions was not expected to recover, but each time his indomitable will pulled him through the crisis. The body was taken to Peterborough this morning for interment, Rev. Mr. Marsh conducting a short service at the hotel previous to departure. Messrs. Geo. and Arthur Simpson and Mrs. W. H. Simpson accompanied the body to Peterborough.

RAN FULL SPEED UP THE SLOPE

Thrilling Escape of Rope Rider from Extension Coal Mine.

NAMES OF THE 17 KILLED

Victoria, Oct. 2.—The following are the names of the seventeen miners who were smothered in the Extension coal mine fire, which was caused by an explosion: Geo. Southcomb, timberman, married, family, resided at Ladysmith, 26 years of age, a native of Australia. Eugene Griffiths, timberman, married, aged 42, resided at Ladysmith, Welshman, manager of the Ladysmith baseball club. John Patterson, miner, married, with family, aged 42, Ladysmith. Jas. Watson, miner, 50, married, family, resided at Ladysmith. Michael Dolan, miner, aged 25, married, with family, resided at Ladysmith. William Pollock, miner, aged 27, single, resided at Extension. Lind, miner, aged 35, a Russian Finn, newly married, resided at Extension. J. McCallum, miner, married, family, resided at Extension. R. Blakely, miner, aged 23, single, lived with McCallum. E. Hazel, miner, single, a native of Idaho. Frank Millishaw, pusher, single, came from Nanaimo. Chas. Noye, pusher, married, resided at Ladysmith. Boyd, pusher, of Nova Scotia, resided at Extension. Hamilton, pusher, single, just out from Scotland. It was his first day's work, resided at Extension. Antonio Pearcetelli, pusher, single, native Brescia, Italy, resided at Extension.

The breaking of the news at Ladysmith was accompanied by sad scenes. Many of the families are left destitute. The miners who perished ran with the fresh air instead of against it, attempting to come out as the custom was, thus meeting death half way. While the rescuers were searching for the lost miners the mine exploded, blocking the rescue party. After this explosions went on at regular intervals all the afternoon and evening.

The escape of James Thomas, rope rider, was most thrilling. He rides with the trips, and was going down when he saw the fire down the slope. As he sprang off the car and turned to run, Geo. Southcomb and Eugene Griffith, two timbermen who were working close to where the fire broke out, called to him to come with them but Thomas ran full speed up the slope, which is a thousand feet from the level to the mouth, and barely escaped with his life by fleetness of foot. Southcomb and Griffiths were overtaken by smoke and flames, and perished as they ran.

While the rescuers were at work several explosions occurred. When it was realized that the men could not be saved, a strong force started to choke the mine, but their work was undone by a terrific explosion which blew down the barricade. A little later the fan house was burned. Hundreds of men will be thrown out of work.

BOER DEFEAT CONFIRMED

London, Oct. 2nd.

The Boer repulse at Naedwile occurred Sept. 30th. The Boers are reported to have been 1,000 strong. Lord Kitchener in his despatch says the British repelled the attack with great vigor. After the close of the fighting, Col. Kekewich was slightly wounded in two places. He says that all the ranks behaved extremely well. The wounded were taken to Rustenberg, half-way between Pretoria and Mafeking.

Lord Kitchener confirms the heavy losses of the Boers—about 250 killed and 300 wounded during the attack on the forts at Itala. There is a prospect, he says, of the guns recently captured at Wakfontein being recovered from the Boers.

Peterborough Protestant Home

The committee of management of the P. P. Home gratefully acknowledge the following donations for the month of September: Mrs. James Ferguson, bag of apples; Mrs. J. B. McWilliams, basket of plums; Mrs. Dr. Burnham, Toronto papers; Mrs. J. H. Bell, milk; St. Luke's church, fruit and vegetables; Murray street Baptist church, cake.

DISGRAÇEFUL VANDALISM.

The Flower Beds in Victoria Park Destroyed and Plants Stolen.

The school children swept down upon Victoria Park yesterday, and destroyed the flowers, tramping them under foot and pulling them out by the roots.

From what the Times can learn it appears that after Mr. Blade had removed his flowers early yesterday morning, some of the children got it into their heads that everything of value had been removed, and at noon they proceeded to tear up what were left. They were soon joined by scores of others, who did not stop until the work of destruction was complete.

It is too bad that such a thing should happen. The loss to Messrs. Jordan Bros. and to Mr. F. Mason, will be considerable, as they had some valuable plants and flowers in the park, which they were preparing to remove.

It is hoped that the children, who have any of the plants, will return them at once, as criminal proceedings will be instituted.

Since writing the above we learn that it was not only children who were the vandals, but grown people and teachers took a hand in and helped themselves.

JOSEPH SIFTON CARRIED AN AXE

Witnesses Saw the Deceased at Barn Before Tragedy.

EVIDENCE FOR DEFENCE ENDED

London, Oct. 2.—The defence in the Sifton case continued to bring up their heavy artillery yesterday afternoon, as the battle for Gerald Sifton's life neared its end. Their most important witness was Dr. Irving Cameron of Toronto, who gave expert evidence that could not have been more favorable to the defence. He said, in opening, that he was surgeon to five Toronto hospitals and professor of surgery at Toronto University. When he was asked for his opinion, he said:

"The skull and Herbert do not tell the same story. They are not only inconsistent, but are very contradictory. The theory of a fall is quite compatible with the condition of the skull, providing that there were two points of impact." He gave as a reason for the existence of the abrasions found behind the ears of the deceased that they could easily have been caused by the thumb and finger of the surgeon who attended Mr. Sifton when he was dying. The bruise on the neck he attributed to a rupture of the muscles, which was quite common in a fall. There was no evidence of the blood which one would expect to find in the barn if Herbert's story was true. The indications were that the injury which produced the bleeding had occurred outside.

Again, said the witness, if the man had been struck several times with the axe on the head while the body was in a recumbent position with the face down, as related by Herbert, he would expect to find bruises on the nose and mouth. If the body had lain in the position described by Herbert, hay and chaff would have been found in the dying man's hair and the boggy mass on top of the head, Dr. Cameron believed to be due to an effusion of blood under the scalp.

On cross-examination, he said that he quarrelled with the whole story of Herbert, which, he said, was ridiculous, in view of the injuries found on the skull.

Dr. Bertram Spencer of Toronto said that the wounds shown were quite consistent with the fall theory.

The trial is almost at an end. When the court rose at 1 o'clock this afternoon the defence had but two brief witnesses to call. There will be a short rebuttal offered, and then the address to the jury. The defence has been a very short one. Aside from the medical evidence, the defence have offered practically little.

The hired boy Rogers was called this morning to refute the statement of Herbert that it was in the cow stable the proposal to assist in the killing of Joseph Sifton was made by the prisoner. In cross-examination the witness said there might have been half-a-dozen conversations and he would not have heard them. He was positive he had not seen Gerald Sifton choke his wife in the butter cellar the night before the tragedy.

Mrs. Sifton was very positive her husband had not spoken to Herbert beyond calling to him on the morning of the tragedy. She was equally sure he had made no threats concerning his father to Mrs. McFarlane, as the latter had sworn. The cross-examination of the witness lasted only 15 minutes.

A butcher named Smith testified to having carried sheepskins wet with blood through the trapdoor in the Sifton barn.

A farm laborer named Leslie denied that he had told Herbert there was going to be trouble over the affair.

Mr. J. F. Hellmuth, one of the counsel for the accused, related a positive denial that Herbert had made of a confession which appeared in the Free Press at the time of the arrest, which Herbert was alleged to have made to High Constable McLeod.

Ernest [illegible] said that on the Sifton in his own house with an axe in his hand. Later he heard pounding at the barn, and looking around he saw deceased standing on a hay rack near the barn.

Chas. Going was up on the road at the same time as the previous witness, and saw the deceased going to his barn with an axe upon his shoulders.

THE FALL ASSIZES.

The Case of Scriver vs. Richardson Concluded Yesterday.

The case of Dunlop vs. the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Company was concluded Monday, but judgment was reserved. His Lordship, Mr. Justice Falconbridge, in this action took the case from the jury, holding that points of law were involved. D. W. Dumble and O. Laplante for plaintiff. Mabee, K.C., Stratford, for defendant.

The case of Fitzgerald vs. Fitzgerald was then taken up, but as it is a non-jury case, an adjournment of it was made until the jury list was completed.

Yesterday the seduction case of Scriver vs. Richardson occupied the attention of the court. The parties come from near Hastings. E. C. S. Huycke and L. Fred Clery for plaintiff. Geo. J. Sherry for defendant.

The case of Fitzgerald vs. Fitzgerald will come next.

An Interesting Lecture.

A number of Christian Scientists from town drove out to Bobcaygeon on Monday to attend the lecture delivered in the Town Hall in that village by Rev. Arthur Vosburgh of Rochester, N.Y., a member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Mass. The visitors were well pleased with the lecture. The Town Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, the platform as well as the aisles being filled and it is said many had to be turned away.

Young's Point.

Messrs. Frank and P. Young are taking in the Pan-American.

Messrs. Frank Walsh and Robert Young are at the Fair at Buffalo this week.

The weather has been delightful of late, more like summer than autumn.

The work is still going on at the power house, and large numbers of men are employed. Mr. R. Baptie is the foreman, and deserves credit for the manner in which the work is progressing.

"One Foot in the Grave."—If the thousands of people who rush to so worthy a remedy as South American Nervine as a last resort would get it as a first resort, how much misery and suffering would be spared. If you have any nerve disorder you needn't suffer a minute longer. A thousand testimonies to prove it.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 3 1901

WILL JOHN BULL LEARN?

An accident has occurred which may possibly have the effect of giving the British War Office a big push in the way of inter-imperial trade. So far the war office has not shown itself particularly concerned to purchase supplies within the Empire rather than from foreign producers. There was a regulation about beef issued a while ago, but nothing has happened since to show that that regulation was not intended to give a monopoly to the British Isles alone, to the exclusion of the Greater Britain beyond the seas that Greater Britain beyond the seas that is ready and willing to do its part. With that exception the War Office has not only done its buying in the cheapest market, but in the most well-worn channels, it has not troubled to send orders to "the Colonies" even when it could get just as good offers there as elsewhere.

The War Office is now on the point of discovery that it is buying Canadian grain this season through American dealers, with New York shipment charges and at American prices. The deal is not a bad one for the Canadians, and is due to fact that the American crop is very short; but it is annoying, and contrary to every doctrine of political economy, to see Great Britain helping to build up a foreign trade route when it might just as well be buying from a colony which may some day be its chief source of supply in time of trouble. It takes a concrete instance to bring an idea home to an Englishman. Probably when he realized that he is buying Canadian grain through American agents John Bull may begin to think of the advisability of doing business without external intermediaries.

For years the Ontario papers, irrespective of party, have alluded to Toronto as Hogtown. In a squabble between the members of the civic reception committee the other day as to the streets on which the royal procession should pass, one of its members, Dr. Noble, accused the people of the West End of being hogs and of earning the name of Hogtown for Toronto. To be a hog is bad enough, to be a hog and know it is awful. Toronto is drifting away from all sense of shame and decency.

At last the finish of the Boer is in sight. Lord Kitchener has issued an order that mobile columns in pursuit of the elusive Boer must not carry "furniture, kitchen ranges, pianos and harmoniums, which nullify, that object." Glory be! One of these days the public will begin to understand why those giddy flying columns don't catch Boer commandoes whose forage is underfoot and whose week's ration of biltong is in the off wallet.

DOURO COUNCIL.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. All the members present. The Reeve in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The Reeve and Councillor Condon were instructed to inspect of road between con. 1 and 2 in front of lots 22 and 23, with a view of obtaining a right of way if passable and report at next meeting of the Council.

Councillor Sullivan was appointed a commissioner to build a culvert on line of road between con. 3 and 4 in front of lots 8.

Councillors Sullivan and Allen were appointed commissioners to have stones placed on road between con. 1 and 2 in front of lots 6.

The Collector submitted the following named persons as his bondsmen as collector of taxes for the current year, which were accepted: P. Ryan, Daniel Maloney, William Condon, Michael Ryan and Thomas Sullivan.

Communications received that a special meeting of the County Council would be held at a day to be named by the Warden to consider the best mode of expending the County share of the Government grant for the improvement of public highways and asking the Municipality to appoint representatives to attend said meeting. The Reeve and Councillor Curtis were instructed to attend on behalf of the Municipality of Douro.

Bylaws passed levying the following rates: County rate, 1 9-25 mills on the dollar; Township rate, 1 1-4 mills; G. S. rate 1.75 mills; School rates, S. S. No. 1, 1-65 mills; No. 2, 1 1-4 mills; No. 4, 1-10 mills; No. 5, 1 9-10 mills; No. 6, 1 2-4 mills; No. 7, 3 1-7 mills; No. 8, 1.62 mills; No. 9, 1 3-4 mills; No. 10, 4 3-4 mills; No. 11, 1 1-2 mills. No. 11, deb. rates, 2 mills. Drainage rate on petitions re Buckley's lake 3 in the dollar. It will be noticed by the above rates that the County rate for this year is 1-20th of a mill greater than last year, and the Township rate 1-4 of a mill less.

Orders on Treasurer: John Anderson, for gravel, 90 cts; Patrick Healy, $1.16; Daniel Sheehan, $4.57; Richard Kavanagh, $2.00.

Councillor Allen was appointed a commissioner to build a culvert between con. 4 and 5.

Council adjourned to Nov. 18th, next.

When Baby Cries at Night

there is a cause for it. Perhaps it is gas on the stomach, may be cramps or diarrhoea. Don't lose sleep, anticipate contingencies by always keeping handy a bottle of Polson's Nerviline. Just a few drops in water given inwardly, then, rub the little one's stomach with a small quantity of Nerviline, and perfect rest is assured for the night for both mother and baby. You may not need Nerviline often, but when you do need it you need it badly. Get a 25c. bottle to-day.

JUSTICE CAME LATE

BY COUNT LEO TOLSTOI.

In the city of Wladimir there lived many years ago a young merchant, Iwan Dmitriewitsch Askenow. He owned two stores and a comfortable residence.

Askenow was a fine looking, blond young man. His head was crowned with a wealth of curly hair. He was a witty fellow, always cheerful and singing popular ditties. Before his marriage to pretty Marie Kolonas he would at times indulge in too much intoxicants. On such occasions he was exceedingly quarrelsome, which once led to his arrest.

One day during the second summer after the marriage, Askenow had to go to the kermis in Nischnei. On the eve of departure his wife said to him:

"Iwan, do not go to Nischnei, I had a terrible dream about you."

"You are always afraid," laughed Iwan, "perhaps you think I'll run away with some good looking girl."

"I don't know why I am afraid, except on account of the bad dream, which haunts me continually. I dreamed that when you returned from Nischnei and took off your cap your hair was as white as snow."

Askenow laughed again. "That means good luck. You will see I will sell all I take along and then you will be surprised with the fine presents I will bring home."

Askenow bade his wife an affectionate adieu and departed for Nischnei. About half way to town he met an old acquaintance and they took lodgings in the same inn. They drank their tea together and were assigned two adjoining bedrooms.

Askenow was always an early riser. As soon as the day began to dawn he awakened his coachman and ordered him to take advantage of the cool of the early morning and start toward Nischnei. After paying the host he departed.

On that day he traveled about thirty miles farther. When he arrived at another inn, where he ordered a samovar. He seated himself under the shade of a large tree and began to play on his guitar. He had hardly finished the Russian national hymn, when a vehicle drawn by three horses rushed up to the inn. It contained an official and two soldiers. The official at once addressed Askenow and began to question him as to who he was and where he came from. Askenow answered all questions in an honest offhand way and then invited the official to take tea with him. The official, instead of heeding the invitation, continued his inquiries. "Where did you spend the night, alone or with another merchant? Did you see your friend this morning? Why did you leave so early?" These were some of the questions heaped on poor Askenow.

"Why do you worry me with these questions?" he asked. "I am neither a thief nor a criminal. I am an honest man attending strictly to my own business."

The official thereupon commanded the soldiers to search the packages and trunks of the merchant. From one of the trunks the soldiers produced a large knife besmeared with blood. "Whose is this?" asked the official.

Askenow looked in astonishment at the proceedings and when the knife, red with blood, was held up by the soldier, he appeared too confused to be able to speak.

"This knife"—he stammered. "It is not mine—I don't understand—I don't know."

The police official interrupted him. "This morning your friend, the merchant—was found murdered in his room. None but you could have committed this crime. The house was thoroughly bolted. And here is the tell-tale knife found in your trunk. But I see your face betrays you. Tell the truth, how much have you taken from him?"

Askenow now fully realized the situation. He protested his innocence. He showed that he only carried with him the eight thousand roubles, which belonged to him, that the knife was not his. His voice, however, trembled as he spoke and the official seemed obdurate.

"Put him in irons," he commanded, "and place him in our carrosse."

Askenow's money and merchandise were taken from him and he was taken to prison. Then the authorities began to make inquiries regarding his past. It was found that during his drunken carousals before his marriage he had been engaged in many a fight, but that of late his conduct had been exemplary. Justice in Russia is swift. As no one had seen him commit the murder, but as circumstances were against him he was quickly condemned to spend the remainder of his life in the prisons of Siberia at hard labor in the mines.

Askenow's wife was prostrated with grief when she heard of her husband's fate. With her baby boy she went to the jail where her husband was confined and besought him to tell her the truth.

"I am convinced," she said, "that you are not capable of committing such an awful crime, but were you implicated perhaps in some innocent way?"

"How can you think that I had anything to do with this," he replied.

"What is to be done?" asked the wife in despair.

"We must send a petition to the Czar," said Askenow. "He will not permit an innocent man to suffer."

"But your sentence will begin in two weeks and we will not have time to receive a reply, perhaps."

At the thought of separation, both husband and wife burst into tears. Then the good wife brushed her fingers through the curly hair of her husband, and told him not to despair, that she would send a petition that very day to St. Petersburg.

It was, however, the last meeting between husband and wife before his departure for Siberia, for he was sent along with a number of convicts that very week, even before he was given the opportunity to kiss his wife and baby good bye.

For twenty-six long years Askenow worked in the mines of Siberia. His hair grew white as snow and his small beard long and gray. His cheerful nature had vanished. His shoulders were bent. He kept mostly to himself, spoke little and prayed much.

Askenow was very much beloved by the prison officials on account of his amiable and quiet ways. His fellow prisoners called him "Little Father" and "Man of God." Whenever a grievance was to be presented to the authorities Askenow was their spokesman, and he was the mediator in their disputes.

The strict rule of keeping all correspondence from the prisoners was also observed in his case, so that he learned

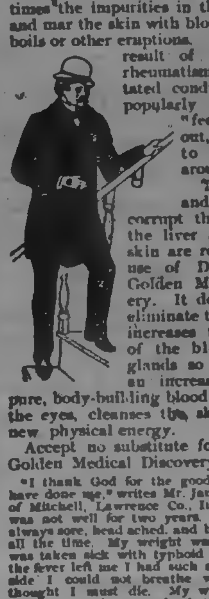
BAD BLOOD

Reveals itself in many ways. Sometimes the impurities in the blood mark and mar the skin with blotches, pimples, boils or other eruptions. Sometimes the result of bad blood is rheumatism or a debilitated condition which is popularly described as "feeling played out, hardly able to drag myself around."



The impurities and poisons which corrupt the blood, clog the liver and cloud the skin are removed by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does more than eliminate the poisons; it increases the activity of the blood-making glands so that there is an increased supply of pure, body-building blood. It brightens the eyes, cleanses the skin, and gives new physical energy.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

"I thank God for the good your medicines have done me," writes Mr. James M. Sizemore, of Mitchell, Lawrence Co., Ind., Box 301. "I was not well for two years. My throat was always sore, head ached, and back ached nearly all the time. My weight was 135 pounds. I was taken sick with typhoid fever, and when the fever left me I had such a pain in my left side I could not breathe without pain. I thought I must die. My wife went to the drug store and procured a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and a vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I discontinued the use of my doctor's medicine and began with the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets.' I at once began to feel better; the pain soon left my side and I could breathe with ease. In a week or so I felt so good I could not stay in the room. I began to walk about the streets; I felt better each morning. After a month's use of the medicine I was well. That was over a year ago. Now I weigh 184 pounds and feel better than ever in my life."

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

Ornithological Contest

Something entirely new and interesting. Read what you are to do. You may get $1,000. Our contest is to see who can make the largest list of names (or kinds) of birds from the following list of letters:

W D O O O C C K Q U L I A P R T
A K I D G E S P N I E L V E B
R D I M W A D O H T L

We will recognize as a bird anything belonging to the feathered tribe, whether it be a Hen, Crow, Singer or any other kind. You can use any letter as many times to make a name as it appears in the list of letters above; for instance Woodcock, Plover, Snow Bird, etc. To any persons who can make a list of 25 or more different names of birds, we will give, absolutely FREE a beautiful Prize valued $1,000 or less.

BIG PRIZES AWARDED DAILY.

When you have made out your list fill out the line on the bottom of this advt. and send to us with a Stamped, Addressed envelope, stamp of your country will do, then if you are awarded a prize you can if you desire get the prize by becoming a subscriber to THE WOMAN'S WORLD. We shall award a prize to every person who sends the name of 25 birds and our gifts will be as follows: For the best list, received each day, a Gold Watch; for the second best solution each day a beautiful Imported Tea Set; for the seven next best solutions each day, a Kourah Sahib Diamond and Ruby Ring; for the next best solution, a Gold Piece; and for all other correct solutions, Prizes of Good Value. These Prizes will be forwarded daily, you will not have to wait a long time in uncertainty before you know the result. There is no element of lottery in our plan, it makes no difference whether we get your solution late or early in the day. All you need is to mail this Advt. to us, and on the day it reaches us, if your list is the best, YOU SHALL HAVE THE GOLD WATCH or if second best the beautiful Tea Set, and so on. We guarantee that we will award you a prize. There is absolutely no opportunity for deception on our part—we cannot afford it. We want to get 1,000,000 well satisfied subscribers, and for that reason we don't want you to send any money until you know exactly what prize you have gained by answering the puzzle. As soon after 4 p.m. each day as possible, the examiners will judge the lists to the best of their ability, and will designate the prizes. We will write to you at once notifying you what prize has been awarded you, then if you are satisfied, you can send your subscription to THE WOMAN'S WORLD and your prize will go by return of mail carriage paid. To a person of narrow ideas it seems impossible that we should be able to make such a gigantic order, but we have the money, brains, and reputation, we know exactly what we are doing, and if we can legitimately gain a million subscribers by this grand idea we know that this million of well pleased subscribers can be induced to recommend The Woman's World to all friends, thereby building up our circulation still further. We are willing to spend $25,000 in this contest in building up a big subscription list, and when this money is spent we reserve the right to publish a notification that the contest has been discontinued. Don't delay until it is too late. The contest will continue until Jan. 1902.

We give A Bonus Prize of $250 independent of all others to the person who sends in the list gotten up in the best and handsomest manner. Our Committee will decide and award prizes daily, but the special $250 prize will be awarded in March 1902. Any bird's name found in the dictionaries accepted.

BOTHA ON BULLER

London, Oct. 2.—A correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, who lately met Commandant Edwards, the chief of General Botha's staff in the Natal campaign, has obtained from him an account of the battles of Colenso and Spion Kop. On several points the narrative modifies the generally accepted views of these battles, and coming from so prominent an officer it may be regarded as a semi-official piece of history from the Boer side. Commandant Edwards is a prisoner on parole, and is described as "a light, spare man, of anxious expression of face, shrewd eyes, and of deferential manners."

THE BATTLE OF COLENSO

For several days before the battle, expecting that at any moment General Buller would attack, we were subjected to a very heavy fire of lyddite and other shell from Chieveley, which, however, did us no harm, but good rather; for finding that the shelling before the battle had so little effect, our men were to some extent indifferent to it when the real attack came. Acting on the defensive, we were depending on the effectiveness of our rifle-fire, and hoped fervently against a night attack, for in that case the enemy, probably creeping into our positions unawares, would be driven off with difficulty, and the sphere of our execution would to that degree be contracted. Attack by night, then, was what we dreaded; and we thought, too, that it would be made through Colenso by the railway bridge, and that General Buller's first act would be to take Fort Wylie. But as it is the unexpected that happens, this did not, and we experienced, proportionate relief, for we had been on the qui vive nervous, occupying and sleeping in our positions for several nights before the 15th. Soon after dawn on December 15 it appeared that the British intended to wait until their attack could be covered by their big guns. At dawn on the 15th we knew this to be imminent, and shortly afterwards we saw the troops in three directions, moving towards us. There were General Hart's column, which advanced upon our right; General Hildyard's and General Barton's with Colonel Long and the artillery in the centre, and Lord Dundonald in a direction on our left.

General Hart's men came along over an open plain towards a bridle drift that crossed the Tugela opposite the position occupied by our Zoutpansberg men and Swazilanders, under Commandant Chas. Botha, at a place more or less in flood, and was very difficult to cross, there being on either side of the bridle drift long stretches of deep water and very high banks. Dundonald's column advanced on our left towards the hill called Hlangwane, held by General Fourie; and the centre column of General Hildyard moved over the plain in the direction of the railway bridge over the Tugela, which we had already destroyed. There were no obstacles in their march to the river, for our men received orders to keep absolutely still until the British had come well within range, and if their first attempt was to come over the Waggon bridge they were to be allowed to cross it on to our side of the river, so that in case of retreat it would be difficult for them to get back, for at this part, too, the river was deep. Moreover, our guns (of whose positions they were in ignorance) could, from the hills on the rear of Fort Wylie, have played on to them and the bridge. We had already the day before tested from our positions the different ranges for rifle fire—some at 800, some at 1,200 yards; and as soon as Colonel Long's guns were in the right place for us we poured a deadly fire on them from Fort Wylie.

The sound was as of a hailstorm upon corrugated iron; but the hail was lead and it moved down men. For the British at Colenso were as at Aldershot, save that they were in khaki. They marched over the plain in battle array. The day was clear, bright and windless. Not one Boer was discerned upon the hills, and none were seen while the engagement lasted, but bullets fell—fell with pitiless, pelting fury; for our men were upon the high ground and were so placed there that they covered the whole line of advance from the British side, and all the drifts or places of passage through the river also were so covered by our guns and trenches that they could not possibly have crossed without terrible slaughter. As it was, the British advance was completely taken by surprise.

It was between 6 and 7 a.m., that our first fire opened upon them, before they had come quite as near as had been intended, and this was the signal for the first along the whole line of our positions. The force with the guns had no chance—it could not live, and as the majority fell, the remainder of the men began to retire in confusion. But several times they tried to come on afresh, falling flat and so remaining for a time and then advancing again. The effect of this firing seemed to surprise our men; they had not known what I had for long maintained—that no big guns could ever get a chance of doing damage to men armed with the Mauser rifle if the latter had anything like cover and could get in a volley before the guns could be placed in position. But, even holding this opinion, I did not expect that rifle fire in such circumstances could be so effective at distances over 500 or 600 yards.

In the meantime Colonel Hart's column (on our right) had been beaten back at the bridle drift to the west of Colenso by the Swazilanders and Zoutpansbergers. Their guns also would have been taken if only the commandants—General Cronje, of the Free State Commandant Viljoen—had carried out their orders. Instead, these men looked on during the whole battle and did not fire a shot, although they had nearly 3000 men with them.

But to return to the officer commanding the central division. I was surprised to see the whole of his men retiring. I thought that as soon as they got out of our rifle-fire they would have occupied until dark the donga leading down to where Colonel Long's guns stood; and that, remaining, they would have prevented our removing the guns by covering them with their fire when, after crossing the river, we advanced into the open to make that attempt, and even that after nightfall they would have got the guns away.

This is what we should have done had we been in the same circumstances, but, as everyone knows, nothing like it was done by the officer in command of this division. This was their mistake, but their only one, for the disaster of their losses up to this point resulted from the erroneous idea held by General Buller that he had shelled us out of our position in the vicinity of Fort Wylie during the three previous days (December 12, 13, and 14). The blame of the disaster as a whole, therefore, is assignable only to the then British Commander-in-Chief, inasmuch as the responsibility of having the locality sufficiently scouted, rested with him. Had Colonel Long and his guns been stopped anywhere short of the spot where we caught them with our rifle-fire they would have been exposed to the fire of our pom-poms and all our big guns, which could not bear on them as it was. Moreover, if he had gone further to the right this guns could have done very little good and he would have incurred risk from an advance of our men along the river bank below, he was not in a position to know that this part of the river (the south side), which was full of dongas, was not occupied by our men. In fact the direction chosen by Colonel Long was the best he could have taken under the circumstances.

"THE DISASTER OF THE GUNS"

Many misstatements have been made about the disaster of the guns, and I should like to correct some of them. This I can do with absolute certainty. Dr. Conan Doyle, for example, says that upon this occasion "the British naval guns silenced the Boer guns." They did not injure one of our guns at Colenso. Neither did we "dam up the river to deepen it," as he says. Then, to say that "Long's guns were 700 yards" from our rifles is again a mistake, the nearest of Colonel Long's guns being in fact 1200 yards from our rifles on Fort Wylie. Further, it is not true that we had men along the river bank near Colonel Long's guns and also in the village of Colenso. The nearest men to Colonel Long's guns were those at Fort Wylie, and as to there being men below the river bank below that height, they would have been useless there, for from that position they could not have seen those guns or the British advance, and in fact none were there.

As it was, shrapnel from Colonel Long's guns fell in our positions on and near Fort Wylie, and was the only shell fire from the British which did us any harm on the 15th. On the other hand, it struck me that some of the shell from your field guns was bursting among your own men during the fight, but I make the statement guardedly, simply as a strong impression received at the time, which I was not able to corroborate.

Of course if Colonel Long had succeeded in silencing our riflemen at Fort Wylie the British would have had no difficulty in crossing at the railway bridge, and would then have got a footing upon our side of the river. But, as everyone knows, he could not stand, and was not supported, and when our people crossed the river after the main body of the force had retired they captured the guns left there with Colonel Bullock, and took some 200 prisoners, all the time dreading that we should be shelled from the heights near Chieveley while doing so.

Colonel Long's experience was only in a greater degree that of the columns separately under Generals Hart and Dundonald. For Hart had suffered heavily at the bridle drift and had retired, and Dundonald, advancing in the early morning on Hlangwane with the impression that this also was not occupied, found himself unable to extricate his men before they had suffered heavy loss in some mealie fields within range of our rifle fire under the mountain, where burnt ground made the khaki of the British soldier's clothing a conspicuous mark.

It was about noon when all three British columns at Colenso had met their reverses, and sunset saw your people in the positions that they had held at dawn. In an attack on the Boer positions at Colenso, which was virtually an attempt to secure the key of the position on that route to Ladysmith, General Buller should first have taken Monte Cristo, the range to the east of Hlangwane, and thence he might have taken the key to the position, Hlangwane itself, as indeed he did two months later. It is a strange fact that Hlangwane was not occupied by us before the 12th December, and only on that day after pressure had been brought to bear upon our General by my advice and that of Mr. Dieprink, of Johannesburg.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three Months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.

President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News, of July 8, 1899.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

• • • • •

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for no securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June.

New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is to-day the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but show their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1880, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print. The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.

New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

PABST BREWING CO.

J. E. Kathrens, Adv. Mgr.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7, 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and most successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others followed his publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the gross stupidity of imitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD,

Advertising Manager for Sapolio.

—In Fame, March, 1901.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,

FRANK ROE BATCHELD.

Clerk of the Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1900.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,892 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspaper directories gratis, but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12, 1900.

JOS. H. HANNEN,

Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1899, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

[NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed. Times.]

—Keene fair to-day.

—Everybody reads the Times.

—Lakefield fall fair was held yesterday. There was a good attendance.

—Mr. W. H. Roberts, who lives on Stewart street, had his two fine collie dogs poisoned on Tuesday night.

—Novels by the best authors for ten cents at Times Bookstore. Also a line bought in a job lot at three cents each.

—We have a long letter dealing with municipal matters that cannot appear, as the name of the writer is not given.

—The town was again in darkness last night. It will be some days before the whole system will be again in operation.

—Double trading stamps on all purchases of twenty-five cents or over at Times Bookstore on Saturday, the 5th instant.

—The County Council meets in special session to-day. In the afternoon a trip will be made to Chemong to inspect and take over the new bridge.

—At the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid, of Charlotte street church, it was decided to hold the annual Thanksgiving dinner on Thanksgiving Day.

—Cool weather and short evenings—just the time to have a good book on hand to read. Novels by such authors as Sir Walter Scott, Thackeray, Dumas, Reynolds, Dickens, Lever, etc., going at ten cents each at Times Bookstore.

—You will make no mistake when you go to G. E. Whiten's for your photos. He has taken first prize whenever he showed his work in Peterborough and Toronto. Studio, 158 Hunter street, sign of the Golden camera.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Marriage of Miss Aileen Robinson and Mr. Harold B. Rye.

A social event of great local importance took place yesterday afternoon at All Saints' Church, when Mr. Lewes Harold Brooke Rye, son of Mr. Louis Rye, town, led to the altar Miss Aileen Howard, daughter of Mrs. Isaac Robinson and neice of Miss Chamberlain.

In honor of the bride the Harvest Thanksgiving decorations had been allowed to remain in position, and gave the interior of the church a very pretty appearance. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. W. L. Armitage, in the presence of a number of invited guests. Miss Robinson was given away by her uncle, Mr. H. C. Winch.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white tucked silk with garniture of cream passementrie. She wore a veil and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary McFadden and Miss Rye. Both wore dresses of flowered pink muslin and large black velvet Gainsborough hats with white ostrich plumes. Their bouquets were of pink roses.

The bridegroom was assisted by Messrs. Arthur Robinson, brother of the bride, and Dickson Best. Master Regy Winch, prettily attired in white, acted as page.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding de jeuner was partaken of at Tully-Vestan, the handsome residence of Miss Chamberlain. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for the west.

The bride, who is a charming young lady will be greatly missed by her many friends in Peterborough, with whom she has ever been a great favorite and immensely popular. The Times joins in hearty congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Rye will take up their residence in Toronto.

Church Anniversary.

The anniversary services in connection with the Mark Street Methodist Church will take place on Sunday and Monday, October 13th and 14th. On Sunday the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Lindsay, who will preach both morning and evening. Mr. Roberts was one of the first pastors of the church, and is an eloquent and earnest speaker. On Monday evening there will be a supper served in the Town Hall between 5 and 7 o'clock, after which an entertainment will be given, consisting of choice music and addresses by prominent speakers. The public are cordially invited to attend.

Excitement Over the Race.

Mr. W. C. Ackerman returned from New York on Monday, and states that the greatest excitement prevails over the yacht races for the America's Cup. He had the pleasure of witnessing the first and second races, having secured a position in one of the boats.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Events Under This Head Transpiring in and Around Peterborough.

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature either by phone or in writing.—Ed. Times.]

—Dr. Berry, of Hastings, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. Schneider have returned from a visit to the Pan-American.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Wood, of Newport, R.I., are visiting Mr. Wood's parents, Ashburnham.

—Mr. and Mrs. Rupert H. Bradburn have taken up residence on the corner of Downie and McDonel streets.

—Mr. A. W. Spence and his charming little daughter, Miss Jessie, have returned from a two weeks' holiday at the "Soo."

—The name of Mr. W. McMoore was accidentally omitted from the published list in the Times of those who took in the trip to Balsam Lake on Tuesday.

—Rev. W. L. Armitage delivered an address at the Harvest Home Festival in Haliburton on Tuesday evening. He preached Thanksgiving services in Norwood on Sunday last.

—The Bay of Quinte Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society is in session in Belleville, the following delegates being present from town: George street church, Mr. James Kendry, Mrs. Carlyle and Mrs. White; Charlotte street church, Mrs. D. O. Cromley and Mrs. Kilgour.

Light in Dark Places.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice a communication in one of your evening contemporaries regarding light, and suggesting that in an emergency, when the Company is unable to provide light, that the Auburn Company should perform the good Samaritan act, and supply electric current. This is all right, and is not to be found fault with.

The reference, however, to the fraternal spirit existing between your two evening contemporaries is not a happy one, in view of the deep-seated conviction that the two papers are really one in many matters, especially as regards Provincial politics. It is only natural, therefore, that when a fire took place in one concern, the other "wing" would do the work of both.

I am pleased to see the Auburn Company has undertaken to do part of the lighting while the repairs to the Peterborough Light and Power Company's raceway are being made. This break goes to demonstrate the necessity that exists for more than one concern to do the lighting.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, &c.

BOXES OF GOLD.

Sent For Letters About Grape-Nuts.

330 boxes of gold and greenbacks will be sent to persons writing interesting and truthful letters about the good that has been done them by the use of Grape-Nuts food.

10 little boxes each containing a $10 gold piece, will be sent the 10 writers of the most interesting letters.

20 boxes each containing a $5 gold piece to the 20 next most interesting writers, and a $1 greenback will go to each of the 300 next best. A committee of three not members of the Postum Co. will make decision between Dec. 1st. and 10th. 1901.

Write plain, sensible letters, giving detailed facts of ill health caused from improper food and explain the improvement, the gain in strength, in weight, or in brain power after using Grape-Nuts food.

It is a profound fact that most ails of humanity come from improper and non-nourishing food, such as white bread, hot biscuit, starchy and uncooked cereals, etc.

A change to perfectly cooked, predigested food like Grape-Nuts, scientifically made and containing exactly the elements nature requires for building the delicate and wonderful cells of brain and body, will quickly change a half sick person to a well person. Food, good food, is Nature's strongest Weapon of defense.

Include in the letter the true names and addresses, carefully written, of 20 persons not very well, to whom we can write regarding the food cure by Grape-Nuts.

Almost everyone interested in pure food is willing to have his or her name appear in the papers for such help as they may offer the human race. A request, however, to omit name will be respected. Try for one of the 330 prizes. Every one has an equal show. Don't write poetry, but just honest and interesting facts about the good you have obtained from the pure food Grape-Nuts. If a man or woman has found a true way to get well and keep well, it should be a pleasure to stretch a helping hand to humanity, by telling the facts.

Write your name and address plainly on letter and mail promptly to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

The bidding opened at 9c, by Mr. Whitton. Mr. Wrighton went 9 1-8, Mr. Cook went 9 1-4, and Mr. Whitton 9 5-16.

At this juncture the President announced that there had been some talk of adjournment, unless fair prices in the opinion of the salesmen were offered. Mr. Blezard said he did not know when they would hold their cheese better than at the present time. Speaking for himself, he would not sell unless he received a price something near the figure that he wanted, and the present bid was not near the mark.

Mr. Whitton claimed that they offered a price higher than was paid on the market at Montreal on Monday. Mr. Whitton made a reference to the feeding of turnips, which he said, must be stopped.

Mr. Bailey said that the price offered was quite high, considering what cheese was going at down east. He, himself, did not want to buy any cheese at the price offered—if they were going to adjourn they had better adjourn for two weeks.

Mr. Rollins said it was immaterial to him whether they adjourned or not.

Mr. Stewart Payne moved, seconded by Mr. Smith, that the board adjourn for two weeks. This was carried.

Jealous Rivals cannot turn back the tide. The demand for Dr. Agnew's little Pills is a marvel. Cheap to buy, but diamonds in quality—banish nausea, coated tongue, water brash, pain after eating, sick headache, never gripe, operate pleasantly. 20 cents.—37

A LONG STEP FORWARD

A Movement on Foot to Save Our Power.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

Ald Best and Ald. Corkery the Apostles of The New Movement for Saving Our Power.

At last we have found a man equal to the occasion. Seconded by Ald Corkery, Ald. Best succeeded in getting a resolution through at the last meeting of the Town Council, by which the Council pledges itself to look into the advisability of the Town's acquiring water power in order that the furnishing of cheap power may take the place of bonuses, exemptions &c. In common with other journals such as the Toronto Globe and Mail, the Times has done its best to bring before the people of this country the necessity of a reform in the administration of the business of the people. Bonuses are a mean way of begging industries to locate. They are a bribe and an unfair tax upon competitors already established. But to have cheap power is to place all upon an equality as well as to encourage industry and to check mere speculation. The Board of Trade at its recent meeting inquired what the Council was doing. Is this the answer? Whether it is the answer or not it is beyond all question, the most important and far-reaching movement ever inaugurated in the town of Peterborough. We must also take care not to injure our old friends. They worked under the old order of things. It was not their fault, and they should not be made to suffer for it. They put in their capital and showed their faith in the country. There must be no breach of that faith by the people—nor will there be. The new movement is consistent with everything that is just in a moral sense and business-like in a business sense. Having put their hand to the plough no man must look back. The course of the aldermen in public affairs from this out will be scanned eagerly by the people at large. We have been small potatoes in a small hill in Peterborough long enough. Away with the shallow platitudes of those who would not move because in truth they have lost their way. Such men, unjustly famed for common sense, will find that to be cowardly is no longer to be considered wise. One scout is worth ten men behind the walls. Again we say, all honor to Ald. Best and Ald. Corkery, to the Board of Trade and to Mr. J. B. McWilliams. To Mr. McWilliams an acknowledgements is due in that he spoke out like a man at the Board of Trade meeting, for the public interests. He did not attempt to serve two masters—mammon and the people. He spoke for the people in the presence of capitalists and spoke well. How many times have these opportunities occurred in the last thirty years, and when have they hitherto been taken advantage of? The occasions are so few that the reader will be inclined to smile. A milestone like this, therefore, is a matter of supreme moment. It will be the policy of the Times to bring to the notice of the public those who do well in the public interest, if they seek popular approval it will reward them. If their ways are those of the stark and the gourmand, they will be still given to get their reward. In the ballot box lies the remedy of all our ills. Legislation is the key to the whole problem of labor, and the working men. Who will be base enough to betray the toiler's best interests? We must beware lest we fall victims to our own dishonesty. Surely it is patent to the most ordinary mind that honest, capable minds, and a just intention, can in the end do for the public what the public surely needs. That we are bound hand and foot is our own fault, for we have become our own binders. Who will barter his vote for a political crumb? Let us show the political speculator that we are not hanging to the hem of his garment, but that we know our own interests and will seek them.

BULLER'S FATAL BLUNDER AT SPION KOP RECALLED

Further Particulars from Boer Sources as to the Cause of the British Disaster

INTERESTING DETAILS OF THE TERRIBLE AFFAIR

The Chief of the Staff of Gen. Botha Tells How the British Were Repulsed at Spion Kop—Interesting Details of the Calamity.

London, Oct. 4.—The Manchester Guardian publishes the following, which they received through the South African correspondent, who recently met Commandant Edwards, the chief of Gen. Botha's staff, and got from him an account of the battle of Spion Kop. The Boer says:

It is not easy to know where to begin, but it will make things hang together better, I think, if I give you shortly the events of the five days that led up to and had their result in January 24.

On January 19 our people, some 6,000 all told, sat on a line of positions overlooking the Tugela, and extending from Acton Homes on the east to Vaal Krantz on the west, and in fact on to Colenso. When the fight began, as it did on January 19, at Potgieter's Drift, we massed our greatest strength there, withdrawing our men from all the other positions in order to do so. Having done this, it occurred to us that General Buller would in all probability come round along the road that passed Acton Homes, and that this move would enable him, stretching out our line as far as possible, so to weaken our positions that he would be able to break through them at some point. The following day's doings did not tend to reassure our side, for it was upon the 20th that the British drove us out of the pass near Acton Homes, which was the only position upon our right that we could hold, and commanded it, occupying the ridge above. Our men were driven out of these very important positions several times during the 20th, but, strange to say, the British never followed up their success or seemed to know the advantage they had secured there. On the 21st some of our scouts managed to get again to the ridge and planted a flag on its highest point. There were only three of them, and the nature of the ground was such that few or many in number would equally have been hidden and for a long time our three scouts drew the fire of the British guns. Our reinforcements did not come up till six hours later—after dark. In the interval the position was practically defenceless.

THE BRITISH DID NOT KNOW THIS

but if they had been minded to risk one hundredth part of what they repeatedly did on other occasions to gain ground of less value they would, storming the position, have taken it and two of our guns, would have found it to all intents and purposes clear, would have occupied it, then themselves with guns, would have commanded the pass, would have driven back our right wing and holding this, would have pressed on again in the direction of Burgher's position, and, taking the ridges to the left of Spion Kop, the two peaks, by Trichardt's Drift, would have proceeded straight to and relieved Ladysmith, for any force that had taken the pass near Acton Homes could have outflanked any commandos on Rangeworthy Heights or Spion Kop. As it was, our reinforcements having come up from Colenso and other places, the fight still continued at Acton Homes on the 22nd and 23rd, many of our men having been withdrawn from Spion Kop to that place. Our Acton Homes position seemed of great value to us, because we expected General Buller still to force his way through there, and had the idea that he had given up any thought of breaking through elsewhere.

But surprise came with daylight on the morning of the 24th in the report received by General Botha that the British were on Spion Kop. Dense fog with morning had succeeded the darkness of night, and under either or both British and Boers alike had been moving. The British had got up, and our men, pickets numbering 70 of the Vrijheid commando, had retired from the peaks to the back of the height marked (X) in the plan. But fortune favoured us in the fog, and we hastily collected our men under its cover, got reinforcements up, and big guns from Acton Homes right on to the back of the brow marked (O) before the fog lifted and disclosed our movements to the British.

BULLER'S LOST OPPORTUNITY

And here was a second opportunity for your side to get possession of Acton Homes, for the place was now left weak, and had General Buller only renewed his assault there he must have broken through. Moreover, the spirits of our men were low on account of Spion Kop being in your hands.

The Carolina men were amongst our best and bravest, and it was they, some 500 strong, who, led by Commandant Prinsloo, a very able officer, were now upon Spion Kop at the work of retaking it.

The British were on the flat of the summit up there, in great force, where it had been well they had not been; they should have been at the edge of the summit, where, from above, they would have been able to shoot us down as we came up. Being in the centre of the flat on the summit they did not know on which of three sides to expect our attack, and we, when we appeared at the brow's edge, had just the advantage that should have been theirs. We were covered by the slope of the ground up to within 50 paces of them, and they were practically upon the sky line, and within an area affording fair fighting room for but 400, there were thousands, making a target of width and solidity it was impossible for our bullets to miss. This superfluity of men was not merely useless, but positively harmful, for it hindered the effectiveness of their fire whereas they should have been embarrassing us by drawing our fire in another direction. Another thing that contributed to our success and British discomfiture at this point was the cross-fire from our guns. On the side of the heights in Burger's position were two big guns and a pom-pom; on Rangeworthy Heights on the Acton Homes side there remained two guns; and one gun and a pom-pom were in position near Coventry's Farm. These guns concentrated their fire on the flat of the summit, and reverse slope of Spion Kop, and themselves were invisible to the more numerous British cannon, which were therefore powerless against them. The fortunes of the fight had not been ours at the beginning of the six days, but assuredly by the end of that time they were setting in our favour. Of course there had been miscarriage of some attempts and the chief of these was that the gun we tried to get up on the bump marked (X) on our side of the summit had rolled down the slope, and hopelessly damaged the carriage. By about two o'clock 170 British on Spion Kop had surrendered. The Boers on the heights were some 500; we were holding our positions, and reinforcements were still coming up. But just before sundown a change set suddenly over the face of affairs. General Botha got word from General Burger that the British were threatening his positions on the twin hills which from the eastern spur of Spion Kop, and that he was in need of reinforcements. At this point I, as chief of the staff, was despatched with these to the nek between Spion Kop and General Burger's position, and here we managed to push aside towards Spion Kop those British reinforcements which were working round on our left. By the time it got dusk, however, we found that General Burger's position had been taken, as we now know, by the Rifles, under Colonels Buchanan-Riddell and Copley. The firing then ceased for a time, and I, who had been wounded by a bullet from the position taken from General Burger, returned to General Botha near Coventry's Farm. It should be remembered that in most instances the Boers rode up to the various scenes of fighting, when dismounting, they left their horses with Kaffir boys to hold in readiness for them.

A PRISONER'S FATAL ERROR.

The attempt to support General Burger effectively had failed, for not only was the position taken but his guns were compelled to leave, and at 4 a.m. next day, when sent for by General Botha, I was informed that things were most serious, for that, in addition to the above, all our men had left Spion Kop. I was able at this point to encourage my chief somewhat. It was by a report only, but occasionally reports are true, and this was one of those exceptional instances. I had it from a British prisoner taken that afternoon. The man had lost his nerve and was quite unstrung, or he would have been too careful to tell me that it was not possible for the British to remain on Spion Kop; that they were unable to hold their positions, wanting water, and that General Woodgate had been killed. The report seemed to qualify in some degree General Botha's pronouncement, "Hopeless," and was acted upon, for by 3.30 all possible officers had been summoned to withdraw every available man from Acton Homes for the purpose of a final strenuous attempt (although all our waggons were already in full retreat) to retake Spion Kop and Burger's position. One should mention here perhaps that the report was not acted upon quite without confirmation. It happened that during the night two of my men, contrary to orders, had ventured on Spion Kop to fetch the body of a comrade who had been shot the day before; they found it and came down besides with the information that no English were up there, and that Colonel Copley's position taken late the evening before was also evacuated. This last move was the final fatal one at Spion Kop for your side, for had Copley's position that night only been held and reinforced, our case had been hopeless and our proposed attempt to retake Spion Kop would have been of no avail. More than a reversal of things would have happened, and our men would have been subjected to a cross-fire from the British from the very positions lately occupied by us. What had happened during the night was this. As the British were retiring down one side of Spion Kop our men were retreating down the other, and at this point our men were completely exhausted and were equal to no more fighting. Last of all, any account of Spion Kop, or indeed of any other scene of Boer success, must always be incomplete without a special note on our scouting. The motive of self-preservation caused us to do all we knew to make our system of getting information as nearly as possible perfect, effective scouting being necessary to our very existence. Our most intelligent men only were put on as scouts, and it is a noteworthy fact that nearly the whole of these were of British parentage. Awaiting the scouts' information, too, we kept many of our guns in no fixed positions, but mobile, ready to move at any moment along with any portion of our forces which it was found necessary suddenly to bring up to strengthen any particular points that were being threatened. It should be remembered that our positions were never strong enough to resist front attacks, and could only be rendered so by reinforcements brought up in time on the information of our scouts. How hard they worked for us on Spion Kop on the 24th and subsequent days is shown in the fact that 25 per cent of them were hit.

FINAL CONTEST IN FIGHT FOR A LIFE

Rival Counsel in Sifton Murder Trial Deliver Their Addresses

THE JURY RETIRED AT 11.40 A. M

London, Ont., Oct. 3.—Yesterday's proceedings at the Sifton trial left nothing to be done save for Judge MacMahon to sum up and the jury to record their verdict. The afternoon was occupied by two masterly addresses by the opposing counsel to the jury.

Mr. Johnston, counsel for Sifton, began at 3.30 and spoke till after six, and Crown Prosecutor Riddell immediately followed.

Mr. Johnston laid all possible emphasis upon the responsibility resting on the jury, and directed special attention to the medical expert evidence for the defence, saying that when thirty or forty skilled surgeons, amongst them the highest in their profession, went into the box and, although differing somewhat in their opinions, refused to accept Herbert's story of the murder surely the jurors would say that this in itself showed real, grave doubts, and that they could not make up their minds as to what the case is or was. If these men expressed grave doubts as to the story laid before them, and if, in addition, many of them stated that Herbert's story was wholly incredible; if these men, who had no interest in the case, had grave doubts, surely the jury might reasonably be expected to have doubts of a serious character in regard to the same matter. The Crown had produced a witness who had told them that with Herbert's statement as a basis the injuries were impossible. If that was so, they must look at this evidence pretty carefully before they said that Gerald Sifton was guilty.

THE MORDENS ROASTED.

After briefly sketching the Morden, McFarlane, and Herbert evidence, Mr. Johnston asked if any of the jury would like to be placed on their defence on such evidence as that. If they believed the Mordens, the road to the gallows was a short and easy one for Gerald Sifton. Mr. Johnston held that it had not been proven that Gerald knew the provisions of his father's will, except the statement of Edgar Morden, the man who had been seen by Detective Murray. When vindictiveness, when the thirst for blood was found, it was hard to say to what lengths a witness would go. Of course, Gerald Sifton had an interest in the death of his father; so had every man. Gerald Sifton did exactly what any man would have done. He said when he heard of the marriage: "I will stop this marriage. I will go and tell Martin Morden, the man who is her promised husband, and he'll marry her like an honest man, and not throw her away like a ball or a dirty rag." He did not know Martin Morden's address, so he went to James Morden's place.

AN IMPROBABLE STORY.

Why would he go around like a common peddler, peddling the job of murder? If the Mordens were men to whom a proposition to commit murder could be made, then their evidence was not worth the breath that gave it. The man who manufactured the forged will could also manufacture the knife. Gerald had been willing for an inquest, and told Dr. McNeil that he had no objection to offer to it. Both Gerald and Herbert had told exactly the same story about what happened in the barn to several present, and there was no suspicion until the Morden influence began. Morden's connection with the case the counsel termed "the electric touch of the skilled assassin." Each bit of evidence was gone over by Mr. Johnston, and considerable time was devoted to Herbert's testimony, which, he pointed out, was contradicted by every medical man who had entered the witness box.

MR. RIDDELL'S REPLY.

Crown Prosecutor Riddell began with a statement of the position of the prosecution with regard to Edgar Morden, and he frankly told the jury that he had decided not to lay before it evidence upon which any suspicion could rest. Another strong point that he made was that the alleged bartering for the sale of the will to Gerald Sifton could not have occured for the reason that when the alleged sale was attempted the will was in the possession of the Crown Attorney of the county.

The Crown counsel brought out strongly that it was after the will had got into the possession of the Crown that James was sent to the Sifton house to get an offer for it. There could have been no monetary object to be gained, for the will was in the strong box of Mr. Magee, the County Crown Attorney.

MARTIN MORDEN DEFENDED.

Speers and slurs had been cast upon Martin Morden because he would not take to his arms the woman who had betrayed and dishonored him. He heard the story from the son of the man who had ruined the girl. Was he to resent it? Was he to believe it? Who would not say: "No, if that's the way she has acted I am through with her!"

Then Gerald made threats and produced the vial. Martin Morden was not the only man to mention poison, for they had Dr. McNeil's statement of the prisoner's admission to him about having poison. What did this mean? That the man had

MURDER IN HIS HEART.

Gerald believed that these men were friends of his so that his secret would be safe with them. Then there could be no doubt but that Joseph Sifton and Mary McFarlane spent the night before the tragedy at Edgar Morden's house. During that night was there a true will drawn up? Was there a true will drawn up and afterwards a forged will? That was a mystery that had yet to be solved. The hour of the wedding had been changed; for what reason? The counsel for the defence could have found out, but he did not ask. He was well advised in his course.

HERBERT'S EVIDENCE.

Regarding the strength of Herbert's evidence the counsel said that it was not possible that Herbert's story could be made up. He simply could not invent such a story, for he lacked the imagination.

"Let me here most emphatically deny," said Mr. Riddell, "that any pressure was brought to bear upon Herbert to bring out a confession. The first confession made by Herbert was to Brock, an uncle, to whom he said, 'I had better tell the truth.'" What possible inducement, monetary or otherwise, asked Mr. Riddell could have been offered Herbert to make him say that he had helped to murder a man whose death had been due to an accident? Herbert, he said, had been over a year in thinking over the crime in his cell, and he very possibly might have diminished his own and increased the prisoner's share in the killing.

LICOLN'S BODY IS NOW SECURE

In Springfield Vault Under Eight Feet of Masonry.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 3.—The burial of the body of Abraham Lincoln has practically been completed. Half a dozen workmen were occupied all day yesterday cementing over the cage in which the casket was placed Thursday in the vault at the base of the monument shaft. Over six feet of cement had been laid over the casket when work was suspended last night.

The remainder of the cement will be laid to-day, and then the flooring of the tomb will be laid. The marble sarcophagus originally intended for the reception of the body will be replaced in its old position in the tomb early next week.

It is thought now that no further removal of the body will ever be made. The casket is buried thirteen feet in the ground, beneath the tomb containing the crypts where lie the others of the family.

On a cement base, four feet thick, rests the iron cage inclosing the casket. Above the cage will be eight feet of solid masonry. It would take a large force of workmen several days to exhume the casket under the most favorite circumstances.

WEDDED IN TORONTO

Marriage of Miss Annabelle Louise Laing to Chas. D. Collins.

A social event of considerable local importance took place at the Manse, Dundas, on the 2nd instant, when Miss Arabella Louise, youngest daughter of Rev. Dr. Laing, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Durham Collins, of Pittsburg, Pa., son of Mr. J. D. Collins, Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Laing, assisted by Rev. A. A. Laing, brother of the bride, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins will take up their residence in Peterborough.

JURY DISAGREE IN THE SIFTON CASE

After Seven Hours Deliberation They Fail to Arrive at a Verdict.

IS AGAIN REMANDED UNTIL SPRING ASSIZES

London, Ont., Oct. 4.

In the case of Gerald Sifton, whose trial was in progress here for a week past, on a charge of murdering his father, the Jury failed to agree, after seven hours' consultation.

On the foreman announcing that there was no prospect of them agreeing they were discharged. Sifton was remanded to jail and will again be tried next spring.

The Home Reading Union.

The National Home Reading Union, one of the several excellent organizations of which Rev. Dr. Symonds was the chief promoter, held its sixth annual meeting in the Y. W. C. THE COLUMBIA WINS ANOTHER

Shamrock Leads for the First Twenty Miles

COLUMBIA WINS BY 4 MINUTES

New York, Oct. 3.—Conditions of wind and water were ideal for to-day's race between the two big yachts, and both Sir Thomas Lipton and Mr. Morgan expressed themselves as very much gratified with the outlook.

The starting gun was fired on the dot of eleven, and it was apparent that the advantage lay entirely with the British skipper. Just before the start he sent the Shamrock swinging around the committee boat, cutting in between the committee boat and the Columbia. The latter being under the Shamrock's lee decided not to cross in that position, and wore around again.

Holding tight to his advantage when the gun was fired, Captain Sycamore sent the Shamrock across the line almost before the stiff wind could sweep the powder smoke away, Columbia being considerably behind him. After crossing, both yachts went on a close reach for the first mark, fairly tearing through the water and throwing great fountains of spray from under the bows.

The official time of crossing the line was:

Shamrock... ....11.00.13
Columbia... ....11.1.47

It was a magnificent and blood-stirring race to the first mark. Both were close reached on the port tack and smothered along through the seas, the gusty wind continually knocking them down. The pace was terrific, and it was impossible to determine when half the first leg had been sailed whether or not the Shamrock was maintaining the lead she gained when they crossed the line. Both were carrying the same sails.

Shamrock turned the first mark, and, gibing, stretched out for the reach to the second mark. One minute and eleven seconds later the Columbia followed her around, and both swept away on the starboard tack, Shamrock leading by about a quarter to a third of a mile.

The official time of the turn at the first mark:

Shamrock... ....11.51.06
Columbia... ....11.53.17

This showed that Columbia's gain on the first leg had been 33 seconds in the ten miles of close reaching.

The second leg of the race lost nothing in excitement. The wind held strong and true, and after rounding the mark the racers maintained their terrific speed, making no change in their sails. The excursion fleet had a fight trying to keep pace with the race, being compelled to crowd on a full head of steam to maintain a position, which would keep the flying yachts in sight. As in the first leg, it was mere guess work at first whether either boat had gained or lost. When about half of the second leg had been covered it seemed, however, as if the American boat had managed to crawl up slightly on her fast-sailing opponent.

At 1.00 both yachts went about on the starboard tack and stood for the Jersey shore, the Columbia tacking first. The race was as close as ever. Both yachts had taken in their jib topsails when reaching the second mark, preparatory to beating up the last leg, under the three lower sails and lower club topsails. Working in the wind the Shamrock was apparently footing very fast, but Columbia seemed to outpoint her.

In the first half-hour of sailing after the second mark had been turned the Columbia had the race in hand on time allowance unless Shamrock should do some unexpectedly superior work.

She had outpointed the Shamrock and secured a commanding position on the latter's bow. All during this tack Capt. Barr played his old game of continually pinching into the wind. The Shamrock's failure to point as high was a surprise to the experts, in view of the good qualities she showed in this respect on Saturday last.

With the finish line about four miles away at 1.40, the American boat had the race well in hand, and, barring accidents, it seemed inevitable that she should more than make up Shamrock's lead over the line, and get home ahead of her. But even with the Columbia's sudden spurt and advantage the race was still an exciting one, and never for a moment did interest lag as the two superb vessels thrashed to windward, the breeze holding true and strong. There was no question of favoring slants or fortunate flukes, for weather conditions were absolutely perfect from the moment the gun was fired. It blew as if made to order, for a fair test of the two boats.

In the close reach to the first mark Columbia gained on the British yacht; she gained on the broader reach to the second mark, and when they began the exciting beat home, she ate her way into the wind in a manner that her rival could not approach.

Both yachts held the port tack, heading almost north towards the Long Island shore. As they worked up the wind the glimmering bronze hull of the British boat was getting further and further to leeward and astern.

At 1.37 both yachts went about on the starboard tack and headed for the finish, Columbia having a safe lead of about a quarter of a mile. The race With every inch of her beautiful sails [illegible] over them. Nothing could head her, dashing, and the spray flying from under her bow, the great white American yacht thundered across the line over a minute ahead of the boat flying the Shamrock.

The official time of the finish was:

Columbia 2.16.06
Shamrock 2.16.23

It will thus be seen that with the 43.7 seconds which the Shamrock must allow the Columbia, the latter won by 3 minutes 35.7 seconds in the thirty-mile race.

THE REALM OF SPORT

LACROSSE.

Port Hope, Oct. 3.—At a special meeting of the Town Council Mayor Whit proclaimed to-morrow afternoon a half-holiday, in order to let everybody witness the big lacrosse match between the Ontarios and Stratford for the intermediate C. L. A. championship. This was done at the request of over a hundred of prominent citizens. Mr. H. S. Cameron, the second home player of the Beaverton team, has been nominated by President McMillan, as referee.

RUGBY.

Peterborough for Ottawa.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams, president of the Peterborough Rugby Club, this morning received the following very interesting and not unwelcome telegram from Mr. J. D. McMurrich, secretary-treasurer of the O.R.F.U., Toronto:

"St. Mary's default; Deseronto also default; you may have to play Ottawa in first round; will wire you after the meeting to-night."

In the interesting series for the first round, Ottawa II was drawn against Deseronto II, and the winner of this draw was scheduled to play the winner of the St. Mary's vs. Peterborough matches.

ROWING.

Negotiations are in progress for a match race for the single scull championship of the world between George Towns, of Australia, the present champion, and Eddie Durnan, the well-known Toronto sculler. The articles, which have been drawn up, call for a three-mile race with a turn on the River Thames, England, for $2,500 a side, the Canadian to be allowed $500 for expenses. The men have until the 1st inst. to sign. Durnan has secured the necessary backing, and will make a bid for the championship. The race will take place next year previous to the Henley regatta.

A BIG FIGHT IN THE DARK

Boers Make Night Attack on the Camp of Kekewich.

COLONEL KEKEWICH WOUNDED

London, Oct. 3.—The following despatch has been received at the War Office from Lord Kitchener, under date of yesterday:

"Delarey's night attack on the camp of Kekewich (who commanded the garrison at Kimberley during the siege) at Moedwill was pressed by the enemy, who were one thousand strong, with great vigor. After two hours of close fighting the enemy were driven off. Our casualties, I regret to say were severe. Of the officers one was killed, and one so dangerously wounded that he has since died; eleven were severely wounded and three slightly. Of our men thirty-one were killed, six dangerously wounded, forty-two severely wounded, and twenty-six slightly. The wounded have arrived at Rustenburg, and are being well cared for. Forty more remain to be accounted for. No details have been received. Among the wounded was Col. Kekewich himself."

Moedwill, the scene of the bold attack by Commandant Delarey on Colonel Kekewich's camp, is 70 miles west of Pretoria, on the Mafeking road. As the wounded were being brought back to Rustenburg it looks as though Moedwill, which is close to the Magato Pass, in the Magaliesberg range, has been abandoned. Among the Boers killed at Moedwill was Commandant Tobias Boshof, a well known leader.

LOST 500 MEN.

Lord Kitchener sends confirmation of the rumor that the Boers lost 500 men killed and wounded during Botha's attack on Forts Itala and Prospect. The two guns captured by the Boers from the Royal Artillery at Vlakfontein have been recovered.

THE BIG GUNS CONFER.

Pretoria, Oct. 2.—Lord Milner and General Kitchener held a secret conference, with representatives of the Cape Colony Ministry at Johannesburg recently.

The sentence imposed on the traitor Brockmann, a former partner of Krause, Governor of Johannesburg, has been carried out. The prisoner was shot at dawn yesterday. Several arrests on similar charges have recently been made in Johannesburg.

A band of marauding burghers who have been operating among the Kaffirs, near Johannesburg, has been dispersed by a constabulary patrol.

THE FEELING IN LONDON.

London, Oct. 3.—With the approach of the second anniversary of the commencement of the war, the local newspapers are showing signs of impatience with the policy of the Government in delaying to send reinforcements. The alleged friction between Brodrick and Kitchener is also the cause of much anxiety.

The extremists of the opposition have arranged a series of meetings throughout the country to protest against the Government's proposition to subject the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies to the Crown colony system following the war.

STEELE NOT WITH CANADIANS.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—A private letter has been received from Colonel Steele, late commander of Strathcona's Horse, from Modderfontein, where his headquarters as chief of "B" division, South African Constabulary, are situated. The gallant colonel has 50 officers and 2,000 men under his command. He says he was recently visited by Major Charles Ross, the famous Canadian scout. The Canadian quota to the constabulary was broken up and distributed previous to Colonel Steele's arrival, and he regrets that he has no fellow-countrymen in his force.

NOWS BY CABLE AND LETTER

Large Labor Majority Returned at The Hungarian Elections

PEOPLE WERE KILLED BY TROOPS

Buda Pest, Oct. 3.—Although the newspapers here to-day publish congratulatory articles on the orderliness and fairness of the Parliamentary general elections yesterday, which resulted in the return of a large labor majority for the Government, the fact remains that there were serious encounters in many districts, necessitating military intervention, during which the troops fired and killed or wounded numbers of people. The Government has been obliged to declare some of the results invalid owing to the coercive measures of the local authorities.

PRO-BOER FLAG IN DUBLIN.

Dublin, Oct. 3.—A little amusement was created in Dublin recently by the discovery of a Boer flag on one of the staffs above the Grange Hall. Some one had hoisted it during the night. A pitiless rain left it sodden and clinging to the staff when the citizens began to move about, and people noticed it. The officials soon hauled it down.

COAL STRIKE EXTENDING.

Liege, Belgium, Oct. 3.—The coal strike is rapidly extending to all the coal pits on the left bank of the Meuse, and has involved ten thousand strikers.

KING EDWARD'S CONDITION.

Copenhagen, Oct. 3.—The newspapers have to-day revived the rumors that King Edward is in a serious condition from cancer of the tongue without adducing any evidence to that effect.

London, Oct. 3.—Lord and Lady Roberts have leased one of the most noted old houses in London, and intend to make it the headquarters of military society, which is now on top of the social heap.

It is the former home of the Dukes of Richmond in Portland Place, notably that vigorous Duchess of Richmond who gave the famous ball at Brussels the night before the battle of Waterloo. Wellington made Richmond House his favorite social resort and Roberts intends to revive the military social regime of a century ago.

He has spent one-fifth of the $100,000 voted to him by Parliament in preparing to live up to the position of Commander in Chief, and Lady Roberts is engineering the campaign.

RARE CURIOS TO SELL.

London, Oct. 3.—Although the war and the Chinese trouble have brought something like a glut of relics to the sale-rooms, there will soon be a sale of curios in London, which will raise the interest of relic hunters. The Orange Free State flag that waved over Cronje's laager at Paardeberg and the revolver that Mr. Rudyard Kipling as a boy used to fire over the mud flats, as told in, "The Light That Failed," find themselves in curious company at Mr. Stevens' auction rooms in Covent Garden. There is, for instance, a remarkable collection of native weapons and trinkets got together by the Stanley Congo Expedition of 1887. Among the weapons is an executioner's sword off the Mombasa tribe, and one of the iron-barbed spears used by the dwarfs whom the expedition discovered. Other memories are revived by a fine old drum that rolled amid the turmoil of Waterloo, and an altar-piece rescued from the fire which consumed the old Greek church at Balaclava in the first winter of the Crimean war. Not less interesting to collectors of mediaeval manuscripts, are some fragments of music with illuminations, wrought on parchment by monks of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. And every newspaper reader will have his historic sense touched by a copy of the "Commonwealth Mercury," a tiny sheet of nine by seven inches, which announces the death of Oliver Cromwell and the proclamation of his successor.

WATER FAMINE IN THE NORTH.

Manchester, Oct. 3.—Manchester, in common with a number of other northern cities, is on the brink of a water famine. Owing to the prolonged drought, only ten million gallons a day are flowing into the Longendale reservoirs, and the official estimate is that no more than twenty-four days' supply is on hand. Since mid-July the citizens have not been able to draw from their taps between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m., and from to-day the supply will be cut off from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. The storage in the Bradford reservoirs will only meet the needs of the people served by them for seventeen days. The rain that has fallen recently has done very little good, and unless there is a copious downfall within the next week the situation will become serious. Even now, in the higher portions of Manchester, the inhabitants are without water for days together. If the drought persists, at least two mills will have to shut down. The Halifax medical officer of health has issued a warning that owing to the lowness of the reservoirs householders should boil and filter water for domestic use. The stock at Shipley is sufficient for the needs of the town for five or six weeks, but after another week or two the service reservoirs will become so dirty as to be almost unfit for domestic use.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD MURDERER.

A Boy Deliberately Shoots His Companion and Then Leaves Him to His Fate.

Glens Falls, New York, Oct. 4.—Lyman Holland, the twelve-year-old son of Fred Holland of Chester, thirty miles from here toward the Adirondacks, broke into a house and stole a double-barrelled shot gun on Friday. He then induced Benjamin, son of Frank Parker, a companion of the same age, together with a third boy, to go hunting with him. After going a short distance Holland stepped away about five rods from Parker, and without any provocation deliberately shot him. More than [illegible] bird shot penetrated his body, one or two piercing the lung and others the right eye, destroying the sight. The two boys then left him to his fate. He dragged part way home and was found several hours later by the family, who went in search of him. His life is despaired of. Holland is the proverbial bad boy of the town. He is now under arrest.

THE SITUATION IN AFRICA

A number of correspondents in South Africa seem to be engaged in a systematic attempt to mislead the English public with regard to the situation, and their efforts are ably seconded by a group of home journals which are widely circulated among the people. The most improbable tales have been told at one time or another, all with the same object of hampering the Government, and through it those in command of the army. There is no doubt too, that the game to a certain extent succeeded. The Government allowed the noisy criticism of Boer sympathisers to influence its conduct of the war, and in defence of its imposed restrictions on the British generals which proved of immense advantage to the enemy, and correspondingly disadvantageous to its own forces. The foreign attaches with both armies have expressed the opinion without one dissentient voice that the English were lenient to the point of folly in their treatment of the enemy. Under the same circumstances France, Germany or Russia would have adopted severe measures, and if they had found it necessary, would have ended the conflict by the total extinction of the people and the desolation of their country. No other nation would have tolerated a non-combatant population which continually supplied the enemy with information and maintenance, and if the British had made war as it is usually made, instead of a few farm houses being burned, the entire country would have been laid in smoking ruin. When it is reflected that every act of forbearance and humanity was simply an encouragement to the Boers to persist in their hostility, and that the continuance of the war meant the sacrifice of British lives, the course of those who laid down the British policy can only be characterized as the extreme of fatuity. They have acted on the pro-Boer principle that a Boer life is of more value than an English life, and they have fed and clothed the destitute families of the enemy, while leaving the destitute English to starve or find food and clothing as they were able. To crown this aggregation of folly they are now withholding the pay of reclaimed soldiers, with families depending on them, while, if the reports are to be believed, the Boer prisoners at St. Helena and other places are being supplied with every available luxury. A large section of the English public is constantly in fear of the nation doing something that will leave it open to the charge of brutality, and the Government is apparently more anxious to keep well with these people than to pursue a course consistent with the interest and honor of the nation. From the start of the war the press, English as well as foreign, has been used to confuse and perplex the situation, and no one can deny that it has been the most powerful means in prolonging the resistance of the Boers. Its renewed activity (at the present time looks, however, like the last, despairing struggle against the course of events, and instead of the fortunes of the British being in the bad plight we are told, it is more likely, judging from the way in which Lord Kitchener has been decimating the Boer forces, that their powers of resistance have at last reached an end.

MR. KING'S HORSES.

The Great Kansas Stock Man to Return Home for the Winter.

A letter received from Mr. John King, the great Kansas stock man, whose horses have become so well known throughout Ontario during the past year, intimates that he will not import any more of his stock into Canada for the present. He will return to his home in the south for the winter.

This will be a disappointment to many in this district, who were looking forward to securing some of Mr. King's horses. Those who purchased these animals have been, in nearly very instance well satisfied. Of course there is an occasional case where a man who knows little or nothing about handling young unbroken horses, has had trouble; but as a rule Mr. King's horses are kind, gentle, and easily broken. They make the best kind of driving animals, being tough and hardy.

It is to be hoped that Mr. King may yet change his mind, and continue his importations during the fall and winter, when farmers and stockmen generally have time to attend the sales as well as money in their pockets.

Mr. King enjoys a well earned reputation for fair dealing that has made him very popular. He never tries to mislead or to take advantage, but conducts his sales on strictly honorable business principles.

HER JOHNNIE MORGAN

His name was not Johnnie Morgan; it was Antonio Pasendo. But from that day almost a year ago when she first heard and saw him, a very dirty and very picturesque Italian violinist, fiddling his way through the tightened purse strings and into the hearts of all who heard him, she had christened him and to herself had called him "Johnnie Morgan." Almost a year it was and to her the shortest year she had ever lived, for it seemed as if this Antonio had brought with him into her life the blue sky and the sunshine of his own Italy.

Miss Anna Gilbert was the teacher of drawing and painting in the girls' college at Madisonville, and was more beloved than any teacher of the college had ever been before. The title which the girls had given her, "Saint Anna," was truly deserved, for so thickly did she sow the seeds of goodness about her that had her harvest of thanks from poor struggling students been wheat at the right time on the market it would have given her a princess' income.

During her youth, for it must be confessed her youth was mostly behind her, she had worked and sacrificed for her parents until their death, and then she struggled for the education of her younger brother and sister.

One gray October morning on her way to work she had been struck by the evident genius of the young Italian, who was playing his violin on the street. Always attracted by music she stopped to listen and was attracted by the combination of poverty and genius in the handsome young fellow. He certainly was unusually handsome and he looked even younger than he was for his face possessed a great sincerity and ingenuousness of expression. The soft dark eyes and olive skin were enhanced by the exceeding thinness of the face and by the hungry look in the eyes—a hunger sort spiritual and mental as well as physical food, which, shining from those dark eyes, appealed directly and powerfully to this warmhearted woman. Knowing of an opening in the college she quietly put the man and the opportunity together, with the result that the Italian, within a month, was giving lessons to a class. And the class grew immediately from three to thirteen.

To his patroness he owed all, and never did he cease to pour out to her his gratitude. He treated her with the greatest reverence and when walking home with her or meeting her coming to her duties he would hold open the gate or raise his hat as if she were a princess. Then she got into the habit of asking him to come in when he walked home with her and of making a cup of tea in her little bachelor-room, which always seemed cosy and pleasant to them both, and had made his thanks overflow to "Miss Anna." She discovered that he was saving almost all his earnings toward a sum which would enable him to bring over his old father and mother.

He poured out his music to Miss Gilbert as he did his troubles with those "foolish girls who will not work at my lesson." And to all his plans and troubles she listened with sympathy as she always had done to any of the students whom she was taking a special interest. But sympathy and friendliness in a woman's heart toward a man, when the man is young, handsome and manly, is going to grow into love as surely as the acorn which Dame Nature also planted is going to grow into an oak.

One June day after he had walked home with her she sat in her room and with many blushes faced it—faced the fact that she loved the violinist. The song was all true: she loved her "Johnnie Morgan." And why not? she asked herself. Had she not worked hard for others all her life and been faithful in all things? Was it not right that the sunshine of love and happiness should come into her life. She dreamed that night of a cottage filled with the music of a violin, and never had she looked so radiant and so young as she did the next day.

"I had a letter this morning from my little sister," she said to Antonio the next evening as he walked home with her. "She is coming next week to spend her vacation with me."

"Ah, the little sister. I shall love the little child for the sake of St. Anna," exclaimed Antonio.

Saint Anna laughed.

"Oh, she's not so small as all that," she replied. "Saidie is 18 and a great tall girl, but I call her my little sister because she always has been my baby. She has been at normal school and next season she will begin to teach."

Saidie came, and a rosebud of rare perfection she was—a perfect type of blond beauty, with a warm heart and a vivacity which charmed all who met her. To her physical charms she added a character built on strongest foundations, for to this baby sister had Miss Anna given all the loving care and earnestness of thought, all the building up of ideals that she had missed in her own girlhood and acquired in her hard battles with the world.

The next time Antonio walked home with his "St. Anna" she insisted that he come in and see the "little sister." He came and they had a cup of tea and Antonio, who was prepared to make himself agreeable for the sake of his patroness and friend, soon forgot all about her in the presence of the sparkling youth and beauty of Saidie. He came more often than ever after that and sat in undisguised rapture and adoration at the feet of the younger girl. Nor was she less attracted by the dark-faced foreigner with the soft black eyes.

As Miss Anna watched them it all came to her and she saw, not as through a glass darkly, but as in the glare of the morning light, how it all was and would be. She had built up these two, had given them sustenance from her own nature, had fed their souls and warmed their hearts for this very thing. And what could be better, she thought, than that these two young things, full of life and love and the sunshine of the present and promise of the future, should love each other. Nothing, she told herself, nothing could be better. It was natural. It was right.

As she stood in front of her glass she looked closely at herself, scanning her features critically.

"You thought you could be young again," she said, "but you had more than ten years against you."

She looked closely at her heavy brown hair and noting the few gray hairs about the temples she smiled a little sadly to herself. She looked loving at Saidie, asleep on the bed, and said softly:

"He is her Johnnie Morgan," and then with a weary sigh, "Oh, how glad I am that Wellesley needs another drawing teacher next year."

If Saidie had been awake instead of asleep she might have seen above the head of St. Anna the ring of white light which encircled the head of the saint in this her supreme hour of sacrifice.

There's Nothing "Just as Good"

As Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for womanly diseases. No one knows this better than the woman who has tried local doctors and many medicines and found no cure until she began the use of "Favorite Prescription." It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I was troubled for three years with ulceration and female weakness and my doctor gave me but little relief," writes Mrs. Lula Hunter, of Allenton, St. Louis Co., Mo. "I saw an advertisement in the paper of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I began the use of it about a year ago. I took five bottles of it, and one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and my health is better now than it was for years. I have also recommended these medicines to some of my friends, who suffered from female weakness, and good results have followed."

DISGRACEFUL VANDALISM.

The Flower Beds in Victoria Park Destroyed and Plants Stolen.

The school children swept down upon Victoria Park yesterday, and destroyed the flowers, tramping them under foot and pulling them out by the roots.

From what the Times can learn it appears that after Mr. Blade had removed his flowers early yesterday morning. Some of the children got it into their heads that everything of value had been removed, and at noon they proceeded to tear up what were left. They were soon joined by scores of others, who did not stop until the work of destruction was complete.

It is too bad that such a thing should happen. The loss to Messrs. Jordan Bros. and to Mr. F. Mason, will be considerable, as they had some valuable plants and flowers in the park, which they were preparing to remove.

It is hoped that the children, who have any of the plants, will return them at once, as criminal proceedings will be instituted.

Since writing the above we learn that it was not only children who were the vandals, but grown people and teachers took a hand in and helped them.

Strong words by a New York Specialist.—"After years of testing and comparison I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the quickest, safest, and surest known to medical science. I use it in my own practice. It relieves the most acute forms of heart ailment inside of thirty minutes and never fails."—35

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and dot not find a perfect cure we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in affecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

$25,000 Our Grand $25,000
Ornithological Contest

Something entirely new and interesting. Read what you are to do. You may get $1,000. Our contest is to one who can make the largest list of names (or kinds) of birds from the following list of letters:

W D O O O C C K Q U L I A P R T
A R I D G E S P N I E L V E B
R D I M W A D O H T L

We will recognize as a bird anything belonging to the feathered tribe, whether it be a Hen, Crow, Singer or any other kind. You can use any letter as many times to make a name as it appears in the list of letters above; for instance Woodcock, Plover, Snow Bird, etc. To any persons who can make a list of 25 or more different names of birds, we will give, absolutely FREE a beautiful Prize valued $1,000 or less.

BIG PRIZES AWARDED DAILY.

When you have made out your list fill out the line on the bottom of this advt. and send it to us with a Stamped, Addressed envelope, stamp of your country will do, then if you are awarded a prize you can if you desire get the prize by becoming a subscriber to THE WOMAN'S WORLD. We shall award a prize to every person who sends the name of 25 birds and our gifts will be as follows: For the best list, received each day, a Gold Watch; for the second best solution each day a beautiful Imported Tea Set; for the seven next best solutions each day, a Kimrah Sakih Diamond and Ruby Ring; for the next best solution, a Gold Piece; and for all other correct solutions, Prizes of Good Value. These Prizes will be forwarded daily, you will not have to wait a long time in uncertainty before you know the result. There is no element of lottery in our plan, it makes no difference whether we get your solution late or early in the day. All you need is to mail this Advt. to us, and on the day it reaches us, if your list is the best, YOU SHALL HAVE THE GOLD WATCH or if second best the beautiful Tea Set, and so on. We guarantee that we will award you a prize. There is absolutely no opportunity for deception on our part—we cannot afford it. We want to get 1,000,000 well satisfied subscribers, and for that reason we don't want you to send any money until you know exactly what prize you have gained by answering the puzzle. As soon after 4 p.m. each day as possible, the examiners will judge the lists to the best of their ability, and will designate the prizes. We will write to you at once notifying you what prize has been awarded you, then if you are satisfied, you can send your subscription to THE WOMAN'S WORLD and your prize will go by return of mail carriage paid. To a person of narrow ideas it seems impossible that we should be able to make such a gigantic order, but we have the money, brains, and reputation, we know exactly what we are doing, and if we can legitimately gain a million subscribers by this grand idea we know that this million of well pleased subscribers can be induced to recommend The Woman's World to all friends, thereby building up our circulation still further. We are willing to spend $25,000 in this contest in building up a big subscription list, and when this money is spent we reserve the right to publish a notification that the contest has been discontinued. Don't delay until it is too late. The contest will continue until Jan. 1902.

We give A Bonus Prize of $250 independent of all others to the person who sends in the list gotten up in the best and handsomest manner. Our Committee will decide and award prizes daily, but the special $250 prize will be awarded in March 1902. Any bird's name found in the dictionaries accepted.

JUSTICE CAME LATE

BY COUNT LEO TOLSTOI.

Concluded from yesterday.

nothing of the condition of his wife and child in Wladimir.

One day a new consignment of convicts arrived at the prison—among whom was a tall, [illegible] man, [illegible] years of age, who was immediately recognized by Askenow as Semenowitch, a [illegible] who had been [illegible] at one with his wife [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the new convict was greatly [illegible], as Askenow had grown [illegible] and changed [illegible] appearance [illegible] he could not recognize him.

"My name is Iwan Semenowitch Askenow, do you know me?"

"[illegible]," stammered Semenowitch, "but how you have altered."

"You know I have suffered twenty-six years here for a crime that you know I did not commit. But what brings you here?"

"Oh, the simple theft of a horse. The authorities did not like me very much, so they thought they might as well get rid of me for some time," replied Semenowitch.

Throughout the conversation Askenow noticed that Semenowitch did not look him once straight in the eyes, and that his hand trembled constantly.

Askenow had grown very religious during the past two years, and he was permitted to hold meetings for the convicts every Sunday. It was on the Sunday after Semenowitch had arrived that he heard Askenow preach for the first time. He was greatly touched by the earnest words of his [illegible] rival. It was noticed that after that day he kept much to himself, and was much engrossed in the reading of religious books. Two weeks after his arrival he was fatally injured by the falling of a coal car upon him. He was conveyed to the prison hospital.

When the physician told him that there was no hope for him and that he had better prepare to make his peace with God, he asked to see Askenow. When the latter arrived at his bedside he saw at once that the end was not far off.

"Forgive me, Askenow, if you can forgive the greatest sinner on earth," said the dying man.

"What wrong have you done to me?" asked Askenow.

"I am the cause of your great unhappiness and of the misfortunes of your family. It was I who murdered the merchant and who stole his money. Desperately in love with your wife I determined to follow you that awful day. It was you that I intended to kill, but when I learned of the wealth carried by the rich merchant, I determined to do away with him, and after securing his money, cause suspicion to rest on you. It was a dastardly plot. Having secured the fortune and put you in prison it was my intention to seek to gain your wife's affections.

"For three years I called on her, trying to convince her of your guilt and begging her to forget you. But your wife, Askenow, would not harken to my suit. Each time I called I found her more attached to you. She loves only you and your child."

Askenow was greatly moved when he heard this startling confession. Tears rolled down his sunken cheeks at the mention of his wife and child. At first his soul revolted against the wretch who had ruined his life, but he soon relented. "Ask God for forgiveness," he said, "mine you have."

Semenowitch would not be contented, however, until he was given a chance to repeat his confession in the presence of the prison officials, and obtain from them a promise that Askenow would be released at once.

Semenowitch died in peace. A week later Askenow returned to Wladimir, where he found his wife, a faithful sufferer, overjoyed that Providence had returned her husband to her, and that he would stand before the world as an innocent man. She had been kept in comfortable circumstances by her son, a stalwart young man twenty-seven years of age, the very image of Askenow.

McKINLEY WAS AN OPPORTUNIST

Goldwin Smith, writing in the Weekly Sun, gives the following estimate of the late President McKinley's character:

The tragedy of President McKinley's death, filling all hearts with pity and sorrow, at the time forbade criticism of his character and career. He now stands fairly before the tribunal of history. That his private character was spotless need not be said. Personally he was amiable and popular in a high degree. Nor need it be denied that his intentions were fair. Here eulogy must pause. Comparison with Abraham Lincoln is absurd. Lincoln studied popular sentiment, the sentiment of what he called the plain people, and with singular success. But he did not shift his principles to suit the market. He only took care in giving them effect, to watch the current of opinion and act when he could feel that it was on his side. The policy which he embraced at the outset he pursued to the end. The late President was an opportunist, a trimmer, as he would once have been called. When Silver seemed the winning card, to Silver he inclined. When Gold prevailed, he was for Gold. When Protection was in the ascendant, he pandered to it by framing the most illiberal of Protectionist tariffs. At last, seeing that Protection was losing hold, he began to slide over to Free Trade. It seemed certain that in his conscience he was opposed to war with Spain. Yet, yielding to prejudice, he went into it without the shadow of a cause, and lent himself to the expedient of firing the popular heart by countenancing the charge against the Spanish authorities of blowing up the Maine, in which it is impossible to imagine that he could believe. He solemnly abjured annexation of territory; yet he annexed, and went about saying that Duty had taking the hand of destiny. On the Porto Rican tariff question he also abandoned his position. Lincoln did his own thinking, with little influence from without; McKinley was believed to be greatly under the influence of a party manager, not the most scrupulous of the tribe. If ever the honor of the country appealed for vindication to its chief, the honor of the American Republic appealed to the President for vindication in the case of the lynchings; yet there was no answer to the appeal. Mr. McKinley was no doubt personally incorrupt. But he was not unwilling, for a party purpose, to lend his countenance to the barefaced corruption by which Mr. Addicks has been trying to capture a Senatorship in Delaware. Mr. McKinley's popularity of late was largely sustained by the national prosperity, with the production of which he had nothing to do; which, on the contrary, would have been greater still had it not been for his tariff policy. The best plea, perhaps, for him is that he was nominated for the Presidency, not as a great statesman, but as an availability, and that an availability cannot be expected to do what is done by a great statesman.

RAN FULL SPEED UP THE SLOPE

Victoria, Oct. 2.—The following are the names of the seventeen miners who were smothered in the Extension coal mine fire, which was caused by an explosion: Geo. Southcomb, timberman, married, family, resided at Ladysmith, 24 years of age, a native of Australia. Eugene Griffiths, timberman, married, aged 42, resided at Ladysmith, Welshman, manager of the Ladysmith baseball club. John Patterson, miner, married, with family, aged 42, Ladysmith. Jas. Watson, miner, 50, married, family, resided at Ladysmith. Michael Dolan, miner, aged 25, married, with family, resided at Ladysmith. William Pollock, miner, aged 27, single, resided at Extension. Lind, miner, aged 38, a Russian Finn, newly married, resided at Extension. J. McCallum, miner, married, family, resided at Extension. B. Blakely, miner, aged 33, single, lived with McCallum. E. Hazel, miner, single, a native of Idaho. Frank Millishaw, pusher, single, came from Nanaimo. Chas. Noye, pusher, married, resided at Ladysmith. Boyd, pusher, of Nova Scotia, resided at Extension. Hamilton, pusher, single, just out from Scotland. It was his first day's work, resided at Extension. Antonio Pescottelli, pusher, single, native Brescia, Italy, resided at Extension.

The breaking of the news at Ladysmith was accompanied by sad scenes. Many of the families are left destitute. The miners who perished ran with the fresh air instead of against it, attempting to come out as the custom was, thus meeting death half way. While the rescuers were searching for the lost miners the mine exploded, blocking the rescue party. After this explosions went on at irregular intervals all the afternoon and evening.

The escape of James Thomas, rope rider, was most thrilling. He rides with the trips, and was going down when he saw the fire down the slope. As he sprang off the car and turned to run, Geo. Southcomb and Eugene Griffith, two timbermen who were working close to where the fire broke out, called to him to come with them out. Thomas ran full speed up the slope, which is a thousand feet from the level to the mouth, and barely escaped with his life by fleetness of foot. Southcomb and Griffiths were overtaken by smoke and flames, and perished as they ran.

While the rescuers were at work several explosions occurred. When it was realized that the men could not be saved, a stopping force started to close the mine, but the work was undone by a terrific explosion which blew down the barricade. A little later the fan house was burned. Hundreds of men will be thrown out of work.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.

President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1901.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

* * * * *

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for no securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June. New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is today the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but shows their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1865, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print. The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.

New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

PABST BREWING CO.

J. R. Kathrens, Adv. Mgr.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7, 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and most successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others followed his publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the gross stupidity of imitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,895 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspapr directories gratis, but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13, 1900.

JOS. H. HANNEN,

Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

S. H. HARDWICK,

General Passenger Agent.

Washington, D. C., May 21, 1901.

BALTIMORE.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

Perfect Manhood

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling as if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality. It creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease; no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and make the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 14 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his abilities. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

A LINDSAY MAN'S EVIDENCE.

Says that Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Cured Him in Short Order.

If anyone were to take the trouble to make inquiries in Lindsay about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, he would be surprised the number of people there that had taken that remedy with the most beneficial results for backache, kidney and bladder troubles of one kind and another.

On making inquiries of Mr. Geo. Gain, of that town, respecting his case, he gave our representative the following statement:—"Hearing of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, I procured a bottle from my druggist, and I want to say that they are excellent. I had a very bad backache, the result of cold settling there, and they cured it in very short order, so I feel I can recommend them strongly to anyone suffering from backache or kidney troubles."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

NOTE—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is planned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed. Times.]

—Millbrook fall fair takes place to-day.

—The Times Job Rooms make a specialty of printing "at home" cards, wedding invitations, etc.

—The City Council of Kingston has decided to rent 22 voting machines for the municipal elections in January.

—At a meeting of Session of St. Andrew's Church, Mr. Alfred Davies was unanimously re-appointed organist and choir master.

Alex. Edmison, of Rosemeath, swallowed a hornet in a drink of milk the other day. The insect stung him as it went down and gave him an exceedingly sore throat.

—Prof. Torrington, of Toronto, heard Peterborough's Royal Chorus on Wednesday evening, and is very complimentary to the local singers, of whose work he said there was little to criticise and much to praise.

—In the absence of Mr. Dumble at Stony Lake, Mr. James Stevenson, J.P., was on the bench at the Police Court yesterday morning. He assessed two citizens $1 each for riding bicycles on the sidewalk.

—The breaking of a wheel on a box car stopped the Lakefield mixed train about a mile from this town on Wednesday. Most of the passengers walked in and the damage was repaired so as to make the return trip on time.

—You will make no mistake when you go to G. E. Whiten's for your photos. He has taken first prize whenever he showed his work in Peterborough and Toronto. Studio, 148 Hunter street, sign of the Golden camera.

—The Johnny Rogers benefit concert which was to have been held on Oct. 8th, has again been postponed until after next week. This postponement is caused by the fact that nearly all the talent procured for the concert will be absent on above date in Toronto at the Duke's reception.

—The Gold Lake Hunting party is becoming restless as the deer hunting season approaches. Chief Snowden says that the camp this year will be conducted on the most approved plan. The mobile column, under Lieut. Sam Ray, will get in their work daily as usual, while the chief will hold the keys of the buttermilk tank.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.

The Matter of Sewer Connection With the Convent.

The regular meeting of the Separate School Board was held Wednesday evening, there being present, the Chairman, Mr. James Murty, and Messrs. McGrath, Henry, Clancy, Hickey and Geselin. Ven. Archdeacon Casey was also in attendance.

The following accounts were presented and referred to the Finance Committee:

Allan McCarthy	$11 60
Stevenson Coal Co	12 75
Fred Cook	28 54
Globe Printing Co	70
G. W. Green	6 75
Hall & Hayes	6 00

The school attendance for September was reported as follows:

	On Roll.	Av.
Lake street	210	138
Convent school	243	221
Murray street	238	187
	689	547

The Supply Committee was instructed to purchase supplies required.

Mr. McGrath, chairman of the Finance Committee, reported recommending payment of the following accounts:

Kingan Hardware Co	$ 6 15
A. McDonald	57 30
A. McDonald	6 65
A. H. Stratton & Co., 4 aggts	55 60

Moved by Mr. McGrath, seconded by Mr. Henry, that the matter of having sewerage connection made at the Convent be referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Clancy and Geselin to consider best, and report result to this board.—Carried.

LAKEFIELD FAIR.

Big Attendance and a Very Successful Exhibition.

The annual exhibition of the Smith Buckhorn and Lakefield Agricultural Society was held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at Lakefield. The attendance was very large—fully equal to that of last year, and last year's fair was a greater success than any preceding one.

The exhibit of horses in every class was very large and surpassed anything in the history of the exhibition. The class of animals shown were of a very superior quality.

No Children's Sewing Class

The Children's Sewing Class will not meet until a week from to-morrow, instead of to-morrow.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Events Under This Head Transpiring In and Around Peterborough.

NOTE—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature either by phone or in writing.—Ed. Times.]

—Police Magistrate Dumble is resting at Stony Lake.

—Mr. Fred. Matschke, of Cleveland, is in town visiting his old home.

—Mr. Wm. O'Brien, the popular clerk of Douro, was in town yesterday.

—Mrs. G. G. Gladman, of Parry Sound, is the guest of Mrs. D. J. Lundy.

—Mr. R. Fair has returned from Toronto after spending several days in the city.

—Mrs. A. L. Davis and Miss Stephens have been at the former's Stony Lake cottage for the last day or two.

—Miss Eva Clements, after a month's visit at her uncle's, M. C. Clemens, No. 7, Walton street, returned to her home in Uxbridge yesterday.

—Messrs. A. Budd and E. Russell have returned home after a three months' visit to the parents of the latter in Quebec, where they saw the Duke and Duchess on the Plains of Abraham at the military review.

—The many friends of Mrs. C. Clements, who has been undergoing a special course of medical treatment for the past six weeks, will be pleased to know that she is doing nicely, and expects to return to Peterborough in a couple of weeks.

THE FALL ASSIZES

[illegible] Lover Has to Pay $600 Damages

In the seduction case of Scriver vs. Richardson, at the assizes, the jury brought in a verdict for $600 in favor of the plaintiff. The amount sued for was $2,000.

The court announced yesterday morning that judgment was reserved in the case of Fitzgerald vs. Fitzgerald.

Jenkins vs. Jenkins was the next case. This was an action brought by Paul Jenkins, jr., against his father, Paul Jenkins, sr., for specific performance of a contract to convey to the former a farm in Asphodel. After the contract had been entered into Paul Jenkins, sr., gave a mortgage on the farm, and owing to defective registrations of the agreement the mortgagee received no notice of the agreement, and the plaintiff asked that the agreement take priority over the mortgage. The action was settled by consent.

Pouquette vs. the Dickson Co. and Starr vs. Hazlitt were transferred to the non-jury sittings on the 3rd of December.

Ontario Bank vs. Wynn on application of the plaintiff was by consent allowed to stand over until the next court.

Humphries vs. Aggett was also adjourned until the next court, owing to the absence of a witness for the defence.

Kidney Cry.—Pain in the back is the cry of the kidneys for help. To neglect the call is to deliver the body over to a disease cruel, ruthless, and finally life destroying. South American Kidney Cure has power akin to miraculous in helping the needy kidneys out of the mire of disease. It relieves in six hours.—38

S. A. Harvest Festival.

The Harvest Festival celebration of the local Salvation Army, according to the program, promises to be a successful affair.

The barracks are being decorated tastily and the produce and the articles given to the Corps will be displayed on Monday. The meetings arranged for are as follows—and are being conducted by Staff Capt. Archibald, the Prison Gate officer, from Toronto.

Saturday, Oct. 5th, welcome meeting to the Staff Capt.

Sunday, meetings all day, 7 p.m., prayer meeting, 11 a.m., subject "The Moth," 3 p.m., An address upon the Prison Gate work, 7 p.m., "Trophies of Grace." No one should fail to hear the Staff Captain's address on Sunday afternoon.

On Monday will be the great sale of goods preceded by the Harvesters' March. Refreshments and a musical program will be furnished during the evening.

Why Catarrhozone Cures Catarrh

Because it is carried by the air you breathe to diseased parts, because it destroys the germ life that maintains the diseased condition, because it powerfully stimulates the mucous membrane to its normal action, because through its oxydizing power it burns up rapidly the old tissue and stimulates the formation of new healthy tissue. Catarrhozone is an absolute specific for Catarrh of every form, and never fails to cure. Catarrhozone is the only remedy sold with a guarantee. At all dealers, 25c and $1.00.

SCHLEY TRIAL WILL BE LONG

Little Prospect That There Will be an Early Termination.

Washington, Oct. 3.—After the usual preliminary proceedings in the Schley court of enquiry to-day Lieut. James J. Doyle, formerly of the flagship Brooklyn, was recalled for the purpose of continuing his testimony.

When the court adjourned yesterday Lieut. Doyle was under examination by Mr. Rayner, and the court had just decided that the witness should not enter upon a discussion of the blockade of Santiago as it was conducted after the arrival of Commander-in-Chief Sampson.

Both the court and counsel are beginning to know the effects of the arduous duties imposed by the trial. The duties on counsel don't cease when the court adjourns in the afternoon, but they extend far into the night and often the men are found at their labors before the breakfast hour next morning.

But while all agree that it might be desirable to have the case terminated at an early date, they all agree that there is little prospect in that direction. Mr. Rayner has almost forty names on his list, though he says he does not expect to examine more than half of this number. Mr. Rayner expects Admiral Schley to make a complete review of the case, and it is probable that the admiral will be on the stand longer than any other witness.

Building Operations.

The establishment in Peterborough of the Cereal Company's works and the Carriage Company's operations is having the effect of stimulating building. There is now a demand for houses, to accommodate the steadily increasing population. Mr. John Carlisle, who has done so much to build up the town and neighboring village, on Wednesday began operations near the electric works. He will put up a handsome terrace of six houses, which will be completed this fall.

PEARL INDUSTRY BLACK RIVER

Three Thousand Fishers in Arkansas Seek for Fortunes.

New York, Oct. 3.—Pearl fishing on the Black River in Arkansas has become an industry of real importance. Twenty-five years ago fishermen in opening "clams" for bait, found pearls. One found a pearl as large as a quail's egg, which he carried in his pocket. Showing it one day in Memphis, he was offered $10 for it. He accepted, and told his friends about the "fool who gave him $10 for a bright marble." To-day that "marble" would bring $2,500. Most of the pearls have been found by persons who waded out in the bars and gathered the mussels. This confined the fishing to the shallow waters. This season, Leslie Coffey constructed a dredge to work in deeper water.

The pearling season usually begins in May and continues until cold weather. Many transient fishers come down from the surrounding country between harvesting and planting crops. Whole families camp near the river.

While these and others out of regular work form a large proportion of the pearlers, there are some operators who hire men and boys to fish for them, paying them wages or furnishing them their outfits and board and dividing the pearls.

For three months of the year the number of pearlers is not less than 3,000.

Pearling is much like mining. One man in one month found $2,000 worth. Another found a $50 pearl in the first shell he opened. A little girl waded out and picked up a mussel which held a $10 pearl. A negro found an $85 pearl the first half day he worked, while one young man worked seven months and found less than $10 worth. Nearly all who try find some pearls, but the greater part of them are nearly worthless. Pearls of 40 grains that are perfect in color, shape and lustre, bring $1,000, rough or discolored pearls sell as low as from 5 cents to $1. The aggregate of pearls sold in Black Rock and paid for through the local bank this summer amounts to over $75,000.

INSPECTED THE BRIDGE

The County Council go in a Body to the Chemong Lake

Yesterday the County Council, accompanied by County Engineer Belcher, drove out to Chemong Lake and inspected the new bridge.

The members expressed themselves well pleased with the work, which is a credit to the contractor, Messrs. Bogue & McDermott.

The bridge was formally opened by Warden Fitzgerald, and is now a full fledged public highway.

IN [illegible]

The New York Times tells of an incident that shows how large ocean steamships have become: "Once a little immigrant boy, about 7 years old, was lost for four days on the voyage over. He left his mother and started in quest of adventure about the big ship, but upon growing tired was unable to find his way back to her. Instead of asking some one to show him where to go, or telling that he was lost the young truant decided to continue his explorations indefinitely. When found he was sleeping in an empty coal box down among the engines. One of the crew took him to the captain, who detailed six stewards to search for his mother. They found her with some difficulty, and discovered that out to look for her son and not being she, two, had been lost, having started able to get to her own part of the ship again."

Americans who have visions of living cheaply in Paris should banish them. It is a good rule to count on its costing as much in the City of Laughter as in New York or Chicago, with this difference, that in Paris sleeping rooms heated by steam or hot air and lighted by electricity or gas can only be found in high-priced hotels and pensions. Bath rooms are equally scarce closets are important enough to be especially mentioned in the advertisements, a single window is the rule, and the majority of rooms face court's or back yards because of the peculiar construction adopted for French apartment houses. Americans cannot find "all the comforts of home" without paying roundly for them.

DOURO.

(Correspondence of The Times.)

—The farmers are busy threshing these days.

—Everybody in Douro reads The Times. It is by all odds the most popular paper that comes into the township.

—We are pleased to note that our esteemed citizen, Mr. Anvil McCann, reports having had a good season's business. Anvil has a knack of knowing how to do good work, and he don't care who knows it, either.

—There is not likely to be much excitement over the approaching municipal elections. Reeve Moloney is the right man in the right place, as also are his Council. Douro has no reason to feel ashamed of her little Parliament.

—A curious incident came to the ears of The Times. It appears that Mr. Towns' mare, "Split the Wind," is missing from her bed and board, and her owner is considerably upset in consequence. From what can be learned regarding this unhappy event, it seems that Mr. Towns, while the horse was feeding, read aloud from The Times a list of fall shows. It was noticed that the knowing animal stopped eating and pricked up her ears while her master was so engaged. There were several persons present at the time, amongst whom was Mr. Maurice O'Brien, who is regarded as an expert on horses. Next day when Mr. Towns went to the stable the mare was gone. Mr. O'Brien says that the animal is out making the rounds of the fall fairs, prize tickets. This may or may not be true, but if true it goes to show that even horses like The Times.

—Messrs. Tom O'Brien and "Red Jimmy" attended the Peterborough Central Fair, where they took in the great Pan American exhibition. Jimmy says that it was immense and well worth a quarter. In fact he would not have missed it for a hundred dollars.

The U. S. Vice-President.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Will the Times kindly inform its readers who becomes Vice-President of the United States after the Vice-President elected by the people takes the position of President, and oblige.

A READER.

Reply—This is provided for in section 3, article I., of the constitution. The Vice-President is by virtue of his office, President of the Senate, but having no vote except on a tie. The constitution provides that the Senate, in choosing its other officers, shall choose a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States. It will accordingly be one of the first duties on the reassembling of the U. S. Senate to elect from among that body a President who will also become Vice-President of the United States. But inasmuch as it had become customary for the Vice-President to allow the Senate before the close of each session to appoint a President pro tempore, so that the organization of that body may not be affected during the recess by the death of either the President or Vice-President, this may have been done last session. In any case the matter presents no difficulty except in the choice of the man.—Ed. Times.

Let the Campaign Begin

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I am sure the ratepayers generally, are becoming alarmed at the rapid increase in our municipal taxes, without, apparently, any corresponding advantage. It is, therefore time that something be done, and I would suggest that a campaign in favor of economy be begun at once.

It is no use to look around and pick out a man here and there, thinking that the election of such would make any material difference in the methods of the Council.

What is needed is for the labour men to look up the question and deal with it. A platform should be subscribed to, specifying EXACTLY what reforms are to be inaugurated by the new Council. Amongst these should be:

1. Abolishing the office of a salaried Town Engineer, and substituting therefor a practical man, who will have full charge of the roads, and who is accustomed to handling men. This would result in saving the town thousands of dollars annually.
2. Reduction of the police force, and salaries of the same.
3. Purchase of the water works, which can be done without costing the town a cent, and thus give us control of a splendid water power, worth much more than Dam No. 5.
4. The changing of the method of assessing the property of the town. Under the present system, men with larger incomes escape by paying only a fraction of what they should, while many of our largest stores do not pay anything on their stocks. Other property is assessed too high, while favorites get off with light assessment, in many cases.
5. Put a stop to town employees getting commissions on orders for hose and such like.
6. See that the various industries of the town which have received exemption from taxes and other favors, are living up to the conditions of their contract with the town as to the number of men employed, etc.
7. Let all jobs by contract.
8. The abolition of cash bonuses to manufacturies.
9. The erection by the town of a line of poles, on the streets and compelling all power and light companies to use the poles, paying rent therefor. A source of revenue could thus be provided, that would be sufficient to keep the poles in good order, and neatly painted. The hundreds of other poles could be cleared off the streets.
10. An absolutely free market, with a small fee for weighing, sufficient to pay a man to look after the market.

These and other reforms should be specified and subscribed too by all candidates entering the municipal field. I venture to say, Mr. Editor, that with such a platform, the ticket would sweep the town. What do you think, Mr. Times?

A RATEPAYER.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

Special Meeting to Consider the Matter of the Mud Lake Bridge.

A special meeting of the County Council, of the County of Peterborough, was held yesterday morning. There were present Mr. Geo. W. Fitzgerald, Warden, and Messrs. Shaw, J. B. Pearce, Dr. Jeffs, E. A. Peck, Wm. Anderson, P. Costello, and Richard Crowe. The Warden explained his reason for calling the meeting, and in the afternoon the councilmen went out to inspect the bridge.

The Marks' Company.

The "Village Blacksmith" presented by the Marks Company last night was played to a crowded house. Mr. Marks and his company deserve great credit for the manner in which the play was staged and the way in which the different characters played their parts. The Company will present "Under Two Flags," to-night.

TROOPER SUTTON TELLS OF SKIRMISH

A Canadian Tells of Fierce Fight With Boers.

THE WAR CONSTANTLY DRAGS ON

Montreal, Oct. 5.—An interesting letter descriptive of a recent brush between the Boers and a few of the Canadian members of the South African Constabulary, has been received by Mr. W. R. Sutton, of 273 Bleury street, from his son Trooper W. T. Sutton, formerly a private in No. 2 Company of the Victoria Rifles, but now a member of Baden-Powell's South African Constabulary.

A BRUSH WITH THE ENEMY

"On Friday morning we got up at 5 o'clock and packed up our things ready for the convoy to take. About 8 o'clock the Lieutenant arrived and shortly afterwards the waggon which had Corporal Graham's supplies on board. After loading up we started, two mounted men in front and then Trooper Clement and myself, followed by the convoy and the rest of the men. When we left the old camp we moved out to the front due east up through the mealie patch and on across the black and burnt country, which is now beginning to show little patches of green where the grass is starting to grow. While marching along, extended some distance apart, we saw two fine Spring Bok coming towards us running at wonderful speed. We did not get a chance to have a shot at them as they were going so fast. After a walk of about four and a half miles we came up with the two mounted men and sometime after the convoy appeared coming over the hill behind us. Our orders were to find the right hand post of No 14 Troop and dig our trench at a distance of 1,000 yards from it, but there was no post or tent to be seen, so we decided to turn north and after sometime we saw a few buildings scattered about on the sky line on the other side of a hollow while down in the hollow were two or three Kaffir houses. Troopers J. Harris, one of the mounted men went down to the houses, while McInnis and I followed him and Trooper Bird rode over to interview some horsemen who appeared in the distance.

These men turned out to be scouts from No. 14 and 15 troops, and their Captain told Bird that they were undecided where to make their camp and would probably take up their quarters for the night in one of the Kaffir houses. He advised us to do the same so we returned to the convoy and sat down trying to decide what to do. There were nine of us altogether,—firstclass Trooper McInnis, who was in charge of the convoy, and first class Trooper J. Harris, who was acting as scout. Then there were Troopers M. Bird, J. Clement, A. Roche, C. Dewar, E. McDonald and two Montreal men, C. D[illegible] and myself.

Some of us were sitting or lying down, having a bite of biscuit, as we had not had anything since breakfast, while others were looking about. The two Zulu drivers were sitting near their oxen smoking, and McInnis and Harris had ridden over towards Corporal Graham's men, who were out of sight a mile or so to the south over the sky line. A short time had elapsed when we heard some shots, and Troopers McInnis and Harris came over the rise about 400 yards in front of us, urging their horses on as hard as they could go. One of the men jumped up and said, "By heavens something must be wrong to make them go like that!" Just as they reached the convoy, there appeared over the rise two mounted men coming at an easy canter then another appeared to the right, and two more, and so they kept coming, until they were ten or eleven of them. On they came down the slope of the hill, and at the same time twenty more appeared and began to move round our right flank, taking up their position in a mealie field some 500 yards in our rear. When we first saw them we were doubtful who they were, and, therefore, did not fire, as we thought they might be some of our own scouts. However, our doubts were soon dispelled when several of them, stopping their horses, dismounted, dropped on one knee and then whiz, whiz, and something flew past us with an angry hiss; at the same time little spurts of dust showed where other bullets were striking. There

WAS NO HESITATION THEN

No orders were given, indeed, in a case like this; it is best for every man to use his own judgment. Most of the men ran back about 20 yards behind the convoy where a few ant-hills and inequalities in the ground gave some shelter. I made for an ant-hill about 15 yards off and was not long in reaching it, as the bullets were whistling round me pretty lively. When I got there I had no time to observe what was going on. Shortly after the commencement of the fight, Harris' horse was shot through the head, and as he was trying to drag it towards an ant hill it fell dead, with the blood pouring from its wound. Soon after this, one of the Boers' horses was killed, and then an old man who was standing up by his horse and blazing away at us was shot. His head fell forward, his knees gave way and he dropped on his face, and after one or two struggles lay still. Soon after another Boer was killed. He was shot right through his stomach, the bullet piercing a leather belt he was wearing and going out at his back. I saw the belt afterwards. His horse was also killed.

I turned my attention then to a Boer in a gray suit, who was near the foot of the hill. The first shot I fired fell short, so I put the sight up to 400 yards. This time a spurt of dust close to his left, showed that I was getting nearer and then some one shot his horse. It fell and after kicking furiously for a few minutes lay still. Next I saw the Boer give a start, and commence to limp up the hill. The others mounted their horses, and picking him up disappeared over the rise, the way they had come. The Boers in the mealie field behind us also moved off. They did not fire many shots for some reason or other. The whole fight lasted not more than five minutes, and resulted in the enemy losing two killed and at least one wounded. There may have been more, but I did not see them. They also lost three horses. Our loss was one horse killed. At the beginning of the fight the two Zulu drivers ran off, and turned up at headquarters some time later on. When all was over I went and had a look at the old Boer. He was a man of about 60 years of age, and had white hair and a long white beard. Someone had turned him over and he was lying on his back with his head back and mouth open, and his gray homespun vest and necktie were soaking with blood, which was slowly oozing from a wound in his left breast right over his heart. He looked a sorry spectacle. Somehow none of our oxen were hurt, so, after some difficulty, we got them started, and, meeting some of Corporal Graham's squad who had also had a brush with the enemy, drove back a mile or so and got a trench dug, where we stayed all night. We posted double sentries, but there was no further alarm. So much for our first fight. We are now busy on our new trench, which will take us some time to complete, and then I suppose we shall have to move again. However, such is life in the S. A.C. The rainy season is just commencing, and the nights at present are very cold and frosty. We have not had a single day yet as hot as a Canadian summer day, indeed sometimes we have to wear our great coats all day, the wind is so cold.

In another part of the letter Trooper Sutton informs his father that he is in fine health, and that he has not been sick since going to South Africa.

MURDERED WOMAN HE LOVED.

Prof. Creswell Made Insane by a Hopeless Infatuation.

Rolla, Mo., Oct. 4.—All of Wednesday the body of Prof. Joseph Simonds Creswell, instructor in the School of Mines and Metallurgy, who shot and killed nineteen-year-old Mollie Powell on Monday night in her widowed mother's parlor because she refused to marry him, lay in the City Hall here. Thousands called to look at the face of the murderer and suicide.

Creswell had been devoted to Miss Powell, a popular society girl, for a year, and was constantly pressing her to marry him. The young woman told him again and again that she did not love him and that, more, she was betrothed to another. Creswell was persistent. He was constantly at the Powell home, where he was regarded almost as one of the family, dining there often, driving out with mother or daughter and giving his entire leisure time to their society.

Miss Powell was nineteen years old on Monday. Her mother gave her a small dinner in honor of the event. Three men were invited. One of them was Creswell. After dinner the three guests and Miss Powell went driving in her trap. They returned about 8 P. M., and soon afterward the two other guests left. Creswell remained. Mrs. Powell and the family retired.

The discharge of a revolver in the parlor brought Mrs. Powell to that room. Her daughter lay bleeding on the floor with a bullet in her heart. She gasped that she had been shot and died.

Creswell had fled. Mrs. Powell gave the alarm and posses began scouring the country for the murderer. Next day the business of the town and of the classes of the school of mines were abandoned. There was only one thought, and that was to catch the murderer. Then followed false rumors all day. In the mean time the fugitive, without food or water, lay in a big shock of fodder back of the barn of Robert Love, at the extreme east limits of the town.

He had burrowed his way into the shock of corn. Afterward it was found that he had nibbled a little of the stunted corn in the fodder. One ear was found with some of the grains freshly pulled from it.

On Tuesday night the Mayor received a message from the house of Prof. Harris, which said that the murderer had hidden in the barn on the place. He had been seen when he stealthily emerged for water. The Mayor called four men to him.

Among them was Millard Faulkner, druggist; Arthur Knapp, his clerk; two others were sent off to the Harris place to see that Creswell did not escape. The Harris place is about three-quarters of a mile from the centre of the town, and the seven men met a short distance away and had a conference. It was agreed that they should scatter and surround the barn, and then at a signal close in and take the prisoner alive if possible, dead if necessary.

It was a daring thing to do. The seven men knew that the murderer was armed and they had the right to infer that he was desperate.

They surrounded the place and Faulkner and young Knapp climbed a fence. They saw that the barn door was open. Knapp stepped over the fence first and Faulkner handed him the shotgun. Then a shot rang out from under a tree close to the barn. The two men saw the flash, saw Creswell, with a revolver in his hand, stagger and fall.

Faulkner and Knapp and the other men sprang forward to where the murderer lay. He was breathing heavily lying prostrate on the ground. One of the men held a lantern over him. There was blood on his coat and his revolver lay near his right hand. They pulled open his coat and saw a clean wound in his breast. They shook him, calling him by name, but in a few minutes he died.

The face of the man shows how he suffered during those twenty-four hours of horror.

Pain in the Back

makes life miserable. Can it be cured? Yes in one night. Polson's Nerviline gives a complete knockout to pain in the back, for it penetrates through the tissues, takes out the soreness and pain, invigorates tired muscles, and makes you feel like a new man. Nerviline cures quickly because it is stronger, more penetrating, more highly pain-subduing than any other remedy. Don't suffer another minute, get Nerviline quick, and rub it in, for sure as you were born it will cure you. 25c.

UNIQUE GIFT FOR THE DUCHESS

Port Simpson Indians Confer Upon Her a Priceless Relic.

"HAT OF THE GREAT CHIEFS"

Ashcroft, B. C., Oct. 4.—The return journey of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York began in earnest yesterday. It is worthy of note that in this, the newest portion of our Dominion, the most venerable and unique gift received on the royal party's tour of the world was presented. On landing at Vancouver yesterday morning a deputation of Port Simpson Indian chiefs was met with. They were so pleased with the gracious reception given them by the Duke and Duchess some days ago that they determined to give them the most highly prized article in their possession. They are of a type wholly different from those of the prairie and Eastern Canada, both in physique and otherwise. Through a newspaper correspondent, the Indians happened to hear that the Duchess is very fond of Indian relics. The chiefs accordingly met and, as they expressed it, decided to give "the daughter of the King the best we have got, the Kite-um-Shamorgat," or the "Hat of the Chiefs." This headdress belonging to Port Simpson Indians is equivalent to the royal crown, and has been used by the chiefs for many generations, so long indeed, that they have no record of its origin. It is very highly prized among Indians, and Rev. A. E. Green, interpreter, expressed surprise that they were willing to part with it, but they are so pleased at the Duke's kindly reception of them and at his graciousness at meeting them again that they say, "We can only give the best we have to our King's daughter." This famous hat is made of curiously carved wood, and includes a unique mask. The top is of bristles pulled from the beards of sea lions, and of great antiquity. From it falls a mantle of ermine skins, the favorite decorations of the coast tribes. As it is said by the Indians to have been handed down for countless generations, the generosity of the tribe is the more notable. The Duke courteously thanked the Indians on behalf of the Duchess.

Thousands of citizens cheered the departure of the Royal train, and half a dozen bands played "God Save the King." The warships in the harbor fired a royal salute. The Duke inspected the bluejackets and complimented the officers in command, and the party was gone.

Between Yale and North Bend the Duke and Duchess, with some of the suite, mounted a specially prepared engine with arm chairs strapped upon it, and rode for some miles amid the wonderful rock scenery of Fraser Canyon. At a point at which the engine emerged from a tunnel a cinematograph picture of the royal engine was taken by T. MacGregor, R. N., who has been making pictures of the chief incidents of the tour of exhibition in England. Ovations were tendered the royal train all along the line. The royal party will divide at Banff, when the Duke will go on with a small following to Poplar Point, Manitoba, to shoot small game on Senator Kirchoffer's ranch. The Duchess remains at the mountain resort two days, where a program has been arranged for her entertainment.

PRINCE CHUN IS GRATEFUL

Head of Chinese Expiatory Mission Sends Thanks to Kaiser.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—Prince Chun, before leaving German territory, sent long dispatches to Emperor William thanking him for the "gracious reception" extended to the expiatory mission for the hospitality bestowed and the decoration conferred upon him, and expressing "a hope that the powerful German empire may promote the culture and development of China by a gracious show of mercy toward the Chinese dynasty and that Germany will maintain the best of relations with China."

Prince Chun had scarcely gotten away when news arrived that the German mission station near Tung-Tong had been devastated by rebels. The German consul in Canton immediately requested the Chinese authorities to take steps to punish the perpetrators of the outrage. The latest information as to the fate of the missionaries is that all but one escaped and reached Hong-Kong.

HERALDS PEACE FOR JAPAN.

Secretary Nakamura of Formosa Sees No Sign of War.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Z. Nakamura, secretary of the Japanese government for Formosa, and Z. Yasuda of Tokio arrived in Chicago yesterday from the west. When seen at the Auditorium Annex last night Secretary Nakamura said that there was little likelihood of war between Russia and Japan. Asked the reason, he continued:

"England and Japan are good friends. England does not want to see Corea or Manchuria belong to Russia. Russia knows the interests of England and Japan are similar. We are always ready for a conflict and our military strength is constantly being increased. If a war should come it would find us with no trouble at home. Formosa having been entirely pacified."

Mr. Yasuda, who is regarded as the Pierpont Morgan of his country, said the finances of Japan were in the best condition. The gold standard, he pointed out, was adopted there in 1898, and had been found to work most satisfactorily.

TO PREVENT EMMA GOLDMAN.

Mayor Orders Chief to Prevent Lecture That Incited Czolgosz to Crime

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Mayor Harrison has issued a peremptory order to Chief of Police O'Neill to prevent the delivery of any lecture by the anarchist leader, Emma Goldman, in Chicago at present. Her advertisement that she will give publicly the lecture that Czolgosz said incited him to kill President McKinley is declared by the city's executive to be "little short of the extreme of impudence." The mayor says Miss Goldman's public appearance now would be likely to provoke a breach of the peace.

DEATH STRUGGLE OF THE BURGHERS

London Papers Assert That Recent Dashes Represent This

KEKEWICH VERY CONSERVATIVE

London, Oct. 4.—The Chronicle entertains a very hopeful view of the South African situation. It says that a complete and sudden collapse of the Boer resistance is expected by the authorities, and for this reason the War Office has not even considered the advisability of despatching reinforcements. Botha's fight on the Zululand border and Delarey's little affair at Moedwil, near Rustenburg are regarded as the last desperate efforts of discouraged men. The Chronicle prophesies an early conclusion which will come with startling suddenness.

The Standard has received a despatch from Cape Town regarding the recent visit to Pretoria of Sir Gordon Sprigg, Premier of Cape Colony. It says that there is much speculation over the object of the conference with Milner and Kitchener, and it is generally assumed that the country is on the eve of important developments.

THE MOEDWILL SURPRISE.

London, Oct. 4.—Lord Kitchener has sent the following further particulars regarding the attack by Delarey on the camp of Colonel Kekewich, at Moedwill: "I have received particulars from Kekewich in regard to the attack on his camp. A Yeomanry patrol, which was sent out before dawn, met the enemy advancing. They gave warning, but it was too late to prevent the pickets being rushed, which enabled the Boers to occupy a position with good cover from which they poured in a heavy fire at an effective range, while at the same time there was an attack at both flanks. The attack was repulsed after two hours fighting. The enemy expended an enormous amount of ammunition."

Col. Kekewich was prevented from pursuing the enemy owing to the fact that many of his horses were killed.

SERIOUS OUTLOOK.

London, Oct. 4.—The Daily News says that the national income and expenditure will necessitate the early summoning of Parliament to provide further funds to carry on the war. The News publishes a financial table showing the revenue far below the expenditure, which is far above the estimates. It regards the outlook as most serious.

The Asthmatic's Agony.

Wakeful nights, suffocating sensations, difficult breathing. Who can describe it? This disease, partly nervous, partly congestive, partly the result of microbic irritation, is no longer treated by nauseous stomach destroying drugs, by Catarrhozone, that destroys the microbe, relieves congestion and relaxes the nervous irritability that renders breathing so difficult. The medication is carried by the air you breathe to the very seat of the disease, and removes at once the cause. The great discovery is known as Catarrhozone. Its influence upon Asthma is simply marvellous. Catarrhozone prevents as well as cures and is the only remedy guaranteed to cure. Your money back if it fails. Two sizes at all dealers, 25c. and $1.00.

Launch a Holland Boat.

London, Oct. 5.—The first of five submarine boats of the Holland type, which are being built at Barrow-in-Furness for the British government, was launched this afternoon without ceremony. She will be put through her trials in the course of a few weeks. The other four boats will be ready for launching this year.

The Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. classes will be regularly opened next Tuesday evening, when a full attendance is desired. The opening was to be Tuesday evening of this week but postponement was made on account of the uncertain condition of the electric lights.

PROJECT HUGE LEAD TRUST

Morgan and Other Magnates Contemplate a $150,000 Combine.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5.—A financial octopus, the tentacles of which are Pierpont Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, William C. Whitney, the Seligmans, Guggenheimer and kindred spirits, is reaching out for the control of the lead mines, smelting works and white lead manufacturing plants of the entire continent.

The capital of the new combine will be about $150,000,000 and the properties to be absorbed will include some twenty-six plants now operated by the National Lead Company, which is capitalized at $30,000,000, and seven outside or independent white lead works, with an approximate aggregate value of $8,000,000.

In addition to these properties it is proposed to absorb the lead mines of Missouri, Colorado, Montana and other western states, together with the numerous plants of the American Smelting and Refining Company, a giant corporation with a capital of $100,000,000.

Only one white lead manufacturing company will remain independent of the trust and that is Wetherill & Brother of this city.

ONE ON THE BAND

But One That Shows How Dense Some Men are to Perfect Music

A good joke was told The Times yesterday, which is at the expense of our excellent band. It appears that a well known citizen had a friend from Lindsay come to visit him. He was very anxious that the visitor should hear our excellent band, of which Peterborough people are so proud, and took him to a band concert. Our friend watched the visitor keenly during the rendering of one of the band's best selections, which, grand as it is, is a little noisy, more especially when the bang of the drums and the crash of the cymbals occur at intervals.

But the visitor's face remained absolutely unmoved. At last the Peterborough man could bear his friend's indifference no longer.

"Doesn't this glorious volume of sound affect you?" he said.

"Oh, not in the least," was the calm reply; "you forget I'm a boiler-maker."

PEAT INDUSTRY'S FUTURE.

Ontario Government Making an Official Investigation.

The Provincial Government has been asked by men interested in the development of the peat fuel industry in Ontario to make an investigation of the subject with a view to ascertaining if there is a commercial future for it here, and if so to present the facts to the public. The object of the request is, of course, to have the statements of the promoters officially confirmed, so that the attention of capitalists may be attracted.

In pursuance of the request Mr. W. E. H. Carter, Secretary of the Bureau of Mines, spent some time last week at Beaverton looking into the already established works there. Mr. Carter found business commercially successful, as Mr. Alex. Dobson, the owner, is making from eight to ten tons per day of peat brickettes, all of which is readily purchased for local use. Manufacturing on a large scale will soon be in progress also at the peat works near Kirkfield, controlled by Peterborough and Lindsay capitalists. While Mr. Carter has not yet analyzed his samples, he was well pleased with the appearance of the material.

He said in an interview that if the peat manufacturing business, now in an experimental stage in Ontario, can be made successful there is a great future for it here, as large deposits occur in the Midland counties, while an area hundreds of miles in extent lies south of James Bay.

BINDER TWINE

Almonte on the Way to Secure the Establishment of a Factory.

Almonte, Oct. 5.—At a meeting held in the town hall yesterday to promote the establishment of a binding twine factory in Almonte, quite a number attended and not only were our citizens well represented but the farmers also.

The committee appointed to enquire into the best kind of machinery for the factory presented a report and were reappointed to secure a building and water power. A practical man was present from Ottawa to explain details and the prospects were thoroughly discussed with the result that it was determined to go forward.

It was explained that the Peterborough factory would be large enough to supply the requirements of the country, and a lively discussion took place. It is very doubtful if the necessary stock can be sold.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

How the Scheme Works in New Zealand—A Good Showing.

London, Oct. 5.—An interesting return on the working of the New Zealand old age pensions act has been published. The act has been in operation for three years. In the first year 7,443 pensions were granted, the number increased in the second year to 11,258 and in the third year to 12,405. The total amount of the 12,405 pensions in force at the end of the third year was $1,050,820. The maximum pension granted is equal to $90, and of the total of 12,405 pensioners 10,284 are in receipt of the minimum pension, the remainder having small pensions ranging from $85 to $5. Of the total number of pensions now in force 1,098 have been granted to Maoris and 11,307 to Europeans. The annual cost of administration of the act is about $12,300.

TWO NEGRO BOYS LYNCHED

Alleged Slayers of a Printer Hanged by Kentucky Mob.

Shelbyville, Ky., Oct. 5.—Jimbo Fields aged 16, and Clarence Garnett, aged 18, both colored, were lynched here at 2 o'clock this morning for the alleged murder of Mill C. Hart, a printer, who was stoned to death on the night of Saturday, Sept. 21 last. The boys were taken from the jail and swung from the Chesapeake and Ohio trestle just beyond the depot and within 500 yards of the jail. The mob's work was done so quickly that no other citizens except the jailer and his three others knew of it until several hours afterwards.

THE COLUMBIA WINS ON THE TIME LIMIT

Shamrock Was in the Lead Throughout Race—The Columbias' Close Pursuit.

SIR THOMAS WILL RACE SHAMROCK AGAIN

New York, Oct. 4.—Jockeying for the start was a pretty piece of work. At the warning signal—10.45—the yachts had not yet come together. Shamrock made a complete circuit of the committee boat and the lightship. Columbia met her to the northwest of the line, both close hauled on the port tack and luffed into the wind. Shamrock followed suit.

When Shamrock came about to go for the line, Columbia also came about on her rival's starboard beam.

When the starting gun was fired both yachts were sailing parallel to the line, heading to the southward. They were so far to the westward of it that it was impossible to cross before the handicap gun, unless one or the other should give way.

Just as the gun sounded the handicap signal, Shamrock's balloon jib topsail was broken out while she was crossing the line, and her spinnaker was set just as she cleared it.

BULLETINS OF THE RACE.

Official Time—Start.

Shamrock	11.02.00
Columbia	11.02.00

Official Time—First Mark.

Shamrock	12.48.46
Columbia	12.49.35

11 a.m.—They are off—Columbia in the lead.

11.06—When the starting gun was fired both boats were well back of the line. Both broke out their spinnakers as they headed for it, Shamrock being the quickest. Columbia crossed first, giving her rival the coveted position astern.

11.07 a.m.—Apparently the handicap gun was fired before either boat crossed the line.

11.14 a.m.—Columbia appears to hold her lead by about three lengths.

11.15 a.m.—The official time of the start given by the Marconi wireless telegraphy was: Columbia, 11.02; Shamrock, 11.02. They started on the handicap gun.

11.17 a.m.—Columbia continues to gain slowly.

11.27 a.m.—Shamrock seems to be overhauling Columbia.

11.30 a.m.—Shamrock has passed Columbia and seems to be pulling rapidly away from her.

11.47 a.m.—Shamrock is still leading by at least 100 yards.

11.54 a.m.—Columbia crossed the starting line just fifteen seconds after the handicap gun.

11.56 a.m.—Shamrock apparently has pulled away a bit more, and at present rate of sailing will turn the first mark well within her time allowance to Columbia.

11.57 a.m.—Shamrock crossed the line just 10 seconds after the handicap gun.

12.03 p.m.—Shamrock is now fully one minute ahead.

12.09 p.m.—A favorite slant of wind has apparently enabled Columbia to close the gap a little. The boats are now within three miles of the outer mark.

12.12 p.m.—Columbia gains slightly.

12.23 p.m.—The wind is now 10 knots. Shamrock 40 seconds ahead.

12.42 p.m.—The boats are very near the outer mark, Shamrock still leading.

12.50 p.m.—Shamrock turned outer mark 12.48.57, unofficial time.

12.51 p.m.—Columbia turned outer mark 12.49.45, unofficial time.

12.52 p.m.—Shamrock has gone on the starboard tack. Columbia luffed around the mark and went off shore on the port tack.

12.54 p.m.—Barr held the port tack but an instant and then went on the starboard tack, both yachts heading for the Jersey shore.

1.14 p.m.—The Columbia is ahead.

1.16 p.m.—Official time of turn, as given by Marconi wireless: Shamrock, 12.48.46; Columbia, 12.49.35.

1.21 p.m.—Columbia passed the Shamrock at 1.02.

1.34 p.m.—Columbia is now nearly a mile to windward.

1.45 p.m.—The wind holds true at 12 knots. Both boats are still on port tack.

2.23 p.m.—The Shamrock is now apparently ahead as developed on the last tack.

MEET OVER BIER OF LOVED ONE

Mayor Howland's Address at the Pan-American.

TORONTO OVER IN BUFFALO.

Buffalo, Oct. 4.—At the exercises at the Pan-American yesterday, given specially in honor of the citizens of Toronto, President J. G. Milburn bid the Canadians welcome in a hearty manner. In the course of his reply Mayor Howland stated that the expressions of welcome were appreciated and reciprocated on the northern side of the boundary. "The cities of Buffalo and Toronto stand in peculiar attitude toward each other at this time," said the Mayor. "Nowhere else on this border is there the opportunity of bringing together the actual relationship of the two nations as it is at this point. Our relations should be cultivated at these two points of contact. When the citizens of this great metropolis originated this great undertaking, creating the splendor and beauty of this Exposition at their own expense and on their own responsibility, they extended a welcome to our city to become the guest of this Exposition. When we think of the contrast of the early years of the past century compared with that of to-day, we must feel that we are witnesses to one of the mightiest revolutions that time has brought about. Ninety years ago visits were paid when uninvited, when the house warming took the form of house burnings. We stand in the centre of a strange combination of sorrows. In the beginning of this year our city was plunged into grief and sorrow by the death of our well-beloved Majesty, the venerable Queen. The news was conveyed to the British people that the sister Republic wept with the British over the bier. Once more your nation has had to mourn the loss of a great President, has had to mourn that, not by the accomplishment of years, but by the results of a diseased mind. When that sad, horrifying catastrophe occurred, Toronto was the first to offer sympathy to your nation. The signs of mourning seen in your city were repeated in ours—once more we meet over the bier of a loved one. There are signs of changed times. In conclusion, I thank you again for the opportunity to visit this Exposition and feel confident that we shall carry away with us recollections of the magnificent architecture which has been placed upon the surface of the earth as a passing dream, a monument to the public spirit of Buffalo."

Brief speeches were made by Controller O. B. Sheppard of Toronto and Dr. Andrew Smith, president of the Toronto Industrial Exposition. Among other distinguished guests who were on the platform were City Treasurer R. T. Coady, City Solicitor Caswell, City Councillor Fullerton and members of the Board of Aldermen. A pleasant feature of the fireworks in the evening was the display of the pictures of the Duke and Duchess of York in fire.

A Runaway Accident.

While Mr. Mark Manley of Douro, was driving out to the fields to plow, going down hill, the wagon tongue dropped from the neckyoke and the team took fright and ran away. Mr. Manley was thrown against a fence and pretty badly hurt, but he is now in a fair way toward recovery.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the George-st. church, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

President—Mrs. Rev. J. P. Wilson.
First Vice. President—Mrs. G. E. Whiten.
Second Vice President—Mrs. Nugent
Secretary—Mrs. E. Shortley.
Treasurer—Mrs. F. Mason.

THE TROUBLE IN THE PERSIAN GULF

A good deal of mystery surrounds recent occurrences in the Persian Gulf. In estimating the importance of the recent news in regard to the situation, and Vienna correspondent of the Standard points out that it is well to remember what is happening in distant provinces of the Turkish Empire. The question of the future of the Caliphate and of the Mohammedan people constantly occupies the attention of the Sultan, 'Abdul Hamid; and it is remarkable that his views on the subject are readily accepted by the chiefs of the Mohammedan tribes, who formerly would have laughed at the idea of allegiance to the Sultan of Turkey. For instance, some chiefs in the interior of Tripoli, to emphasize their falling in with 'Abdul's Pan-Islamite scheme, now even promise to allow soldiers to be recruited for the regular Turkish army. By keeping in mind the Sultan's general ideas, the error will be avoided of connecting the Turkish action in the Persian Gulf with German or other schemes. It is reported that an agreement has been arrived at by which Great Britain and Turkey will, in future, act together to preserve peace at Koweyt. This will mean considerable change in the situation in the Gulf, as Turkey secures a position which she did not formerly possess.

The Times the other day gave the following account of the circumstances which have led up to the present situation:

"It has been for many years past the policy of the Indian Government, in concurrence with the Imperial Government, to maintain the status quo in the Persian Gulf, and a virtual independence of the Sheikh of Koweyt has been regarded as an important element toward the maintenance of the status quo.

"The Porte cannot fail to have been aware of the attitude which this country has consistently adopted in such matters but it nevertheless decided to bring material pressure to bear upon the Sheikh of Koweyt, and, in pursuance of instructions from the Sultan, the Ottoman Governor of Basra (or Bassorah) proceeded to Koweyt with troops in the corvette Zohab. But on arrival a British gunboat was found anchored in the port, and in consequence of a categorical intimation received from its commander the Turkish representative returned to Basra without attempting to carry out his mission.

"The Ottoman Ambassador in London has drawn the attention of the Foreign Office to the incident, and declared the action of the commander of the British vessel to be incompatible with the friendly relations existing between this country and the Porte.

"The latest advices from the Gulf, received in India when the last mail left, showed that since the incident occurred a British gunboat has been constantly at or in the vicinity of Koweyt, and Colonel Kemball, the British Resident at Bushire, has paid several visits to that place, accompanied by Mr. Gaskin, our Vice-Consul at Bahrein. Further developments are certain to be watched in India with great interest."

Koweyt is a point of special international importance as it is believed that Germany propose to make it the terminus of the trunk line from Constantinople to the Persian Gulf, which is being built with German capital. Any hesitation on the part of the Imperial Government to uphold the status quo in the Persian Gulf, even should it turn out in this case that the action of the Porte was prompted and supported by a great continental power, would be viewed in India with the utmost concern.

Central Arabia last winter was the theatre of severe fighting between the Sheikh Mubarkh of Koweyt and the Emir of Nejd. With the help of neighbouring tribes the Emir of Nejd overthrew the Sheikh's army. But the Emir's former allies, regarding the rewards received for their help as inadequate, recently made a combined raid on the outlying districts of Nejd and carried off considerable loot in live stock and produce, and it is believed in India that these former allies of the Emir of Nejd would array themselves on the side of the Sheikh of Koweyt in the event of a renewal of hostilities.

It was added that the Sheikh of Koweyt, who is an independent ruler, had memorialized the British authorities in the Gulf for effective protection against probable aggressive action on the part of the Porte, which from time to time seeks to enforce its nominal authority in those regions by a show of force.

DR. MOLLIE

In the town of Kennonville there dwelt a young girl who had resolved to become a physician. Strange, to relate, she was very beautiful; stranger still, she was not one of those new women that would have looked so much better in masculine togs, and, still stranger, she was very much in love with a handsome, loveable young man, Jerome Bowcher, and had already promised to marry him.

Now this young man was a lawyer of great promise, but little present achievement. He was not in a position to undertake a dual responsibility at the present, and during the interim Miss Mollie Dalton couldn't see any great good sense in being unemployed. While her Jerome was struggling up the hill she believed it almost wicked that she should watch him, hands folded, in the valley of idleness.

But Jerome could not bear the thought of her being a doctor and he told her well of it, as they sat together on the soft turf beneath the shade of a great beech one August afternoon.

"Mollie darling," said Jerome, his fine eyes brimming with lovelight, "how could I bear to hear you called Dr. Mollie? Oh, I couldn't and shall not! Please get that notion out of that pretty head. Such a notion, long continued, will disfigure you, dear. If you keep nourishing that scientific idea it will drain all the sources of your beauty. Oh, you look like a doctor—you little nosegay of feminine sweetness! I tell you, though, you can transform and disfigure yourself. The mind can knead the body into most any shape it sees fit. By their looks ye know what people are.

"If you persist in your determination the dimples of your cheek will sink, spread and deepen into concavities. Your golden, glossy hair will wear off short and get straight, dry and pale as wheat stubble in dog days. Your plump lips, red and warm now, will get ironed down thin and tucked in at the corners. Your nose, straight, fine and Greek, will get a hump on itself and sharp and hooked at end and like a 'hawk-billed' knife. Your expressive blue eyes will lose their adorable softness and luminosity and will become sharp, penetrating, analytic, scientific. Oh! how could I bear it! Mollie's sweet blue eyes becomes the doctor's scientific eye!"

During this disquisition Mollie "darling" gazed at him with face sparkling with smiles, but beneath those smiles, like a black wall, frowned a stern resolution. Jerome saw this and looked discouraged.

"Jerome," she responded in a quiet, decided voice, "my mind is fully made up. I'm going to be something and know something in my own right. I have got rid of all those false notions respecting woman's sphere. Woman was given brain and hands to be used. She was not made to sit back in beautiful, rosy stupidity and idleness. A capacity for effort implies a duty to use that capacity. I shall study medicine. I'll equip myself for selfdefence. I shall not lean helplessly against you as a pillar of strength. The pillar might get broken. I shall qualify myself to be a physician, then if good fortune will fix that I'll not need to practice, very good; but if misfortune comes I'll be ready to meet it with skilled weapons.

"I can't listen to you patiently, dear," cried Jerome. "You have promised to be mine. I forbid your going to a medical school."

"But I'm not yours yet, understand!" returned Mollie, a good deal of emphasis in look and voice.

Jerome suddenly drew in his firm lips and faint lightning played in his eyes.

"I had no idea, Mollie," he spoke in a surprised tone," that you could be so unreasonable and perverse."

"You mean you didn't know I could be so sensible and far-seeing," she returned with a defiant smile.

Jerome rose to his feet. He ran his long fingers through his soft chestnut hair, then pulled his hat down hard on his head. He gazed absently toward a cornfield a hundred yards away, in which a man was plowing, and a fine, buxom young woman was cutting weeds from the corn rows after him. The man halted, turned toward the woman, uttered some banter, then playfully picked up a clod and threw it at her. She dodged the clod, gayly cackling, and then playfully lifted the menacing hoe toward him.

Mollie caught the idylic picture, and looking up at Jerome with a meaning expression, exclaimed:

"Happy young married folk!"

But the suggested picture of mutual help was lost on Jerome at that moment. He was a typical young southerner of the old school—one of those who contemplate women through chivalrous ideals only. A woman, according to his doctrine, is a genius or inspiration for man, but she, her sacred self, must not achieve.

"When do you leave?" he asked in a sad voice.

"Next Monday."

"So do I."

Mollie went to a medical school in New York. Where Jerome went was not known. He left none behind whom he cared to inform.

Mollie graduated and temporarily hung out her shingle in her native town, an unwise thing to do always. People who had known her always as "sweet little Mollie" couldn't speak of her as "Dr. Mollie" without laughing.

So she arose and went out to the liberal, welcoming west and located in a booming mining town.

Her shingle attracted little attention, but her beautiful face and figure did from the first. Before a week passed she had begun to get patients and, what was better, fees were paid in advance and usually double the amount of the charge. Before two weeks went by she was getting calls hourly. A novel fact soon began to dawn on her, however, that was disturbing. She began to discover that nearly all her patients were handsome young men, and that if they were diseased at all the complaints were so deep as to baffle her powers of discovery. Was she a failure in diagnosis?

A young man would come in complaining of heart trouble. He would lie down on a sofa and a long examination with stethoscope would ensue. The heart pulsations, except for a little nervous excitement, which the patient rather than she could have accounted for, was all she would find. Cases of monotonous similarity were multiplying and her professional pride and dignity were suffering. Some young gentlemen would insist on a second examination and when she would sternly assure them that there was only functional excitement at most they would not be satisfied.

All these experiences set her to thinking and quietly investigating. She soon learned that in nearly every instance her would-be heart patients were single men. Her landlady still further enlightened her, one day, by remarking: "You pirty little thing, you! Jest as long as you remain as pirty as you are now heart trouble is go'n' to be owful in these parts! It'll take the form of jealous heartaches among all the gals!"

Poor little doctor!

She felt so shamed and humiliated she didn't know what to do. To have her noble profession turned into a subject of mockery and burlesque and she herself made ridiculous she could not bear much longer. Only her need to do something for her daily bread kept her from tearing that sign from the door and flying back east.

One day she was sitting in her office sadly ruminating when her door opened and a tall fine-looking, bearded man entered.

"Is this Dr. Dalton's office?" he asked with an embarrassed hitch in his voice.

"I presume you saw the sign," she replied, hardly looking up.

"Ah-hem! Well, I want to get my eyes examined."

She cast a reluctant professional glance at his eyes as she replied:

"There's nothing the matter with your eyes, sir."

He stared at her dumfounded.

"Well, I must say you are a strange kind of doctor!"

"A kind probably that you won't care to patronize, returned the doctor, not deigning to look.

"Say, Dr. Dalton, I've got plenty of money, and you hold yourself out as a doctor. I insist that you look into my eyes and see what it is that's got in 'em. You surely don't pretend to thoroughly examine eyes merely glancing toward 'em."

She forced herself up and came slowly toward his chair.

She pushed up the left lid with professional deftness and instantly dropped it saying:

"I see nothing in your eyes, sir."

"Nothing at all?" he asked eagerly.

"Nothing, I say."

"Look at me, doctor, and tell me, d'dn't you see a great deal of love in them—say 'Mollie Darling?'"

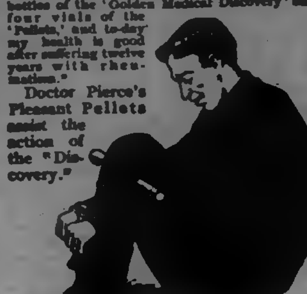
And this strong, scientific woman began to cry and he began to laugh, and a moment later her ear was at his great chest, but not to listen for irregular heart beats. An hour later, when he called her "doctor" she slapped him.

HELPLESS.

The man trussed up so that he can neither move hand nor foot is in his helplessness a fair type of many a man affected by rheumatism. Often the disease only partially disables, and with crutch and cane the sufferer hobbles painfully about.

Rheumatism can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This great blood purifying medicine eliminates the poisons which cause the disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the purity and abundance of the blood supply, thus giving vigor and vitality to all organs of the body which depend for their health on plenty of pure blood. It builds up the body with firm flesh instead of flabby fat. The "Discovery" contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed," writes Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C. "I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors, and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of the 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."



Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery."

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD MURDERER.

A Boy Deliberately Shoots His Companion and Then Leaves Him to His Fate.

Glens Falls, New York, Oct. 4.—Lyman Holland, the twelve-year-old son of Fred Holland of Chester, thirty miles from here toward the Adirondacks, broke into a house and stole a double-barreled shot gun on Friday. He then induced Benjamin, son, of Frank Parker, a companion of the same age, together with a third boy, to go hunting with him. After going a short distance Holland stepped away about five rods from Parker, and without any provocation deliberately shot him. More than 150 bird shot penetrated his body, one or two piercing the lung and others the right eye, destroying the sight. The two boys then left him to his fate. He crawled part way home and was found several hours later by the family, who went to search of him. His life is despaired of. Holland is the proverbial bad boy of the town. He is now under arrest.

Strong words by a New York Specialist. —"After years of testing and comparison I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the quickest, safest, and surest known to medical science. I use it in my own practice. It relieves the most acute forms of heart ailment inside of thirty minutes and never fails."—35

"No Cure, No Pay," Is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

$25,000 Our Grand $25,000

Ornithological Contest

Something entirely new and interesting. Read what you are to do. You may get $1,000. Our contest is to see who can make the largest list of names (or kinds) of birds from the following list of letters:

W D O O O C C K Q U L I A P R T
A R I D G E S P N I E L V E B
R D I M W A D O H T L

(We will recognize as a bird anything belonging to the feathered tribe, whether it be a Hen, Crow, Singer or any other kind. You can use any letter as many times to make a name as it appears in the list of letters above; for instance Woodcock, Plover, Snow Bird, etc. To any persons who can make a list of 25 or more different names of birds, we will give, absolutely FREE a beautiful Prize value $1,000 or less.

BIG PRIZES AWARDED DAILY.

When you have made out your list fill out the line on the bottom of this advt. and send to us with a Stamped, Addressed envelope, stamp of your country will do, then if you are awarded a prize you can if you desire get the prize by becoming a subscriber to THE WOMAN'S WORLD. We shall award a prize to every person who sends the name of 25 birds and our gifts will be as follows: For the best list, received each day, a Gold Watch; for the second best solution each day a beautiful Imported Tea Set; for the seven next best solutions each day, a [illegible] Diamond and Ruby Ring; for the next best solution, a Gold Piece; and for all other correct solutions, Prizes of Good Value. These Prizes will be forwarded daily, you will not have to wait a long time in uncertainty before you know the result. There is no element of lottery in our plan, it makes no difference whether we get your solution late or early in the day. All you need is to mail this Advt. to us, and on the day it reaches us, if your list is the best, YOU SHALL HAVE THE GOLD WATCH or if second best the beautiful Tea Set, and so on. We guarantee that we will award you a prize. There is absolutely no opportunity for deception on our part—we cannot afford it. We want to get 1,000,000 well satisfied subscribers, and for that reason we don't want you to send any money until you know exactly what prize you have gained by answering the puzzle. As soon after 4 p.m. each day as possible, the examiners will judge the lists to the best of their ability, and will designate the prizes. We will write to you at once notifying you what prize has been awarded you, then if you are satisfied, you can send your subscription to THE WOMAN'S WORLD and your prize will go by return of mail carriage paid. To a person of narrow ideas it seems impossible that we should be able to make such a gigantic order, but we have the money, brains, and reputation, we know exactly what we are doing, and if we can legitimately gain a million subscribers by this grand idea we know that this million of well pleased subscribers can be induced to recommend The Woman's World to all friends, thereby building up our circulation still further. We are willing to spend $25,000 in this contest in building up a big subscription list, and when this money is spent we reserve the right to publish a notification that the contest has been discontinued. Don't delay until it is too late. The contest will continue until Jan. 1902.

We give A Bonus Prize of $250 independent of all others to the person who sends in the list gotten up in the best and handsomest manner. Our Committee will decide and award prizes daily, but the special $250 prize will be awarded in March 1902. Any bird's name found in the dictionaries accepted.

A BIG FIGHT IN THE DARK

London, Oct. 3.—The following despatch has been received at the War Office from Lord Kitchener, under date of yesterday:

"Delarey's night attack on the camp of Kekewich (who commanded the garrison at Kimberley during the siege) at Moidwill was pressed by the enemy, who were one thousand strong, with great vigor. After two hours of close fighting the enemy were driven off. Our casualties, I regret to say were severe. Of the officers one was killed, and one so dangerously wounded that he has since died; eleven were severely wounded and three slightly. Of our men thirty-one were killed, six dangerously wounded, forty-two severely wounded, and twenty-six slightly. The wounded have arrived at Rustenburg, and are being well cared for. Forty more remain to be accounted for. No details have been received. Among the wounded was Col. Kekewich himself."

Moidwill, the scene of the bold attack by Commander Delarey on Colonel Kekewich's camp, is 75 miles west of Pretoria, on the Mafeking road. As the wounded were being brought back to Rustenburg it looks as though Moidewill, which is close to the Magato Pass, in the Magaliesberg range, has been abandoned. Among the Boers killed at Modewill was Commandant Tobias Bosbof, a well known leader.

LOST 500 MEN.

Lord Kitchener sends confirmation of the rumor that the Boers lost 550 men killed and wounded during Botha's attack on Forts Itala and Prospect. The two guns captured by the Boers from the Royal Artillery at Vlakfontain have been recovered.

THE BIG GUNS CONFER.

Pretoria, Oct. 2.—Lord Milner and General Kitchener held a secret conference with representatives of the Cape Colony Ministry at Johannesburg recently.

The sentence imposed on the traitor Brockman, a former partner of Krause, Governor of Johannesburg, has been carried out. The prisoner was shot at dawn yesterday. Several arrests on similar charges have recently been made in Johannesburg.

A band of marauding burghers who have been operating among the Kaffirs, near Johannesburg, has been dispersed by a constabulary patrol.

THE FEELING IN LONDON.

London, Oct. 3.—With the approach of the second anniversary of the commencement of the war, the local newspapers are showing signs of impatience with the policy of the Government in delaying to send reinforcements. The alleged friction between Brodrick and Kitchener is also the cause of much anxiety.

The extremists of the opposition have arranged a series of meetings throughout the country to protest against the Government's proposition to subject the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies to the Crown colony system following the war.

STEELE NOT WITH CANADIANS.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—A private letter has been received from Colonel Steele, late commander of Strathcona's Horse, from Maddersfontein, where his headquarters as chief of "B" division, South African Constabulary, are situated. The gallant colonel has 52 officers and 2,000 men under his command. He says he was recently visited by Major Charles Ross, the famous Canadian scout. The Canadian quota to the constabulary was broken up and distributed previous to Colonel Steele's arrival, and he regrets that he has no fellow-countrymen in his force.

NEWS BY CABLE AND LETTER

Buda Pest, Oct. 3.—Although the newspapers here to-day publish congratulatory articles on the orderliness and fairness of the Parliamentary general elections yesterday, which resulted in the return of a large Liberal majority for the Government, the fact remains that there were serious encounters in many districts, necessitating military intervention, during which the troops fired and killed or wounded numbers of people. The Government has been obliged to declare some of the results invalid, owing to the coercive measures of the local authorities.

PRO-BOER FLAG IN DUBLIN.

Dublin, Oct. 3.—A little amusement was created in Dublin recently by the discovery of a Boer flag on one of the staffs above the Orange Hall. Some one had hoisted it during the night. A pitiless rain left it sodden and clinging to the staff when the citizens began to move about, and few people noticed it. The officials soon hauled it down.

COAL STRIKE EXTENDING.

Liege, Belgium, Oct. 3.—The coal strike is rapidly extending to all the coal pits on the left bank of the Meuse, and has involved ten thousand strikers.

KING EDWARD'S CONDITION.

Copenhagen, Oct. 3.—The newspapers have to-day revived the rumors that King Edward is in a serious condition from cancer of the tongue without adducing any evidence to that effect.

London, Oct. 3.—Lord and Lady Roberts have leased one of the most noted old houses in London, and intend to make it the headquarters of military society, which is now on top of the social heap.

It is the former home of the Dukes of Richmond in Portland Place, notably that vigorous Duchess of Richmond who gave the famous ball at Brussels the night before the battle of Waterloo. Wellington made Richmond House his favorite social resort and Roberts intends to revive the military social regime of a century ago.

He has spent one-fifth of the $100,000 voted to him by Parliament in preparing to live up to the position of Commander in Chief, and Lady Roberts is engineering the campaign.

RARE CURIOS TO SELL.

London, Oct. 3.—Although the war and the Chinese trouble have brought something like a glut of relics to the sale-rooms, there will soon be a sale of curios in London, which will raise the interest of relic hunters. The Orange Free State flag that waved over Cronje's laager at Paardeberg and the revolver that Mr. Rudyard Kipling as a boy used to fire over the mud flats, as told in, "The Light That Failed," find themselves in curious company at Mr. Stevens' auction rooms in Covent Garden. There is, for instance, a remarkable collection of native weapons and trinkets got together by the Stanley Congo Expedition of 1887. Among the weapons is an executioner's sword of the Mambesa tribe, and one of the iron-barbed spears used by the dwarfs whom the expedition discovered. Other memories are revived by a fine old drum that rolled amid the turmoil of Waterloo, and an altar-piece rescued from the fire which consumed the old Greek church at Balaklava in the first winter of the Crimean war. Not less interesting to collectors of mediaeval manuscripts, are found fragments of music with illuminations wrought on parchment by monks of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. And every newspaper reader will have his historic sense touched by a copy of the "Commonwealth Mercury," a tiny sheet of nine by seven inches, which announces the death of Oliver Cromwell and the proclamation of his successor.

WATER FAMINE IN THE NORTH.

Manchester, Oct. 3.—Manchester, in common with a number of other northern cities, is on the brink of a water famine. Owing to the prolonged drought, only ten million gallons a day are flowing into the Longendale reservoirs, and the official estimate is that no more than twenty-four days' supply is on hand. Since mid-July the citizens have not been able to draw from their taps between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m., and from to-day the supply will be cut off from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m. The storage in the Bradford reservoirs will only meet the needs of the people served by them for seventeen days. The rain that has fallen recently has done very little good, and unless there is a copious downfall within the next week the situation will become serious. Even now, in the higher portions of Manchester, the inhabitants are without water, for days together. If the drought persists, at least two mills will have to shut down. The Halifax medical officer of health has issued a warning that owing to the lowness of the reservoirs householders should boil and filter water for domestic use. The stock at Shipley is sufficient for the needs of the town for five or six weeks, but after another week or two the service reservoirs will become so dirty as to be almost unfit for domestic use.

LICOLN'S BODY IS NOW SECURE

In Springfield Vault Under Eight Feet of Masonry.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 3.—The burial of the body of Abraham Lincoln has practically been completed. Half a dozen workmen were occupied all day yesterday cementing over the cage in which the casket was placed Thursday in the vault at the base of the monument shaft. Over six feet of cement had been laid over the casket when work was suspended last night.

The remainder of the cement will be laid to-day, and then the flooring of the tomb will be laid. The marble sarcophagus originally intended for the reception of the body will be replaced in its old position in the tomb early next week.

It is thought now that no further removal of the body will ever be made. The casket is buried thirteen feet in the ground, beneath the tomb containing the crypts where lie the others of the family.

On a cement base, four feet thick, rests the iron cage inclosing the casket. Above the cage will be eight feet of solid masonry. It would take a large force of workmen several days to exhume the casket under the most favorite circumstances.

JURY DISAGREE.

London, Ont., Oct. 24.

In the case of Gerald Sifton, whose trial was in progress here for a week past, on a charge of murdering his father, the Jury failed to agree, after seven hours' consultation.

On the foreman announcing that there was no prospect of them agreeing they were discharged. Sifton was remanded to jail and will again be tried next spring.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.
R. V. PIERCE, M.D.,
President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1901.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—say the entire world. But in the United States directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for not securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June. New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is to-day the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but show their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1886, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print. The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.
New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

PABST BREWING CO.
J. R. Kathrens, Adv. Mgr.
Milwaukee, Wis. June 7. 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and almost successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others follow. His publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon one of the great stupidity a fumitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD.
Advertising Manager for Sapolio
—In Fame, March, 1901.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,
FRANK ROE BATCHELD.
Clerk of the Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, U. S.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1898.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,895 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspaper directories gratis, but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13, 1900.
JOS. H. HANNEN,
Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation, as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

S. H. HARDWICK,
General Passenger Agent,
Washington, D. C., May 21, 1901.

BALTIMORE.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

AUTUMN RHEUMATISM CUTS OFF THOUSANDS OF VICTIMS

Paines Celery Compound

BANISHES PAIN AND AGONY AND CURES PERMANENTLY.

A Long-Standing Case Cured After Use of Three Bottles of the Marvelous Compound

Why suffer the excruciating pains of rheumatism and allow yourself to become crippled and useless when thousands of others are banishing the terrors of the disease by the use of Paine's Celery Compound?

The wonderful cures effected by Paine's Celery Compound for almost incurable sufferers must be known to you. Your friends and neighbors can tell you of many rescues from suffering and death after use of the great compound. Your physician, if he is honest with you, will recommend its use. Past failures with other medicines should not utterly discourage you or cause you to think that Paine's Celery Compound is no better than the many medicines you have used.

Paine's Celery Compound is the true and only specific for every form of rheumatism; it cannot disappoint you if you give it a trial. Do not allow any dealer to suggest a substitute for Paine's Celery Compound. Substituting is practised by dishonest dealers for the reason that other medicines pay larger profits than Paine's Celery Compound. Mrs. Elizabeth King, Cedar Hill, Victoria, B.C., says:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism all my life, and about eight years ago I had a very severe attack almost losing the use of my right arm. A friend recommended the use of Paine's Celery Compound, and kindly gave me a bottle. I was so much benefitted by that one bottle that I took three more, and I was quite cured. Since then it has been almost my only medicine for all the ailments that I experience from time to time, and all my family have found some benefit from it. I am sixty-five years of age, I live on a farm, get up early in the morning, and am equal to a good day's work."

AT NUMBER FIVE DAM.

OTONABEE POWER COMPANY HARNESSING THE RIVER.

A Large Force of Men Are Employed Putting in the Crib Work for the Raceway and Power House.

It is pleasing to note that the Otonabee Power Company are pushing the work at No. 5 dam. A force of about twenty-five men are employed, putting in the piers for dividing the water into the race way. These piers will extend for a distance above and below the dam, and will be completed this fall.

The most serious portion of the work is the excavation for the foundation of the power house. If the Company has good luck, the entire concrete work will be completed this season. This will enable the superstructure to be proceeded with during the cold weather.

Already the Company has placed orders for part of its machinery, and the balance will be contracted for at once.

THE TIMES LETTER-BOX

Letters from the People on Interesting and Timely Topics.

[NOTE.—The Times invites its readers to contribute to its columns. It does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—Ed. Times.]

Mr. Culverwell Speaks.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I clip the following letter addressed to the Port Hope Times, and would ask you to give it a place in your widely read journal.

ONE INTERESTED.

Dear Sir,—The Guide no doubt inspired by interested parties, asks what is the matter with the above Company?

We are happy to reply—nothing, but desire to do honest and legitimate business, a position which has been delayed by much opposition. But no thanks are due to a political and selfish crowd, who, not satisfied with making fortunes themselves, are only now (as ever) ready to knife this or any proposition which would benefit the people unless they were first consulted and "pecuniarily" satisfied.

No one need worry over the Burleigh Falls Company. Our Company is all right and is now about to commence operation as above intimated, with the citizens of Port Hope, Cobourg, and Peterboro. In the meantime, let Port Hope accept all the power the Otonabee Power Company, of Peterboro, can supply. A Company which owns not even the water power about which it is a squealing, because the Dominion Government cannot be bulldozed into granting them the same at one-eighth its market value, and which if granted (the applicant states) will only produce electric power sufficient for but a small portion of Peterboro's needs.

The Guide need not fear that this has developed into a political fight, instead, it is but an honest opposition to an unduly voracious appetite for political and water power.

Yours Truly,

THE CENTRAL ONTARIO POWER CO., LTD.

(Owners of Burleigh Falls).

Peterboro, Sept. 19th, 1901.

The Yacht Race.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Re the late races for the America cup, it would be a good idea, I think, for Sir Thomas Lipton to leave the Shamrock in New York for the winter and try again with her next year. According to all authorities and to practical experience, boats like Shamrock and Columbia are minutes better the second year than they are the first. As the Columbia is now two years old it is not at all likely she can be improved above her present form; but in the case of the Shamrock it is different—she will be seven or eight minutes better next year than she is now, and as she had been beaten by seconds only, she will surely have a good chance then.

At all events, Sir Thomas has made a good fight and when we consider the advantages which the New York Yacht Club has over the builders in Great Britain we can safely say that the fight was a fairly even one and the winners have very little to boast of.

AN INLAND YACHTSMAN.

What is the Cost?

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see that work has been progressing, under the personal superintendence of the Town Engineer, at the Morrow corner. I would, for one, like to know what this job has cost. It is a pity that the work wasn't started earlier in the season, for then it would doubtless have lasted all summer.

An Engineer at $4 a day, and a chief mechanic at another $4 a day, besides a lot of other men, will soon run the total cost up to a very high figure.

I hope The Times will publish the actual expenses in connection with this piece of incompetency on the part of the Engineer, so that the ratepayers may know the offense.

A DISGUSTED TAXPAYER.

Keep Up Heart.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—If Lipton should miss and fail to lift that cup, Canadians must not feel despondent. They should remember that we still have Garvin, the greatest golf player on earth. What need we care for a measley silver cup when we can score rings around those Yanks on the golf links! Cheer up, then, I say! Yours,

Death of Mrs Green

The death occurred yesterday morning, after only a few day's illness, of Alice Kennedy, aged 66 years, widow of the late Joseph Green, formerly of North Monaghan. The funeral will take place on Sunday at 3 p.m., from the late residence of the deceased, No. 18 Stewart street. Interment will be in the Little Lake Cemetery.

A DETERMINED WOMAN

Finally Found a Food That Cured Her

"When I first read of the remarkable effects of Grape-Nuts food, I determined to secure some," says Mr. C. W. Aldridge, of Salisbury, Md. "At that time there was none kept in this town, but my husband ordered some from a Chicago traveler.

I had been greatly afflicted with sudden attacks of cramps, nausea, and vomiting. Tried all sorts of remedies and physicians, but obtained only temporary relief. As soon as I began to use the new food the cramps disappeared and have never reappeared.

My old attacks of sick stomach were a little slower to yield, but by continuing the food, that trouble has disappeared entirely. I am to-day perfectly well, can eat anything and everything I wish, without paying the penalty that I used to. We would not, and would not, keep house without Grape-Nuts.

My husband was so delighted with the benefits I received that he has been recommending Grape-Nuts to his customers and has built up a very large trade on the food. He sells them by the case to most of the leading physicians of this county, who prescribe Grape-Nuts very generally. There is some satisfaction in using a really scientifically prepared food."

TO BUILD GOOD ROADS

COUNTY COUNCIL LOOKING FOR GOVERNMENT AID.

Bylaw to Raise $60,000 Will be Submitted to Ratepayers—Government Would Supplement by $30,000.

The County Council met yesterday to finish the business of the session, which had been interrupted by the visit to Chemong to open the new bridge. In the regular order there was only a little business, but special interest was lent to the meeting by the presence of deputations from several of the township councils to take over the matter of road improvement.

It will be remembered that the Ontario Legislative at its last session passed an act appropriating $1,000,000 to be granted for road improvement throughout the Province. It is provided that any county securing a grant must raise a sum of twice the amount of the grant, to be expended in construction of the roads, and the subsequent cost of maintenance must be borne wholly by the county.

Yesterday's discussion indicated that there may be difficulties in the practical application of the new law and that amendment may be necessary before it can go into effective operation. The amount of the proposed Government grant to Peterborough county is $30,000. To obtain this amount, it will be necessary to raise and expend $60,000, a by-law for this amount must be approved of by a majority of the ratepayers.

Reeve Maloney of Douro, in addressing the Council, said he did not believe such a by-law could be carried in his township and thought the Government should amend the act.

Reeve Garbutt, of Smith, was of the same opinion.

Councillor Deyell, who represented Otonabee in the absence of the Reeve, expressed a similar view. The Council of his township, he said, appeared to be in favor of keeping the roads in their own hands rather than turn them over to the county.

Reeve Adams of Ashburnham was present and Warden Fitzgerald wished him to address the meeting. Mr. Adams understood that villagers had no part nor lot in the matter. He was, however, in favor of the County Council taking some action. If the new law was workable they might suggest amendments to the Legislature.

Councillor Elliott, of Smith, was in favor of main roads being taken hold of by the county and of doing away with statute labor as is proposed under the new act.

County Commissioner Pearce said that Peterborough was behind the times in the matter of roads. Hastings has 375 miles of first-class county roads, and this year lifted the last of the toll on them.

Dr. Jeffs favored the building of good roads by the county. Mr. Campbell, the Instructor in road making, should be brought here to show the people the advantages that would accrue.

Mr. Pearce asked some of the township representatives what main roads they would like to have improved. The replies, appeared to indicate that the woods are full of main roads. The deputations from Smith, Otonabee, Asphodel, and Douro figured out each about thirty miles, while the Monaghan men frankly confessed that their roads were all main roads if the county was to build them.

A discussion of the probable cost per mile ensued, and Mr. Pearce said a Hastings man with twenty years' experience in road building assured him that it would cost $1,500 per mile to put the roads of Peterborough County in prime shape.

The Council finally adopted a resolution to pass a by-law at the January session for submission to the ratepayers to raise $60,000; and in the meantime each township council will be asked to specify highways which might be taken over as County roads.

The Council granted $50 to the Warden for his expenses in connection with Chemong bridge. The matter of dealing with junk shops was postponed to the January session. It was decided to have the minutes of the January session printed separately.

NO RE-MARGINS

We are the only house of a like nature that ever did business in the Stock Market that did not find it necessary to call on their customers for remargin during any serious break in the market. On the 9th of May, during the big break in the market, and again last week, when the deplorable injury to President McKinley, was announced, we stepped in and protected every customer on our books, without calling on them for a single dollar. In our investment department, so far this year, we have paid cash dividends of 36 per cent, and a stock dividend of 100 per cent. We will do better for the balance of the year. Is this good enough to suit you? If so, write for full particulars of the special deal, based on positive inside information, to be offered those who are fortunate enough to participate with us on Special Deal No. 29, operations on which will be commenced on Oct 2. We can almost guarantee a net profit of 100 per cent. in two weeks' time. Can you afford to miss it? If not, write at once for full particulars.

RUSSIA AND CHINA MAY COME TO BLOWS

The Dowager Empress Wholly Responsible for the Trouble.

EVERY EXPECTATION THAT WAR MAY START

The Recent Outbreak in That Unhappy Country Only the Beginning of What May Be a Big War.

London, Oct. 7.— The outbreak in China is regarded here with much misgivings. That the Chinese people will resent the settlement made by the Emperor, is becoming more and more apparent.

Moscow, Oct. 7.—The Gazette says that the signing of the Peking protocol in no wise ends the Chinese trouble.

The Western Powers, including the German Emperor in his reception of Prince Chun, may be willing to recognise that the Emperor of China, a mere puppet of no strength of character, had personally no part in the attacks upon the foreigners; but the papers which Russia has secured at Mukden indisputably prove "that the whole movement was begun by order of the old Empress and with the immediate co-operation of English officers who had worked out a plan of campaign against the Russians. The Empress will now be able to represent the whole matter in a favorable light to the Chinese, and thus keep alive their hatred of the foreigner and arouse them to vengeance for the insults they have been subjected to. It is the English, too, who have on almost every occasion been the means of dragging on the long negotiations, and thus showing to the Chinese the discord existing among the Western Powers.

The Gazette complains as follows: "There is, then, every expectation that the troubles will be renewed, and what will the Powers then do? Their interests in China are purely of a commercial nature, and they can afford to wait quietly until China settles down again of herself. But Russia is situated differently; her frontiers are coterminous with those of China for thousands of miles, and every disturbance in China finds its echo in Russian territory. We have also to apprehend that these movements will be, as before, secretly fomented by our European enemies against us. In such circumstances the recently signed protocol affords us not the slightest vestige of protection, and the prohibition of the import of arms is a mere jest for all the good it will accomplish, for we may be very sure that not all the Powers of Europe will faithfully observe its provisions. In short, Russia has, as ever, nothing to rely upon but her own strength for the protection of her interests in China."

Washington, Oct. 7.—Late events are reported from China which may probably postpone the withdrawal of the foreign troops still remaining in the country. Despatches state that thousands of "rebels," after sacking the German mission at Pang Thong, attacked the city of Hunan near Canton. Here they were repulsed, and again at Shakma. In addition to this outbreak, it is reported that the Yangtse provinces are in a state approaching insurrection. There is a vast amount of suffering and destitution among the natives owing to recent floods and crop failures, and it is alleged that relief funds sent for distribution by the Chinese Government have been stolen by dishonest officials through whose hands they passed. A rebellion is imminent and the local governors have received orders to raise troops and to place their jurisdictions in a state of defence.

For the moment, the gravest feature of the situation is the sacking of the German mission station. The press reports are silent as to whether or not any lives were sacrificed on the occasion. If any Germans were murdered it is a reasonable presumption that China will have a heavy special bill of damages to pay. Not so long ago the murder of two German missionaries cost China Kiaou Chou and a hinterland likely to cover the Shantung peninsula in time. The Yangtse troubles will concern both Germany and Great Britain. The latter has long regarded the great river valley as its own particular sphere of influence and in it are many foreign representatives of commercial interests, consular agents, mission stations, and missionaries.

Should the native officials prove unable to put down the insurgents, and that is apt to be the case, the foreign Powers directly interested will have to undertake the task, and that might easily be the signal for a general Chinese uprising against Europeans and Americans. The masses of the populace in China are not only indifferent to the lesson that has been taught their Government by the allies, but they have been led by the court to believe that the Powers have been compelled by force to evacuate Peking, and it is no exaggeration to say that they only await a fresh grievance and leadership to break loose in a universal anti-foreign uprising a thousand times more dangerous than the so-called Boxer movement of 1900.

BRITAIN BECOMING RESTLESS

The Continued Activity of the Boers is Depressing

London, Oct. 7.—The Post says,—In the whole history of war nothing has been so unaccountable as the prolonged resistance of the Boers. Latterly, they have shown a wonderful energy, capturing our men, riding off with their guns, and attacking with the greatest gallantry forces which outnumber them two to one. These may be the last desperate acts of a gallant foe, but we have scarcely said this (and we have been saying it for a year) when the Boers reappear in increased strength; swing up to the towns which are strongly garrisoned, invade Natal, plan at this late hour for an attack upon Cape Colony. It is all a puzzle. Is the army stale? Is Lord Kitchener handicapped by the home authorities? The Boers must be getting outside assistance. The struggle may not be over for another six months. In the meantime, the British people are utterly weary of the whole business, and longing for an ending which seems as far off as ever.

JAPANESE IMMIGRANTS

The Mikado Will Try to Keep Them Away From Canada

Ottawa, October 7.—While the Dominion Government is unable to see its way clear to prohibiting the emigration of Japanese to British Columbia, there is reason to believe that the difficulty caused by the influx of coolies from Japan will be to a certain extent met by the rigid enforcement of the law which the Japanese Diet has passed. This law forbids the emigration of Japanese subjects to the United States or Canada, where they are regarded with disfavour. It is said that assurances have been given to the Dominion Government here through diplomatic channels that in return for the non-enforcement of the anti-Japanese law the Mikado's Government will make the most strenuous efforts to keep its subjects at home and so avoid arousing further hostility in the new world against the yellow men of the Far East.

LOCAL LEGAL.

The Case of Wason vs. Douglas Goes Down Again for a New Trial, But Without Costs

In the Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall yesterday the following case of local interest received attention:

Wason vs. Douglas—Judgment (E.B.B.) on motion by defendant to set aside verdict and judgment for plaintiff in an action for trespass to land, and to determine a boundary, tried before Lount J., and a jury at Peterborough, and to dismiss the action for a new trial, upon the ground of misdirection and upon the ground that the verdict is against the evidence and the weight of evidence. The land in question is in the township of Dummer, near Warsaw, and consists of an island in Indian river, lying between the two channels of the river. Held, that the question left to the jury was whether there was any southerly channel at all, and they were told that if they found there was, the plaintiff was entitled to succeed, but that they should have been asked to find, if there were two channels, which of them was the main channel when the conveyance to the defendant was made. They have in effect found merely that a south channel that existed, leaving the real question undetermined. Under these circumstances, there has been a mistrial, and, although the objection to the charge was not taken, the case must go down again for trial, but without costs. Per Street, J.—Cases of this nature involving the title of land should be tried by a judge, not a jury, so that the necessity for a second trial may be avoided. E. D. Edwards, K.C., (Peterborough) for plaintiff.

KING EDWARD'S HEALTH

He Has Rheumatism and This Has Caused Many Rumors

London, Oct. 7.—The coincidence of the announcement of King Edward's indisposition with the revived rumours regarding cancer, published in Copenhagen, from which city His Majesty has just returned, and where secrets of the British Court are more likely to break out than elsewhere, is causing some commotion here. The fact that the customary court circular does not appear in this morning's papers adds to the uneasy feeling, which is not allayed by the explanation of the King's indisposition given by Sir Francis Laking, His Majesty's physician.

A story is in circulation among the clubs, purporting to come from a titled member of the late Queen Victoria's household, giving colour to the cancer story, and saying that court circles are discussing the possibility of no coronation taking place next year. It is impossible, however, to obtain tangible corroborative evidence of this report.

THE BOERS FIRED UNDER WHITE FLAG

More Instances of Boer Treachery to the British.

THE FIGHTING BOERS GO FREE.

London, Oct. 5.—A letter has been received from the Adjutant of the Mounted Forces with General Kitchener. In it he says:

"I have always been with my division and have done all my share of the fighting. I got a paper from you yesterday of July 4, containing Campbell-Bannerman's speech about the refugee camps and the cruelty of taking the women from their farms. If he had to endure the sniping that we have had during the last two months he might tell a different tale. The working points for range of from six to twelve of the enemy, keeping them in food and ammunition, and in the daytime claiming protection from us. The constant cry is "You are warring on women and children," but I can give you a sample of their methods. One day we dropped unexpectedly on the enemy in a valley in which there was a farmhouse. We fired on them and saw them ride away up the opposite hill, and apparently cross the ridge out of range. We were still firing on the house when a white flag went up. We then ceased firing, and sent a man down to the house. As he approached it he was fired on by six of the enemy, who had ambushed themselves on the ridge, and he had a very lively time until he got to the house. All this time the white flag was flying gaily, and the women of the house resented it very strongly when they were brought into the column, and their house burned. Many of the farms which we have burned have contained ammunition, as has been vouched for by the explosions which have occurred and in nearly every case the enemy has been in possession of expansive or explosive bullets. We captured a Boer one night who had an explosive bullet in the breech of his rifle; but he was treated as an ordinary prisoner, whereas we should have been justified in shooting him on the spot.

FOOD FOR REFUGEES.

"Then there is the question of food for the refugees. Time after time we have been put on short rations because we had such a lot of women, children and prisoners, but they always received full rations. In some cases Boer families have surrendered because they had no food. We have always taken them along. Then, when prisoners are brought in, they say they do not care how long the war lasts, now that they know their women and children are taken care of. If they had to look after them themselves, they could not possibly move so quickly as they can now, and they would have more responsibilities, and probably the trouble would be over much sooner. From what I have seen it appears to me that the war is being carried on in the most humane manner. Even in this town, I have seen Boers walking about free and unmolested, who have undoubtedly fought against us quite recently.

"It seems to me that we ought to lock every one of them up until the war is over, and all the commandants have given up. The principal trouble now seems to be in Cape Colony, which has again been invaded by the Boers. They still hope for the Liberal party to come into power, and give them their independence, and they have hopes, too, of a European power intervening on their behalf."

BOER LOSSES OVER 600.

London, Oct. 5.—A despatch from Dundee, Natal, to the Times says that the Boer loss totaled over six hundred in the attacks on Forts Itala and Prospect. The Boers informed the prisoners that they expected to find the Fort Itala garrison only 100 strong.

There seems no doubt, says the Times' correspondent, that the Boers intended a combined invasion of Natal East and West. It is stated that General De Wet ordered the burghers in the south-eastern part of Orange River Colony to concentrate at Tabakop, but up to now the only result of the movement has been the isolated invasion of Natal by a small commando, which can easily be driven back.

British officers who were recently prisoners say that General Botha's men and horses are in good condition. The British prisoners have been deprived of nearly everything they possessed.

The main body of the Boers is still near the Zululand frontier.

The correspondent of the Times at Pretoria says the treason trials have revealed the presence of large numbers of sedition-makers who have not only taken the oath of allegiance to the British crown, but who, in many cases, have been receiving relief from the British authorities. In spite of this, they communicated freely with their friends in the commandoes in the field, feeling confident that they would be treated leniently if caught.

News has been received that a 15-pounder, captured by the enemy on the 19th ult., has been retaken by Col. Thorneycroft's men, who took twenty prisoners.

UPRISING IN CHINA CONFIRMED

Many of the Insurgents Caught and Decapitated.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The State Department received today a cablegram from the United States Consul at Canton, China, confirming the reported uprising in the Sing Ling District. The despatch says: "General Wu, with 1500 soldiers routed Triad rebels in Sing Ling District, Swatow, killing 200 and capturing and decapitating many prisoners. German missionaries burned. German missionaries fled safely to Hong Kong."

This despatch, taken in connection with previous advices the Department has had from Minister Conger, leads to the belief that the Boxers have had nothing to do with the present outbreak, but that it is a local disturbance, growing out of famine conditions, which the Chinese Government can suppress.

Colonization Roads

The Public Works Department of Ontario has expended this year some $140,00 on colonization roads in Ontario, the entire appropriation, except part of the $11,000 assigned to the Temiskaming district. Grading machines will be used in the northern districts. There are near 80 miles of good roads in new Ontario, 25 miles having been built this summer.

HAD STOCK FARMS IN BACK YARD

Complaint Against Young Farmer Reveals a Model Institution.

New York, Oct. 5.—The Rev. W. P. Mackay, a young Episcopal minister, who is at present in missionary work, was summoned to the Adams street court in Brooklyn yesterday to answer a charge of maintaining a public nuisance by keeping goats, ducks and chickens on his premises in East New York. Mr. Mackay admits that he has kept as many as four Angora goats, five kids, twenty ducks and a hundred chickens on the little plot of ground in the rear of his house but contends that his stock farm has been managed in the most approved manner and that no complaints whatever have ever been made except by two spiteful neighbors.

Dr. Robert A. Black paid an unexpected visit to the Rev. Mr. Mackay's farm yesterday and said there was no cause whatever for complaint. He said: "I have found the whole place as neat as a pin. The stable in which the goats are kept would be a model for a horse stable. There are neat little stalls, racks and bins for the feed and a perfect system of drainage. Mr. Mackay did not know that I was coming.

"He took me out beyond the back fence and it was the funniest thing I ever saw in my life. He said 'tuck-tuck-tuck' and immediately every chicken and duck in the waste of the country out there ran at his call. Then he said 'shoo-shoo' and all of the chickens and ducks but a very few ran away. But the very few filed through a whole in the minister's fence, and apparently found their home.

"He did the same thing with the goats that were browsing about. This prosecution will be stopped, for I think the little minister is all right."

Before becoming a minister, Mr. Mackay was a midshipman in the British navy and a reporter.

PENANCE DAY FOR BRITAIN.

Archbishop of York Proposes an Occasion of National Humiliation.

London, Oct. 5.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, denies that Parliament will meet this autumn to provide for money for the prosecution of the war in South Africa. Nevertheless, at the present rate of expenditure, the deficit for the fiscal year will be £69,724,000, while the sixty millions of new consols with which it was expected to meet the deficit realized at 91 1-2, £56,700,000, leaving a net deficit which must be provided for by fresh appropriations, of £13,000,000.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach doubtless considers that prompt action by Parliament in January will take care of the deficit.

The Archbishop of York's pastoral, proposing a day of national humiliation because of the slow success of British arms and of penitence for national sins, has been received with astonishment, especially as he openly suggests therein imitation of the Boers, who proclaimed August 8th as a day of humiliation. The Archbishop quotes the Boer proclamation in full for the edification of the British clergy.

"It is easy," he says, "and not uncommon to denounce these people as hypocrites and to laugh to scorn their open Bibles and meetings for prayer. If, without hypocrisy, we had long ago taken a similar course, it might have fared better with us there than it has done."

RARE VITALITY OF NOTED ACTOR

Sir Henry Irving Plays Eight Heavy Parts in One Week.

London, Oct. 5.—With sixty years over his head one cannot help marvelling at the wonderful vitality of the leading exponent of the drama, Sir Henry Irving. Since the close of his Lyceum season, with the exception of a brief vacation, he has been on tour, playing something like eight parts every week at seven or eight performances, but he hardly even in his younger days, performed such a feat as he did the other day, travelling more than five hundred miles and appearing in two towns.

After playing Charles I. in Leeds on Tuesday night, he got up at an early hour next morning and left Leeds at seven o'clock for London. Here he drove across the city from King's Cross to Waterloo, and left there about one o'clock for Winchester, where he was escorted to Castle Hall. He read scenes from "Becket," in connection with the King Alfred celebration, and made an impromptu speech, in which he said he was proud to take part in the millenary of King Alfred as the representative of the Royal institution.

Sir Henry, who, as may be remembered, wired at once a sympathetic expression on Mr. McKinley's death could not help concluding the speech which he was called upon to make without an allusion to the dire tragedy which filled the whole world with woe and righteous indignation. That he did very neatly and most appropriately. He said:

"May I add that all the race which looked upon King Alfred's memory as a common heritage is in bitter grief for one whom a mourning nation is laying at rest.

Mr. McKinley was at once the avatar and emblem of noble purpose, high thought and patriotism. He, like his predecessor of a thousand years ago, though he worked immediately for his own country, worked for all the world, and his memory shall be green forever in the hearts of our loyal and expansive race—of all English speaking people."

After performing this duty Sir Henry dined with the mayor and others and returned to London, going to his and returned to London, going to his in Stratton street on the same evening. He left King's Cross early next day and returned to Leeds in time to play Shylock in the evening.

Sir Henry leaves London for America on October 8, on board the Minnehaha, with Miss Terry and the same powerful company which played during the season at the Lyceum and also during his tour of the English provinces.

Sore Throat and Hoarseness

with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Polson's Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster, and more convenient for the outside. Nerviline penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, allays inflammation, and cures sore throat and hoarseness simply because that's what it is made for. The large 25 cent bottle of Nerviline is unexcelled as a household liniment. It cures everything.

WERE INSANE, NOT DRUGGED

Mrs. Dyer and Daughter Thought Jews Conspired Against Them

AND THEY STABBED NORBURY

London, Oct 5.—The unusual incident occurred at the Old Bailey yesterday of a female prisoner strenuously resisting the theory that she was insane, being well aware that the alternative must be a trial for murder and sentence of death.

This was Caroline Agnes Dyer, thirty-one, dressmaker, who was indicted, with her brother, Ralph John Dyer, thirty-five, bootmaker, for the murder of Frances Norbury, and the attempted murder of William Flack Norbury, Ann Norbury and Kingsmon Horace Reed.

The jury was first sworn in to determine whether Miss Dyer was sane enough to plead. "Question me," said the prisoner, "and you will find I am not insane."

The appearance of Mrs. Dyer in the witness box quickened the jury's decision. She did not believe her daughter was insane, but knew that there was a Jewish conspiracy against the whole family, and that her daughter had been drugged and assaulted.

The jury found Miss Dyer to be of unsound mind, and unable to plead, and she was ordered to be detained during his Majesty's pleasure.

Ralph John Dyer was then put on his trial for the murder. "I am not guilty of murder, sir," he said, when called upon to plead, and he pleaded not guilty to the minor charges also.

The story as it unfolded was a very remarkable one. In 1881 the man kept a butcher's shop in Portsmouth, and diseased meat was sold there. The subsequent summons happened to be signed by the then Mayor, Mr. Emmanuel, and ever since then the mother and son and daughter have been convinced that there was a Jewish plot to prosecute them.

In July of this year Miss Dyer got an engagement as dressmaker at the shop of Mr. W. J. Lewis, draper, Stoke Newington. Mr. Lewis' business lay chiefly with the Jews. On July 4 there was a fire at the shop which was burnt out. A salvage corps fireman, Reed, being placed in charge of the damaged stock. Miss Dyer had to go to sleep with the Norbury family. Her conduct began to be so peculiar that she was asked to leave. Mr. Lewis paid her a month's money and she went home to Portsmouth.

WERE NOT DRUGGED.

While there she and her mother and brother came to the conclusion that she had been drugged while in London. The three went to fourteen or fifteen doctors in Southsea, but most of them refused to examine her. Dr. Alexander, who did, told them there was no ground for their suspicions. However, they wrote extraordinary letters to the Home Secretary and the First Commissioner of Police, accusing Mr. Lewis of having set fire to his shop purposely, and the Norburys, the fireman Reed, and the Lewis family of having plotted to ruin Miss Dyer.

Then the brother bought a dagger and a revolver, gave the former to Miss Dyer, and together they started for London on July 26 with the avowed intention of avenging her wrongs. Both carried on them signed statements about the case, in which delusions about a Jewish conspiracy were mixed up with facts.

When they arrived at Green lanes, the lad, William Norbury, was stabbed in the street by Miss Dyer, Mrs. Norbury was several times stabbed by her and beaten about the head with the revolver by the brother, Lillian Norbury was slightly wounded, and Frances was mortally stabbed in the shoulder. Miss Dyer went on to the shop, where she attacked Fireman Reed.

Though the doctors said that Ralph John Dyer was legally sane, the jury, without hearing counsel, found that he was out of his mind when he took part in the murder; and he also was ordered to be detained during his Majesty's pleasure.

SPENT A SUMMER IN A DESERT

Scientists Travel Where Rains are Nineteen Months Apart.

Ithaca, Oct. 5.—Louis A. Fuertes, of Cornell University, spent last summer in research work in Western Texas and Southern New Mexico. The land was a desert, not of sand, but largely of rock where the interval between rains is nineteen months. Mr. Fuertes and party camped in deep canyons which had served as the last refuge of the Apaches when the redmen were hard pushed by the blue-coated soldiers of the frontier commands.

The first work of the party was done in the Chisos Mountains, near the grand canyon of the Rio Grande. There is a sort of jay new to the United States found there, and many species which were supposed not to exist in that locality were discovered.

In the whole region there are many small mammals, despite the general lack of water. One of the canyons in which the party camped was 60 miles long and contained no water except a small spring at the upper end. Just before the party arrived a rain fell and the "tanks," holes dug in the earth as receptacles for rain water, were filled. This rain was the first that had fallen in that district for nineteen months.

One peculiarity noted by Mr. Fuertes in the region was the protection provided for the plants. The cacti had extremely sharp thorns, while other sorts were covered with tough hides or malodorous varnish-like substances.

The principal achievement of the expedition was the extension of the known range of many animals, plants and birds.

The Royal Chorus

Toronto Globe:—Mr Torrington has visited Trenton and Peterborough for the purpose of rehearsing the effective sections of the royal chorus formed in these places, and which sing with the chorus at the ducal reception. The utmost enthusiasm prevails amongst these out-of-town singers, and they will all give a good account of themselves. In Trenton Mayor Phillips and Ald. Dicis are amongst the very best singers in the chorus, and both take an active part in the preparations made for the visit to Toronto. Prof. Stanistreet in Trenton and Prof. Mulligan in Peterborough have worked hard in the training of their chorus, and deserve every credit for their

WHAT NOBILITY MUST WEAR AT CORONATION

Rules and Regulations Issued by Earl Marshal Contain Quaint and Archaic Directions

THE FUR TRIMMINGS ARE CURIOUSLY GRADUATED

Barons Are Allowed Two Rows of Ermine, Viscounts Two and a Half Rows, Earls Three Rows and Dukes Four Rows.

London, Oct 5.—There is a flutter in high society to-day owing to the fact that the Earl Marshal has issued the rules and regulations governing what is to be worn at the coronation of King Edward next year. The whole document breathes of the middle ages, when distinctions in dress were considered so essential, and the quaintness of the phraseology in which the attendance of the nobility of the United Kingdom is required "at the solemnity of the Royal coronation of their most sacred Majesties," and describing the regulations in regard to dresses and head dresses, is distinctly mediaeval. There is a curious graduation in the fur trimmings of the robes which emphasises the fine distinctions existing in the ranks of the aristocracy. All the Peers have been notified that their robes must be of "Crimson velvet edged with miniver, the cape furred with miniver, pure and powdered, with bars or rows of ermine, according to their degree."

Here follow the numerical graduations distinguishing between the ranks. Barons are allowed two rows of ermine, Viscounts two and a half rows, Earls three rows, Marquises three and a half rows and Dukes four rows. All mantles and robes must be worn over full court dress, uniform or regimentals.

The Earl Marshal's order banishes counterfeit pearls and all jewels from coronets, which are to be "silver gilt, the caps of crimson velvet turned up with ermine with gold tassels on top. No jewels are precious stones are to be set or used in coronets, not counterfeits of pearls instead of silver balls."

The number of the latter permitted revives a nice point of distinction. A Baron's coronet bears six silver balls, a Viscount's sixteen, an Earl's eight with gold strawberry leaves between, a Marquis' four balls and four leaves alternately. A Duke's coronet has no balls and has eight strawberry leaves.

The Earl Marshall next prescribes the robes, mantles and coronets to be worn by the peeresses. These are of the same material as the men's, with similar gradations in the numbers of bars of ermine and balls. The length of the train marks the difference in rank. A baroness is only allowed a train of three feet, a viscountess has one and a quarter yards, countesses have one and a half yards, a marchioness has one and three-quarter yards and a duchess two yards. Then follows a court notice as to who shall be excluded. Peeresses in their own right and widows of peers are allowed to come. But widows who have remarried beneath their rank in the peerage are "not entitled to a summons to attend the coronation."

NEWS BY LETTER AND BY CABLE

Important Question to the Entire Continent of Europe

London, Oct. 5.—The most important of all questions for Germany, Austria, and Italy, and, indirectly, for the whole of Europe, is that of the continuance or breaking up of the Triple Alliance. This question is indissolubly bound up with the renewal or non-renewal of the Commercial Treaties. An Italian diplomatist has published a remarkable paper on the subject, the conclusion of which is that no Italian Government, of whatever color or composition, "would be strong enough to force upon the country another Triple Alliance Treaty without the accompaniment of commercial conventions advantageous to Italy. That the Italian diplomatist speaks truly is only too well known in Berlin and Vienna, and the Italian Government itself leaves no doubt about it. All that Germany, which is the aggressor by the introduction of the new and almost prohibitive tariff, could wish for is that the door for negotiation should not be barred by premature measures for retaliation on the part of the two allies. In this respect the programme of the Italian Government is satisfactory enough. Italy will not give notice from the other side—that is, Germany. She will not introduce in the Chamber an autonomous tariff until compelled to do so, and she will act as the moderating and mediating element during the forthcoming negotiations between the Powers whose commercial conventions are approaching expiration. She will, in the first place, work for the continuance of the treaty policy as opposed to autonomous tariffs, retaliation, and economic war. "That this is also the programme of Austria-Hungary, generally speaking, may be safely presumed, so that two members of the Triple Alliance will together oppose the third, leaving to him the choice of alienating trusted friends, and, perhaps, driving one of them—Italy—into another camp, or abandoning a scheme which, if carried out, would throw Germany, politically and economically, into endless disorder.

At the present time, the Italian Diplomatist states, the Triple Alliance policy "is opposed by all the Democrats, who form one-fifth of the Italian Chamber, on political grounds; by the important industrial and commercial class, which suffered by the withdrawal of German capital from Italy, the banks of German origin without doing any good to Italian trade; by the agrarian interest which is threatened by the new German Tariff; by the Italian Nationalists, who envy Austria her Italian ports, and on that account abhor the alliance; and finally, by the back of public opinion, which gradually, but surely, turns its back on the alliance with the two German powers, and expects to derive advantage from giving it up."

This is the question, which, in a short time, will occupy the undivided attention of Central Europe, to the entire exclusion of the Chinese crisis, the Franco-Turkish conflict, or fears for the tranquility of the Balkans. What is involved is, indeed, the present equilibrium of Europe.

LET BULGARIA TREMBLE

The United States Will Attack Her if Miss Stone is Injured

London, Oct. 7.—"The United States Government is determined to exact full revenge upon every one concerned," says the Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, and "if anything happens to Miss Stone it will not hesitate to ask permission to bring a fleet through the Dardanelles to get at the Bulgarian ports on the Black Sea, and to force the Bulgarian Government to act against the Macedonian country."

Cologne, Oct. 7.—A despatch to the Gazette from Sofia says the brigands, accompanied by Miss Ellen Stone, the American missionary whom they abducted, are again on Bulgarian soil. They demand a ransom of $100,000 for Miss Stone. The chief of the brigands has sent a threat to the Minister of the Interior to carry off the members of his family, if possible. The Government has sent an entire regiment in pursuit of the brigands.

UNMASKED AT THE ALTAR

Dramatic Climax to a Wedding in New York City.

BRIDEGROOM ARRESTED AT ALTAR

New York, Oct. 7.—Dramatic indeed was the climax of a wedding service in St. Stanislaus Catholic church on Seventh street on Saturday afternoon. The church is crowded; hand in hand the bride and bridegroom stood before the lighted altar, upon the lips of the venerable priest were trembling the words that would make them man and wife.

"I now pronounce you——"

The shuffle of hurrying feet and the murmur of voices at the doors silenced the astonished clergyman. Up the centre aisle hurried two policemen with a pallid woman and four children close behind them.

"Stop this service!" shouted the foremost policeman. Don't marry that man. This is his true wife and these are his four children."

With uplifted hands the priest stood silently. The bridegroom turned from the accusing gaze of the woman who clung to the policeman's arm. The bride reeled and fell fainting across the altar rail.

Half an hour before a poorly clad woman, escorted by Leon Waszter, a trustee of St. Stanislaus Church and accompanied by four children, entered the Fifth Avenue Police Station and told a pitiful story to Sergt. Arthur Schulum.

"My name is Louise Kavieskin," she said. "My husband, Anton Kavieskin, the father of my four children, deserted us four months ago. We are destitute. God help us. While he—he is to be married to-day to another woman. Please—please stop that marriage."

Mr. Waszter corroborated the woman's story, adding that the recreant husband was to marry a Miss Sophia Dulapa in St. Stanislaus's Church within the hour.

"Not on your life!" thundered Sergt. Schulum, as he summoned Policemen Schuber and Burke before him.

"Go with this woman and her children," he ordered "Go right into St. Stanislaus Church. Stop that wedding and arrest the bridegroom. Be lively about it."

The policemen made haste, but reached the church barely in time. Before the astonished assembly could fairly realise what had happened Kavieskin was in custody. Father John Streslaiki, the officiating priest, murmured a prayer of thanks for the interruption that had prevented a crime.

The bride when she rallied from the shock threw her arms around the wronged wife.

"You will forgive me, I know," she sobbed. "He has deceived us both. My life is wrecked as well as yours; for I love him."

Kavieskin, frightened at first, grew bold and defiant.

"Yes, this woman is my wife," he said. "It is true that I deserted her. She tired me. I couldn't stand her chronic complaining. I love Sophia. She had about [illegible] in cash and I need the money. As the case now stands, I don't care what you do with me."

He was locked up, while the wronged wife, woman-like, begged for his release. Four cab drivers, hired for the wedding party invaded the station and clamored for their pay. The prisoner had only $2.25 to divide among them.

Mrs. Kavieskin and her children since the desertion by husband and father have lived upon the charity of friends occupying a single room at No. 327 East Third Street.

Mr. Flavelle's Gift.

On Saturday last Mr. G. W. Mulligan received a letter from Mr. J. W. Flavelle, Toronto, a former resident of Peterborough, extending his best wishes to the Peterborough branch of the royal choir, accompanied by $10 as a subscription towards the defraying of the expense in connection with the chorus trip to Toronto.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 7 1901

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC

Our esteemed contemporary, the Hamilton Times truthfully says that the inhabitants of those portions of Canada which are not on the lines of the Canadian Pacific may not feel as deeply concerned in the operations and prosperity of that railway as those who depend upon the C. P. R. for the transportation of their persons and property; but every taxpayer is a contributor to the cost of constructing the great transcontinental road and as stockholders in that sense we must all be pleased with the news that the road is doing well. The chief design of the undertaking was to open up the Northwest, to make the fertile lands of Manitoba and the territories accessible to Canadians and others willing to till the ground, and to provide an extended market for the manufactures and other products of the older Provinces. Other spheres of usefulness, related to military and mining matters, have since been developed, but the main idea was and is that the Canadian Pacific should carry grain eastward and goods westward. The most striking fact brought out at the annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific shareholders in Montreal the other day, was that the company's eggs are not all carried in one basket —that the C. P. R. can now earn money and pay dividends, even when the grain crop of Manitoba is a failure. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy pointed out that the grain tonnage of 1900 was only one-third as great as that of 1899, and only one-fifth of that which is expected from the crop of 1901, yet the company kept its place as a dividend-paying concern.

As the Company's land grant is transferred to the hands of settlers, the bonds that were issued some years ago on that security are redeemed and cancelled. Last year that branch of the Company's indebtedness was reduced by $425,500, and next year a still larger amount will be wiped out, as the settlement of the country is now rapid and the sales of land are large—75 per cent. greater in the last three months than in the corresponding period of the preceding year. This is indicative of actual settlement, for Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was careful to say that none of these sales were in large blocks. The speculator is not getting in between the Company and the settler.

An announcement was made which is of special interest to the employees of the company. The shareholders were asked to appropriate a quarter of a million dollars as the nucleus of a pension fund, to which the employees will not be asked to contribute anything. Men whose service has been long and faithful, when incapacitated by reason of advanced age, will come in for a share of the benefits of this fund. That the Company appreciates the loyal assistance of its humblest employees was shown by the remark of Sir William VanHorne, who declared that such service was more important in advancing the prosperity of the Company than good crops and favorable commercial conditions

The Canadian Pacific is not going to have the haulage of grain from Manitoba all to itself, for the Canadian Northern Railway will be in the field before the end of this year. But the C. P. R. covers the territory between Red River and the Pacific Ocean pretty thoroughly, and it has its all-rail line from Winnipeg to Montreal for winter service. No rival can dislodge it, or seriously affect its income, for there will soon be grain enough for export to tax the carrying capacity of all the roads that can be built.

ASKED TO SAVE CZOLGOSZ

Governor Odell Gets Letters Urging Executive Clemency

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Governor Odell arrived in this city today from Newburgh and when he reached the executive chamber he was surprised to find on his desk two letters requesting him to commute to life imprisonment the sentence of Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley. One letter was sent by a man in Illinois and the other by a man in Maine. They were evidently written by cranks, in the opinion of the Governor, and no attention will be paid to them.

"You may be assured that nothing will be done by me," said Governor Odell, "to prevent the execution of Czolgosz on the day fixed by law."

The governor also received a petition that the body of the murderer after electrocution be buried at sea. The governor understands that the body must be surrendered to the condemned man's relatives if they claim it after death and that they have charge of its disposition.

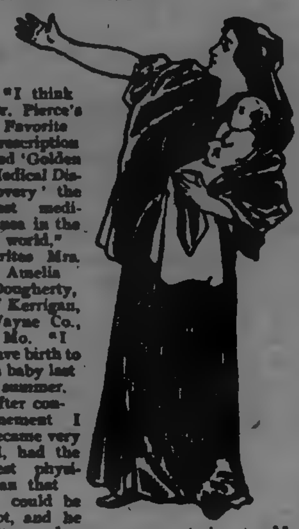
HAY FOR SOUTH AFRICA

British Transports Getting Fodder in the United States

New York, Oct. 7.—Another British transport, the Vermont, has arrived here to load forage for the troops in South Africa. The ship will take a complete cargo of baled hay. The Vermont's is the second complete cargo of hay that has left for South Africa within a few weeks.

The Trentham Hall, at Dow's stores, is loading 65,000 bushels of heavy clipped oats for the army in South Africa also. This grain is being put in eighty-pound bags for the convenience of transport.

"I lingered between life and death."



"I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' the best medicines in the world," writes Mrs. Amelia Dougherty, of Kerrigan, Wayne Co., Mo. "I gave birth to a baby last summer. After confinement I became very ill, had the best physician that could be got, and he diagnosed my case as uterine trouble tending to dropsy. Medicine seemed to do me no good. I lingered between life and death for quite a while, every day growing weaker until I could not walk across the room. My friends were looking for my death every minute. A friend wrote and told me about Dr. R. V. Pierce, and I at once wrote to him for medical advice. He replied immediately, giving me full instructions as to what to do. I at once followed his advice, and when I had taken his medicine about a week I felt a good deal stronger. When I had taken it about one month I felt as strong as I do to-day. I took four bottles of each kind and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.' Many thanks for the medicine, It has permanently cured me."

PAN-AM. FINANCES

Hope of a Payment on Capital Stock Practically Given Up

Buffalo, Oct. 7.—Hope of a payment on the capital stock of the Exposition is practically given up by the Exposition authorities. The books show that the Exposition has in cash $2,562,000, and that in the month just closed it made $900,000. This is regarded as a good showing, in view of the many drawbacks. Contractors are still unpaid, and, it is said, the total amount of their claims is $600,000. Should the proceeds for October equal those of September, the total in the treasury will be $3,400,000. This would leave only $400,000 with which to pay the contractors, after payment of the bonds, amounting to $3,000,000. It is said, however, the contractors will be paid in part, and it is not unlikely that a partial payment according to this plan may be made this week.

INDIANS' GIFT TO PRINCESS

Ashcroft, B. C., Oct. 4.—The return journey of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York began in earnest yesterday. It is worthy of note that in this, the newest portion of our Dominion, the most venerable and unique gift received on the royal party's tour of the world was presented. On landing at Vancouver yesterday morning a deputation of Port Simpson Indian chiefs was met with. They were so pleased with the gracious reception given them by the Duke and Duchess some days ago that they determined to give them the most highly prized article in their possession. They are of a type wholly different from those of the prairie and Eastern Canada, both in physique and otherwise. Through a newspaper correspondent, the Indians happened to hear that the Duchess is very fond of Indian relics. The chiefs accordingly met and, as they expressed it, decided to give "the daughter of the King the best we have got, the Kite-um Shamorgat," or the "Hat of the chiefs." This headdress belonging to Port Simpson Indians is equivalent to the royal crown, and has been used by the chiefs for many generations, so long indeed, that they have no record of its origin. It is very highly prized among Indians, and Rev. A. E. Green, interpreter, expressed surprise that they were willing to part with it, but they are so pleased at the Duke's kindly reception of them and at his graciousness at meeting them again that they say, "We can only give the best we have to our King's daughter." This famous hat is made of curiously carved wood, and includes a unique mask. The top is of bristles pulled from the beards of sea lions, and of great antiquity. From it falls a mantle of ermine skins, the favorite decorations of the coast tribes. As it is said by the Indians to have been handed down for countless generations, the generosity of the tribe is the more notable. The Duke courteously thanked the Indians on behalf of the Duchess.

Thousands of citizens cheered the departure of the Royal train, and half a dozen bands played "God Save the King." The warships in the harbor fired a royal salute. The Duke inspected the bluejackets and complimented the officers in command, and the party was gone.

Between Yale and North Bend the Duke and Duchess, with some of the suite, mounted a specially prepared engine with arm chairs strapped upon it, and rode for some miles amid the wonderful rock scenery of Fraser Canyon. At a point at which the engine emerged from a tunnel a cinematograph picture of the royal engine was taken by T. MacGregor, R. N., who has been making pictures of the chief incidents of the tour for exhibition in England. Ovations were tendered the royal train all along the line. The royal party will divide at Banff, when the Duke will go on with a small following to Poplar Point, Manitoba, to shoot small game on Senator Kirchoffer's ranch. The Duchess remains at the mountain resort two days, where a program has been arranged for her entertainment.

BINDER TWINE

Almonte, Oct. 6.—At a meeting held in the town hall yesterday to promote the establishment of a binding twine factory in Almonte, quite a number attended and not only were our citizens well represented but the farmers also.

The committee appointed to enquire into the best kind of machinery for the factory presented a report and were reappointed to secure a building and water power. A practical man was present from Ottawa to explain details and the prospects were thoroughly discussed with the result that it was determined to go forward.

It was explained that the Peterborough factory would be large enough to supply the requirements of the country, and a lively discussion took place. It is very doubtful if the necessary stock can be sold.

TENDERS FOR WATER POWER.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tenders for Water Power," will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on the 21st day of October, 1901, for water power at Dam 5, between Peterborough and Lakefield.

The conditions and Form of Tender may be seen and obtained on and after the 30th day of September, 1901, at this Office and at the Office of the Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal, at Peterborough, Ont.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the Tender the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further an accepted bank cheque for the sum of $5,000 must accompany the Tender. This accepted bank cheque must be endorsed over to the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to execute the lease for the water power strictly in accordance with the terms expressed in the conditions.

The accepted cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the highest or any tender.

By Order,
L. K. JONES.
Secretary.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Dr Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

As soon after 4 p.m. each day as possible, the examiners will judge the lists to the best of their ability, and will designate the prizes. We will write to you at once notifying you what prize has been awarded you, then if you are satisfied, you can send your subscription to THE WOMAN'S WORLD and your prize will go by return of mail carriage paid. To a person of narrow ideas it seems impossible that we should be able to make such a gigantic offer, but we have the money, brains, and reputation, we know exactly what we are doing, and if we can legitimately gain a million subscribers by this grand idea we know that this million of well pleased subscribers can be induced to recommend The Woman's World to all friends, thereby building up our circulation still further. We are willing to spend $25,000 in this contest in building up a big subscription list, and when this money is spent we reserve the right to publish a notification that the contest has been discontinued. Don't delay until it is too late. The contest will continue until Jan. 1902.

We give A Bonus Prize of $250 independent of all others to the person who sends in the list gotten up in the best and handsomest manner. Our Committee will decide and award prizes daily, but the special $250 prize will be awarded in March 1902. Any bird's name found in the dictionaries accepted.

A TROOPER'S STORY OF A SKIRMISH

Montreal, Oct. 5.—An interesting letter descriptive of a recent brush between the Boers and a few of the Canadian members of the South African Constabulary, has been received by Mr. W. R. Sutton, of 273 Bleury street, from his son Trooper W. T. Sutton, formerly a private in No. 2 Company of the Victoria Rifles, but now a member of Baden-Powell's South African Constabulary.

A BRUSH WITH THE ENEMY

"On Friday morning we got up at 5 o'clock and packed up our things ready for the convoy to take. About 8 o'clock the Lieutenant arrived and shortly afterwards the waggon which had Corporal Graham's supplies on board. After loading up we started, two mounted men in front and then Trooper Clement and myself, followed by the convoy and the rest of the men. When we left the old camp we moved out to the front due east up through the mealie patch and on across the black and burnt country, which is now beginning to show little patches of green where the grass is starting to grow. While marching along, extended some distance apart, we saw two fine Spring Bok coming towards us running at wonderful speed. We did not get a chance to have a shot at them as they were going so fast. After a walk of about four and a half miles we came up with the two mounted men and sometime after the convoy appeared, coming over the hill behind us. Our orders were to find the right hand post of No 14 Troop and dig our trench at a distance of 1,600 yards from it, but there was no post or tent to be seen, so we decided to turn north and after sometime we saw a few building's scattered about on the sky line on the other side of a hollow while down in the hollow were two or three Kaffir houses. Troopers J. Harris, one of the mounted men went down to the houses, while McInnis and I followed him and Trooper Bird rode over to interview some horsemen who appeared in the distance.

These men turned out to be scouts from No. 14 and 15 troops, and their Captain told Bird that they were undecided where to make their camp and would probably take up their quarters for the night in one of the Kaffir houses. He advised us to do the same so we returned to the convoy and sat down trying to decide what to do. There were nine of us altogether,—firstclass Trooper McInnis, who was in charge of the convoy, and first class Trooper J. Harris, who was acting as scout. Then there were Troopers M. Bird, J. Clement, A. Roche, C. Dewar E. McDonald and two Montreal men, C. Dixon and myself.

Some of us were sitting or lying down having a bite of biscuit, as we had not had anything since breakfast, while others were looking about. The two Zulu drivers were sitting near their oxen smoking, and McInnis and Harris had ridden over towards Corporal Graham's men, who were out of sight a mile or so to the south over the sky line. A short time had elapsed when we heard some shots, and Troopers McInnis and Harris came over the rise about 400 yards in front of us, urging their horses on as hard as they could go. One of the men jumped up and said. "By heavens something must be wrong to make them go like that!" Just as they reached the convoy, there appeared over the rise two mounted men coming at an easy canter then another appeared to the right, and two more, and so they kept coming, until they were ten or eleven of them. On they came down the slope of the hill, and at the same time twenty more appeared and began to move round our right flank, taking up their post on in a mealie field some 500 yards in our rear. When we first saw them we were doubtful who they were, and, therefore, did not fire, as we thought they might be some of our own scouts. However, our doubts were soon dispelled when several of them, stopping their horses, dismounted, dropped on one knee and then whiz, whiz, and something flew past us with an angry hiss; at the same time little spurts of dust showed where other bullets were striking. There

No orders were given, indeed, in a case like this; it is best for every man to use his own judgment. Most of the men ran back about 20 yards behind the convoy where a few ant-hills and inequalities in the ground gave some shelter. I made for an ant-hill about 15 yards off and was not long reaching it, as the bullets were whistling round me pretty lively. When I got there I had no time to observe what was going on. Shortly after the commencement of the fight. Harris' horse was shot through the head, and as he was trying to drag it towards an ant hill it fell dead with the blood pouring from its wound. Soon after this, one of the Boers' horses was killed, and then an old man who was standing up by his horse and blazing away at us was shot. His head fell forward, his knees gave way and he dropped on his face, and after one or two struggles lay still. Soon after another Boer was killed. He was shot right through his stomach, the bullet piercing a leather belt he was wearing and going out at his back. I saw the belt afterwards. His horse was also killed.

I turned my attention then to a Boer in a gray suit, who was near the foot of the hill. The first shot I fired fell short, so I put the sight up to 600 yards. This time a spurt of dust close to his left, showed that I was getting nearer and then some one shot his horse. It fell and after kicking furiously for a few minutes lay still. Next I saw the Boer give a start, and commence to limp up the hill. The others mounted their horses, and picking him up disappeared over the rise, the way they had come. The Boers in the mealie field behind us also moved off. They did not fire many shots for some reason or other. The whole fight lasted not more than five minutes, and resulted in the enemy losing two killed and at least one wounded. There may have been more, but I did not see them. They also lost three horses. Our loss was one horse killed. At the beginning of the fight the two Zulu drivers ran off, and turned up at headquarters some time later on. When all was over I went and had a look at the old Boer. He was a man of about 60 years of age, and had white hair and a long white beard. Someone had turned him over and he was lying on his back with his head back and mouth open, and his gray homespun vest and necktie were soaking with blood, which was slowly oozing from a wound in his left breast right over his heart. He looked a sorry spectacle. Somehow none of our oxen were hurt, so, after some difficulty, we got them started, and, meeting some of Corporal Graham's squad who had also had a brush with the enemy, drove back a mile or so and got a trench dug, where we stayed all night. We posted double sentries, but there was no further raiders. So much for our first fight. We're now busy on our own trench, which will take us some time to complete, and then I suppose we shall have to move again. However, such is life in the S. A.C. The rainy season is just commencing, and the nights at present are very cold and frosty. We have not had a single day yet as hot as a Canadian summer day, indeed sometimes we have to wear our great coats all day, the wind is so cold.

In another part of the letter Trooper Sutton informs his father that he is in fine health, and that he has not been sick since going to South Africa.

DEATH STRUGGLE OF THE BURGHERS

London, Oct. 4.—The Chronicle entertains a very hopeful view of the South African situation. It says that a complete and sudden collapse of the Boer resistance is expected by the authorities, and for this reason the War Office has not even considered the advisability of despatching reinforcements. Botha's fight on the Zululand border and Delarey's little affair at Moedwill, near Rustenburg are regarded as the last desperate efforts of discouraged men. The Chronicle prophesies an early conclusion which will come with startling suddenness.

The Standard has received a despatch from Cape Town regarding the recent visit to Pretoria of Sir Gordon Sprigg, Premier of Cape Colony. It says that there is much speculation over the object of the conference with Milner and Kitchener, and it is generally assumed that the country is on the eve of important developments.

THE MOEDWILL SURPRISE.

London, Oct. 4.—Lord Kitchener has sent the following further particulars regarding the attack by Delarey on the camp of Colonel Kekewich, at Moedwill: "I have received particulars from Kekewich in regard to the attack on his camp. A Yeomanry patrol, which was sent out before dawn, met the enemy advancing. They gave warning, but it was too late to prevent the pickets being rushed, which enabled the Boers to occupy a position with good cover from which they poured in a heavy fire at an effective range, while at the same time there was an attack at both flanks. The attack was repulsed after two hours fighting. The enemy expended an enormous amount of ammunition."

Col. Kekewich was prevented from pursuing the enemy owing to the fact that many of his horses were killed.

SERIOUS OUTLOOK.

London, Oct. 4.—The Daily News says that the national income and expenditure will necessitate the early summoning of Parliament to provide further funds to carry on the war. The News publishes a financial table showing the revenue far below the expenditure, which is far above the estimates. It regards the outlook as most serious.

The Asthmatic's Agony.

Wakeful nights, suffocating sensations, difficult breathing. Who can describe it? This disease, partly nervous, partly congestive, partly the result of microbic irritation, is no longer treated by nauseous stomach-destroying drugs, by Catarrhozone, that destroys the microbe, relieves congestion and relaxes the nervous irritability that renders breathing so difficult. The medication is carried by the air you breathe to the very seat of the disease, and removes at once the cause. The great discovery is known as Catarrhozone. Its influence upon Asthma is simply marvellous. Catarrhozone prevents as well as cures, and is the only remedy guaranteed to cure. Your money back if it fails. Two sizes at all dealers, 25c. and $1.00.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.
President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1899.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for no securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June, New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is today the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but show their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1880, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print. The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.
New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

PABST BREWING CO.
J. R. Kathrens, Adv. Mgr.
Milwaukee, Wis., June 7, 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and almost successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others followed his publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the gross stupidity of imitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, or not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD,
Advertising Manager for Sapolio.
—In Fame, March, 1901.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,
FRANK ROE BATCHELD,
Clerk of the Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, U. S.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1899.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,892 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspaper directories gratis, but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12, 1900.
JOS. H. HANNER,
Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation, as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

S. H. HARDWICK,
General Passenger Agent.
Washington, D. C., May 21, 1901.

BALTIMORE.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Marks Bros. Present "His Atonement" on Saturday Night

Marks Bros. closed their engagement in the Opera House here on Saturday night when they presented "His Atonement" to a fairly good house. The inclement weather prevented many people from attending. The show was fully up to the average and the specialties, were, if anything, better than before.

Chris. Allen, the Prince of clog dancers, gave another exhibition of his remarkable clog dancing, and on being encored, gave a comic song, while Miss Emma G. Shaab and the Pepper twins delighted the audience with the "Holy City." Master Clyde Long and Miss Esther Evans treated the audience to a song entitled "Lis from the Alley," and some fine dancing. Little Elsie and Corinne Long gave some dancing specialties, and well deserved the hearty applause which they received. These remarkable little girls are only about ten years old, and show great promise of being the finest dancers traveling with any show in Canada.

Oscar O'Shea gave a comic song and dialogue.

The moving pictures were very good and Mr. G. E. Burr accompanied them with two solos, "Day by Day," and "Nobody Ever Brings Presents to Me," and received hearty applause from the audience.

At the Matinee in the afternoon over five hundred school children were present and "The Major's Wife" was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The specialties were also of a high order, the famous Pepper twins appearing in a couple of duets and some fancy dancing which was highly appreciated.

Mr. Marks deserves great credit for bring such a strong company and such a variety of plays and specialties to Peterborough, and will, no doubt, be greeted with large houses on their return trip here later on in the season.

Church Notes.

In the Murray street Baptist church yesterday, Rev. Mr. Bastow, the pastor preached morning and evening, to large congregations. Sacrament was administered after the morning service.

At St. Luke's Rev. H. A. Langfeldt commenced yesterday evening a series of sermons on the "Jewish Sacrifices" of the Old Testament as interpreted through the New Testament.

In the George Street Church the Rev. J. G. Shearer, secretary of the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance preached yesterday morning.

HOPEFUL FOR CONSERVATIVES

Col. Sam Hughes Thinks Ross Will be Surely Ditched.

Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., of Lindsay, was in town on Friday, and in conversation with the Times, stated that he was persuaded the end of the Liberal reign in Ontario was at hand. He said the people were heartily tired of the present state of affairs, and were sick of crooked ways. The turning down of Mr. Blezard in East Peterborough was a mistake which would lose the constituency to Mr. Ross. The redemption of Ontario will be the beginning of the end of Liberal rule at Ottawa.

Referring to South Africa, the gallant Colonel, who, as our readers know, is himself a hero of the veldt, did not anticipate a speedy termination of hostilities. He thought that the recent fight in which 300 Boers were said to be killed, was garbled to suit public opinion in England. If the British surgeon was captured while administering to the wounded on the battle field, and forced to attend to the Boer wounded, while our own men lay for hours in the broiling sun without water, it was proof that the enemy was in possession of the battle field, yet this is what the dispatches state occurred.

Col. Hughes recently returned from the Northwest, and looks the picture of health and good spirits.

GASOLINE EXPLODED.

A Serious Accident to Mr. Harry Hutchison on Saturday.

On Saturday evening, about half-past four o'clock, Mr. Harry Hutchinson was seriously injured by the explosion of a gasoline stove in the store occupied by George Hutchinson & Son, hardware dealer. It appears that Harry was engaged in soldering in the cellar and was heating an iron when the explosion occurred. As a result his face and hands were terribly burned, and nearly all his hair was singed off. Dr. Scott was immediately summoned and dressed the wounds, after which the injured man was removed to his home. It is not thought that his eye sight will be impared permanently, although it will be several weeks longer before he will be able to be around.

Harry has been very unfortunate this summer, as he was only just recovering from a sore knee, with which he has been troubled since spring.

Catarrh Poisons the System

lowers health and vitality, destroys digestion and makes the victim feel like thirty cents. Foolish, any criminal to have Catarrh and suffer its evil consequences since Catarrhozone so quickly and pleasantly cures it. It is medicine carried to the lungs, throat and nasal passages, by the air you breathe. It's as absolute in its power of curing as it is scientific in its method of treatment. Your doctor or druggist will tell you that nothing equals it for Catarrh and all other lung and throat diseases. All dealers, 25c. and $1.00.

Sale of Horses.

There will be a sale of horses at Kennedy's black yards to-morrow, Tuesday, commencing at 12.30 o'clock. These horses were being shipped from Colorado to the Maritime provinces, and were in a railway wreck. They are sound, but it was thought, on account of the accident and delay, that it would not be wise to send them forward to their destination. They will be sold without reserve. This is a splendid opportunity to secure valuable horses at your own prices. Mr. Stapleton will conduct the sale.

Makes a First Class, Telling Argument

"About a year ago a doctor and his wife came to board with us. We already had Miss G., who was at that time thin and yellow and considerably out of health.

The first morning the new boarders came to the table as guests, the young lady remarked as she set her cup down, 'This is coffee!' while the doctor added, 'Not at all like the poor coffee they have been giving us at the hotel.' I smiled behind my napkin and asked if either of them ever used Postum Food Coffee. The doctor said he had tasted it, but it was weak, miserable stuff. Miss G. had heard of it and wished she could try it.

I said nothing, but at the end of three months, when Miss G. was ready to leave us for a new field of labor said, 'I have been given you Postum Food Coffee all the time you have been here.' 'What, is that coffee, Postum?' she said. I remarked that I had noticed with great pleasure, her daily gain in health, and now that she was leaving us after only three months at our table, she had rosy cheeks and a plump figure, which was all the argument anyone needed to prove the fact that she had been well cared for, and the reason for her gain in health was the use of Postum Food Coffee, for no other change had been made of any account, in her food.

The doctor was very much delighted with the experiment, and discovered that where he had tried Postum before, he had been unfortunate in having it underboiled. Postum must be boiled fifteen or twenty minutes to bring out the delicious flavor, and then it will suite the taste of anyone." Mrs. Florence Dougherty, Placerville, Idaho.

THE REMEDY FAILED.

How a Helpful Wife Did Not Cure Her Husband of the Tobacco Habit.

"It will only be necessary for you to drop about half a teaspoonful of the mixture into this cup of coffee each morning," the circular said, "and the taste for tobacco will gradually depart from him. He may not cease the use of tobacco immediately, but within a week he will begin to abhor tobacco if the mixture is given to him faithfully every morning."

And so the young wife sent her little $2 on and got a flagon of the tobacco cure.

"Pretty bum coffee this morning," he remarked dryly the first time she dropped the half-teaspoonful of the mixture into the cup.

"It's the same as we've been using right along," she replied, craftily.

Now, lo and behold! he was a pretty smooth proposition himself, and he had, unbeknownst to her, seen the package holding the flagon of agin tobacco mixture when it was delivered.

So after dinner that evening he produced a large bulky package of fine-cut tobacco from his pocket and took therefrom a plenteous chew of tobacco. It was the first chew he had ever taken in her presence, and she marvelled thereat, but she determined to persist with the "treatment."

"Dead rank chickory again this morning, isn't it?" he inquired at breakfast the next morning.

"I'm sure it tastes the same to me," she replied.

That evening after dinner he produced a short, black clay pipe and a package of a new kind of tobacco that was as black as the ground work of a Jolly Roger.

"Thought I'd bring this old dudeen up from the office," he explained cheerfully. "It's as sweet as a nut."

Whereupon he filled the house with the aroma of punk that was strong enough to break rock.

"This grocery person who gets all of my wages is certainly doing us on the coffee game," he remarked when he tasted his cup next morning.

"Really," she said, gazing innocently at the ten-cent bunch of asters in the middle of the table. "I can't detect any difference."

"And yet there are low foreheads who don't believe that all women are actresses," said he to himself on the way to his office that morning.

That evening he brought home a box of auction stogies, and after he had smoked one of them after dinner all of the people in the neighboring flats stuffed cotton in the hall door keyholes and closed the hall transoms.

"I must persist though," thought his baffled little wife, gloomily.

"Coffee tastes like stewed gunnysack again this morning," he remarked at the next breakfast. She felt a bit sorry for him, but she was determined to use up that flagon of "agin-tobacco" if she had to chloroform him and pour it down his throat.

That evening, however, her resolution deserted her. After dinner, for the first time to her knowledge, he pulled out a package of cigarettes, lit one and began to smoke it.

She went upstairs, poured out the remaining portion of her $2 worth of agin-tobacco and carefully hid the bottle.

"Coffee's all right this morning," said he at breakfast the next day.

"Yes?" she inquired, absently.

When he had finished his dinner that evening he lighted one of his usual brand of good cigars.

"Men are mysterious to me," she thought, regarding him out of the tail of her eye.

"Women only think they're foxy," he thought, blowing smoke rings into the Swiss curtains.—Bangor Commercial.

A Competent Witness.

United States District Judge Williams, now holding court in Topeka tells a funny story. Years ago he was a district judge in Arkansas. At a certain term of court a murder trial came before him, and the most important witness for the prosecution was a colored boy only ten years old. The lawyers for the defence set out to show that the boy was too young to understand the nature of an oath, and therefore was not competent as a witness.

"Boy," said one of them severely "do you know what would happen if you swore to a lie?"

"Yes, sah. Mammy would lick me."

"Would anything else happen?"

"Deed dey would, case de devil would git me."

At this point Judge Williams leaned over his desk and said with pretended sternness: "Don't you know, boy that I would get you, too?"

"Yes, sah. Dat's what I jus' said."—Kansas City Journal.

Plan for Keeping Hams.

A very good way of keeping hams is to wrap them in strong brown paper so that the ashes cannot come in contact with them. Then pack them in clean, hard wood ashes, in dry boxes or barrels. This will keep well cured hams quite sweet, as the ashes serve as a protection against insects. The boxes should be set in a cool, dry place.

[illegible] Strikers

Washington, Oct. 7.—A striking example of the manner in which Russian authorities deal with strikes and strikers is afforded in a report received at the state department from United States Consul Miller at Niuchwang under date of July 30. The men in the Niuchwang oil factories stopped work for several days, striking for an increase in wages. The Russian civil administration of the port immediately issued edicts giving notice that he had arrested and punished the leaders of the strike and that any of the men who refused to begin work the following morning would be arrested and expelled from the port. One of the edicts reads: "By the law of Russia labor leaders who stop work or trading should receive the same punishment as robbers."

THE TIMES LETTER-BOX

Letters from the People on Interesting and Timely Topics.

[NOTE.—The Times invites its readers to contribute to its columns. It does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—Ed. Times.]

Took It to Himself

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see that you invite contributions to the columns of the Times, and I would say that this is a good idea.

I happened to be at St. Paul's church a short time ago when the minister referred to greatness, giving reasons why some men became great. I noticed that a gentleman present smiled and bowed perceptibly, no doubt taking the matter to himself. It would be better Mr. Editor if we all made a practice of taking sermons more to heart. Although the case referred to may not have been in the best of form, still it serves as an example.

Now that the season is approaching when good, honest Christian men are required to take positions in the Council and manage our local affairs, I would suggest that the churches should treat on the subject of man's duty to his fellow man. No man can be truly great unless he does his duty in this respect.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am, etc.

Eyes Are Opened

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Mr. Culverwell's letter on Burleigh Falls, which his Company owns, he says (perhaps he owns the lakes too) makes a slip that lets the cat out of the bag as follows: "But no thanks are due to a political and selfish crowd who, not satisfied with making fortunes themselves," etc. So here we are, and yet it is "for the benefit of the people" he says later on. Well, if Mr. C. thinks the people are going to be fooled into allowing magnates to make fortunes themselves out of it, he will learn something before long that will open his eyes. Yours etc.

The Market Scales

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see the market scales is to have a new roof and sides, although the present roof is only about a year old, and cost several hundred dollars.

Surely, Mr. Editor, this cannot be a fact? If it is true, I would like to know who is responsible. The ratepayers surely want to know.

Wants New Teeth

The following was sent to the Times for publication:

I am a dentist, and recently received the following from a prospective customer; who lives in the country:

Dear sur—I want to git a sett of new teeth and Want to no how mutch the Cost. My mouth measures 51.2 inches acrost and is 113.1 from tip to tip. It is kinder hart shaped and also hummocky around the edges, and has a hare lip in one corner when I grin. If this description won't fit I'll have to come up. Let me no, yours ———.

Collision on Grand Trunk.

Two freight trains collided on the main line of the Grand Trunk, a short distance west of Port Hope, on Friday. The damage resulting is reported to be slight, and no lives were lost. As the result of the blocking of the track the regular passenger trains were sent via Millbrook and Lindsay, but the main line is now clear.

KITCHENER MUST RULE IN SOUTH AFRICA

This Will be the Outcome of the Present Crisis in Great Britain.

AND THE WAR PROSECUTED WITH GREAT VIGOR.

Further Reinforcements to be Despatched to Seat of War—All Traitors and Murderers to be Hung.

London, Oct. 7.

The Morning Mail says that the Government has surrendered, and Lord Kitchener will have a free hand in the conduct of the war in South Africa. It is understood that the Mounted Infantry to the number of 25,000 will at once be despatched to Cape Colony. This means that the war will be prosecuted with the greatest vigour and severity. The troops are to be seasoned men, and will consist as far as possible, of returned South African soldiers.

It appears that when Kitchener accepted supreme command, it was on conditions that he be given a free hand. He is said to hold that this understanding has not been respected by the War Office, and he has other causes of complaint. He insists that martial law should be declared as well in Cape Town as in other places. The fact that exceptions are made in favor of several important places handicaps him in the exercise of his military administration. He also wants authority to impose heavier penalties for rebellion than he is allowed at present, and he needs more and better reinforcements.

This matter is regarded seriously. The country has generals in plenty, but few who would be accorded much public confidence in Lord Kitchener's place. The one substitute who would be considered equal to the occasion is Lord Roberts, but he is Commander-in-Chief, old, and out of the question. Buller would be more likely than any other to receive the assignment, but John Bull has not forgotten Colenso, and would not look upon the appointment with favor. Mr. Brodrick has been in conference with King Edward on the subject of the friction between Lord Kitchener and himself, and it is probable that the influence and diplomacy of the throne may be successful in smoothing the trouble over.

The Post says that the time has arrived when the war must be pushed to a finish. No other course is left but to give Lord Roberts what he wants in the way of re-enforcements and authority.

Cries of Man Burned at the Stake Taken.

NEGRO HELD THE MACHINE.

New York, Oct. 8.—Some time ago a negro was burned at the stake at Paris, Texas. A Texan was at the Hoffman House the other night, and he told of the conduct of the negroes who assembled to see the man lynched by the horrible death of burning.

"One of these negroes," said the Texan, "had a phonograph with him, and into that phonograph went the agonizing cries of the burning man. His agony was terrible, and his groans and cries could be heard for blocks. The following day he went around all the towns in Texas close to Paris advertising that he had the cries of the dying negro in that phonograph.

"The negroes for miles around heard of this, and hurried to chip in their nickels to the phonograph man to hear the dying cries of the negro who was burned at Paris. There was a horrid curiosity in those negroes to hear those cries come from the phonograph. They didn't display any feeling for the man who was burned, but they manifested the keenest curiosity to listen to the cries and the dying moans.

"It was the strangest sight I ever saw. I cannot explain it. It was a study in psychology for me, and one too deep for my intellect. The negro with that phonograph made a fortune selling the tones of the dying man to other negroes. They didn't behave as if the horrible sounds would act as a deterrent in the future. They merely wanted to hear the sounds. It was like an opera, or a fine play or a good prize fight to another class of citizens."

AMERICAN LIGHTS FOR INDIA

Three Cities to be Equipped by General Electric Company.

London, Oct. 8.—England's greatest and most conservatively-governed possession, India, has finally succumbed to American commercial enterprise. There is authority for the statement that the General Electric Company has been promised the contract to light three of the great cities of India. The negotiations were with the British Government, and have progressed for several weeks.

The editor of the Electrical Review said to-day: "I have heard the report that the General Electric Company is to light three Indian cities, and I do not doubt that it is true. American electrical engineers recognized long ago to what vast use the tremendous waterpowers of India could be applied, and last year the General Electric Company obtained a great contract for putting in an electric power plant at the Cauvery Falls, transmitting the power to the Mysore mines, 92 miles away. This was the first great electrical undertaking in India, and I regret to say that the fact that the work was done by Americans is significant of the greater enterprise prevailing in the States than here. However, there are evidences that the industry of England is waking up to the seriousness of its position.

Extending its Borders.

The Little Lake Cemetery Company has purchased some land adjoining the cemetery, which has been added to the cemetery property. The land which has just been acquired consists of 100 feet on Crescent street, at the corner of Crescent and Haggart streets, and 54 feet on Ware street at the corner of Ware and Haggart streets, making a clear frontage of 207 feet on Haggart street facing the cemetery proper. The 100 feet was purchased from Mr. Gus Sawers, and the 54 feet from the Burnham estate.

HUNDREDS OF MEN ARE KILLED IN SOUTH AMERICAN WAR.

Bloody Engagement Reported in Which the Venezuelans Are Routed.

Willemstad, Curacao, Oct. 8.—By messenger from La Hacha, Columbia, Guajira Peninsula, Sept. 29.—With General Davila's column of 1,500 men with five field guns advancing toward LaHacha this road is still fairly filled with fugitives and wounded Venezuelans from field guns advancing toward LaHacha, ing as best they may to Maracaibo. Davila's column left Sinamaica yesterday morning.

General Davila's first fight at Carraga was an absolute rout. Five Venezuelan battalions of 400 men each were engaged and the Colombians are estimated at the same number. It is now known that General Echeverria was killed on the battlefield and not shot by the Colombians. About 800 were killed on the Venezuelan side, including thirty minor officers. All the flags of the Venezuelans were lost as well as General Davila's cannon, variously reported at from five to fifteen. Such as were not captured by the Colombians were thrown into the river by the retreating Venezuelans.

INDIANS JOIN IN THE SLAUGHTER

The Indians ambushed General Davila's retreating vanguard, composed of 200 men, and annihilated it. The most serious feature of the Guajira campaign to-day is the attitude of the Guajira Indians. When the Venezuelans first entered the peninsula they robbed the Indians of their cattle and generally maltreated them. The Indians are now retaliating, cruelly mutilating and murdering many of the unnumbered fugitives, who have been struggling since defeat over the waterless, burning flat peninsula in an effort to reach their lines or the coast.

Vague, unverifiable, but persistent, reports are current here and have been current for four days to the effect that President Castro's Venezuelan forces at Tachira and in the vicinity of San Cristobal suffered defeat at the hands of General Rangel Garbiras and his Colombian conservative supporters Sept. 25 and 26.

URIBE-URIBE REPORTED KILLED

According to another report General Uribe-Uribe, the Colombian liberal revolutionist, with his Colombian followers, has lately been at Tachira. He is generally credited with being the leader of the Venezuelan government forces there. But it is now said he is fleeing from Tachira as a result of the recent defeat and is headed for Maracaibo. According to yet other reports General Uribe-Uribe was killed. At present it is impossible to obtain satisfactory confirmation or refutation of these rumors.

Counting the Colombian liberals at Treinta, thirty miles from La Hacha, the Sanchez expedition and the 800 reenforcements due to leave Maracaibo Oct. 1 the Venezuelan and Colombian liberals number about 5,000 men in Guajira.

Venezuela seems determined it possible to retrieve her fallen fortunes at Guajira. If she fail in this present endeavor, it is believed even among army officers that the Colombian forces, allied Guajira Indians and Venezuelan revolutionists opposed to President Castro will unite and march on Maracaibo with good chance of capturing the place. Such action would probably also mean the capture of San Carlos fort and the liberation of the Venezuelan political prisoners.

NEGRO'S LOVE FOR SOCIETIES

Wonderfully Named Societies to Provide for Benefits.

THE EXERCISES AT A WAKE.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 5. — The Southern negro's love of pomp and circumstance is nowhere exemplified more forcibly than in the manner in which he multiplies his charitable organizations. Inordinately fond of company, he has few societies founded with the sole view of promoting social enjoyment. For the most part, whatever foundations he makes have a semi-religious trend, the dues entitling members to sick benefits and funeral ate regalia and an intricate ritual. Not a few negroes of a Southern city, such as Charleston, belong to no less than a score of these orders, the names of which are oftentimes curiously and wonderfully made.

The sons and daughters idea is worked to the limit of endurance. There is scarcely a well known name in Biblical history that is not tacked on to it. There are in Charleston alone no less than seventy-five of these societies. Dues are paid weekly, and strange as it may seem when the great poverty of the negroes in the South is considered, the arrears list is a brief one indeed. Of course, the charges are small, usually about 25 cents, a month. To hold membership in a number of societies is regarded as a badge of honor.

Meetings are held monthly at private residences, in public halls, or more frequently still in churches. These gatherings being at the fashionable hour of 10 p.m., and continue, not infrequently throughout the night. Refreshments are to be had for a small consideration, and as these are for the most part of a liquid nature the sons and daughters are prone to be conspicuous by their absence from their several places of employment next morning. Often the police have to interfere to restore that harmony in which brothers and sisters should ever dwell together. The devotion of the negroes to these organizations and their loyalty to their fellow-members are absolute.

The funeral of a colored man or woman who holds membership in a half dozen of these orders is a spectacle worth witnessing. Occasionally bitter feuds arise between rival societies for the possession of a corpse for the negro's love of a funeral is not second even to his love of melons. The ceremonies usually begin the night before the actual interment is to take place. There are sermons, prayers and personal experiences interspersed with wild bursts of incoherent melody which arouse religious fervor to fever height. Men and women faint in the course of the exercises, many others fall into trances and talk of visions of their dead friends enthroned in glory. The ceremonies culminate in a formal procession. It is forming for an hour before the residence of the late lamented son or daughter. Negroes from the uttermost parts of the city gather in the streets, to hundreds of small children. The occasion is a festive one. They run and shout and caper. The members of the organizations to which the dead person belonged stand in solemn order, clad in elaborate uniforms, and bearing the banners and other insignia of their respective orders; and when the cortege finally moves, wending its way at times through miles of the city's streets, it is followed by a mad rush of men, women, and children who block the thoroughfares, and traffic for the time being has to be suspended. The hope of such a funeral is the inspiration of many a negro's whole life.

DRIFT CASKS FLOES.

Hazardous Work Performed by Captain Tuttle.

Washington, Oct. 8.—News has been received by Admiral Melville that Captain Francis Tuttle, the commanding officer of the revenue cutter Bear, placed fifteen of the Melville-Bryant drift casks on several of the largest ice floes to the northward and westward of Point Barrow.

The first landing was effected August 13, in latitude 71 degrees 16 north and longitude 156 degrees west. Five casks were placed on this floe. As the southerly winds had driven the loose ice against the main pack the placing of the casks upon the main floe was a hazardous undertaking.

Captain Tuttle then steamed along the edge of the pack in a northward and westward direction, and reaching a solid floe in latitude 71 degrees 5 minutes north and longitude 171 degrees 23 minutes west, placed four casks on that floe, and later placed five more casks on a floe in latitude 72.13 north and longitude 176.10 west.

About this point the ice trended to the southward and eastward, making it extremely hazardous for Captain Tuttle to continue his work.

Through necessity, Captain Shoemaker the Chief of the Revenue Marine Service, was compelled this year to delay the departure of the Bear on her Arctic cruise until a month after her regular starting time. Captain Tuttle, therefore, in his opinion, has done remarkably well in landing the Melville-Bryant drift casks on three separate floes.

Admiral Melville says it will be exceedingly satisfactory information to those interested in Arctic discoveries to learn that the trend of the ice floe this year is easterly, and that the current has considerable strength. As the floes were a good many miles apart, and as there are local currents in the Arctic sea it is to be presumed that the casks will turn up in different places.

Admiral Melville is exceedingly pleased with the character of the work performed by the Bear, and regards the work of Captain Tuttle as worthy of a medal of honor of the Treasury Department, if not of Congress.

Britain's Population.

London, Oct. 7.—Great Britain and Ireland, according to the completed census returns, has a population of about 42,000,000. The exact figures are: England, 30,805,466; Wales, 1,720,609; Scotland, 4,471,957; Ireland, 4,456,546; the Isle of Man, 54,758, and the Channel Islands, 95,341 making a total of 41,605,177. To this is added an estimate of 400,000 for men in the army, navy and merchant service abroad and for the troops serving in South Africa.

THE KING'S MALADY SAID TO BE SERIOUS

The London Empire Takes a Serious View of the Case.

CANCER SAID TO BE IN FAMILY

London, Oct. 8.

The London Empire prints the following: "During the past few months disquieting rumors have been current in well-informed circles concerning the health of His Majesty. I now learn, from a trustworthy source, that the King has serious reasons for feeling nervous about his throat, which he had specially examined at Homburg by an eminent specialist. The result was not reassuring. For, despite his plucky temperament, he cannot exorcise the fear that he is doomed to die from that deadly, relentless disease which attacked and ultimately killed his brother, the Duke of Edinburgh, and his sister, the Empress Frederick. Careful investigations, conducted by the most skillful experts in Europe, have established the fact that the Royal Family of England is constitutionally cancerous. Prince Albert, the Duke of Albany, the Duke of Clarence, and the Princess Alice all succumbed to cancerous diseases, although, for obvious reasons, the fact was not disclosed. Today it is no longer possible to conceal the truth from those most vitally concerned.

"There is only too much reason to fear that the King is suffering from this terrifying malady, and the fact that it has already invaded his throat does not minimize the anxiety of the royal victim or that of his entourage. He was strongly advised not to go to his sister's death-bed. He has been subjected to a special regime, which includes the curtailment of his customary allowance of cigars. Does not this state of affairs impart a special significance to His Majesty's pathetic utterance, or rather appeal, upon the occasion of the Tuberculosis Congress in London last June: God grant that before long you may be able to find a cure for cancer or check its course.

"The King has already been seriously warned against mental excitement in any form. The life he has led during the past year suffices to indicate that he has realized the serious necessity for the restrictions placed upon him by those Princes of Science who are watching the development of the disease with a vigilance that is unremitting."

DUCHESS OF YORK IN THE ROCKIE MOUNTAINS

She Selects Four Pictures by F. M. Bell-Smith, The Toronto Artist

Banff, N.W.T., Oct. 7.—The Duchess is spending her time in quiet sightseeing, and is getting a great deal of enjoyment out of it. She has been visiting the show places in the park, including the sulphur pool and cave where she signed her name, "Victoria May," on the register with a gold pen. She was given a beautiful piece of the frost-like stalactites at her request. She also inspected some of the sketches of Mr. F. M. Bell-Smith, who has spent the whole summer in the mountains, and selected four of them, one of Vancouver another at Glacier, a third at Banff, and a fourth on the Canyon of the Fraser.

The party visited Lake Louise and the other lakes in the clouds above Laggan and returned in the evening. They got back earlier than was expected, and no carriage was at the station. Her Royal Highness immediately proposed walking to the hotel, a mile and a half away. Several camera fiends got snaps of the Princess marching up the road staff in hand, but before a great distance had been covered the carriage with its galloping escort of mounted police appeared.

One of the journalists in stepping from the car in the park severely sprained his ankle. The victim was much gratified to be told this evening that the Duchess had sent a message from the hotel to inquire for him.

The Duchess attended St. George's Church last evening. Rev. Canon Dalton preached the sermon. In the afternoon she drove to Devil's Lake and other points of interest.

DUKE AT POPLAR POINT.

Poplar Point, Man., Oct. 7.—The Duke arrived at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and was received by Lord Minto and Senator Kirchhoffer. The shooting party consists of His Royal Highness the Duke, Prince Alexander of Teck, Lord Crichton, Commander Godfrey Faussett, Sir Charles Cust and Major Maude. After luncheon on the train Senator Kirchhoffer and his guests drove out to the lake, a distance of about twelve miles. On arriving at the landing a fleet of canoes were ready to convey the guests to the shooting lodge, which is a five-mile paddle. The canoe conveying the Duke of York was guided by John Atkinson, premier guide of Lake Manitoba shooting grounds, with Lord Minto in the bow, the other boats forming a fleet of honor. The party reached the shooting grounds about 5 o'clock. Elaborate preparations had been made for their entertainment there. The country is wild in the extreme, but the site selected for the shooting lodge is an ideal spot. The outbuildings and a group of tents made a very pretty picture. The weather is perfect, and as game, particularly the ducks, are plentiful, there are prospects of a splendid outing. All the shooting will be done from canoes. Shortly after the arrival at the lodge dinner was served, and the remainder of the day was spent in a quiet inspection of the lodge and its surroundings. The party will remain at the shooting box until Tuesday, and will in that time have plenty of opportunity of securing a large bag of game. They will entrain at Poplar Point at 8 o'clock on Tuesday, reaching Winnipeg about 4 p.m.

NEWS BY CABLE AND BY LETTER

Pall Mall Gazette Calls for the Extirpation of Anarchists.

London, Oct. 7.—The speech of H. Kelly, of New York, at the anarchist meeting held in a hall in the Tottenham Court Road, London, (in which he denounced the late President McKinley's political career), has led to a revival of the demand for the extirpation of anarchists. The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon compares anarchism to Fenianism, and maintains that the only difference between the sentiments of anarchists and the war of outrage advocated by such men as Former Congressman Finerty is merely one of diverse means to the same end; it urges that the police of the two Anglo-Saxon nations be empowered to take concerted action to hunt down the social enemy, whether anarchist or Fenian, and both Governments refuse them the right of asylum.

By a coincidence, the Times this morning prints a long article from Washington protesting against the license allowed the Irish in America in plotting against Great Britain. Commenting on this, the St. James' Gazette thinks British hands are not altogether clean, and that no law would be strained if Kelly and other foreigners whose cult is murder received immediate notice to quit.

STARVED IN LONDON.

London, Oct. 7.—Fifty-three persons died in London last year from starvation, according to a Government return just published. They were of all ages, from "Emma Frances Stevens, daughter of Frances Stevens, widow of Richard Stevens, whitewasher, of Bow, three weeks," to "Henry Leman, no home, hawker, eighty-three years." None were in the twenties, but two died at thirty. East London accounted for twenty of the deaths, and the northeast district for thirteen; in the west district there were six, in the central six, in the southwest four, in Westminster two, and in Southwark and the southeast one each.

ANIMALS HITHERTO UNKNOWN.

London, Oct. 7.—Mr. Edward Dodson, who has been out to the fascinating region of Northern Africa several times, recently returned home from a scientific expedition through Tripoli. Full permission was obtained from the Sultan, and Mr. Dodson, who went through many difficulties and dangers, has collected for the Natural History Museum, which sent him out, something like 1000 specimens of birds and a considerable number of mammals and reptiles.

Besides uncanny creatures of earth and air, wonderful creeping things and many, curious insects, Mr. Dodson came across in the Black Mountains remarkable ruins and the traces of an ancient and powerful civilization. Coins, strange inscriptions and other striking testimonies to the existence in those regions of a power long passed away were found. Perhaps the most notable feat of the expedition is that it collected a large number of specimens of living creatures hitherto absolutely unknown to natural historians.

ELECTRICITY ON WARSHIPS.

London, Oct. 7.—Experiments are to be made in November with a view to substituting electricity for steam power in working the auxiliary gear of warships, such as the capstan, steering engines, ventilating fans and derrick boats. The new armored cruiser Hogue is being fitted at Devonport with a view to electric power being used for subsidiary purposes. If the experiments are successful a great saving of the space at present occupied by steam pipes will be effected.

DEMANDED HIS PASSPORT.

London, Oct. 7.—According to a communication from an English traveller in Brittany, two gendarmes came up and demanded his "permission to photograph." He replied that he did not know it was necessary, and produced his passport. He was at a loss to account for this interference, but he thinks it was probably attributable to an article which appeared last week in a small Breton paper. It is headed "English spies in Brittany, and the writer of it refers to English preachers who had been at several towns in Brittany as "spies of England," and 'Protestant spies."

OPPOSITION TO VACCINATION.

London, Oct. 7.—The outbreak of smallpox is stirring the National Anti-Vaccination League to renewed efforts, but in spite of that vaccination is rapidly becoming more general. The league is distributing tracts and leaflets advising parents and guardians of children on their legal status under the Vaccination Act, and also instructing them how to avoid vaccination. But the exertions of the anti-vaccinationists has only brought to light the fact that the "conscientious objector" clause in the Vaccination Act of 1898 has tended to reduce resistance to vaccination. A leading authority in St. Pancras states that he finds in practice in his district that, by giving a loop-hole to the conscientious objector, a feeling of general opposition to the law has given place to one of indifference, and that the majority of people who object vaguely to vaccination prefer to have themselves or their children vaccinated.

EXONERATES CHIEF OF COBRA.

Inquest on Disaster of Torpedo Destroyer is Concluded.

London, Oct. 7.—The inquest over the remains of the victims of the disaster to the torpedo destroyer Cobra, which foundered in the North sea Sept. 19 while on her way from the yard of her builders at Newcastle, to Portsmouth, resulting in the loss of about seventy lives, was resumed at Grimsby today. A diver testified that he found the Cobra had broken off close to one of her boilers. The stern half could not be discovered, though he searched for ten fathoms around. The break on the forward half of the Cobra was jagged like that of a cane broken across a person's knee. The witness did not find any trace of the Cobra having touched a sandbar or a wreck.

The jury rendered a verdict that the men were drowned through the unexplained buckling of the Cobra and added that the Cobra was too lightly built. This seems to dispose of the suggestion of faulty navigation on the part of Lieutenant Bosworth Smith, commander of the Cobra, who has many friends in the United States, his wife being an American.

REFUGEE CAMPS WELL POPULATED

White Refugees at Various Concentration Points Number 50,000

THE DEFENCE OF HEIDELBERG

Bloemfontein, Oct. 6.—Sixteen carloads of foodstuffs weekly are required to feed the white refugees alone in the concentration camps. In the camps here and at various points in the Orange River Colony are nearly 50,000 refugees. Measles is still epidemic, especially among the babies under three years of age, the weekly death rate averaging 230. As the country becomes gradually settled in the neighborhood of Johannesburg, the refugees are sent to their homes. The trains passing west and north are filled with women and children returning to the Rand.

In the Orange River Colony agricultural development is again being proceeded with in the neighborhood of the railway lines, under the protection of the blockhouses. Under the direction of the Agricultural Department of the Orange Free State the natives are also being taught agriculture.

Detachments of Boer prisoners arrive here daily.

GALLANT DEFENCE.

Cape Town, Oct. 7.—Fifty mounted Boers galloped over a bridge into the main street of Heidelberg on Saturday while another detachment of one hundred and thirty men covered their advance from the river banks. The garrison of the town which numbered only twenty-six men, were well entrenched in street sangars and bomb-proof pits, and with steady and well directed fire successfully defended the town. After two hours' fighting the enemy withdrew, leaving one man fatally wounded.

COUNTING THE COST.

London, Oct. 6.—The War Office issued an official casualty report yesterday which shows that from the beginning of the war in South Africa up to Sept. 30 the British losses have been 548 officers and 5,838 men killed in action, and 1,520 officers and 24,022 men wounded, 365 officers and 9,177 men are classified as missing or prisoners, of whom 354 officers and 8,471 men have either been released or have escaped.

The deaths from disease and accidents numbered 10,736.

RELATIVE OF CANADIAN WOUNDED.

Kingston, Oct. 6.—Mr. E. W. Rathbun, of Deseronto, has been notified that his brother-in-law, Major Blair, D.S.O., was among the slightly wounded at Magato Nek during Col. Kekewich's fight with Delarey.

Detail of Officers For The Review

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—The following militia order has been issued with respect to the Toronto review. The following officers will be detailed for duty:

"By the cavalry and field artillery, a field officer of the day and a captain of the day on alternate days; by each infantry division, a field officer of the day; by each infantry brigade, a captain of the day and quartermaster of the day; by units, the usual detail of regimental duties. Guards, picquets and patrols will be furnished daily by the troops as follows: A main guard will be detailed from the infantry division, consisting of 1 captain, 1 subaltern, 2 sergeants, 3 corporals and 30 privates. The cavalry brigade, the field artillery division and each brigade of infantry will furnish a brigade guard, consisting of 1 subaltern, 1 sergeant, 2 corporals, and 12 privates. The infantry brigades will each detail a picquet of one company to parade at the headquarters of divisions and act under the orders of the field officer of the day. The cavalry brigade will detail a patrol, consisting of 1 subaltern, 1 sergeant and 20 rank and file, which will be prepared to turn out mounted in 'drill order' at any hour between retreat and reveille. The cavalry brigade and the field artillery division and the infantry divisions will each detail one intelligent and experienced sergeant as assistant provost, and each unit will furnish two steady, intelligent privates to be employed as military police. The whole of the above will report to the provost marshal at the headquarters staff office by 12 noon on the day of mobilization, and will act under his orders."

Chinese Court Too Luxurious

Pekin, Oct. 7.—The officials here have not been informed as to whether the court has started for Kai Feng Fu. Previous advices led to the belief that the court did start. The temporary palaces at Kai Feng Fu and Pao Ting Fu are being prepared like permanent dwellings although they will be occupied only a few days. The requisitions for the travelling expenses already amount to about $20,000,000, in spite of the edict enjoining economy in this respect. The scale of preparations may be judged from a single item—$40,000 will be expended on tableware. Several local officials along the route because they are unable to meet the expenses of entertaining the court. The latter's journey is particularly unfortunate, because the regions traversed have been impoverished by the summer famine.

A VALUABLE INVENTION

Mr. George L. Gowland Has Perfected His Electric Meter

Mr. Geo. L. Gowland, Bachelor Science and Electrical Engineer, who has for the past twelve months been engaged in perfecting a prepayment electric meter, will leave for Toronto this week to take charge of the factory which will be in operation in a few days for the manufacture of these valuable machines.

Mr. Gowland expects to begin turning these machines out by November 1st, the machinery having been purchased and installed.

The meter has been patented in all the leading countries, and is regarded by those capable of judging as one of the greatest triumphs in electrical devices. By means of the meter a consumer can tell exactly what electric current he uses.

Mr. Gowland, during his residence in Peterborough, has made many warm friends, who will be sorry to know that he is moving away. His address in Toronto will be The Gowland, McClellan, Clendell Company, corner Queen and Spadina avenue, where he will be glad to see any of his Peterborough friends who may come to call.

BEAD FROM A BULLET WOUND

Allan Gibbons Dies Under Peculiar Circumstances

NOT A WELL FOUNDED THEORY

Toronto, Oct. 7.

An extraordinary tragedy occurred on Saturday evening at 56 Murray street. A freshman at the University of Toronto, Allan Gibbons, the 17-year-old son of George C. Gibbons, the well known King's Counsel of London, and nephew of City Treasurer R. S. Pouldy, was found in his room with a bullet wound in his right temple and another hole in the upper left part of the head, where the bullet had escaped after passing through the brain. The affair occurred about 20 minutes past 6 o'clock, but it was not discovered until about 8 o'clock. The young man was still alive, and Drs. Powell and Peters, who were summoned with all haste, had him removed to the Emergency Hospital, where, in spite of all efforts, he died between 5 and 6 o'clock on Sunday morning. His father, accompanied by C. S. Hyman, M. P., of London, secured a special train and reached the boy's bedside about an hour before he died. Millard, the undertaker, was aroused from his bed, the body was placed in a casket immediately, and in a little over two hours it was taken back to London. Coroner Powell says he will hold no inquest.

How the shooting occurred is an interesting mystery. As has been stated, deceased had been in town only a week, but during that short time he came to be regarded by many as a bright, clever young gentleman, and was regarded by the members of the Alpha Delta Phi secret society, whose headquarters are at 45 Murray street, as a desirable recruit. It is stated that an intimation was conveyed to him that he would be welcomed as a member, and he appears to have fallen in with the idea.

PECULIAR NOTES.

On Saturday he received the following note, which was found torn up in a cup in the room:

"Neophyte.—Be at the corner of St. George and Dupont streets on the evening of Saturday, the 5th of October, at 7.30 o'clock, and there await a summons. Fail not in this and mention not this notice."

This peculiar note was written in bright green ink on the paper of the Alpha Delta Phi Society. It was neither dated nor signed.

Mr. Gibbons did not obey the summons, and whoever went to the top end of St. George street to meet him was disappointed. Allan Magee, one of the members, who comes from London, and was a comrade of young Gibbons, called about 8 o'clock at the latter's house to ascertain why he had not put in an appearance. The door of his room was found locked, but as he could be heard breathing, and as their knocking was disregarded, Mr. Magee climbed in over the transom and made the horrible discovery that Gibbons was lying on the bed, apparently dying, his head in a terrible pool of congealed blood, his arm hanging over the edge of the bed, and a loaded revolver with one cartridge discharged lying on the floor. At once there was the wildest excitement. Doctors were hastily sent for and Dr. Powell and Dr. Peters arrived. A telephone message was sent for the police ambulance, and the young man was driven to the Emergency Hospital.

GREAT SENSATION.

Not only in University circles, but everywhere the affair has created a tremendous sensation, and Coroner Powell's decision to hold no inquest is regarded as very extraordinary. Rumors flew thick last night that rather than face the mystery of the initiation ceremony, Gibbons had suicided. The members of the Alpha Delta Phi Society say that such a theory is absurd. The public generally would have light thrown on the case. If the initiation ceremonies are such as to harm anyone, the public, and particularly Toronto University, which already has troubles enough, should be thoroughly posted on the subject. If the society's doings are simply silly, without being dangerous, the fact should be made public. If the society is blameless it will be to its advantage to be vindicated by an inquest. Such are the views that were everywhere expressed yesterday.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.

John Falconbridge, son of Chief Justice Falconbridge, and president of the Alpha Delta Phi Society, has made the following statement: "We can think of no reason whatever for Gibbons committing suicide, although we have been wondering continuously how to account for it. His best friend is Allan Magee, who is a London boy, and a member of the fraternity. He knew of no reason either. As to the rumor that Gibbons went through a form of initiation Friday night, it is not so. I cannot say what he did Friday night; but I happen to know that he was at the fraternity house during the evening, and on that occasion he was told that there was no horse-play or physical initiation. Magee was introducing him to the chapter. On Saturday night he was to have been met at the corner of Dupont and St. George streets by a member of the chapter, who, according to the ritual of the fraternity, would conduct him by devious ways to the house. He lived right across the road, and could have been told to come over, but it would not have been according to the procedure.

"When he arrived at the chapter-house he was to have been initiated by a somewhat lengthy form of words, but there was to have been no physical initiation at all. He did not know what would take place. He had nothing to fear on the way to the house, and he was never guyed about what he would have to go through. There was no penalty for him if he backed out of joining the society, and we had no hold on him whatever. He could have said at any time that he did not wish to become a member. It, of course, seems absurd to me that fear of his initiation could have had the slightest effect on Gibbons, for he understood that there was no physical ceremony. As I see it, it is merely a most unfortunate coincidence for us. We realized immediately on hearing that he had shot himself that it might be unpleasant for us; and if a wrong impression is given the public it will materially kill us as far as the university is concerned. PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 8 1901

AN IMPRACTICABLE PROPOSAL

A number of well-meaning and zealous adherents of the Anglican church have organized a movement to reunite the Church of England with the Church of Rome. Their platform is a mutual concession. The Church of Rome is to admit the validity of Anglican orders. The Church of England is to declare that it was in error when it ascribed to the bishop of Rome jurisdiction no greater than that of any other bishop.

The propagandists have established in Manhattan a monastery of Saint Francis of Assisi and the brothers do street work after the manner of the Salvation Army, but with less boisterous methods.

Reunion of all Christian churches would assuredly redound to the honor and profit of the Christian creed. The practical morality of all Christian denominations is substantially the same. They differ in abstractions and in ritual. It is probable that in time reunion will be effected and it will involve concessions on all sides, reduction of dogmas, adaptation of discipline and uniformity of essentials.

It is not easy to see, however, how the proposed affiliation of the Roman and Anglican branches can be effected on the outlined platform. The papacy could not admit validity of Anglican orders without opening a door to numerous other bodies declared heretical on like grounds. Such a compromise would stigmatize popes and councils as misled where the assertion of inerrancy was explicitly affirmed and reiterated.

The Anglican community cannot undo the copious legislation, ecclesiastical and profane, which was framed through successions of reigns upon rejection of papal primacy.

If such a confession were once recognized in an ecclesiastical court of the United Kingdom it would insert its little wedge in a court of law and forthwith attack would be made upon thousands of titles under the crown affecting inheritance of estates and the authority of testamentary evidence.

The crown lands were largely acquired under that legislation and if their regularity of appropriation could be successfully impugned a vast holding would be forfeit, not to the taxpayers, but to representatives of the ousted occupiers, for English records have always been faithfully kept and no expert art has yet been devised to simplify land transfer to modern times.

Instead of vexing millions with adjustment of complicated controversial details penetrating into the dim domain of archeology it would appear more feasible for the proponents of reunion merely to set aside polemics, past and present, and cooperate cordially in the actual work of applied Christianity. There is room enough in the great world of poverty, sin and suffering for all Christians to toil unceasingly for the common good.

Much of the Christian benevolence is robbed of a large share of its possible results by lack of judicious organization. There is enormous waste, for example, in [illegible] endeavor which might be made more efficient by consolidation of evangelical denominations under a single set of executives, under one roof and drawing upon the same book printing and binding factory.

In like manner, the elder Christian churches might affiliate in charity without consciousness of dogmatic barrier. Dogmatic union is impracticable.

WHAT IS TO BE WORN

London, Oct. 8.—There is a flutter in high society to-day owing to the fact that the Earl Marshal has issued the rules and regulations governing what is to be worn at the coronation of King Edward next year. The whole document breathes of the middle ages, when distinctions in dress were considered so essential, and the quaintness of the phraseology in which the attendance of the nobility of the United Kingdom is required "at the solemnity of the Royal coronation of their most sacred Majesties," and describing the regulations in regard to dresses and head dresses, is distinctly medieval. There is a curious graduation in the fur trimmings of the robes which emphasizes the fine distinctions existing in the realm of the aristocracy. All the Peers have been notified that their robes must be of "Crimson velvet edged with miniver, the cape furred with miniver, pure and powdered, with bars or rows of ermine, according to their degree."

Here follow the numerical graduations distinguishing between the ranks. Barons are allowed two rows of ermine, Viscounts two and a half rows, Earls three rows, Marquises three and a half rows, and Dukes four rows. All mantles and robes must be worn over full court dress, uniform or regimentals.

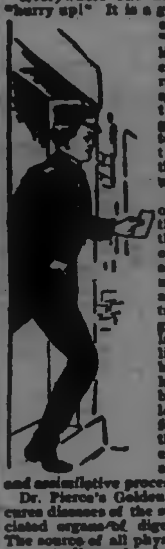
The Earl Marshal's order banishes counterfeit pearls and all jewels from coronets, which are to be "silver gilt, the caps of crimson velvet turned up with ermine with gold tassels on top. No jewels are precious stones are to be set or used in coronets, nor counterfeit of pearls instead of silver balls."

The number of the latter permitted gives a nice sense of distinction. A Baron's coronet bears six silver balls, a Viscount's sixteen, an Earl's eight with gold strawberry leaves between, a Marquis' four balls and four leaves alternately. A Duke's coronet has no balls and has eight strawberry leaves.

The Earl Marshal next prescribes the robes, mantles and surcoats to be worn by the peeresses. These are of the same material as the men's, with similar gradations in the numbers of bars of ermine and balls. The length of the train marks the difference in rank. A baroness is only allowed a train of three feet, a viscountess has one and a quarter yards, countesses have one and a half yards, a marchioness has one and three-quarter yards and a duchess two yards. Then follows a court notice as to who shall be excluded. Peeresses in their own right and widows of peers are allowed to come. But widows who have remarried beneath their rank in the peerage are "not entitled to a summons to attend the coronation.

HURRY UP!

Everywhere one hears that expression "hurry up!" It is a genuine Americanism expressive of the "rush" in which we live. Nothing is swift enough for us. We race against steam and lightning and find them slow. We grudge the time given to eating, and rush through meals as though life depended upon our haste.



Life does depend on our haste, but not in that sense. Look at the obituary columns of the papers and see how many prominent men are carried away by "stomach trouble," "acute indigestion" and other related diseases. Their lives have in general been sacrificed to the haste and rush of business which overlooked the fact that food can only nourish the body when digested and assimilated and that the digestive and assimilative processes can't be hurried.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, cures diseases of the stomach and the associated organs of digestion and nutrition. The source of all physical strength is food, properly digested and perfectly assimilated. By enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food "Golden Medical Discovery" increases and enriches the blood supply and sends new strength to every organ of the body.

"I was at one time so I thought almost at death's door," writes Mr. J. B. Bell, of Lamada, Van Buren Co., Iowa. "I was confined to my house and part of the time to my bed. I had taken quantities of medicines but they only seemed to feed the disease; but I must say that 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured me, and to-day I am stouter than I have been for twenty years. I am now forty-three years old."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser sent free to you on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send fifty one-cent stamps for cloth bound book, or thirty-one stamps for paper covered, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A DRAMATIC CLIMAX

New York, Oct. 7.—Dramatic indeed was the climax of a wedding service in St. Stanislaus Catholic church on Seventh street on Saturday afternoon. The church is crowded; hand in hand the bride and bridegroom stood before the lighted altar, upon the lips of the venerable priest were, trembling the words that would make them man and wife.

"I now pronounce you——"

The shuffle of hurrying feet and the murmur of voices at the doors silenced the astonished clergyman. Up the centre aisle hurried two policemen with a pallid woman and four children close behind them.

"Stop this service!" shouted the foremost policeman. Don't marry that man. This is his true wife and these are his four children."

With uplifted hands the priest stood silently. The bridegroom turned from the accusing gaze of the woman who clung to the policeman's arm. The bride reeled and fell fainting across the altar rail.

Half an hour before a poorly clad woman, escorted by Leon Waester, a trustee of St. Stanislaus Church and accompanied by four children, entered the Fifth Avenue Police Station and told a pitiful story to Sergt. Arthur Schulum.

"My name is Louise Kavieskin," she said. "My husband, Anton Kavieskin, the father of my four children, deserted us four months ago. We are destitute. [illegible] help us. While he—he is to be married to-day to another woman. Please—please stop that marriage."

Mr. Waester corroborated the woman's story, saying that the recreant husband was to marry a Miss Sophia Dalapa in St. Stanislaus's Church within the hour.

"Not on your life!" thundered Sergt. Schulum, as he summoned Policemen Schuber and Burke before him.

"Go with this woman and her children," he ordered "Go right into St. Stanislaus Church. Stop that wedding and arrest the bridegroom. Be lively about it."

The policeman made haste, but reached the church barely in time. Before the astonished assembly could fairly realise what had happened Kavieskin was in custody. Father John Strzeleiki, the officiating priest, murmured a prayer of thanks for the interruption that had prevented a crime.

The bride when she rallied from the shock threw her arms around the wronged wife.

"You will forgive me, I know," she sobbed. "He has deceived us both. My life is wrecked as well as yours, for I love him."

Kavieskin, frightened at first, grew bold and defiant.

"Yes, this woman is my wife," he said. "It is true that I deserted her. She tired me. I couldn't stand her chronic complaining. I love Sophia. She has about $2000 in cash and I need the money. As the case now stands, I don't care what you do with me."

He was locked up, while the wronged wife, woman-like, begged for his release. Four cab drivers hired for the wedding party invaded the station and clamored for their pay. The prisoner had only $2 to divide among them.

Mrs. Kavieskin and her children since the desertion by husband and father have lived upon the charity of friends occupying a single room at No. 187 East Third Street.

JAPANESE IMMIGRANTS

The Mikado Will Try to Keep Them Away From Canada

Ottawa, October 7.—While the Dominion Government is unable to see its way clear to prohibiting the emigration of Japanese to British Columbia, there is reason to believe that the difficulty caused by the influx of coolies from Japan will be to a certain extent met by the rigid enforcement of the law which the Japanese Diet has passed. This law forbids the emigration of Japanese subjects to the United States or Canada, where they are regarded with disfavour. It is said that assurances have been given to the Dominion Government here through diplomatic channels that in return for the non-enforcement of the anti-Japanese law the Mikado's Government will make the most strenuous efforts to keep its subjects at home and so avoid arousing further hostility in the new world against the yellow men of the Far East.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where those wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Dr Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 60 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

A R I D G E S P N I K L V E B
R D I M W A D O H T L

(We will recognize as a bird anything belonging to the feathered tribe, whether it be a Hen, Crow, Singer or any other kind. You can use any letter as many times to make a name as it appears in the list of letters above; for instance Woodcock, Plover, Snow Bird, etc. To any persons who can make a list of 25 or more different names of birds, we will give, absolutely FREE a beautiful Prize valued $1,000 or less.

BIG PRIZES AWARDED DAILY.

When you have made out your list fill out the line on the bottom of this advt. and send it to us with a Stamped, Addressed envelope, stamp of your country will do, then if you are awarded a prize you can if you desire get the prize by becoming a subscriber to THE WOMAN'S WORLD. We shall award a prize to every person who sends the name of 25 birds and our gifts will be as follows: For the best list, received each day, a Gold Watch; for the second best solution each day a beautiful Imported Tea Set; for the seven next best solutions each day, a Kparah Sahib Diamond and Ruby Ring; for the next best solution, a Gold Piece; and for all other correct solutions, Prizes of Good Value. These Prizes will be forwarded daily, you will not have to wait a long time in uncertainty before you know the result. There is no element of lottery in our plan, it makes no difference whether we get your solution late or early in the day. All you need is to mail this Advt. to us, and on the day it reaches us, if your list is the best, YOU SHALL HAVE THE GOLD WATCH or if second best the beautiful Tea Set, and so on. We guarantee that we will award you a prize. There is absolutely no opportunity for deception on our part—we cannot afford it. We want to get 1,000,000 well satisfied subscribers, and for that reason we don't want you to send any money until you know exactly what prize you have gained by answering the puzzles. As soon after 4 p.m. each day as possible, the examiners will judge the lists to the best of their ability, and will designate the prizes. We will write to you at once notifying you what prize has been awarded you, then if you are satisfied, you can send your subscription to THE WOMAN'S WORLD and your prize will go by return of mail carriage paid. To a person of narrow ideas it seems impossible that we should be able to make such a gigantic order, but we have the money, brains, and reputation, we know exactly what we are doing, and if we can legitimately gain a million subscribers by this grand idea we know that this million of well pleased subscribers can be induced to recommend The Woman's World to all friends, thereby building up our circulation still further. We are willing to spend $25,000 in this contest in building up a big subscription list, and when this money is spent we reserve the right to publish a notification that the contest has been discontinued. Don't delay until it is too late. The contest will continue until Jan. 1902.

We give A Bonus Prize of $250 independent of all others to the person who sends in the list gotten up in the best and handsomest manner. Our Committee will decide and award prizes daily, but the special $250 prize will be awarded in March 1902. Any bird's name found in the dictionaries accepted.

THE BOERS FIRED UNDER WHITE FLAG

London, Oct. 5.—A letter has been received from the Adjutant of the Mounted Forces with General Kitchener. In it he says:

"I have always been with my division and have done all my share of the fighting. I got a paper from you yesterday of July 8, containing Campbell-Bannerman's speech about the refugee camps and the cruelty of taking the the women from their farms. If he had to endure the sniping that we have had during the last two months he might tell a different tale. The working points for gangs of from six to twelve of the enemy, keeping them in food and ammunition, and in the daytime claiming protection from us. The constant cry is "You are warring on women and children," but I can give you a sample of their methods. One day we dropped unexpectedly on the enemy in a valley in which there was a farmhouse. We fired on them and saw them ride away up the opposite hill, and apparently cross the ridge out of range. We were still firing on the house when a white flag went up. We then ceased firing, and sent a man down to the house. As he approached it he was fired on by six of the enemy, who had ambushed themselves on the ridge, and he had a very lively time until he got to the house. All this time the white flag was flying gaily, and the women of the house resented it very strongly when they were brought into the column, and their house burned. Many of the farms which we have burned have contained ammunition, as has been vouched for by the explosions which have occurred and in nearly every case the enemy has been in possession of expansive or explosive bullets. We captured a Boer one night who had an explosive bullet in the breech of his rifle; but he was treated as an ordinary prisoner, whereas we should have been justified in shooting him on the spot.

British officers who were recently prisoners say that General Botha's men and horses are in good condition. The British prisoners have been deprived of nearly everything they possessed.

The main body of the Boers is still near the Zululand frontier.

The correspondent of the Times at Pretoria says the treason trials have revealed the presence of large numbers of sedition-makers who have not only taken the oath of allegiance to the British crown, but who, in many cases, have been receiving relief from the British authorities. In spite of this, they communicated freely with their friends in the commandoes in the field, feeling confident that they would be treated leniently if caught.

News has been received that a 15-pounder, captured by the enemy on the 13th ult., has been retaken by Col. Thorneycroft's men, who took twenty prisoners.

FOOD FOR REFUGEES.

"Then there is the question of food for the refugees. Time after time we have been put on short rations because we had such a lot of women, children and prisoners, but they always received full rations. In some cases Boer families have surrendered because they had no food. We have always taken them along. Then, when prisoners are brought in, they say they do not care how long the war lasts, now that they know that women and children are taken care of. If they had to look after them themselves, they could not possibly move so quickly as they can now, and they would have more compunction, and probably the trouble would be over much sooner. From what I have seen it appears to me that the war is being carried on in the most humane manner. Even in this town, I have seen Boers walking about free and unmolested, who have undoubtedly fought against us quite recently.

"It seems to me that we ought to lock every one of them up until the war is over, and all the commandants have given up. The principal trouble now seems to be in Cape Colony, which has again been invaded by the Boers. They still hope for the Liberal party to come into power, and give them their independence, and they have hopes, too, of a European power intervening on their behalf."

BOER LOSSES OVER 600.

London, Oct. 5.—A despatch from Dundee, Natal, to the Times says that the Boer loss totaled over six hundred in the attacks on Forts Itala and Prospect. The Boers informed the prisoners that they expected to find the Fort Itala garrison only 100 strong.

There seems no doubt, says the Times' correspondent, that the Boers intended a combined invasion of Natal East and West. It is stated that General De Wet ordered the burghers in the south-eastern part of Orange River Colony to concentrate at Tafelkop, but up to now the only result of the movement has been the isolated invasion of Natal by a small commando, which can easily be driven back.

WERE INSANE, NOT DRUGGED

London, Oct 5.—The unusual incident occurred at the Old Bailey yesterday of a female prisoner strenuously resisting the theory that she was insane, being well aware that the alternative must be a trial for murder and sentence of death.

This was Caroline Agnes Dyer, thirty-one, dressmaker, who was indicted, with her brother, Ralph John Dyer, thirty-five bootmaker, for the murder of Frances Norbury, and the attempted murder of William Flack Norbury, Ann Norbury and Kingerman Horace Reed.

The jury was first sworn in to determine whether Miss Dyer was sane enough to plead. "Question me," said the prisoner, "and you will find I am not insane."

The appearance of Mrs. Dyer in the witness box quickened the jury's decision. She did not believe her daughter was insane, but knew that there was a Jewish conspiracy against the whole family, and that her daughter had been drugged and assaulted.

The jury found Miss Dyer to be of unsound mind, and unable to plead, and she was ordered to be detained during his Majesty's pleasure.

Ralph John Dyer was then put on his trial for the murder. "I am not guilty of murder, sir," he said, when called upon to plead, and he pleaded not guilty to the minor charges also.

The story as it unfolded was a very remarkable one. In 1898 the man kept a butcher's shop in Portsmouth, and diseased meat was sold there. The subsequent summons happened to be signed by the then Mayor, Mr. Hammond, and ever since then the mother and son and daughter have been convinced that there was a Jewish plot to prosecute them.

In July of this year Miss Dyer got an engagement as dressmaker at the shop of Mr. W. J. Lewis, draper, Stoke Newington. Mr. Lewis' business lay chiefly with the Jews. On July 4 there was a fire at the shop, which was burnt out, a salvage corps fireman, Reed, being placed in charge of the damaged stock. Miss Dyer had to go to sleep with the Norbury family. Her conduct began to be so peculiar that she was asked to leave. Mr. Lewis paid her a month's money and she went home to Portsmouth.

While there she and her mother and brother came to the conclusion that she had been drugged while in London. The three went to fourteen or fifteen doctors in Southsea, but most of them refused to examine her. Dr. Alexander, who did, told them there was no ground for their suspicions. However, they wrote extraordinary letters to the Home Secretary and the First Commissioner of Police, accusing Mr. Lewis of having set fire to his shop purposely, and the Norburys, the fireman Reed, and the Lewis family of having plotted to ruin Miss Dyer.

Then the brother bought a dagger and a revolver, gave the former to Miss Dyer, and together they started for London on July 24 with the avowed intention of avenging her wrongs. Both carried on them signed statements about the case, in which delusions about a Jewish conspiracy were mixed up with facts.

When they arrived at Green lanes, the lad, William Norbury, was stabbed in the street by Miss Dyer, Mrs. Norbury was several times stabbed by her and beaten about the head with the revolver by the brother, Lillian Norbury was slightly wounded, and Frances was mortally stabbed in the shoulder. Miss Dyer went on to the shop, where she attacked Fireman Reed.

Though the doctors said that Ralph John Dyer was legally sane, the jury, without hearing counsel, found that he was out of his mind when he took part in the murder; and he also was ordered to be detained during his Majesty's pleasure.

SPENT A SUMMER IN A DESERT

Ithaca, Oct. 5.—Louis A. Fuertes, of Cornell University, spent last summer in research work in Western Texas and Southern New Mexico. The land was a desert, not of sand, but largely of rock where the interval between rains is nineteen months. Mr. Fuertes and party camped in deep canyons which had served as the last refuge of the Apaches when the redmen were hard pushed by the blue-coated soldiers of the frontier commands.

The first work of the party was done in the Chisos Mountains, near the grand canyon of the Rio Grande. There is a sort of jay new to the United States found there, and many species which were supposed not to exist in that locality were discovered.

In the whole region there are many small mammals, despite the general lack of water. One of the canyons in which the party camped was 60 miles long and contained no water except a small spring at the upper end. Just before the party arrived a rain fell and the "tanks," holes dug in the earth as receptacles for rain water, were filled. This rain was the first that had fallen in that district for nineteen months.

One peculiarity noted by Mr. Fuertes in the region was the protection provided for the plants. The cacti had extremely sharp thorns, while other sorts were covered with tough hides or malodorous varnish-like substances.

The principal achievement of the expedition was the extension of the known range of many animals, plants and birds.

—Mr. James Sheldon, a Coboconk "punter" smashed all the fishing records for the Kawartha Lakes the other day by capturing a lunge that tipped the scales at 29 1-2 lbs. Rev. A. B. Chaffee, Anglican clergyman, vouches for the weight of the monster.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.
President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1901.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

• • •

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for no securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June.

New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is today the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind today. Even one year may witness astounding changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but shows their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1866, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print. The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.
New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7, 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest or almost successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others followed his publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the gross stupidity of imitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD,
Advertising Manager for Sapolio.
—In Fame, March, 1901.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,

Clerk of the Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, U. S.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1900.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,892 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspaper directories gratis, but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13, 1900.
JOS. H. HANSEN,
Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

S. H. HARDWICK,
General Passenger Agent.
Washington, D. C., May 21, 1901.

BALTIMORE.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

Our New Book on Cancer

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new Book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no regiment of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this ingenious and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and pain smarting of the [illegible] which is the inevitable accompaniment. Mr. T. [illegible], "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. [illegible].

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail, Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free, Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

—The final practice of the Royal Chorus will be held this evening.

—The work at the Cordage Company's buildings is progressing favorably.

—A church of the Latter Day Saints is being established at Fenelon Falls.

—The traffic over the new Mud Lake bridge is quite heavy—making up for lost time, as it were.

—The work on the granolithic walk at the old post office corner is still under way. It would be interesting to know what this job has cost, but this will never be known.

—Mr. J. Smith, of Hiawatha, has the contract of pulling the old bridge over Chemong Lake, out of the water. It is a big job, the timber covering several acres when all ashore.

—The building contract for the erection of a beet sugar factory at Wiarton has been signed. The contract price is about $250,000. The building and plant are to be of seven hundred tons of beet capacity per day.

—The restocking of the inland lakes and rivers with bass will be resumed at once by the Fisheries Department, a contract for 5,000 more parent fish from Lake Erie having just been let. This includes the waters in this vicinity.

The Peoples Photographer is Mr. G. R. Whiten. He is kept busy all the time supplying his many customers with his high class work. Sign of the Golden Camera, 164 Hunter street.

—The Total Abstinence Society of St. Peter's Church is in a flourishing condition. Over 600 members paraded to church Sunday, where a very interesting and instructive address was delivered by Ven. Archdeacon Casey.

Ensign Bloom, of the Salvation Army, wishes to announce that their Harvest Festival sale will be continued to-night at the Barracks. Anyone requiring groceries, vegetables, dry goods, gentlemen's neckwear, etc., etc., would help the army by purchasing there. There is also on sale a turnip pulper kindly donated by the Hamilton Mfg. Co. The goods will be on sale both noon and night.

—Lindsay Post: A well-known freight conductor running out of Lindsay had a somewhat startling experience the other day. Wishing to give some instructions to the driver before reaching a certain point, he ran along the tops of the cars towards the engine. Unfortunately, in his haste he failed to notice the guy wire attached to a stove-pipe; it tripped and threw him, and when he had stopped turning somersaults he was on the extreme edge of the car—hanging on by the edge of his eyelids as he afterwards described his situation. The narrow escapes chalked up by the average railway man in a season are many and thrilling.

THE WOMEN'S CONVENTION.

Annual Meeting of the Women's Missionary Society in Session.

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, in Belleville was a most successful one in every way. The attendance was large and the interest taken in it by the ladies of the city was quite marked.

The principal business at the last session was the election of officers. Mrs. Frost, of Tweed, and Mrs. Rose, of Tamworth, conducted the opening services. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. Platt, Picton.

First Vice-President—Mrs. T. M. Campbell, Trenton.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. J. Locke, Belleville.

Third Vice-President—Mrs. A. R. Campbell, Peterborough.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. (Rev.) Copeland, Port Perry.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. A. W. Grange, Napanee.

Treasurer—Mrs. L. W. Yeomans, Belleville.

Mission Band, Corresponding Secretary—Miss Annie Wilson, Brighton.

Representative to Conference—Mrs. J. Kendry, Peterborough.

Superintending Systematic and Proportionate Giving—Mrs. G. D. Platt, Mrs. A. W. Grange, Mrs. J. Kendry, Mrs. S. Gibson, Mrs. L. W. Yeomans.

Alternates—Mrs. G. H. Copeland, Mrs. J. R. Locke.

They Leave Tonight.

The 57th Regiment will leave this evening for Toronto, where it will take part in the great military display in honor of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall.

The men will be quartered in the Exhibition buildings and the officers in the new wing of the Central Prison. They will return to town on Friday night. The men will assemble at the drill shed, at 7.30 sharp, after which they will march to the C.P.R. station to the strains of the splendid band of the Regiment.

A New Clothing Store.

The T. O. Rush Clothing Company has leased and fitted up the large store in the Morrow block, adjoining Adam Hall's, George street, where they will open out a splendid stock of ready-made clothing. The goods are now arriving, and will consist of everything in gentlemen's wearing apparel that is new and stylish. Mr. Rush is long and favorably known and his success is assured.

OBITUARY

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. [illegible], will sympathize with them in the death of their darling little three-and-a-half-year-old boy, which occurred yesterday at the family residence, 15 Sheridan street. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30 o'clock p.m., to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Lost A Finger.

A few days ago J. C. Stinson, who employed in Mr. Robt. Clinkscale's planing mill, met with a painful accident as the result of which the usefulness of the index finger of his left hand is destroyed. It appears that Stinson was feeding a saw and ran his hand up too far with the board, the saw catching the finger in the centre of the nail and slicing off fully one half of the digit.

The Fountain of Health for Old People is Paine's Celery Compound

It Gives New Vitality, Strengthens Brain Power and Maintains Perfect Digestion

MR. G. CRAWFORD,
AN OCTOGENARIAN SPEAKS OF THE WONDERFUL MEDICINE

Paine's Celery Compound has added years of peace, free from the infirmities of old age, to thousands of lives. It stimulates the vital powers; it keeps the body free from pains; it gives perfect action to the kidneys; it keeps up nerve force; it builds strength and makes life happy and enjoyable. Multitudes of people reduced in strength, sleepless, nervous, and apparently near the end of life, have joyfully testified to rapid gain in vigor and regular and refreshing sleep after a trial of Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. Geo. Crawford, London, Ont., writes as follows:

"After using eight bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, I wish to let you know the results. I had a painful fullness and an unnatural heat in the top of my head, and it felt as if something was rolling through it. I had dizziness, I slept little and irregularly, was troubled with restlessness and uneasy dreams, and my appetite was bad. I am now vastly changed by the use of your medicine; I sleep well and relish my food, and nervous system is greatly renewed. I feel my whole system better. I cannot expect at seventy-nine years of age to be as I was at thirty, but Paine's Celery Compound has done wonders for me."

CONTROL OF TIENTSIN.

Chinese Seek It, and Refuse to Honor Likin Certificates.

Pekin, Oct. 8.—The officers of Chili and adjoining provinces have refused to acknowledge transit certificates exempting inbound merchandise from the likin. These certificates are being issued by the provisional government at Tientsin. This is an attempt on the part of the Chinese to get some of the revenue from Tientsin which formerly paid the greater part of the provincial expenses and are now used wholly for the improvement of Tientsin and the Peiho.

Sir Robert Hart, Imperial Commissioner of Maritime Customs, authorized the Imperial customs officers to issue certificates and arranged with all the officers to honor them. All merchants interested were notified to this effect. The provisional government at Tientsin has protested against the action of the provincial officers and is seeking the support of the foreign Ministers here. As the provisional government at Tientsin was instituted by the military authorities, who theoretically evacuated the province on Sept. 22, the Ministers who had acknowledged the Tientsin provisional government previously are unwilling to admit that there is any further necessity for conflicting with the letter of the protocol. The Chinese are anxious to recover control of Tientsin and Li Hung Chang is awaiting the settlement of affairs to remove his yamen there.

It is thought by some persons that it is important for commerce that the provisional government should remain in control at Tientsin for a year and continue the work of bridging the river and dredging it out to the sea.

Malt Breakfast Food

A Creator of Brawn and Muscle.

The health and strength-giving properties of Malt Breakfast Food are now fully known and appreciated by millions on this North American continent. The marvellous action of the pure Malt combined with the virtues of the choicest Wheat, gives to old and young an agent or creator of true brawn and muscle and a builder of physical health and brain power.

If you are a user of ordinary oatmeal or any of the common prepared foods falsely sold as health foods, we strongly advise you to give Malt Breakfast Food a trial for one week. The change will be so pronounced in good result that you will consider it a necessity to adopt the world's only true health food. You will soon discover that Malt Breakfast Food has no stomach properties, does not heat the blood or cause unsightly skin eruptions. Your Grocer and your friends who have tried it, will recommend its use.

Fear An Indian Outbreak.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—Lars Erickson, a pioneer trader of the Mille Lacs Indian country, called on Governor Van Sant today for aid. The settlers on the south shore of Mille Lacs lake are in great dread of the Indians, who are on homestead land, where, it is declared they have no rights, and in very ugly mood over the proposed removal to White Earth and over the smallpox quarantine.

Erickson said the settlers were seven hours from a telegraph wire and might all be massacred before help could come in case of an actual outbreak. The Government is with holding moneys due the Indians because they will not move and this increases the tense fear of the settlers.

English Ministers Drink.

London, Oct. 8.—It appears that some of the American delegates to the recent Methodist Conference expressed great surprise at the smoking and drinking habits prevalent among English Methodist ministers. The American visitors, it is stated, never drank, and the Manchester Guardian, the largest, and most Liberal organ, say they were greatly disturbed to see English ex-Presidents of the Wesleyan Conference enjoying cigars and glass of champagne or whiskey and soda.

Horses for South Africa

Woodstock, Ont, Oct.—Mort. Pearce, Herb Jestymand(?) P Brown left to-day for Montreal, from which city they leave Tuesday or Wednesday with a shipment of 300 horses Tracey! Luddington is shipping to South Africa for the British army. The Woodstock boys will likely remain in South Africa.

A Serious Accident.

On Sunday last while Mr. and Mrs. Lewen Rye, of North Monaghan, were returning from church, the king bolt of the rig came out, and the front wheels parted from the rest of the buggy, throwing the occupants out. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rye were badly cut about the head. They were taken into the Snowden House, and medical aid summoned. It was found necessary to place six or seven stitches in the deep cuts in Mr. Rye's head. He and Mrs. Rye were then conveyed to their home. Mrs. Rye is comparatively unhurt, but Mr. Rye will be laid up for some days.

Wheat Threshing for the Duke.

ey Lord Minto, Governor-General of Canada, accompanied by his private secretary, Mr. Arthur F. Sladen, and Capt. Arthur Bell, A.D.C., arrived in the city on Saturday by the "Metapedia," attached to the limited from the east, having left Ottawa on Thursday. His Excellency proceeded west on the second section of Saturday's west-bound train to Poplar Point, where he will engage in shooting with H.R.H. the Duke of Cornwall and York.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—A despatch received here from the operator on the Duke's shooting train stated that the Duke of Roxburg, Lord Wenlock and Capt. Graham left the train at Qu'Appelle and will go shooting from that point. A second despatch, dated at Poplar Point, announces the safe arrival there of the Duke and party. The despatch further states: "Large crowds cheered his Royal Highness at every stop." At Portage La Prairie an immense crowd was present and was wildly enthusiastic, to which the Duke bowed his acknowledgement as the train moved slowly off. The districts traversed this morning were passed in the night on the outward journey and the thousands upon thousands of acres of grain in stack and stook have greatly impressed His Royal Highness.

While the party are hunting, the Royal train will be taken to Winnipeg and thoroughly renovated. An exhibition of wheat threshing has been arranged for their Royal Highnesses, to take place on the farm of Mr. Bond at Poplar Point, between the hours of one and three o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

THE CANADIAN LADS IN SOUTH AFRICA

How the Canadians are Divided Amongst the Divisions.

ABOUT TWELVE HUNDRED STALWART MEN.

Interesting News From the Seat of War Told by Our Own Boys—Canadians Capturing The Supplies.

There are at present 1200 Canadians serving in the South African constabulary distributed as follows: 600 went to Bloemfontein under command of General Ridley; 400 to Heidelberg under command of Colonel Pilkington; and 200 to Krugersdorp under command of Colonel Edwards.

Colonel S. B. Steele, C.B., M.V.O., late commanding Lord Strathcona's Horse, has command of "B" Division Modderfontein, where a large number of Canadian officers hold commissions. The staff is thus composed: Colonel S. B. Steele, commanding; Major Canton, of the Imperial Army, 2nd in command; Major A. J. Boyd, Canadian Infantry and 10th Grenadiers, chief staff officer; Capt. Hildyard, staff adjutant; Capt. Swift, Canadian Infantry, commanding one of the troops.

Messrs. Humfreys, Johnston, Jones, Read and Tenant, late of Strathcona's Horse will be appointed to commissions in the corps in a few days.

The division is to consist, when complete, of 1900 men with 3 troops of natives. It is stationed at headquarters at Modderfontein for the present. Modderfontein is the great dynamite factory of the Transvaal and tons of thousands of tons are lying here now, guarded by the depot division and by "B" Division. The buildings in connection with the factory are palatial, which go to show how careful the management of this company looked after their interests before drawing dividends for the shareholders. The mess room for the employees of this company was superior to that of any officers' mess in the United Kingdom, barring the Guards' Club. The shells and cartridges were manufactured here for the Boers. The company is German, but there is a good deal of English capital in it. The officers and men already mentioned in the division are a very fine class, and no doubt in the course of a few months will be a very superior Division.

The headquarters of the Division will eventually be at Pietersburg in the Northern Transvaal. It is a very nice town, well built, and inhabited by Europeans, mostly English. In the vicinity it is healthy, but parts of the district, particularly in the bush veldt, it is very unhealthy.

Canadians in Boer Round-Up

Although much has been said about the difficulty of operating in South Africa, few appear to realize the tremendous difficulty that warfare far from our base of supplies entails. One hears "But there are 200,000 men against a few thousand Boers. Why don't they finish the war quickly and round the Boers up?" Well to answer that question satisfactorily, one has merely to ride from Cape Town northward through the multitude of kopjes, past the many stations and towns, over culvert and river, through pass and precipice to realize how many troops are occupied in guarding the lines of supplies, that of necessity are maintained for the provisioning of our troops operating against the active enemy.

Every little culvert has its little fort, every pass its garrison, every town a strong guard. These cannot be done away with, and when one considers that the protected railway extends from Cape Town to Pietersburg, in the Northern Transvaal, from De Aar to Kimberley, north to Mafeking, and even past that, and from Naauwpoort to Port Elizabeth, even those at home who are most careless of thought, must acknowledge that many troops are required to remain passive.

All troops that I have met on trek so far have been mounted and move as fast as the Boers, but to catch the latter, mere speed does not suffice. Does it ever occur to our arm chair critics that it is rather difficult to catch a few men dodging and doubling round kopjes like so many hares. In four months' treking through the so-called level Free State I have never once been out of sight of kopjes. No matter where one goes the same khaki colored monotonous hills meet the view. It seems as if some mighty giant had traversed South Africa dropping kopjes in unexpected places.

Perhaps one sees 20 or 30 Boers occupying a kopje, you endeavour to surmount it, and are met in the most unexpected manner by ridges and kopjes, each occupied by a few men who keep galloping back to one ridge after another, and perhaps leading you on till a sudden cross fire from some unexpected ridge or donga, forces you to retreat ignominiously.

What would our critics advise? Bigger columns? Why you never see a Boer. They can simply dance around the kopjes and hide in dongas while the column sweeps on unobstructed. Perhaps rounding up by various columns? Well, we are doing that with more or less success.

CAPTURING SUPPLIES.

One way, and only one way is left to us, and that is to sweep the country clean of all supplies, so that they must surrender or attack us. We are doing this. Every week brings its long list of captures. Every column is moving as fast as possible, bearing on with it, like huge waves, the horses cattle and sheep that the Boers must abandon in order to save themselves, corn is burned, crops destroyed and in many cases, thousands of sheep carcases left rotting on the veldt. It seems cruel, but it is the only way and should have been done long ago. The quickest and surest means are certainly the most humane, when one considers the thousands of poor refugees waiting to return home.

Well, to come to the doings of the S.A.C.K. Division, of which we are a small unit, is composed of 21 troops of 100 men each. Its district extends in rectangular form from [illegible] North to Kaffir River Station, west to Winburg, south to Blue Banks or Jacobsdal and back again to Edenburg.

When we came, our work was to drive the Boers out of Abraham's Krall and Petrusburg and connect Bloemfontein with Jacobsdal. At the same time we were to assist in rounding up the Boer forces to the south by holding the northern chain, while the columns drove them into us. It was a rather hard task, and meagre rations, hard marching and little cover soon gave dysentery its chance. We were then stationed at Petrusburg for a short while, and the majority of the men soon regained their good health. Again we were put on trek, the troop being divided into 3 sections, and each section into squads of six men with a corporal or first class trooper over each squad. Each little squad cooked for itself, and the best foragers lived like gentlemen while the slower foragers existed on biscuits and bully beef. It is surprising what good meals can be got together by an enterprising little band. At one farm house that we would loot, a corn grinder would be picked up, at another a sack of good corn. This ground up made excellent porridge, and if sugar and milk were lacking, good spirits and a hearty appetite made up for their absence.

Sheep would disappear mysteriously out of our flocks, and good chops just as mysteriously would yield a savoury odor in the cold of the morning.

Time after time, two of the boys would steal off together and sometimes venturing right into the Boer lines, return to camp laden with potatoes, onions and fruit of various kinds.

It was the excitement of these little excursions that contributed very greatly to the good temper that existed in the troop when we were on half rations for weeks at a time.

Our round up of the Boers was a partial failure, only 180 men being captured. But as thousands of sheep and oxen were captured, together with herds of horses, this operation, like most of the others, did good work to help on the progress of peace. After returning to Petersburg we again went on trek, this time to Jacobsdal. This trek, as usual, was characterized by small skirmishes. Only one Boer was actually buried by us, but several were seen to fall on different days. Only five squads were sent to Jacobsdal, those squads that had managed to pick up horses on trek being kept at Driepan. When we entered Jacobsdal the boys were fairly wild, and for several days the stores were kept as busy as a gang of hungry soldiers could keep them.

PLEASURES OF THE CAMPING.

We soon made friends with the Dutch "Meisjes," and spent our evenings making love to them over a cup of coffee.

Fellows that knew no more than "Aikona," endeavoured to carry on a conversation with girls whose main sentence was "Ik Kan ne verstan." Still we were happy.

All went well for two weeks, and All went well for two weeks, and then came a sudden order for all Dutch people, save those actually employed by the Government, to repair to the Kimberley refugee camp.

The night before they left was spent in singing and in some houses dancing. I was surprised to see how delighted they were at the idea of going. But I understood better when Vrouw Blakeman explained to me how difficult it was for them to exist in Jacobsdal, with all foods so expensive and money so difficult to earn.

Another week or two passed uneventfully, and then General Hamilton arrived with his staff. We knew that some scheme was on hand, but we were kept at our old work of patrol until July 30, when we were suddenly ordered to occupy Klip Drift, as the Boers were being driven into a loop of the Modder by seven columns from the north, east and west. The S. A. C. was to hold the Modder.

Off we went in a hurry, and occupied the drift after a fast march that took from 10.30 until 2 o'clock. It had been strongly fortified by the Boers during Cronje's retreat, and the shells and cartridges scattered about testified to the stand made by the Boers.

Luckily, the British attacked from an unexpected quarter, and so took the Boers at a disadvantage. The trenches are excellent and absolutely invisible at 100 yards distance.

We stayed here merely a day, and were then relieved in order to occupy Krall Drift farther on.

Before leaving the drift, however we dug in all directions for hidden ammunition and treasure, both of which had often been dug up by us or our companion troops in former camps. We were unsuccessful, and marched out as we came, for the place had already been cleared of corn.

Krall Drift is totally different from the Klip. The banks are high and abrupt with level plains on all sides. The banks of the Modder here are different from the majority of our camping places. Fine grassy terraces, shady walks and clear babbling water, make a fit rendezvous for the myriads of beautiful birds that flutter from branch to branch, sending up to a cloudless sky their notes of praise. Wild ducks, geese and pigeons abound, and the water is teeming with fish. We spent three pleasant days at this spot. For although we had duty every night and fatigue every day, we still found time to stray off up the river, hunting the ducks and partridge with stones.

Again we were moved on, this time to join the rest of our troops a little east of Paardeberg.

There was a great old row when we got together. All our corporals were reduced without any reason being given, and were replaced by men of the other half.

There was great dissatisfaction among the men but no time was given for complaint. We were split up into squads and marched to different fords in the river.

Our little squad of seven was to defend Paarde Drift, and the rest were strung in a long line along the river.

We spent our time to the 6th of August in constructing wire entanglements in the river bed and in building little trenches, each of which was to protect two men. As our side of the river was much lower than the north bank we utilized the dongas and chose only those most hidden from the other side. Spread out in a long row and surrounded on all sides by low bushes, we felt secure of any frontal attack as the enemy would be unable to ascertain either our position or our numbers.

THE COMING OF THE BOERS.

On the sixth we could hear the distant rumbling of big guns to the north and our first touch of the Boers came that night. We could hear their scouts "feeling" the river and when two approached our drift we let them come and go unmolested in order to give them the impression that it was unoccupied. The next day Boers could be seen among the northern kopjes, and we spent the day getting ready for them. At nightfall, contrary to our usual practice, we threw our sentries across the river, and it was well we did so.

About 9 o'clock they retired hurriedly, with information that a Boer scout had ridden right in front of them, and had been closely followed by a commando of about 100 men.

We stood in arms in our trenches, and placed a sentry at the water side opposite a small island.

At the same time, word was sent to Lieut. Ermatinger three miles away.

About ten o'clock a large stone was thrown in the water, and as our sentry sprang to his feet a fusilade was opened from the island and upper bank.

We replied with a rapid fire to give them the impression that there was a strong force. Gradually theirs slackened and died away.

About 15 minutes after fire ceased reinforcements to the large number of seven men appeared, but when the fire broke out again in a short while, our increased fire seemed to impress the Boers with the fact that a frontal attack over the river would entail great loss of life so they retired as quietly as they came. During the next two days we could hear the booming guns drawing the circle closer and closer, and we were more watchful than ever. On the ninth, a Boer scout crawled up a donga from the rear right into our lines. The sentry quietly wakened the nearest man and then halted the Boer. No response came and several volleys were sent into the donga. Next morning we could trace blood marks leading down to the river, so that he did not get away unharmed. On the following day twenty of our men were thrown across the river to assist in rounding up a band of Boers. They covered 24 miles after 12 o'clock, and flanked the Boers right into Plumer's column. Then the shells began to whirl into the Boer ranks, and Pretorius and 130 men surrendered. It was a gallant little affair, twenty men unsupported chasing 130 Boers over ten miles.

The Boers, however, seem to be losing all heart for a fight, and prefer to dodge around the kopjes without firing a shot.

Only one band of Boers broke through. This one must have swam the river and escaped our patrols.

We had a good opportunity of viewing Paardeberg before we retired.

The trenches are just as they were, row after row of cartridge shells indicating where the British advanced.

In some cases limbs are sticking out of the graves, but we have had no time to re-bury any of them, though they sadly need it.

Huge shells can be seen all over the field, and parts of the burned Boer laager bear grim testimony to the effect of those shells. AIKONA.

AFGHAN AMEER PASSES AWAY.

His Death May Complicate International Relations in far East

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN PEACE.

London, Oct. 8.—"Habibulla Khan, eldest son of the Ameer of Afghanistan, has reported to the British agent at Cabul that the Ameer died last Thursday, after a brief illness." This despatch from Simla and another one dated the same place, in which the aged ruler is said to have been taken seriously ill September 21, and passed away October 3, are entirely unofficial, but nevertheless credited on all sides. They indicate that another crisis is at hand to disturb British power in India, if not shake it. The moment could not be more inopportune, as Britain is well occupied in South Africa, and has but a comparatively small army available for operations on the Afghan border. A satisfactory settlement of the questions raised by the Ameer's death depends largely upon Habibulla Khan, the eldest son by a slave girl, who was nominated heir apparent by his father. Should he prove strong enough to control the restless Afghan people, all will be well, but if he displays weakness in any way his downfall is sure to be caused by rival candidates for the throne. Internal strife will cause external warfare, and embroil the nations interested in the far east. Chaos in the buffer state is always associated by England with Russian intervention. Lord Curzon is a strong man, however, and may be able to direct the course of affairs toward peaceful channels.

COMPLETED AT LAST.

The Granolithic Work at the Morrow Corner has been Finished.

After weeks of labor (?) the granolithic pavement at the corner of George and Brock streets has been relaid. The job is believed to have cost the town far too much money, owing to the lax methods employed by the Town Engineer. Just how much will never be known, for it would not be policy to let the tax payers know the truth. The Times is much mistaken if the people do not wake up and in January elect a Council who will put an end to the present reign of waste on our streets.

A PORTUGESE ON THE BOER WAR

Viscount De Matelha Writes A Pamphlet.

BRITAIN NOT PREPARED.

The British Representative at Pretoria Before the War Had Information of the Boer Intrigues.

In View of This Why Was Britain Not Prepared?—This is the Question Which the British People Should Have Answered.

New York, October 9.—The London correspondent of the Tribune cables: Viscount de Matelha formerly consul-general and special plenipotentiary for Portugal in the Transvaal, has issued a pamphlet reviewing the administration in South Africa, during the last quarter of a century. The Viscount throws little light on the political intrigues of the Boer Government. He states that Mr. Conyngham Greene, the British representative at Pretoria, was kept well informed of the doings of Mr. Kruger, and preparations that were being made by the Boers for war. Mr. Greene was also supplied by friends with a precis of the correspondence of the Transvaal representatives and agents in Europe, with Pretoria, detailing their interviews with different foreign ministers of Europe besides copies of the official and secret correspondence that went from Pretoria to Europe. It is only fair to assume that Mr. Greene forwarded all documents that came into his hands to the British Government, so that it becomes more difficult than ever to understand our unpreparedness for the war.

Copies of the secret correspondence are, says the Viscount, still in existence, for all that is known to the contrary. Before hostilities broke out, one of the parties who held the information sent the particulars out of the country for safety and future use. On the arrival of Lord Roberts at Pretoria, an order was given to send the papers back to the Transvaal capital. Directly afterwards, it was deemed fit to countermand the order, but, lest the papers should be lost, the ciphers were confided to Major Poore, Provost-Marshal at Pretoria. The writer of this pamphlet expresses the hope that, when the time is ripe and seasonable, the press will be in a position to publish the correspondence.

With regard to the future, he thinks if there was a Sir Wilfred Laurier in South Africa, one whom the Dutch people could implicitly trust and believe in, always close to the High Commissioner, there would be a chance soon of creating the desired harmonious whole by making the able Pro-Consul better understood and appreciated.

TRAIN WRECKING IN AFRICA

HOW BOERS WRECK BRITISH TRAINS IN AFRICA.

An Interesting Letter From the Assistant Engineer of the Delagoa Bay Railway.

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 9.—Writing from Kaap Muiden Junction to his father, Rev. Canon Bland, of this city, E. Maltby Bland, assistant engineer of the Delagoa Bay Railway, tells of some recent exciting times with the Boers. He says:

We had a pretty exciting time here since last Friday. I got up about 6 a.m. and went over to the station, where they told me a train had been blown up by the Boers about seven miles from here and that another train sent out with relief had also been derailed. A note arrived just then from the driver of the first train, saying the Boers had burned the cars and gone away. Well, we soon got another train ready with lists, jacks and track, collected all the men and niggers and started off ourselves, very carefully, you may be sure. When we got to the place, you never saw such a mess in your life as the first train was in. The two were close together, and it did not take us long to put the relief train on again, as the Boers had only spread a rail, and as the driver was going slowly not much harm was done; but the one blown up was a sight; the cars thrown all about and twisted and turned and all on fire and track torn up for about 100 yards. We worked all day on it, and at dark the engine was still off the track, and as she had buried herself pretty deep, and needed a lot of jacking up, and as it was dangerous to stay out after dark, on account of Boers, we came back here for the night, pretty well tired out, too. Next morning we were at it again at daybreak, and we got the engine up and the track cleared in about two hours and ready for traffic again.

The Boers had blown up the train in rather a neat way. The first explosion did not send the engine off the track, and the driver thought he was over it all right, and opened his throttle wide to get away, when he heard two sharp whistles from the commandant, and the trucks in rear of the engine rose into the air, and a big explosion occurred throwing things everywhere, some of the cars being 25 feet off the line. They had evidently worked it with a wire, and had two charges in the ground to make sure.

Then they looted the train and burnt it, taking away some bags of oats with them. Fortunately, no one was hurt, the driver only having his face cut slightly when he was thrown from his engine by the second explosion.

If this sort of things occurs often, as I expect it will, as they are collecting around here now, you must not worry if my letters are irregular in future, as I may be away and not get a chance to write.

Bronchitis Asthma

Is now easily cured, not by pouring nauseous, destructive drugs into the stomach, but by inhaling Catarrhozone. Drugs do more harm than good, but the soothing, healing, medicated air that Catarrhozone supplies to the lungs and bronchial tubes cannot fail to benefit. Catarrhozone prevents those smothering spasms and headache, cures the cough and makes breathing easy. Universally used; doctors recommend it; druggists sell it, 25c. and $1.00.

Y. W. C. A. CONFERENCE

Held in Toronto on the Third and Fourth of October.

GOOD WORK DONE BY Y. W. C. A.

A most interesting and profitable Young Women's Christian Association Conference was held in Toronto Oct. 3rd and 5th.

Miss C. I. MacCall, head resident of Christodora House, New York city, and Miss C. Palmer of the Bible Teachers' College, Montclair, New Jersey, were the principal speakers during the conference.

Each session opened with a Bible lesson, led by Miss Palmer. Her talks were based upon the four Gospels, showing the concept of Christ which each evangelist held, and the different phases of His life, and influence upon which each one dwelt specially; with key words and verses. The whole outline of the work was most helpful, and rich in suggestions for systematic thorough Bible study.

Miss MacCall, who is not only head resident, but also one of the founders of Christodora House, spoke, as only one of long and wide experience can, of the development of work and workers in the Young Women's Association, and the qualifications of workers. The secret of all successful work being, as she expressed it, "learning to live well with others," with all which that involves.

One of the most interesting addresses during the conference was that of our beloved Dominion President, Mrs. T. M. Harris, of Toronto, upon the World's Young Women's Christian Association—with every civilized nation, one exception, among its institutions, a Young Women's Christian Association, and the world badge of the Association has, on either side, the eastern and western hemisphere, each encircled by the Association motto, "By love serve one another."

Her description of the Associations in the various lands she has visited during the past summer was intensely interesting. Gibralter with its bright cherry flower-clad home, where the work is mainly carried on among English girls, and Paris, with its most beautiful home, bearing over the door the inscription—"Asked of God, 1893, Given of God, 1895."

The president of the Young Woman's Christian Association in Rome, is the sister of the British consul, and the work is one of great promise. British and American tourists are at present being solicited for contributions towards a new building. Our president had the pleasure of addressing the Young women on a Sabbath afternoon and beautifully described the way in which they sang in their native tongue—

"On the other side of Jordan,
In the green fields of Eden
Where the tree of life is blooming
There is rest for you."

The Y.W.C.A. of Heidelberg, Germany has a directory containing the names and addresses of all Associations and Secretaries in the world, for the use of Young Women going to other countries. There are also in Holland, Belgium and Germany. "Travellers Aids" in affiliation with the Association, where letters of introduction to the Association Secretaries are given to young women travelling, also letters sent ahead asking that they be met and cared for on landing. She spoke at some length of the wonderful work at the general offices in London England, one for the city work of 60 r 70 departments, and the large foreign headquarters, where all languages are spoken, and where strangers coming into a strange land are kindly welcomed and cared for. A burly Policeman, upon being asked, why he had thought of bringing some German girls, who had just landed in London, to the Association office, replied:—"We all know about this place, and besides I have some girls of my own at home."

She spoke also of the extensive work in the noon lunch rooms for young women working in factories as she told of the great world work, one could not help feeling what a wonderful privilege it is to be part of such a vast whole, and the need for greater breadth of vision regarding real association work.

A college session was held on Saturday morning, Oct. 5th., to discuss the best methods of work in College Associations. This gathering was largely attended by the students of the different city colleges and several delegates from outside the city.

A meeting of the Dominion Executive of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Friday morning at the home of the president where reports of the past three months work were given by Miss Carson, the travelling Secretary in city work, and Miss Little, the college travelling Secretary. Miss Carson in the course of her remarks referred in glowing terms to the progress and prospects in connection with the work in Peterborough. Miss Little, among other interesting facts, stated that the Canadian colleges had this year pledged $144 for the Dominion work.

It was decided that the name of the Dominion Executive should be changed to "Dominion Council" and that the executive hereafter consist of those officers residing in the city of Toronto, with such additional city members as may be added from time to time, that this executive meet monthly and that whenever possible the travelling secretaries be present.

The last session of the conference was held at the home of the Dominion president where a dainty tea was served followed by a unique program in the form of a model board meeting conducted by Miss MacCall.

The whole conference was one of great helpfulness to all workers present.

START TO CROSS THE OCEAN.

Captain Andrews and His Bride Set Sail in Small Boat.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 9.—A solid wall of 5,000 people gathered this afternoon on the west side of Young's ocean pier to bid bon voyage to Captain William Andrews and his bride of a few weeks as they started on their trip across the Atlantic ocean in a fourteen-foot boat, sloop rigged, called the Dark Secret. The thought of the entire gathering was that it was a foolhardy undertaking and that the Dark Secret would never survive at sea, in a storm.

Mrs. Andrew's mother, who objected to her sailing, was in a small cottage by the pier weeping as her daughter sailed. Captain Andrews counts on averaging ten miles an hour and reached the Azores in eight weeks. He goes from there to Palos, Spain.

BOTHA'S MEN INSIDE LYTTLETON'S CORDON

Gen. Lyttleton's Columns Doing Good Work on the Zululand Border.

DERBYSHIRE REGIMENT FELL TO A MAN.

When the Boers Rushed the Moldewell Position—Boer Leaders Captured—More Train-Wreckers.

London, Oct. 8.—Advices from Dundee Natal, say that Lieut. Gen. Lyttleton is conducting an effective campaign in the Southeastern Transvaal. His movements are made with the object of frustrating the escape of Boers from farm to farm during the pursuit by English troops. Many burghers have been captured. The particulars of Lyttleton's scheme have not been forwarded.

The character of the country in which these operations are taking place affords every opportunity for small parties of Boers to slip through the columns and effect their escape, thus enabling a commando to melt away in quick order.

It is understood that the main body of Boers, under Botha, the Commandant General, is somewhere inside Lyttleton's cordon. It is not anticipated that the enemy will attempt a concentrated resistance; they have been alarmed by their experience at Fort Itala and will probably try the old individual method of escape.

The rapid movement of British troops on the western frontier of Natal has apparently circumvented the Boer plan of invasion of Natal. Bodies of Boer troops, of various strength, are still hovering in the neighborhood of the dividing line between Swaziland and Zululand. The British patrol frequently catch sight of stray Boers, who are apparently keeping a sharp watch on the movements of the British troops, and do a little sniping at every opportunity.

BOERS LOST MANY MEN.

Pretoria, Oct. 8.—Further details of the fight between Delareys and Kekewich's at Moldewell state that the first pickets rushed was a corporal's guard of the Derbyshire Regiment, composing of ten men. Every man of this picket fell, six of them being instantly killed. Scouts have brought in word that the Boer losses were much greater than at first supposed.

BOER PRISONERS.

Bloemfontein, Oct. 8.—Commandant Dreyer and Field Cornet Van Vuuren who were recently captured on the Basutoland border, have been sent under escort to Pretoria.

Sir Gordon Sprigg, Premier of Cape Colony, and Lord Blackwood have left here, the former for Cape Town and the latter for Johannesburg.

TRAIN WRECKERS FRUSTRATED.

Kimberley, Oct. 8.—A railroad guard at Koodoo Siding recently discovered a number of Boers placing dynamite under the railroad tracks. He fired and wounded one man severely. The Boers retired.

TRY TO SAVE MISS STONE

MONEY RAISED IN MANY BOSTON CHURCHES.

Subscriptions Coming from Other Cities—Hurried Work Being Done to Secure the Necessary $110,000.

Boston, Oct. 9.—In many of the Protestant churches an appeal is being made to the people to contribute toward the ransom fund, demanded for the release of Miss Stone by the Bulgarian brigands. In a few churches collections were made, but in most cases the clergy asked their congregation to make their contributions direct to Kidder, Peabody & Co. In some cases there was no notice of the appeal made, as the clergy said that in their opinion it was a matter which either the American Board or the United States Government should attend to.

The sum which was realised by the appeal at the churches to date is expected to be very large. A member of the firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. said that each mail brought in large sums. It is expected that a large amount will be sent from their New York office to-morrow. Late last night a telegram was received from a man in Philadelphia, saying that he had sent $1,000. Messages announcing gifts were arriving here all day.

An unnecessary and harmful episode was inflicted upon the aged mother of the captive yesterday. Some one thoughtlessly sent her a newspaper account of the death sentence passed upon her daughter. Ever since the first news came the other members of the family have vigilantly kept all painful details as much as possible from her. Her distress was keen from her sudden shock of realization of what the real situation of her daughter is.

As soon as the $110,000 has been raised the agent appointed by the American Board will be made acquainted of the fact by cable. Constantinople will probably be the place where the agent will be appointed. The money will at once be forwarded to him by cable order, and he will enter into communication with the agent of the brigands.

The American Board held a meeting which lasted for two hours. Later the committee issued a statement, based upon the views of President Samual B. Capen, and the Secretary, the Gov. Judson Smith, on the result of their visit to Washington yesterday. Both had interviews with President Roosevelt and the officials of the State Department. It was made plain to them, they told the Prudential Committee, that the only certain way to secure the release of Miss Stone and save her life would be the payment of the ransom. The committee was informed that the Government, by reason of constitutional restrictions, is unable to pay the ransom. The committee was also made aware of the fact that the American Board had no money with which to save Miss Stone.

The only practical way, therefore, was shown to be a popular subscription, which had already been started. The committee heartily approved of this and immediately sent telegrams to every corporation member in the United States, urging subscriptions, and telling them to telegraph the same to Kidder, Peabody & Co. The committee says in view of the spirit with which the appeal is received, that there is strong grounds for the hope that the amount will be obtained speedily.

In every possible way the American board will cooperate both by gift and solicitation. President Capen says that the Government at Washington, both the President and State Department, have done, are doing and will continue to do all that is in their power to procure the release of Miss Stone.

DR. KRAUSE ON TRIAL

Ex-Governor of Johannesburg Being Tried in Bow Street Extradition Court.

London, Oct. 8.—Dr. Krause, the former governor of Johannesburg, who was arrested Sept. 2 on the charge of high treason, was arraigned in the Extradition Court at Bow street today and charged with high treason and incitement to murder. The former charge is connected with the surrender of Johannesburg, when, according to the public prosecutor, Dr. Krause obtained from Lord Roberts twenty-four hours' armistice on the plea that street fighting would thereby be obviated, and utilized the period in getting all the Boer fighters out of town and in sending £190,000 to Pretoria. After Dr. Krause had been paroled he went to Europe and applied to Leyds, the agent of the Transvaal, for money on account of these services.

The prosecution introduced evidence to show that Dr. Krause had been in communication with Dr. Cornelius Broeckmann, the public prosecutor of Johannesburg, who was executed Sept. 30 last for treason, and had urged the necessity for shooting or otherwise disposing of Douglas Foster, an English lawyer attached to Lord Roberts' staff, who was very active against the Boers.

Want the President to Stop the Supplies.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 8.—A communication received in this city indicates that sympathizers in this country with the Boers are getting ready to appeal to President Roosevelt to stop the sending of supplies from the United States to the British in South Africa. The endless chain plan has been started by the American Transvaal League at Chicago, and sympathizers are sent the following card which they are asked to sign and forward to the President: "Please stop the shipment of horses and mules from New Orleans to Cape Town if possible. Please make England fight fair in South Africa."

Four Men Killed in Wreck.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 9.—One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Mohawk Division of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad occurred at 1.50 o'clock this morning in the village of Oriskany, seven miles west of this city. Four railroad men were killed in the wreck, and one was injured.

The killed are: Spencer Shannon, of Schenectady, engineer; George Palmerston, of Rensselaer, fireman; William Wier, of Albany, brakeman, and Argyle Smith, of Rensselaer, fireman. The injured man is James Hager, of Albany, engineer, bruised, not seriously.

An east bound freight engine, No. 1361, collided with a light engine, No. 1868, which was crossing from track three to track four, thus causing the wreck. The crash was a terrible one and in an instant all four of the New York Central tracks were completely blocked. The freight consisted of 40 cars and was running at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

—The crops for the year are, on the whole, very satisfactory throughout the township.

—Mr. Anvil McCann, our popular village blacksmith at Stoneville, says that the Times is the best paper in the district. Anvil is right, and knows a good thing when he sees it.

—Mr. Towns' horse, "Split the Wind," blew in a few evenings ago, having been away on a vacation. The animal looked as though he had been running for Reeve, he was so winded.

—It is a good suggestion made by the Times to re-elect the present Reeve and Council next January. They have proved themselves to be the right men in the right place, and it would only be right and proper to put them back again.

—St. Joseph's church, Douro, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday of last week, when Miss Mollie O'Leary, daughter of Mr. Daniel O'Leary, of Indian River, was united in the hold bonds of matrimony to Mr. J. W. Plourde, of Harvey. The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Laura Leahy, while Mr. A. O'Brien performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Father Keilty, the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's father, where a wedding repast was done ample justice to. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly gifts, as well as the hearty good wishes of her numerous acquaintances.

—On Tuesday of last week another interesting event occurred in the same church. This was the marriage of Mr. Jas. Collins, of Douro, to Miss Mary Hanrahan, of Ashburnham. A niece of the bride, Miss K. Allen, was bridesmaid, while Mr. Jos. Collins, brother of the groom, was best man. Guests to the number of eighty assembled at the house of Mr. P. Moher, where the wedding breakfast was served. Here a pleasant afternoon and evening was spent, after which the bridal party repaired to their future home. The numerous gifts received, showed the high estimation in which the bride was held.

NEWS BY CABLE AND BY LETTER

London, Oct. 7.—The speech of H. Kelly, of New York, at the anarchist meeting held in a hall in the Tottenham Court Road, London, (in which he denounced the late President McKinley's political career), has led to a revival of the demand for the extirpation of anarchists. The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon compares anarchism to Fenianism, and maintains that the only difference between the sentiments of anarchists and the war of outrage advocated by such men as Former Congressman Finerty is merely one of diverse means to the same end; it urges that the police of the two Anglo-Saxon nations be empowered to take concerted action to hunt down the social enemy, whether anarchist or Fenian, and both Governments refuse them the right of asylum.

By a coincidence, the Times this morning prints a long article from Washington protesting against the license allowed the Irish in America in plotting against Great Britain. Commenting on this, the St. James' Gazette thinks British hands are not altogether clean, and that no law would be strained if Kelly and other foreigners whose cult is murder received immediate notice to quit.

STARVED IN LONDON.

London, Oct. 7.—Fifty-three persons died in London last year from starvation, according to a Government return just published. They were of all ages, from "Emma Frances Stevens, daughter of Frances Stevens, widow of Richard Stevens, white-washer, of Bow, three weeks," to "Henry Leman, no home, hawker, eighty-three years." None were in the twenties, but two died at thirty. East London accounted for twenty of the deaths, and the northeast district for thirteen; in the west district there were six, in the central six, in the southwest four, in Westminster two, and in Southwark and the southeast one each.

ANIMALS HITHERTO UNKNOWN.

London, Oct. 7.—Mr. Edward Dodson, who has been out to the fascinating region of Northern Africa several times, recently returned home from a scientific expedition through Tripoli. Full permission was obtained from the Sultan, and Mr. Dodson, who went through many difficulties and dangers, has collected for the Natural History Museum, which sent him out, something like 1000 specimens of birds and a considerable number of mammals and reptiles.

Besides uncanny creatures of earth and air, wonderful creeping things and many curious insects, Mr. Dodson came across in the Black Mountains remarkable ruins and the traces of an ancient and powerful civilization. Coins, strange inscriptions and other striking testimonies to the existence in these regions of a power long passed away were found. Perhaps the most notable feat of the expedition is that it collected a large number of specimens of living creatures hitherto absolutely unknown to natural historians.

ELECTRICITY ON WARSHIPS.

London, Oct. 7.—Experiments are to be made in November with a view to substituting electricity for steam power in working the auxiliary gear of warships, such as the capstan, steering engines, ventilating fans and derrick hoists. The new armored cruiser Hogue is being fitted at Devonport with a view to electric power being used for subsidiary purposes. If the experiments are successful a great saving of the space at present occupied by steam pipes will be effected.

DEMANDED HIS PASSPORT.

London, Oct. 7.—According to a communication from an English traveller in Brittany, two gendarmes came up and demanded his "permission to photograph." He replied that he did not know it was necessary, and produced his passport. He was at a loss to account for this interference, but he thinks it was probably attributable to an article which appeared last week in a small Breton paper. It is headed "English spies in Brittany, and the writer of it refers to English preachers who had been at several towns in Brittany as "spies of England," and 'Protestant spies.'"

IT'S CHILD'S PLAY

To treat a woman for a disease year after year and give her no permanent relief. Yet that has been the case with scores of women who have "doctored" for year after year unhelped and unhealed, to find at last that a few bottles of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription would have saved years of suffering and a great deal of money.

For the regulation of the periods, the stopping of disagreeable drains, the healing of inflammation and ulceration, and the cure of female weakness, there is no medicine can equal Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"About five years ago I had very poor health," writes Mrs. S. E. Whales, of Holden, Johnson Co., Missouri. "After doctoring four years with our town doctors they gave my case up; said they had done all they could. I had been confined to my bed half my time; the other half could hardly drag around. I had such pains in my back and abdomen I could not stand for more than a few minutes. My feet were cold or burning, and my periods came too often. The doctors said it was change of life, so, as I had heard of Dr. Pierce's medicines, my husband got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' I took it and it helped me in some ways, so I wrote to you and followed your advice. I commenced 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Pellets,' as I was so constipated all the time and pills would weaken me so that I would have to go to bed. To the great surprise of everybody I got well, and when I met my friends they would say, 'We never thought you would be here now.' But I can say it was your medicine, which no doubt is the best in the world. Have had no use for doctors since I tried your medicine."

OPPOSITION TO VACCINATION.

London, Oct. 7.—The outbreak of smallpox is stirring the National Anti-Vaccination League to renewed efforts, but in spite of that vaccination is rapidly becoming more general. The league is distributing tracts and leaflets advising parents and guardians of children on their legal status under the Vaccination Act, and also instructing them how to avoid vaccination. But the exertions of the anti-vaccinationists has only brought to light the fact that the "conscientious objector" clause in the Vaccination Act of 1898 has tended to reduce resistance to vaccination. A leading authority in St. Pancras states that he finds in practice in his district that, by giving a loop-hole to the conscientious objector, a feeling of general opposition to the law has given place to one of indifference, and that the majority of people who object vaguely to vac[illegible] necessary, to obtain exemption much prefer to have themselves or their children vaccinated.

THE SOUTH AMERICAN WAR

Willemstad, Curacao, Oct. 8.—By messenger from La Hacha, Columbia, Guaijer Penesula, Sept. 29.—With General Davila's column of 1,500 men with five field guns advancing toward LaHacha this road is still fairly filled with fugitives and wounded Venezuelans from field guns advancing toward LaHacha as best they may to Maracaibo. Davila's column left Sinamaica yesterday morning.

General Davila's first fight at Curoge was an absolute rout. Five Venezuelan battalions of 400 men each were engaged and the Colombians are estimated at the same number. It is now known that General Echeverria was killed on the battlefield and not shot by the Colombians. About 600 were killed on the Venezuelan side, including thirty minor officers. All the flags of the Venezuelans were lost as well as General Davila's cannon, variously reported at from five to fifteen. Such as were not captured by the Colombians were thrown into the river by the retreating Venezuelans.

INDIANS JOIN IN THE SLAUGHTER

The Indians ambushed General Davila's retreating vanguard, composed of 250 men, and annihilated it. The most serious feature of the Guajira campaign to-day is the attitude of the Guajira Indians. When the Venezuelans first entered the peninsula they robbed the Indians of their cattle and generally maltreated them. The Indians are now retaliating, cruelly mutilating and murdering many of the numerous fugitives, who have been struggling since defeat over the waterless, burning flat peninsula in an effort to reach their lines or the coast.

Vague, unverifiable, but persistent, reports are current here and have been current for four days to the effect that President Castro's Venezuelan forces at Tachira and in the vicinity of San Cristobal suffered defeat at the hands of General Rangel Garbiras and his Colombian conservative supporters Sept. 25 and 26.

URIBE-URIBE REPORTED KILLED

According to another report General Uribe-Uribe, the Colombian liberal revolutionist, with his Colombian followers, has lately been at Tachira. He is generally credited with being the leader of the Venezuelan government forces there. But it is now said he is fleeing from Tachira as a result of the recent defeat and is headed for Maracaibo. According to yet other reports General Uribe-Uribe was killed. At present it is impossible to obtain satisfactory confirmation or refutation of these rumors.

Counting the Colombian liberals at Treinta, thirty miles from La Hacha, the Sanchez expedition and the 800 reenforcements due to leave Maracaibo Oct. 1 the Venezuelan and Colombian liberals number about 5,000 men in Guajira.

Venezuela seems determined if possible to retrieve her fallen fortunes at Guajira. If she fail in this present endeavor, it is believed even among army officers that the Colombian forces, allied Guajira Indians and Venezuelan revolutionists opposed to President Castro will unite and march on Maracaibo with good chance of capturing the place. Such action would probably also mean the capture of San Carlos fort and the liberation of the Venezuelan political prisoners.

Extending its Borders.

The Little Lake Cemetery Company has purchased some land adjoining the cemetery, which has been added to the cemetery property. SUICIDE OR ACCIDENT?

Toronto, Oct. 7.

An extraordinary tragedy occurred on Saturday evening at 56 Murray street. A freshman at the University of Toronto, Allan Gibbons, the 17-year-old son of George C. Gibbons, the well known King's Counsel of London, and nephew of City Treasurer R. T. Coady, was found in his room with a bullet wound in his right temple and another hole in the upper left part of the head, where the bullet had escaped after passing through the brain. The affair occurred about 20 minutes past 6 o'clock, but it was not discovered until about 8 o'clock. The young man was still alive, and Drs. Powell and Peters, who were summoned with all haste, had him removed to the Emergency Hospital, where, in spite of all efforts, he died between 5 and 6 o'clock on Sunday morning. His father, accompanied by C. S. Hyman, M. P., of London, secured a special train and reached the boy's bedside about an hour before he died. Millard, the undertaker, was aroused from his bed, the body was placed in a casket immediately, and in a little over two hours it was taken back to London. Coroner Powell says he will hold no inquest.

How the shooting occurred is an interesting mystery. As has been stated, deceased had been in town only a week, but during that short time he came to be regarded by many as a bright, clever young gentleman, and was regarded by the members of the Alpha Delta Phi secret society, whose headquarters are at 45 Murray street, as a desirable recruit. It is stated that an intimation was conveyed to him that he would be welcomed as a member, and he appears to have fallen in with the idea.

PECULIAR NOTES.

On Saturday he received the following note, which was found torn up in a cup in his room:

"Neophyte,—Be at the corner of St. George and Dupont streets on the evening of Saturday, the 5th of October, at 7.30 o'clock, and there await a summons. Fail not in this and mention not this notice."

This peculiar note was written in bright green ink on the paper of the Alpha Delta Phi Society. It was neither dated nor signed.

Mr. Gibbons did not obey the summons, and whoever went to the top end of St. George street to meet him was disappointed. Allan Magee, one of the members, who comes from London, and was a comrade of young Gibbons, called about 8 o'clock at the latter's house to ascertain why he had not put in an appearance. The door of his room was found locked, but as he could be heard breathing, and as their knocking was disregarded, Mr. Magee climbed in over the transom and made the horrible discovery that Gibbons was lying on the bed, apparently dying, his head in a terrible pool of congealed blood, his arm hanging over the edge of the bed, and a loaded revolver with one cartridge discharged lying on the floor. At once there was the wildest excitement. Doctors were hastily sent for and Dr. Powell and Dr. Peters arrived. A telephone message was sent for the police ambulance, and the young man was driven to the Emergency Hospital.

GREAT SENSATION.

Not only in University circles, but everywhere the affair has created a tremendous sensation, and Coroner Powell's decision to hold no inquest is regarded as very extraordinary. Rumors flew thick last night that rather than face the mystery of the initation ceremony, Gibbons had suicided. The members of the Alpha Delta Phi Society say that such a theory is absurd. The public generally would have light thrown on the case. If the initiation ceremonies are such as to harm anyone, the public, and particularly Toronto University, which already has troubles enough, should be thoroughly posted on the subject. If the society's doings are simply silly, without being dangerous, the fact should be made public. If the society is blameless it will be to its advantage to be vindicated by an inquest. Such are the views that were everywhere expressed yesterday.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.

John Falconbridge, son of Chief Justice Falconbridge, and president of the Alpha Delta Phi Society, has made the following statement: "We can think of no reason whatever for Gibbons committing suicide, although we have been wondering continuously how to account for it. His best friend is Allen Magee, who is a London boy, and a member of the fraternity. He knew of no reason either. As to the rumor that Gibbons went through a form of initiation Friday night, it is not so. I cannot say what he did Friday night; but I happen to know that he was at the fraternity house during the evening, and on that occasion he was told that there was no horse-play or physical initiation. Magee was introducing him to the chapter. On Saturday night he was to have been met at the corner of Dupont and St. Georges streets by a member of the chapter, who, according to the ritual of the fraternity, would conduct him by devious ways to the house. He lived right across the road, and could have been told to come over, but it would not have been according to the procedure.

"When he arrived at the chapter-house he was to have been initiated by a somewhat lengthy form of words, but there was to have been no physical initiation at all. He did not know what would take place. He had nothing to fear on the way to the house, and he was never guyed about what he would have to go through. There was no penalty for him if he backed out of joining the society, and we had no hold on him whatever. He could have said at any time that he did not wish to become a member. It, of course, seems absurd to me that fear of his initiation could have had the slightest effect on Gibbons, for he understood that there was no physical ceremony. As I see it, it is merely a most unfortunate coincidence for us. We realized immediately on hearing that he had shot himself that it might be unpleasant for us; and if a wrong impression is given the public it will certainly kill us as far as the university is concerned. If there is any point on which I can throw any light let me know."

Prospectus United Factories Limited

Objects of the Company.

The Charter of the "United Factories has been obtained and Stock issued to acquire as going concerns, the Brush, Broom and Woodenware businesses of the well-known and long-established firms of Boeckh Bros. & Company, of Toronto and Montreal.

Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, Newmarket
Thomas Bryan, London, Ontario.

including all properties, leaseholds, real estate, plant and machinery, stock-in-trade manufactured and in process of manufacture, timber limits (many years' supply), trade marks, patents, and in fact every asset of the three businesses except book debts and bills receivable, AND THUS THE NEW COMPANY TAKES UP THE WHOLE BUSINESS AND CONTINUES THE SAME WITHOUT INTERRUPTION OR CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Accountants' Certificate.

"We hereby certify that we have examined the books and accounts of Boeckh Bros. & Company, and Thomas Bryan, for the years 1898 and 1899, and the Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, for the years 1897, 1898 and 1899, and find that the combined average yearly net profits amount to $45,869.91. All expenses, including bad and doubtful debts, allowance for depreciation of plant and equipment at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and also salary for management, have been charged in arriving at these profits.

"As stocks had been taken at varying dates, it is impossible to show in tabular form the profits earned yearly. We find, however, that the sales have increased OVER 52 PER CENT DURING THE PAST FOUR YEARS, and these three businesses ARE YEAR BY YEAR INCREASING THEIR PROFITS.

"A. C. NEFF, F.C.A.,
WILTON C. EDDIS, F.C.A.,
Chartered Accountants."

Toronto, May 21st, 1901.

NOTE.—It will be observed that, after deducting Management salaries, all expenses, providing for bad and doubtful debts, and annually writing off 7 per cent. for depreciation of plant, the net profits have been at the rate of $45,869.91 per annum. In consequence of increased business of the past nine months it is estimated that the net profits for the current year will be over $60,000, and continue to largely increase, so that the $28,000 required to pay the 7 per cent. dividents upon the First Preference Stock is more than assured.

Distribution of Profits--Reserve Account.

THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is entitled to preferential (cumulative) dividends of 7 per cent. per annum payable QUARTERLY on MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER and DECEMBER the FIRST.

Of the remaining profits, not less than 10 per cent. nor more than 20 per cent thereof, shall be transferred to a reserve account to better ensure the above mentioned dividends (to be used in the business of the Company), and this policy is to be continued until the reserve reaches 20 per cent. of the First Preference Stock issued and outstanding, at which sum it will be maintained, and if drawn upon will in like manner be restored.

THE SECOND PREFERENCE STOCK is non-cumulative and is entitled to divide out of the then remaining profits up to 5 per cent. per annum payable yearly. After which all three Stocks—FIRST AND SECOND PREFERENCE AND COMMON—are entitled to PARTICIPATE EQUALLY in any further profits of each fiscal year.

In the event of the liquidation or dissolution of the Company the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is to be paid in full before anything can be paid on the Second Preference, and the SECOND PREFERENCE then stands next for payment in full before anything can be paid on the COMMON STOCK.

These provisions make the First Preference Stock unusually attractive, as its own 7 per cent. (cumulative) dividends and safety are not only guarded, but the Directors of the Company believe it WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING LARGER DIVIDENDS IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME.

Management of the Company.

The Directors and Managers of the Company are gentlemen of standing and LONG EXPERIENCE in this class of business, inasmuch as all of them were INSTRUMENTAL in making the old firms such a SUBSTANTIAL SUCCESS and their goods so favorably known from one end of Canada to the other.

Working Capital, Etc.

In addition to the other assets of the old businesses, the Company, after all adjustments are made, will have a working capital of $125,000, besides $100,000 of First Preference Stock in the treasury; will have no liabilities, mortgages, OR DEBTS OF ANY KIND, and will possess a UNION OF THE THREE BUSINESSES PROFITABLY ESTABLISHED FOR UPWARDS OF FORTY YEARS, during all of which time the manufactured goods and standing of the firms were of the highest class.

Toronto Stock Exchange.

Application will be made in due course to have the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the usual way.

Letter from Mr. Emil C. Boeckh.

Attention is directed to the annexed letter from MR. EMIL C. BOECKH, OF TORONTO, the President and General Manager of the Company:

Toronto, Sept. 28th, 1901

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Vice-President and General Manager,
The Union Trust Company, Toronto.

"Dear Sir,—In connection with the issue of the Prospectus and Stock of UNITED FACTORIES LIMITED, it may prove of interest to add a few words as to "WHY WE UNITE."

"The primary object has been to give permanence to a line of industries which have grown up with the country, and which through consolidation will continue to grow without fear of the interruptions which are liable to occur in an ordinary company or partnership business.

"These industries are, in their very nature, difficult ones to establish, requiring technical knowledge, perfect organization and careful attention to details, so that the possibility of undesirable competition is reduced to a minimum.

"Arrangements have been made to retain the present managers, who are all interested very largely in the financial success of the Company through holdings of shares acquired in the transfer of their respective businesses.

"Through many years' connection in the markets of the world, for the buying of Bristles, Broom Corn and other raw material, and possessing important timber limits, through which its lumber is acquired at first cost, and through extensive additions to its plant already made, the Company will be in a position to greatly increase its business and profits in the future.

"An important objective point which the new Company will achieve is the manufacturing and marketing of a better article than has been possible in the past, and AT NO INCREASE IN COST.

"There are no articles in general use better known to the trade and consumers in Canada than BOECKH'S STANDARD BRUSHES AND BROOMS, BRYAN'S LONDON BRUSHES, AND CANE'S NEWMARKET WOODENWARE, and the Company holds a most valuable asset in these well and favorably known brands. BRUSHES, BROOMS and WOODENWARE are in demand in every home, warehouse, factory, mill, stable and public building, and on boats, railways, farms, etc., and are distributed through dealers in hardware, paints and oils, groceries, harness, drugs, etc., and the Company has a very strong connection with the leading houses in these lines. Owing to the rapid development of the packing industries of the Dominion, both for export and for home consumption, the Company is assured of a CONSTANTLY INCREASING TRADE with pork packers, confectioners, canners and manufacturers of pickles, paints, oils, varnishes, syrups and jams, all of whom are very large consumers of wooden packages of all kinds.

"JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING, one of the secrets of modern business success, will form an important feature in the policy of the Company.

"It is a well-known fact that after passing a certain point, AND WHICH WE HAVE PASSED, increased business can be done with comparatively little extra expense, thus assuring greater profits while the retail prices are not disturbed.

"THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is strictly a safe investment, which will earn a practically guaranteed dividend of 7 per cent., and owing to the provisions made for participation in further profits, and judging from our steadily increasing business, I AM OF OPINION THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK IN A REASONABLE TIME WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING 8 PER CENT. AND HIGHER. Yours very truly, EMIL C. BOECKH."

Subscriptions for Stock.

The Directors and their associates HAVE TAKEN $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. It is their intention TO HOLD THE STOCK, and in the meantime have mutually agreed in writing to withhold it from the market. They have also taken the whole of the Second Preference Stock, THUS LEAVING ONLY $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK for sale, and which is now offered for public subscription.

Terms of Subscription.

A deposit of 5 per cent. is to be made on application, 25 per cent. on allotment, and the balance in two instalments of 35 per cent. each in one and two months respectively from date of allotments, but subscribers may make payments in advance, and will be entitled to dividends from such advanced dates. If no allotment is made the deposit will be returned without deduction, and if a partial allotment is made the deposit will be applied towards the payments of the instalments. The first dividend for the broken period and a quarter will be made on March 1st, 1902.

Subscriptions Received.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, IS AUTHORIZED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SHARES OF THE SAID $200,000 FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. Application may be made personally or by ORDINARY LETTER, addressed to the Union Trust Company, Limited, Temple Building, Toronto. Make all cheques payable to said Company. The books will be closed within seven days.

DUCHESS OF YORK IN THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS

She Selects Four Pictures by F. M. Bell-Smith, The Toronto Artist

Banff, N.W.T., Oct. 7.—The Duchess is spending her time in quiet sight-seeing, and is getting a great deal of enjoyment out of it. She has been visiting the show places in the park, including the sulphur pool and cave where she signed her name, "Victoria May," on the register with a gold pen. She was given a beautiful piece of the frost-like stalactite at her request. She also inspected some of the sketches of Mr. F. M. Bell-Smith, who has spent the whole summer in the mountains, and selected four of them, one of Vancouver another at Glacier, a third at Banff, and a fourth of the Canyon of the Fraser.

The party visited Lake Louise and the other lakes in the clouds above Laggan and returned in the evening. They got back earlier than was expected, and no carriage was at the station. Her Royal Highness immediately proposed walking to the hotel, a mile and a half away. Several camera fiends got snaps of the Princess marching up the road staff in hand, but before a great distance had been covered the carriage with its galloping escort of mounted police appeared.

One of the journalists in stepping from the car in the park severely sprained his ankle. The victim was much gratified to be told this evening that the Duchess had sent a message from the hotel to inquire for him.

The Duchess attended St. George's Church last evening. Rev. Canon Dalton preached the sermon. In the afternoon she drove to Devil's Lake and other points of interest.

DUKE AT POPLAR POINT.

Poplar Point, Man., Oct. 7.—The Duke arrived at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and was received by Lord Minto and Senator Kirchhoffer. The shooting party consists of his Royal Highness the Duke, Prince Alexander of Teck, Lord Crichton, Commander Godfrey Faussett, Sir Charles Cust and Major Maude. After luncheon on the train Senator Kirchhoffer and his guests drove out to the lake, a distance of about twelve miles. On arriving at the landing a fleet of canoes were ready to convey the guests to the shooting lodge, which is a five-mile paddle. The canoe conveying the Duke of York was guided by John Atkinson, premier guide of Lake Manitoba shooting grounds, with Lord Minto in the bow, the other canoes forming a fleet of honor. The party reached the shooting grounds about 5 o'clock. Elaborate preparations had been made for their entertainment there. The country is wild in the extreme, but the site selected for the shooting lodge is an ideal spot. The outbuildings and a group of tents made a very pretty picture. The weather is perfect, and as game, particularly the ducks, are plentiful, there are prospects of a splendid outing. All the shooting will be done from canoes. Shortly after the arrival at the lodge dinner was served, and the remainder of the day was spent in a quiet inspection of the lodge and its surroundings. The party will remain at the shooting box until Tuesday, and will in that time have plenty of opportunity of securing a large bag of game. They will entrain at Poplar Point at 6 o'clock on Tuesday, reaching Winnipeg about 4 p.m.

AMERICAN LIGHTS FOR INDIA

London, Oct. 8.—England's greatest and most conservatively-governed possession, India, has finally succumbed to American commercial enterprise. There is authority for the statement that the General Electric Company has been promised the contract to light three of the great cities of India. The negotiations were with the British Government, and have progressed for several weeks.

The editor of the Electrical Review said to-day: "I have heard the report that the General Electric Company is to light three Indian cities, and I do not doubt that it is true. American electrical engineers recognized long ago to what vast use the tremendous waterpowers of India could be applied, and last year the General Electric Company obtained a great contract for putting in an electric power plant at the Cauvery Falls, transmitting the power to the Mysore mines, 93 miles away. This was the first great electrical undertaking in India, and I regret to say that the fact that the work was done by Americans is significant of the greater enterprise prevailing in the States than here. However, there are evidences that the industry of England is waking up to the seriousness of its position."

THE NEW REMEDY

For Backache, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

There never has been a remedy introduced to the people of this country which has given such uniform satisfaction as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

The reason is plain. These Tablets are the result of Dr. Pitcher's long experience in the treatment of Kidney, Bladder and Urinary diseases in the hospitals of Detroit and his devotion to the study of Kidney diseases as his life's work.

There is no other remedy gives such positive assurance of a cure of backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the feet and legs, puffiness under the eyes, puffy and pasty appearance of the face, gravel, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding, irritation, frequent rising at night, high colour of the urine, pains in the joints and hips, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, specks before the eyes, dragging pain in the loins, Kidney weakness of children and old people, and all symptomatic indications of Kidney trouble.

If you have Kidney complaint in any form and are anxiously desirous of being cured, insist on having Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

—This is the big day of the Norwood fair.

—Victoria Park has been fenced in for the season.

—The Centreville Fair will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday next.

—Complaints have reached The Times office of the stealing that is being done by junk collectors and ash men.

—"Thelma" was presented last night at the opera house to a large audience.

—Call and get a new map of the County of Peterborough. Prices: mounted on rollers, $2; paper, 50c.

—Fifty game wardens will go on special duty during the deer hunting season to see that the laws are observed. The former practice of detailing a dozen men was found to be ineffective.

—The first Gospel Meeting in the new Y.M.C.A. Boys' Room will be held on Friday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock. Mr. Ayers will be the speaker, and his topic will be "Temple Robbers." All boys should attend this, the first, meeting.

—Mr. Jas. Gillespie of Smith, hired the bay mare "Minnie" from Mr. R. H. Leary, and went down to the Keene fall show, and carried off 3rd in the driving class. Mr. Thomas Tully, of Millbrook, did better than this. He hired the brown mare "Maud" to go to the same show, entered it also and carried off 2nd prize over the horse that took first at Lakefield and second in Peterborough. Mr. Leary's reputation for keeping good horses is known far and near.

ABOUT $300 SHORT.

The Central Exhibition About This Amount in the Soup.

Yesterday Mr. W. J. Green, Secretary of the Peterborough Central Exhibition, was around settling up the accounts in connection with the late fair. The income, we regret to say, was not sufficient to pay the obligations of the Association. This is due to the lack of interest taken in the exhibition by the people, more especially by the citizens of the town.

Probably the chief reason of the nonsuccess of the fair from a financial standpoint is the fact that the exhibition is too far removed from town. People will not pay to drive to the grounds, in addition to the admission fee.

The Times suggests that the fall fair next year be held in Central Park, provided the same can be secured for the purpose, together with the drill shed and the Separate school grounds. A high portable fence, made of canvas, might be made and put around the Central Park portion, which could be removed each season after the fair was over. We are of opinion that a scheme of this kind is feasible, and would be a success. The gate money would be quadrupled if the fair was held here, while the merchants would be more inclined to support the society on account of the fact that the people would be kept in town. We commend the idea to the consideration of the fair managers.

Twitchy Muscles and Sleeplessness.—The hopeless heart sickness that settles on a man or woman whose nerves are shattered by disease can best be pictured in contrast with a patient who has been in the "depths" and has been dragged from them by South American Nervine. —Mrs. Morrow and her two children, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. White, left yesterday morning for Mrs. Morrow's home in Boissevain, Manitoba, after a five months' visit with relatives in Peterborough. Mrs. White will remain in the west for the winter.

A PLETHORA OF HOLIDAYS.

The King's Birthday Joins This Year's List

The 9th of November, King Edward's birthday, will be a public holiday throughout Canada. By law the birthday of the reigning sovereign is a public holiday, whether proclaimed by proclamation or not. This will give Canadians plenty of holidays. On the 9th of November they celebrate the King's birthday, on the 28th of the month comes Thanksgiving Day, followed closely by Christmas and New Year's.

UNITED FACTORIES LIMITED.

Splendid Opportunity for Good Safe and Profitable Investment

Elsewhere will be found the prospectus of the United Factories Limited, which is well worthy the attention of investors. It is a business statement from well-known business men. This union of the three old firms—Boeckh's, of Toronto; Cane's, of Newmarket, and Bryan, of London—is a notable commercial event. The brushes, brooms and woodenwares produced at their factories are standard articles favorably known in every household in the country. Mr. Boeckh, the president, in his letter, speaks forcibly as to the economic advantages of the union of the "three forces," and gives good reasons for his belief that the profits of the "United Factories" will be larger in the future, while the retail prices will remain the same, thus showing that the new concern will not be a trust or combine in the objectionable sense. Mr. Boeckh states with firmness that the increasing business already set in, warrants his opinion that the 7 per cent. First Preference Stock, will, in reasonable time, pay larger dividends. The comparatively small amount of $200,000 only is offered to the public, and there can be but little doubt it will be speedily subscribed. The Union Trust Company, Temple Building, is the trustee, and applications for stock may be made in a simplified manner.

Generous Gifts.

The Town Council gave $50 towards paying the expenses of the Royal Chorus to Toronto tomorrow, and Hon. J. R. Stratton, another $50.

SELL HUMAN FLESH AS FOOD.

Famine Stricken Chinese Forced in Extremity to Become Cannibals

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 9.—Human flesh, chiefly that of babies and young children, is being sold in market places throughout the Chinese province of Shan-See at 150 cash per catty of one and a third pounds, according to news received here today. Famine prevails throughout Shan-See and not fewer than 300,000 people will have died of starvation before the crops are harvested. All rice brought in from adjoining provinces sells at ten times its normal value. In extremity people have commenced to eat human flesh to preserve life until relief reaches them.

Dispatches to Shanghai papers, which were brought here on the steamship Glenogle, state that the second and third installments of $80,000 each, collected and forwarded by the Christian Herald of New York, have arrived and been distributed by missionaries. Demand for relief is so great that no attempt can be made to succour mountain villages.

The Empress Dowager has commanded that bartering in human flesh be stopped but she can enforce her decree only about Hsianfu, the present capital.

For the Old Fashioned Coffee Was Killing

"I always drank coffee with the rest of the family, for it seemed as if there was nothing for breakfast if we did not have it on the table.

I had been troubled for some time with my heart, which did not feel right. This trouble grew worse steadily.

Sometimes it would beat fast and at other times very slowly, so that I would hardly be able to do work for an hour or two after breakfast, and if I walked up a hill, it gave me a severe pain.

I had no idea of what the trouble was until a friend suggested that perhaps it might be caused by coffee drinking. I tried leaving off coffee and began drinking Postum Cereal Food Coffee. The change came quickly. I am now glad to say that I am entirely well of the heart trouble and attribute the cure to leaving off coffee and the use of Postum Cereal Food Coffee.

A number of my friends have abandoned the old fashioned coffee and have taken up with Postum, which they are using steadily. There are some people that make Postum very weak and tasteless, but if it is boiled long enough, according to directions, it is a very delicious beverage. We have never used any of the old fashioned coffee since it was first started in our house." Mrs. L. A. Smith, Bladgett Mills, Cortland Co., N. Y.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

Mrs. George Swain the Recipient of an Address and Present.

On Monday evening Mrs. George Swain who is about to remove to Manitoba, was the recipient of an address accompanied by a handsome clock. The presentation took place at the residence of Mr. David Wallace, 319 Dublin street, in the presence of a number of friends and well-wishers. Mr. Swain was also presented with a pair of gauntlets. The following is the address:

To Mrs. Susan Swain, Peterborough,

Dear Madam, — We, the undersigned, having learned with regret of your intended departure from amongst us, have met here for the purpose of spending one more evening together, and bidding you God-speed.

We all feel that, although the time has been so short since you decided to leave Peterborough, we could not let you go out from our midst without showing to you in some form the high esteem in which you have been held among us, and we ask you, therefore, to accept this clock as a small token of remembrance. We trust that while your eyes rest on it in your future home on the distant prairie of the west, you will think of your friends in Peterborough.

We trust that you and Mr. Swain will be abundantly rewarded with all the blessings, both of this world and the world to come.

Language cannot express the sadness we feel at parting with you, but we hope it is all for the best; and that God has ordered it so; and although some of us may never meet again on earth, we pray that we may all be permitted to meet in that better land where parting is unknown.

We desire you to convey to Mr. Swain, who has preceded you to the west, our best wishes for his future success and prosperity, and ask him to accept this pair of mittens as a small token of our esteem and respect.

Praying that both you and he may be long spared to enjoy all the blessings of this life, and in the world to come life everlasting.

A number of gramophone selections given by Mr. William Stone during the hour or two of social enjoyment that followed, were greatly appreciated. Refreshments were served during the evening.

PROVINCIAL S. S. CONVENTION

It Will be Held in Toronto October 22, 23 and 24.

The Sabbath School Association of Ontario will hold their annual convention in the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, on October 22, 23 and 24 next. Every preparation necessary to insure a good convention has been made. In addition to some noted Canadian speakers, including the Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario; Mrs. J. W. Barnes, of Philadelphia, a prominent primary worker; and the Rev. Jos. Clark, D.D., general secretary of the State of Ohio, will be in attendance. The Metropolitan Church is one of the largest in Toronto, and large gatherings are anticipated. Every school in the province should be represented. Single fare rates will be issued to delegates who, at the railway station on starting, obtain from the ticket agent a standard certificate, which, on being signed by the secretary of the convention, will entitle them to single fare.

THE 57TH OFF.

The Regiment Left for Toronto Yesterday Evening.

Yesterday evening the 57th Regiment, with colors flying and bands playing, marched from the drill shed to the C.P.R. station and entrained for Toronto, where they will take part in the great military display in honor of the Duke of Cornwall.

The men will encamp near the exhibition grounds during their stay in the city and will return Friday evening.

HUNTER'S PREPARING.

The Gold Lake Party Getting Ready—Others Preparing.

The Gold Lake Hunting party are counting noses in connection with their annual hunt. It is expected that all the old members will be on deck this year as usual.

A meeting of the W. A. Peck Hunt club was held for the purpose of fixing the date on which the party will leave for Lake Ketchecum to occupy the new hunting lodge, which is in course of construction. It was decided that a portion of the party would leave next week for the north and the remainder would proceed to join them the week following. The club is composed of twenty members and for their accommodation during the hunting season the lodge is being built on a very pretty point on Lake Ketchecum.

CHIEF ROSZEL'S QUESTION.

This Great Family Journal Answers a Personal Question.

Yesterday Chief Roszel received a letter from Chief Douglas of Port Hope, in which the latter asks this question:

"How much copper wire will a fellow have to steal in your town before he is convicted?"

Chief Roszel used up several quires of paper figuring the matter out, and finally gave it up. He said the Times would doubtless be able to answer the question, and asked us to do so.

In the first place we would say that the wire, although copper, was not in any way connected with the "Coppers" of Chief Roszel's squad. Copper is not steel, and therefore no one could steal it. See? If Chief Roszel has any more difficult questions this g.f.j. will only be too pleased to answer them.

THE CONCENTRATION CAMPS.

Very Costly, and Require Enormous Quantities of Provisions.

Bloemfontein, October 9.—There are now 9,500 white persons in the various refugee camps in the Orange River Colony. These require 14 railway truck loads of foodstuffs weekly. The weekly death rate averages 120, mostly from measles. Fifty per cent. of the victims are children under three years of age. The trains passing north are filled with women and children returning from the Rand.

Thirteen burghers have lately taken the oath of allegiance here.

The Agricultural Department of the Orange Free State, acting in conjunction with the military, is inducing the people to take up agriculture by supplying lands and ploughs. Natives living near the railway from Bloemfontein to the Vaal River are taking advantage of this, and ploughing is progressing under the protection of the military garrisoning the blockhouses.

The Bedfordshire regiment, which is garrisoning Queens Post, have lately commenced growing vegetables.

OCEAN FOR CZOLGOSZ

Suggestions to Governor Odell From the Wesleyan University of Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 9.—Five hundred students of Wesleyan University the strongest Methodist college in the Northwest, have sent to Gov. Odell, of New York, a set of resolution of which the following is a part:

"Resolved, that we, students of Nebraska Wesleyan University, in chapel assembled, hereby endorse as most appropriate the disposal of the assassin's body suggested by Chancellor Huntington in his memorial address for the late President, namely: 'I crave for the assassin of President McKinley one mark of distinction. He had earned it and would it might be awarded him. His hopes should never be allowed to mingle with American soil. When the death sentence shall be executed, as it should be with the swift justice becoming such an unspeakable tragedy, we could wish the United States Government would take the remains of the atrocious murderer a hundred miles to sea and then, pinioned and manacled, with his revolver in his belt and a mill-stone chained about his neck, sink the corpse a thousand fathoms to the bottom of the ocean, that thus the anarchist might be warned that he shall not have so much as a grave in a civilized land."

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Dr Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

SEVEN THOUSAND TROOPS AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS

Unprecedental Scene of Animation Caused by the Going and Coming of Soldiers.

PRELIMINARY REVIEW WAS HELD YESTERDAY.

Troops Marched Passed General O'Grady-Haly in Review Order—Uneveness of the Ground a Slight Draw Back

Toronto, Oct. 9.—The Exhibition grounds this morning presented a livelier if not a more crowded appearance than any day during fair time. Thousands of the militiamen, representing the flower of Canada's youth and strength, in uniforms sometimes gaudy, at other subdued, but always neat, made the scene an animated and picturesque one. The regimental bands were in evidence everywhere, either marching at the head of their regiments or practising at their quarters, dispensing military music which thrilled and aroused the dormant martial instincts of the civilians, of whom there were many on the grounds.

"Reveille" sounded on bugle and trumpet at daybreak this morning, and immediately the whole grounds were alive with soldiers. The interval between the rousing call and "Breakfast up" was utilised by the members of most of the regiments in cleaning buttons and otherwise removing the evidences of travel, in preparation for the preliminary review to-day.

DISEMBARKING MEN

The railway siding north of the grounds was occupied almost every minute of the night and morning with trains discharging their living cargoes of horses and guns. There is a great opportunity for confusion in the disembarkation of volunteer soldiers and green horses, but under the efficient supervision of Lieut.-Col. Neile, D.A.A.G., and Major Sankey, assisted by Superintendent Price, Messrs. Wm. Farrel of the Grand Trunk and John Miles of the Canadian Pacific, everything passed off without a hitch. Among the arrivals this morning was the Governor-General's Foot Guards, who will lead the "Guards," or first brigade, in the big review on Friday. Lieut.-Col. Sarvis was in command, and the regiment parade states indicated an over-strength, according to the militia list, which credits the corps with 307 men. The big busbied fellows were loudly applauded by the members of the regiments already on the grounds. The Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, 80 strong, under Capt. C. C. Elliott, and the 2nd Field Battery, Major W. D. Hurdman commanding, arrived about the same time, accompanied by the 43rd Oxford and Carlton Rifles. The headquarters of all these troops are at Ottawa, and the breasts of many of the men were adorned with the South African medal, recently presented by the Duke. The 13th of Hamilton, accompanied by its magnificent band, and commanded by Major Stoneman, arrived about 10 o'clock. The other corps which arrived during the night and morning were: 14th Princess of Wales' Own Rifles, Kingston, Major Galloway commanding, 180 strong; 7th Fusiliers, London, Lieut.-Col. A. M. Smith commanding, 275 strong; 15th Regiment, Belleville, Lieut.-Col. Halliwell commanding, 260 men; 4th Field Battery, Hamilton, Major Hendrie commanding, 156 strong; Army Medical Corps, Hamilton, 56 strong; 1st Hussars, London, 325 strong, Lieut.-Col. A. H. King commanding.

The following corps arrived late yesterday afternoon:

27th Regiment, St. Clair Borderers, 242 officers and men.

45th Regiment, Lindsay, 227 officers and men.

30th Regiment, Guelph, 430 officers and men.

14th Battery, Cobourg, 165 officers and men, 86 horses and 6 guns.

A and B Batteries, Kingston, 136 officers and men, 78 horses and 12 guns.

33rd Regiment, Huron, 375 officers and men.

46th Regiment, Durham, 346 officers and men.

No. 6 Bearer Company, 35 officers and men.

26th Regiment, Middlesex, 248 officers and men, 4 horses.

22nd Oxford Rifles, 370 officers and men and 6 horses.

11th and 16th Batteries, Guelph, 142 officers and men, 12 guns, and 83 horses.

21st Essex Fusiliers, 3000 strong.

"C" Squadron, 1st Hussars, Courtwright, 57 officers and men; "D" Squadron, Kingsville, 86 officers and men.

SEVEN THOUSAND MEN.

There are now about seven thousand troops on the grounds, and it is estimated that before to-morrow evening there will be at least 2,000 more from outside places, aggregating, with the two thousand city troops, about 11,000 troops who will march past H.R.H. the Duke of York on Friday.

This afternoon there was a preliminary review of the troops now in the city, before General O'Grady Haly. The squadrons, batteries and companies marched by in close formation and in very good order, considering the unevenness of the ground, which will be partially remedied before the big event on Friday.

Major Biggar, the officer who has charge of the distribution of medals to South African medals, was kept busy this morning attending to the applicants. Two hundred applied, and after producing proofs of their identity were given tickets admitting them to the enclosure to be reserved for them Friday. For the convenience of men who were unable to apply at the grounds, Major Biggar will be at the Armouries to-night from 8 to 10 p.m.

BOER'S HOPELESS APPEAL.

THEY ARE TRYING TO WORK PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

A Sample of the Appeals That are Coming in Daily—But Their Effects are Nil.

New York, Oct 10.—The Sun says: We have been requested to publish the subjoined letter, sent primarily to the President of the United States:

HEXTON VICARAGE.

Hitchen, England, Sept. 25, 1901.—Mr. President: In venturing to address your Excellency on the subject of the war in South Africa I am voicing the feelings and wishes of thousands of my countrymen, and I am prompted by the single desire to see the end of this awful and useless bloodshed.

Nearly half of the people of England have from the first felt this war to be unnecessary, disgraceful and unjust. These feelings have been intensified by the methods pursued by our Government—farm burnings, concentration camps, savage proclamations contrary to the usages of warfare. We feel as patriots that these things are bringing an indelible disgrace on the English name.

We therefore venture to solicit your friendly intervention to put a stop to this warfare. We speak not only on behalf of the Boers of South Africa, but on behalf of our own country. The continuance of the struggle is to us ruinous and disastrous, and we shall not long be able to endure the drain in men and money. It would make your term of office a glorious record if you could, by a vigorous and determined intervention, which our present weak Government would not dare to defy, secure the cessation of this bloodshed, and the granting of reasonable terms to the Boers.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,
R. C. FILLINGHAM.

To his Excellency the President of the United States.

Appeals are pouring in upon Mr. Roosevelt to put into his first Executive message something that shall be the means of bringing to a close the tragedy in South Africa. But for him to mention this subject in the manner urged by the vicar of Hexton, would, of course, be out of the question. A threat of American intervention would be intervention, and not to be thought of. The English people should fight

GREAT BRITAIN'S ARMY.

WILL THE COUNTRY BE OBLIGED TO ENFORCE SERVICE?

This is the Question Now Agitating the British Nation.

London, Oct. 10.—Lord Kitchener's demand for 25,000 more men ready for immediate service in South Africa is interpreted by semi-official army and navy journals as equivalent to resort to conscription. The decline of volunteering, the worthlessness of city riffraff for military duty, point to the more respectable members as the only available contingent whence the new and urgent call for fighting men can be satisfied.

A year and a half ago motion was made in parliament that the ancient constitutional law of compulsory military service be put in force in such modified form as would not make it unduly burdensome upon the people.

The ministry objected on the score that the volunteer system had not shown itself inadequate and that "balloting for service" under the ancient law would "inevitably lead to conscription, which if put in force would provoke a reactionary feeling against the war in South Africa."

A few months later, however, an act was passed "to increase the usefulness of the volunteers" in "great emergency." The militia, the yeomanry and the volunteers have hitherto been free from compulsory service abroad. According to tradition that was the duty of the regulars exclusively. The reserve and the auxiliary have been maintained as home defense with no expectation of being called into action. The yeomanry are an ancient corps of mounted men with an organization of their own.

Investigation unexpectedly revealed that instead of numbering 500,000, as they stood on paper, the entire home defense body consisted of not more than 15,000 militia and about 22,000 yeomanry fit for foreign duty. The military system of the country was declared by experts to have broken down.

Replacement of Lord Wolseley by Lord Roberts was deemed an indispensable step toward complete reorganization of the imperial forces, which in the colonies as well as throughout the United Kingdom, must speedily face a "great emergency."

It will soon be seen whether conscription, if ordered, shall produce the reactionary feeling the ministers predicted when they believed it would never be necessary.

ROBERTS SAYS HAVE PATIENCE.

Kitchener Quite Competent to Deal With Affairs in Africa.

GEN. BOTHA FIGHTING AGAIN.

London, Oct 9.—In connection with the conferring of honors on recently returned South African soldiers at Liverpool yesterday, Lord Roberts made an address during which he referred to the public protests against the prolongation of the war. The commander-in-chief appealed to the people to have patience. He assured his hearers that the generals in South Africa were quite competent, and in conjunction with the Government were making every effort to bring the war to an end. He had implicit confidence in Lord Kitchener, and the latter had not made a single demand of the home authorities which had not been complied with immediately.

THE WEEKLY STATEMENT.

London, Oct. 9.—According to Lord Kitchener's latest Pretoria despatch, which was received at the War Office yesterday, since the last weekly report 50 Boers have been killed, 26 wounded, 244 captured and 60 surrendered.

The report further says: "General Kitchener was engaged on Sunday near Vryheid with the enemy, who were trying to move north. General Bruce Hamilton was also engaged. The results of these fights have not been reported.

"Fetherstonehaugh and Methuen are moving against Delarey's and Kemp's commandoes, which have scattered since the attack on Kekewich at Moedwill."

Lord Kitchener says that the five Boer commandoes operating in Cape Colony are being hotly pursued by British columns, light engagements taking place daily.

THE DEAD HEARD FROM.

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 9.—A resident of this place has received a letter from John H. Cameron, of Nabou, Cape Breton, now with the South African Constabulary at Bloemfontein. Cameron was reported to have died of enteric fever last May.

Constable Cameron says the country is being rapidly cleared of armed Boers, who are returning to their farms and other vocations.

A SMUGGLING COMPANY.

A Gigantic Fraud Unearthed by the American Customs Officials.

Montreal, Quebec, Oct. 9.—Twenty thousands dollars' worth of sealskins have already been seized and further developments are expected in the unearthing of what is said to be a gigantic conspiracy to smuggle these valuable goods across the Canadian frontier into the United States.

Fred. Stebbins, a baggage master on the Central Vermont Railroad, and another train hand have been arrested at White River Junction, Vt., and are held under heavy bail to await the result of further investigation. The men are charged with smuggling furs from Canada and also with further violating the special act of Congress, passed in 1897, prohibiting the entry into the country of sealskins taken in the Pribyloff Islands.

The United States Customs officials here have for some time past known that a large business was done in smuggling all kinds of furs, but especially sealskins, and that one firm openly stated that they were prepared to deliver these goods duty free to any part of the Union.

Mr. Convers J. Smith, Special Agent at Boston, was notified and Mr. W. F. Bruun was sent on to investigate. This latter gentleman passed several months here and as the result of his investigations the two men were arrested. They were liberated on bail and will be tried at Rutland.

In many cases the smuggled furs have been traced to Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and even to St. Louis and confiscated. The case has caused a big sensation among the baggage and train men of the United States roads running into the Bonaventure station as the conspiracy is said to be far reaching.

LIPTON MAY TRY AGAIN

New York Hears He Will Race for the Cup Next Year.

New York, Oct. 10.—Sir Thomas Lipton was questioned last night regarding his plans for the near future. He said, "After the dinner at the New York Yacht club Tuesday night, I have a number of invitations to various clubs, but I have not decided which I shall be able to accept, as my time is limited. I shall go to Chicago as the guest of the Chicago Athletic club on Monday of next week. It is not likely the Shamrock will remain in commission. I am very sorry she did not win at least one race. However, I am going to give Captain Sycamore and the crew of the Shamrock a banquet. It will probably be on Thursday night. I feel that they have done their best to make the boat win."

From another source it was learned that there is a hope on board the Erin and Shamrock that another race for the America's cup may be arranged to be sailed next year. If this can be accomplished, it is said, the Shamrock will be laid up in New York for the winter. She is at present in the Erie basin.

WAR WITHOUT A SINGLE SHOT.

Venezuelan and Colombian Armies Waiting for Orders to Fight

Caracas, Oct. 10.—An envoy of the Venezuelan government, who has just returned to Maracaibo from the Colombian frontier, telegraphs as follows: "For two weeks prior to October 8 the Venezuelan troops concentrated between San Cristobal and Cucuta, estimated at 3,500 men, had not discharged a single shot against the Colombians massed before them under the command of General Valencia, and estimated at 5,000. Both sides remained continually at 'shoulder arms.' The government of Venezuela, meanwhile, awaits the answer of Colombia to the Venezuelan note."

SOME GOOD ADVICE FROM DUTCH PASTOR

He Declares That the Boer Cause is Hopeless

THE CAPE COLONY DUTCH

Explains the True Position of Affairs in South Africa.

Unless God Works a Miracle the Boers Can not Regain Their Independence.

London, October 10—The Cape Town correspondent of the Times writes: The Rev. Mr. Botha, the Dutch minister at Richmond, has written a letter to the civil commissioner of Richmond from the refugee camp at Vredefort Road, Orange River Colony, under date August 10, explaining the true position of affairs, in order to enlighten his congregation and fellow Cape Colonists. He says:

"A futile resistance cannot any longer be dignified by the name of war. The Boers still fighting have forfeited the sympathy of the Dutch Cape Colonists by the heartless way in which they have misled the people. They have told the colonials that their case was never more hopeful, whereas they knew too well that it never was more hopeless. The presence of the commandos in the colony and the continued resistance is a crime, because, while there is nothing to gain, it simply is ruin for others who have no quarrel with them or the British."

Mr. Botha solemnly states that unless God works a miracle, the Boers will never regain their independence, and that, moreover, the feeling of the majority of the inhabitants is that there is nothing else to do but to submit to the inevitable with a good grace. Continuing, he says: "I have spoken to many surrendered burghers, who have fought manfully, but have given in like honest men when they saw the hopelessness of their case, and they all state that, with the present bitter feelings of those who are still fighting towards those who have surrendered, a civil war is sure to break out if the British do not stay. I earnestly beseech the people not to close their ears against everyone who recognizes the inevitable, and not to try to dispose of the matter by calling such people jingoes, traitors or bribed."

Referring to the refugee camps, Mr. Botha says that the commandos still in the colony have to some extent misled the Dutch by drawing harrowing pictures of the ill-treatment and sufferings of the people in the camps, putting forth such misrepresentations for the purpose of fanning the flame of rebellion in the colony. Mr. Botha says that there have been hardships, but that no needless suffering has been inflicted. He considers that the camps are not only an absolute necessity, but a real kindness. If peace were declared tomorrow and the people were sent away, hundreds would die. Mr. Botha also says that nothing so agreeably surprised and disarmed his prejudices, as the kindly feeling of the British toward the Dutch, from the administrator downwards. All the officials displayed not only genuine interest in the people, but an evident desire to smoothe over all ill-feeling and let bygones be bygones.

IMPERIAL UUION IS DENOUNCED

Goldwin Smith Says That Laurier is Casting Canada Back.

CANADA IS NOT A NATION

Toronto, Oct. 9.—Goldwin Smith in The Weekly Sun says: Sir Wilfrid Laurier says that Canada is not a colony but a nation. With her population, her extent of territory, and her resources, Canada has in her the making of no mean nation. She surpasses in these respects Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, and Portugal; to say nothing of the Danubian Principalities or the South American Republics. But no community, however great, can be a nation while it lacks the sovereign power, while its constitution is imposed on it from without, while it is incapable of treating on its own account with foreign nations. On the road to nationality Canada may have been, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party, by turning her face towards Imperial Federation have been doing their utmost to make her retrace her steps. Imperial Federation may be a grand idea, but it means the renunciation of independence. About that there ought to be no mistake.

Our Dominion is not self-existent and sovereign; it is a body constituted by the British North American Act, and can have no powers but such as are given it directly or by implication by that Act. Sovereign power has not been conferred upon it.

Power of expropriation is essential to certain purposes of government, and with it every Government should naturally be invested. Yet it is easier to say this than to say by what right the Government of the Canadian Dominion or that of any Canadian Province exercises the power. There seems to be nothing in the British North American Act by which the power is directly conferred. Blackstone speaks of expropriation in the most serious tone, as a high and perilous attribute of sovereign authority, to be employed with the utmost circumspection, since it trenches on that right of property which it is the object of all government to preserve. It is natural to surmise that the power would not have been deliberately conferred without limitations safeguarding its exercise. The power of taking a man's property otherwise than with full compensations impartially adjudged is not one to be assumed without authority or conferred without circumspection.

HAD BEEN WARNED IN SAMAR

A Priest Told of the Proposed Attack on C Company.

Manila, Oct. 10—Major Morris C. Foote, Ninth Infantry, who has returned here from the island of Samar, was in Balangiga the day before the disaster to Company C. He says that Captain Connell had been fully warned and had taken what he (Major Foote) considered every necessary precaution. Information that a plot was brewing among the Filipinos came to Major Foote from a priest, who said that it was in the plans of the populace at both Balangiga and Basey to attack the garrisons and that the Basey garrison was to be attacked from a cockpit in the rear of the barracks. Orders were immediately given to demolish the cockpit and extra guards were stationed.

There is intense feeling throughout the army because of the massacre, which would not be the case to any such extent had it been the work of ordinary insurgents. The latter might have been expected to commit such an outrage. Feeling is particularly intense in military circles because the authors of the massacre were pacificos, most of whom had taken the oath of allegiance, and many of whom were actually holding office.

THE PRESIDENT'S ASSASSIN HATED BY FELLOW CONVICTS

Murderers in Death House Jeer at McKinley's Slayer and Want His Blood.

Auburn, October 10—When the assassin of the President was received at the prison here, every man in the institution knew of his conviction and sentence through the system of silent communication by which news permeates the place with such astonishing rapidity. The unanimous sentiment of the convicts was that if the assassin were handed over to them they would satisfy vengeance in an unmistakable way. The men in stripes, murderers and all, hate the poor fool who destroyed the nation's ruler, and they would like to put him to death in awful agony. The felons in stripes loathe him, and do not regard him as a wrong-doer in the same class with themselves.

There is an astonishing amount of patriotism among the convicts. Strangely, too, even those who are habitual law breakers have a high regard for the law, and believe it to be just. They have nothing but condemnation for anarchy, which would annihilate the law—the power that placed them in durance. Many of them are sentimental, emotional and impulsive, and the advent of the assassin among them acts as a firebrand.

In the chamber of the condemned, where four other than the assassin await execution, the murderer of the President is isolated. His companions in the death house are John Truck, of Scott, Cortlandt County, to die for the murder of a farmer a year ago; George A. Smith, of Churchill, a wife murderer; Clarence Egnor, slayer of Prison Keeper Benedict, and Frederick Krist, of Waverley, the murderer of his sweetheart, Kittie Tobin. All are appealing to the highest court, and the latest arrival, from Buffalo, will go to the electric chair before any of the four. The last to enter, he will be the first to leave.

The assassin's cell is No. 4, between those of Egnor and Krist. When he was dragged howling into the sombre place, Egnor cried out roughly to him: "Eh, stop your blubbering!" Krist thoughtfully called the assassin's attention to the entrance to the execution room, called the Door of Doom. It is directly opposite his cell.

"Look at it," said Krist; "you'll go through there and you'll never come back. If you enter you'll hear us cheer as you go."

One of the murderers said he would like to cheat the chair of the assassin by getting at him. Their theory is that they had some sort of excuse for their crime, while the assassin had none at all. They intend to make a holiday of the day he dies and tell him so.

Thus, in his last wretched hours on earth, this "liberator," as he thought he would be called, is jeered at and made the jest of men, who themselves are facing death. He knows now the bitter truth that there are none so low, outside his brotherhood of assassins, as to have one spark of honor or pity for him.

Three keepers divide the day and night into watches over the assassin, and will see to it that he does not commit suicide. His cell is about 8 feet square. Most of the time he spends lying on his cot, now and then pacing to and fro in the narrow space about his bed.

In commenting on the attitude of the prisoners to the assassin, one of the officials said: "If they got hold of the assassin they would tear him in pieces. I do not believe there is any place in the world where he is hated more bitterly than here among the inmates of this prison. The inmates want the world to know that they are no such criminal as he. I might explain just the difference by saying that if the inmates of this prison were to be organized into a regiment and marched forth to battle for the flag, they would fight to the last ditch, fight gloriously, fight like fiends and die like heroes.

"If 1,200 anarchists were to be marched forth they would spit at the flag and die like dogs. That is the difference. No one feels it more keenly than do the prisoners. You know it was the Duke of Wellington to whom the saying is attributed that if he were asked where to look for the best soldiers, he would answer in the prisons and the palaces, among the sinners and the saints."

THE BRITISH PUBLIC RESTLESS OVER THE WAR

Strong Utterances by Many of the Leading British Newspapers.

THE GOVERNMENT'S WAR POLICY CRITICIZED.

The War as Much in Evidence as It Was Two Years Ago—Calls for Lord Roberts.

London, Oct. 9.—British public opinion is becoming exasperated over the South African situation. The recent fighting has made it ridiculous for Lord Kitchener to pretend any longer that the war is over, or that only guerillas remain to be dealt with. The 600 well-disciplined men who attacked Fort Itala the other day, and who "rushed" the British garrison with fixed bayonets and came near to capturing the place, were not "guerillas" or "bandits." This is war as truly as was the fighting at Colenso or Spion Kop. Botha is perceived even in London to be on the aggressive and Kitchener on the defensive. At three different places Botha has lately been the attacking party, and while the British have held their own, the large losses they admit show that they have been hard pressed to do it.

The London press, including such leading Ministerial papers as the Times, Standard, Chronicle and Spectator, are now in full cry against the War Office. Some of them blame it for not sending more men to Kitchener. Kipling in a tart letter declares the army machine is back "in the old ruts of importance, pretense and collapse." The Spectator says Kitchener has "accomplished nothing in a year except by the process of attrition," and calls for Lord Roberts to be sent out again to finish the war.

Boer obstinacy may prove the ruin of the Salisbury Ministry, which seems to have about exhausted British patience.

ENGLAND DOES NO YIELDING.

Source of Danger for Past Half Century Will Now Be Happily Ended.

Washington, Oct. 9.—There has been no surrender by England to the United States in the matter of the new Isthmian Canal treaty, according to the best authority possible. It is said to be equally true that the United States has sacrificed no principle in these negotiations, and the effect of contrary statements is deprecated as seriously jeopardize the chances of the consummation of the convention which shall finally and peacefully settle an issue that has been a source of danger for the past 50 years.

It is said that what actually has happened is that each side has preserved the underlying principle of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and the new convention will provide for a waterway neutral at all times and open to the commerce of the world. The Clayton-Bulwer treaty, however, drawn half a century ago, has proved to be defective in mechanism for giving effect to this purpose. The new treaty simply provides this mechanism. England is relieved from the guarantee, which in her case was only troublesome and when, being assumed by the United States in toto, is quite as effective.

As viewed from the American point of view even, there was no surrender on England's part in seeking the relief, inasmuch as the above-mentioned principle is reitorated and affirmed as binding upon the United States. As for the form of the treaty, it may be stated that it embodies in substance the amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which were adopted by the Senate, and beyond that the changes are believed to be textual rather than substantial.

HON. CLARKE WALLACE DEAD

END CAME IN SPITE OF A BRAVE STRUGGLE FOR HEALTH

Funeral Takes Place Saturday—An Illustrious Canadian, Who Played a Large Part in Making History, is no More.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, M. P., passed away peacefully shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

Mr. Wallace had not been enjoying good health for over a year. Last winter, he consulted Dr. A. McPhedran, and, upon his advice, two months ago he went to Fort Macleod, N. W. T., where he remained until about two weeks ago. The trip failed to bring about the improvement desired, and, shortly after the return, his condition became worse. He continued to fail, but, despite his weakened condition, bore up bravely until consciousness deserted him.

Four days ago he was able to dictate a letter, and this was probably his last business transaction. On Monday night, Drs. McPhedran, Temple and King held a consultation at the bedside, and it was the unanimous belief that no treatment could improve his condition. Yesterday, he lost consciousness and his speech. At times he would open his eyes, and appeared to recognize those at his bedside. He gradually sank during the day, and shortly after 10 o'clock, he passed away.

Death, although expected, came rather suddenly. When the end came, there were present at the bedside Mrs. Wallace, deceased's sister Annie, his brother George, three sons, Capt. Tom Wallace, Leonard and James; Mr. Donald McKenzie of Woodbridge.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home of deceased to Christ Church Cemetery. Rev. W. S. Swallow will conduct the services at the home and grave. The funeral will be under the direction of M. W. Grand Orange Lodge of B. A., and the R. W. Grand Lodge of Ontario West.

He will be succeeded in the office of Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order of B. N. A. by Dr. T. S. Sproule, M. P. of Markdale, who is Deputy Grand Master.

The members of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West have been requested to attend the funeral of their late Most Worshipful Grand Sovereign.

$43,959 FOR MISS STONE

Nearly Half of the $110,000 Raised so Far

Boston, Oct. 10.—With receipts coming in from many quarters the fund for the ransom of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary captured by brigands in Turkey, at 11 o'clock yesterday had reached $37,000. At noon it was $43,959.

Miss Stone's ransom is $110,000. Unless it is paid by to-morrow, the brigands say they will put her to death. The Boston churches began the movement to raise the ransom last Saturday.

Washington, Oct. 9.—It is not probable that the kidnappers of Miss Stone will enforce their ultimatum to-morrow, although that was the date named as the last day of grace in her case. The danger is by no means averted, and the most that can be said now is that there is a likelihood of securing a short extension by the brigands for the time allowed for the payment of the ransom. The State Department is busying itself earnestly in this direction, evidently acting under the belief that in the course of two or three days the charitable people of the United States will make up the fund necessary to secure Miss Stone's release.

Mr. Adee, the acting Secretary of State was again at the White House to-day in consultation with the President touching Miss Stone's case and it is believed that negotiations are in progress indirectly with her captors. Meanwhile the White House and the State Department are flooded by letters and telegrams imploring the officials to save Miss Stone.

DARING ATTEMPT TO ROB A BANK

Burglars Covered a Clerk Sleeping in Bank at Owen Sound

MANY SHOTS WERE EXCHANGED

Owen Sound, Oct. 9.—A determined attempt was made between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning to rob the Molson's Bank. The burglars burst open the door of an outer, [illegible] in the rear; one of them stood at the barred window and covered the sleeping clerk with a revolver, while the other burst in a panel of the door leading into the bank. The noise awoke Mr. Vandusen, junior clerk, who was also sleeping in the bank. As he sat up in bed the burglar at the window shot at him, the bullet passing close to Vandusen. The latter returned their fire. They returned to the attack a half minute later; another shot from Vandusen dispersed them. Apparently no one was hit. Vandusen notified the central telephone office of what was happening, and an alarm of fire was rung. The police are working on the case, and some arrests are expected to be made today.

Toronto Couple Deserted a Babe.

Mount Clemens, Mich., Oct. 9.—Yesterday morning M. S. Vansycles, who keeps a boarding-house on Macomb street, reported to the sheriff that a young couple who had been boarding with his family for the past six weeks had left town, deserting a baby a month old. These people, giving their names as Mr. and Mrs. Allan J. Rattray, came here from Toronto and engaged board with the Van Syckles family. After they had been in the town a month a child was born. They were young people, good dressers, and seemed to have plenty of money. The mail for the woman came addressed to Miss Undine Conley, who claiming that she had been married in secret and that her uncle, who was a wealthy man in Canada, had furnished them with their money, had not been informed of the marriage. The child is still with the Van Syckles family but will be taken care of by the Poor Commissioners. It is probable that the sheriff will soon locate the young people as he has tracked them to a point in Canada.

LAKEHURST

A large number from this vicinity attended the show at Bobcaygeon. They went via the boat from Sandy Point.

Next Sunday is Rev. Mr. McIntyre's farewell Sunday. His departure from the settlement is regretted by his many friends of all denominations, among whom he has won many warm friends.

Mr. C. M. Cundall, of Cameron, was visiting friends here last week. He took in the fair.

Last Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Delve preached a very impressive sermon on the text, "Let there be light, and there was light."

Mrs. Robt. Shaw continues to improve.

Miss Susie Weir, who is attending Peterborough Collegiate Institute, was home last week.

Mr. Stubbs gave a concert and lecture on show night. It was well attended and a good sum taken in. Miss Jennie Coone won the Bible for selling the most tickets for it.

First Silver Wedding.

According to a historian, this is the way the first silver wedding came about. It was in the time of Hugues Capet. Two of his most faithful servants, a man and a woman, had grown gray in his employ. How could he reward them?

Calling the woman, he said: "Your service is great, greater than the man's, whose service is great enough, for the woman always finds work harder than a man, and therefore I will give you a reward. At your age I know of none better than a dowry and a husband. The dowry is here. This farm from this time forth belongs to you. If this man who has worked with you for five and twenty years is willing to marry you, then the husband is ready."

"Your majesty," said the old peasant, "how is it possible that we should marry, having already silver hairs?"

"Then it shall be a silver wedding." And the king gave the couple silver enough to keep them in plenty.

Such was the origin of the silver wedding, a custom which, spreading all through France, subsequently became known to the world.

Points on a Lobster.

A lobster is found in the water, but not always—in fact, some of the most successful lobsters that ever lobstered were born and raised on dry land.

One can usually tell a lobster by its actions. For instance, if a young man enters a crowded drawing room and walks all over the feet of the assembled guests without their consent or approval the young man at once becomes a lobster.

The fathers of lobsters usually have money. In fact, it is difficult to be a real stand up and fall down lobster unless the lobster's father has money.

It is an odd fact that many girls seem to admire lobsters. It would seem that a girl ought to know better, but she doesn't until she marries a lobster. Then she tumbles.

Lobsters have no brains. If you don't believe it, split a lobster's head open with an ax if you don't care anything about the ax.

This world would be a much more desirable abiding place if there were no lobsters in it.

Hodge, the Single Minded.

An election petition was being tried, and a witness was called to prove "bribery."

"One of the gentlemen says to me, 'Hodge, you must vote for the Tories,'" said the witness.

"And what did you answer to that?" asked the counsel.

"'Well,' says I, 'How much?'"

"And what did the agent say?"

"He didn't say nothing. The other gentleman comes to me and says, 'You must vote for the Liberals, Hodge.'"

"And what did you answer?"

"I said, 'How much?' So he arst me what t'other gentleman offered me, and I told him 5 shillings."

"And what did the Liberal agent do?"

"He gave me 10 shillings."

Counsel sits down triumphant, and up starts the other side.

"Did you vote for the Liberals?"

"No."

"Did you vote for the Tories?"

"No. I ain't got a vote!"

Restoring the Polish.

Says a housekeeper: "My piano, which had been covered with a cambric cover, was loaded with dust that had sifted through the sleazy cloth. The dust was too thick to be wiped off. It should have been blown and lightly whisked off first, but this my maid did not do, and in consequence the grime was wiped in for all I knew with a damp cloth. At all events the highly polished surface was clouded over almost to a gray, and I was in despair until a friend suggested a remedy. She advised me to wring as dry as I could a piece of chamois from out a basin of water and rub the piano until the chamois was bone dry. This I have done and completely restored the polish."

How Pepper Is Prepared.

The pepper plant is propagated by cuttings, comes into bearing three or four years after it is set and yields two crops annually for about 12 years. When a few of the berries change from green to red, all of them are gathered, because if they were allowed to ripen any longer they would be less pungent. To fit them for market they are dried, separated by rubbing with the hands and cleaned by winnowing. The black pepper of commerce consists of the berries thus prepared.

Gee ! Difference in Corn Cures

Many are destructive to the flesh and dangerous to use, but the old reliable Putnam's Corn Extractor removes Corns, Warts and Bunions, without pain, in 24 hours. No pain, no failure. "Putnam's" cures.

When a woman gives up it is because she has gone to the utmost limit of strength and endurance. It is a marvel how women will stagger on under the daily household burdens when the whole body is racked with pain.

For the nervous, run-down condition which so many women experience, as a result of overstrain in household cares, there is no medicine can equal Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the weak stomach by curing diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood of poisons which cause rheumatism and other painful diseases. It nourishes the nerves, and builds up the body with sound, healthy flesh.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for the "Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for weakness, nervousness and debility.

"I want the whole world to know what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me," writes Mrs. Helen Hardgrove, of Bangs, Knox Co., O. "I had many of the ills of women's life. My lungs and throat troubled me besides, and I had rheumatism. About a year ago I had to give up work I was so bad. I had heard so much about your medicine I thought I would try it. I took four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and by the time I had taken half of the first bottle I began to gain, and kept on getting better. And now I have no more of my old ailments and am entirely cured of rheumatism. I feel like a new woman."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TRAIN WRECKING IN AFRICA

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 9.—Writing from Kaap Mujden Junction to his father, Rev. Canon Bland, of this city, E. Maltby Bland, assistant engineer of the Delagoa Bay Railway, tells of some recent exciting times with the Boers. He says:

We had a pretty exciting time here since last Friday. I got up about 6 a.m. and went over to the station, where they told me a train had been blown up by the Boers about seven miles from here and that another train sent out with relief had also been derailed. A note arrived just then from the driver of the first train, saying the Boers had burned the cars and gone away. Well, we soon got another train ready with lists, jacks and track, collected all the men and niggers and started off ourselves, very carefully, you may be sure. When we got to the place, you never saw such a mess in your life as the first train was in. The two were close together, and it did not take us long to put the relief train on again, as the Boers had only spread a rail, and as the driver was going slowly not much harm was done; but the one blown up was a sight; the cars thrown all about and twisted and turned and all on fire and track torn up for about 100 yards. We worked all day on it, and at dark the engine was still off the track, and as she had buried herself pretty deep, and needed a lot of jacking up, and as it was dangerous to stay out after dark, on account of Boers, we came back here for the night, pretty well tired out, too. Next morning we were at it again at daybreak, and we got the engine up and the track cleared in about two hours and ready for traffic again.

The Boers had blown up the train in rather a neat way. The first explosion did not send the engine off the track, and the driver thought he was over it all right, and opened his throttle wide to get away, when he heard two sharp whistles from the commandant, and the trucks in rear of the engine rose into the air, and a big explosion occurred throwing things everywhere, some of the cars being 25 feet off the line. They had evidently worked it with a wire, and had two charges in the ground to make sure.

Then they looted the train and burnt it, taking away some bags of oats with them. Fortunately, no one was hurt, the driver only having his face cut slightly when he was thrown from his engine by the second explosion.

If this sort of things occurs often, as I expect it will, as they are collecting around here now, you must not worry if my letters are irregular in future, as I may be away and not get a chance to write.

STUDENTS' SUGGESTION

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 9.—Five hundred students of Wesleyan University the strongest Methodist college in the Northwest, have sent to Gov. Odell, of New York, a set of resolution of which the following is a part:

"Resolved, that we, students of Nebraska Wesleyan University, in chapel assembled, hereby endorse as most appropriate the disposal of the assassin's body suggested by Chancellor Huntington in his memorial address for the late President, namely: 'I crave for the assassin of President McKinley one mark of distinction. He had earned it and would it might be awarded him. His hopes should never be allowed to mingle with American soil. When the death sentence shall be executed, as it should be with the swift justice becoming such an unspeakable tragedy, we could wish the United States Government would take the remains of the atrocious murderer a hundred miles to sea and then, pinioned and manacled, with his revolver in his belt and a mill-stone chained about his neck, sink the corpse a thousand fathoms to the bottom of the ocean, that thus the anarchist might be warned that he shall not have so much as a grave in a civilized land."

Bronchitis Asthma

Is now easily cured, not by pouring nauseous, destructive drugs into the stomach, but by inhaling Catarrhozone. Drugs do more harm than good, but the soothing, healing, medicated air that Catarrhozone supplies to the lungs and bronchial tubes cannot fail to benefit. Catarrhozone prevents those smothering spasms and headache, cures the cough and makes breathing easy. Universally used; doctors recommend it; druggists sell it, 25c. and $1.00.

TRENT CANAL

TENDERS FOR WATER POWER.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tenders for Water Power," will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on the 21st day of October, 1901, for water power at Dam 6, between Peterborough and Lakefield.

The conditions and Form of Tender may be seen and obtained on and after the 30th day of September, 1901, at this Office and at the Office of the Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal, at Peterborough, Ont.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the Tender the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further an accepted bank cheque for the sum of $2,000 must accompany the Tender. This accepted bank cheque must be endorsed over to the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to execute the lease for the water power strictly in accordance with the terms expressed in the conditions.

The accepted cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the highest or any tender.

By Order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals,
Ottawa, 28th September, 1901.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

AFGHAN AMEER PASSES AWAY

London, Oct. 8.—"Habibullah, [illegible] eldest son of the Ameer of Afghanistan, has reported to the British agent at Cabul that the Ameer died last Thursday, after a brief illness." This despatch from Simla and another one dated the same place, in which the aged ruler is said to have been taken seriously ill September 24, and passed away October 3, are entirely unofficial, but nevertheless credited on all sides. They indicate that another crisis is at hand to disturb British power in India, if not shake it. The moment could not be more inopportune, as Britain is well occupied in South Africa, and has but a comparatively small army available for operations on the Afghan border. A satisfactory settlement of the questions raised by the Ameer's death depends largely upon Habibulla Khan, the eldest son by a slave girl, who was nominated heir apparent by his father. Should he prove strong enough to control the restless Afghan people, all will be well, but if he displays weakness in any way his downfall is sure to be caused by rival candidates for the throne. Internal strife will cause external warfare, and embroil the nations interested in the far east. Chaos in the buffer state is always associated by England with Russian intervention. Lord Curzon is a strong man, however, and may be able to direct the course of affairs toward peaceful channels.

Four Men Killed in Wreck.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 9.—One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Mohawk Division of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad occurred at 1.50 o'clock this morning in the village of Oriskany, seven miles west of this city. Four railroad men were killed in the wreck, and one was injured.

The killed are: Spencer Shannon, of Schenectady, engineer; George Palmerston, of Rensselaer, fireman; William Wier, of Albany, brakeman, and Argyle Smith, of Rensselaer, fireman. The injured man is James Hager, of Albany, engineer, bruised, not seriously.

An east bound freight engine, No. 1801, collided with a light engine, No. 1569, which was crossing from track three to track four, thus causing the wreck. The crash was a terrible one and in an instant all four of the New York Central tracks were completely blocked. The freight consisted of 65 cars and was running at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

DR. KRAUSE ON TRIAL

Ex-Governor of Johannesburg being Tried in Bow Street Extradition Court.

London, Oct. 8.—Dr. Krause, the former governor of Johannesburg, who was arrested Sept. 2 on the charge of high treason, was arraigned in the Extradition Court at Bow street today and charged with high treason and incitement to murder. The former charge is connected with the surrender of Johannesburg, when, according to the public prosecutor, Dr. Krause obtained from Lord Roberts twenty-four hours' armistice on the plea that street fighting would thereby be obviated, and utilized the period in getting all the Boer fighters out of town and in sending £180,000 to Pretoria. After Dr. Krause had been paroled he went to Europe and applied to Leyds, the agent of the Transvaal, for money on account of these services.

The prosecution introduced evidence to show that Dr. Krause had been in communication with Dr. Cornelius Broeckman, the public prosecutor of Johannesburg, who was executed Sept. 30 last for treason, and had urged the necessity for shooting or otherwise disposing of Douglas Foster, an English lawyer attached to Lord Roberts' staff, who was very active against the Boers.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in affecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

Prospectus United Factories Limited

Objects of the Company.

The Charter of the "United Factories has been obtained and Stock issued to acquire as going concerns, the Brush, Broom and Woodenware businesses of the well-known and long-established firms of Boeckh Bros. & Company, of Toronto and Montreal.

Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, Newmarket
Thomas Bryan, London, Ontario.

including all properties, leaseholds, real estate, plant and machinery, stock-in-trade manufactured and in process of manufacture, timber limits (many years' supply), trade marks, patents, and in fact every asset of the three businesses except book debts and bills receivable, AND THUS THE NEW COMPANY TAKES UP THE WHOLE BUSINESS AND CONTINUES THE SAME WITHOUT INTERRUPTION OR CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Accountants' Certificate.

"We hereby certify that we have examined the books and accounts of Boeckh Bros. & Company, and Thomas Bryan, for the years 1898 and 1899, and the Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, for the years 1897, 1898 and 1899, and find that the combined average yearly net profits amount to $45,869.91. All expenses, including bad and doubtful debts, allowance for depreciation of plant and equipment at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and also salary for management, have been charged in arriving at these profits.

"As stocks had been taken at varying dates, it is impossible to show in tabular form the profits earned yearly. We find, however, that the sales have increased OVER 52 PER CENT DURING THE PAST FOUR YEARS, and these three businesses ARE YEAR BY YEAR INCREASING THEIR PROFITS.

"A. C. NEFF, F.C.A.,
WILTON C. EDDIS, F.C.A.,
Chartered Accountants."

Toronto, May 21st, 1901.

NOTE.—It will be observed that, after deducting Management salaries, all expenses, providing for bad and doubtful debts, and annually writing off 7 per cent. for depreciation of plant, the net profits have been at the rate of $45,869.91 per annum. In consequence of increased business of the past nine months it is estimated that the net profits for the current year will be over $60,000, and continue to largely increase, so that the $28,000 required to pay the 7 per cent. dividends upon the First Preference Stock is more than assured.

Distribution of Profits--Reserve Account.

THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is entitled to preferential (cumulative) dividends of 7 per cent. per annum payable QUARTERLY on MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER and DECEMBER the FIRST.

Of the remaining profits, not less than 10 per cent. nor more than 20 per cent thereof, shall be transferred to a reserve account to better ensure the above mentioned dividends (to be used in the business of the Company), and this policy is to be continued until the reserve reaches 20 per cent. of the First Preference Stock issued and outstanding, at which sum it will be maintained, and if drawn upon will in like manner be restored.

THE SECOND PREFERENCE STOCK is non-cumulative and is entitled to divide out of the then remaining profits up to 5 per cent. per annum payable yearly. After which all three Stocks—FIRST AND SECOND PREFERENCE AND COMMON—are entitled to PARTICIPATE EQUALLY in any further profits of each fiscal year.

In the event of the liquidation or dissolution of the Company the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is to be paid in full before anything can be paid on the Second Preference, and the SECOND PREFERENCE then stands next for payment in full before anything can be paid on the COMMON STOCK.

These provisions make the First Preference Stock unusually attractive, as its own 7 per cent. (cumulative) dividends and safety are not only guarded, but the Directors of the Company believe it WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING LARGER DIVIDENDS IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME.

Management of the Company.

The Directors and Managers of the Company are gentlemen of standing and LONG EXPERIENCE in this class of business, inasmuch as all of them were INSTRUMENTAL in making the old firms such a SUBSTANTIAL SUCCESS and their goods so favorably known from one end of Canada to the other.

Working Capital, Etc.

In addition to the other assets of the old businesses, the Company, after all adjustments are made, will have a working capital of $125,000, besides $100,000 of First Preference Stock in the treasury; will have no liabilities, mortgages, OR DEBTS OF ANY KIND, and will possess a UNION OF THE THREE BUSINESSES PROFITABLY ESTABLISHED FOR UPWARDS OF FORTY YEARS, during all of which time the manufactured goods and standing of the firms were of the highest class.

Toronto Stock Exchange.

Application will be made in due course to have the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the usual way.

Letter from Mr. Emil C. Boeckh

Attention is directed to the annexed letter from MR. EMIL C. BOECKH, OF TORONTO, the President and General Manager of the Company:

Toronto, Sept. 28th, 1901

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Vice-President and General Manager,
The Union Trust Company, Toronto.

"Dear Sir,—In connection with the issue of the Prospectus and Stock of UNITED FACTORIES LIMITED, it may prove of interest to add a few words as to "WHY WE UNITE."

"The primary object has been to give permanence to a line of industries which have grown up with the country, and which through consolidation will continue to grow without fear of the interruptions which are liable to occur in an ordinary company or partnership business.

"These industries are, in their very nature, difficult ones to establish, requiring technical knowledge, perfect organization and careful attention to details, so that the possibility of undesirable competition is reduced to a minimum.

"Arrangements have been made to retain the present managers, who are all interested very largely in the financial success of the Company through holdings of shares acquired in the transfer of their respective businesses.

"Through many years' connection in the markets of the world, for the buying of Bristles, Broom Corn and other raw material, and possessing important timber limits, through which its lumber is acquired at first cost, and through extensive additions to its plant already made, the Company will be in a position to greatly increase its business and profits in the future.

"An important objective point which the new Company will achieve is the manufacturing and marketing of a better article than has been possible in the past, and AT NO INCREASE IN COST.

"There are no articles in general use better known to the trade and consumers in Canada than BOECKH'S STANDARD BRUSHES AND BROOMS, BRYAN'S LONDON BRUSHES, AND CANE'S NEWMARKET WOODENWARE, and the Company holds a most valuable asset in these well and favorably known brands. BRUSHES, BROOMS and WOODENWARE are in demand in every home, warehouse, factory, mill, stable and public building, and on boats, railways, farms, etc., and are distributed through dealers in hardware, paints and oils, groceries, harness, drugs, etc., and the Company has a very strong connection with the leading houses in these lines. Owing to the rapid development of the packing industries of the Dominion, both for export and for home consumption, the Company is assured of a CONSTANTLY INCREASING TRADE with pork packers, confectioners, canners and manufacturers of pickles, paints, oils, varnishes, syrups and jams, all of whom are very large consumers of wooden packages of all kinds.

"JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING, one of the secrets of modern business success, will form an important feature in the policy of the Company.

"It is a well-known fact that after passing a certain point, AND WHICH WE HAVE PASSED, increased business can be done with comparatively little extra expense, thus assuring greater profits, while the retail prices are not disturbed.

"THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is strictly a safe investment, which will earn a practically guaranteed dividend of 7 per cent., and owing to the provisions made for participation in further profits, and judging from our steadily increasing business, I AM OF OPINION THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK IN A REASONABLE TIME WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING 8 PER CENT. AND HIGHER. Yours very truly, EMIL C. BOECKH."

Subscriptions for Stock.

The Directors and their associates HAVE TAKEN $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. It is their intention TO HOLD THE STOCK, and in the meantime have mutually agreed in writing to withhold it from the market. They have also taken the whole of the Second Preference Stock, THUS LEAVING ONLY $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK for sale, and which is now offered for public subscription.

Terms of Subscription.

A deposit of 5 per cent. is to be made on application, 25 per cent. on allotment, and the balance in two instalments of 35 per cent. each in one and two months respectively from date of allotments, but subscribers may make payments in advance, and will be entitled to dividends from such advanced dates. If no allotment is made the deposit will be returned without deduction, and if a partial allotment is made the deposit will be applied towards the payments of the instalments. The first dividend for the broken period and a quarter will be made on March 1st, 1902.

Subscriptions Received.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, IS AUTHORIZED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SHARES OF THE SAID $200,000 FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. Application may be made personally or by ORDINARY LETTER, addressed to the Union Trust Company, Limited, Temple Building, Toronto. Make all cheques payable to said Company. The books will be closed within seven days.

TRY TO SAVE MISS STONE

Boston, Oct. 9—In many of the Protestant churches an appeal is being made to the people to contribute toward the ransom fund, demanded for the release of Miss Stone by the Bulgarian brigands. In a few churches collections were made, but in most cases the clergy asked their congregation to make their contributions direct to Kidder, Peabody & Co. In some cases there was no notice of the appeal made, as the clergy said that in their opinion it was a matter which either the American Board or the United States Government should attend to.

The sum which was realized by the appeal at the churches to date is expected to be very large. A member of the firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. said that each mail brought in large sums. It is expected that a large amount will be sent from their New York office to-morrow. Late last night a telegram was received from a man in Philadelphia, saying that he had sent $1,000. Messages announcing gifts were arriving here all day.

An unnecessary and harmful episode was inflicted upon the aged mother of the captive yesterday. Some one thoughtlessly sent her a newspaper account of the death sentence passed upon her daughter. Ever since the first news came the other members of the family have vigilantly kept all painful details as much as possible from her. Her distress was keen from her sudden shock of realization of what the real situation of her daughter is.

As soon as the $110,000 has been raised the agent appointed by the American Board will be made acquainted of the fact by cable. Constantinople will probably be the place where the agent will be appointed. The money will at once be forwarded to him by cable order, and he will enter into communication with the agent of the brigands.

The American Board held a meeting which lasted for two hours. Later the committee issued a statement, based upon the views of President Samuel B. Capen, and the Secretary, the Gov. Judson Smith, on the result of their visit to Washington yesterday. Both had interviews with President Roosevelt and the officials of the State Department. It was made plain to them, they told the Prudential Committee, that the only certain way to secure the release of Miss Stone and save her life would be the payment of the ransom. The committee was informed that the Government, by reason of constitutional restrictions, is unable to pay the ransom. The committee was also made aware of the fact that the American Board had no money with which to save Miss Stone.

The only practical way, therefore, was shown to be a popular subscription, which had already been started. The committee heartily approved of this and immediately sent telegrams to every corporation member in the United States, urging subscriptions, and telling them to telegraph the same to Kidder, Peabody & Co. The committee says in view of the spirit with which the appeal is received, that there is strong grounds for the hope that the amount will be obtained speedily.

In every possible way the American board will cooperate both by gift and solicitation. President Capen says that the Government at Washington, both the President and State Department, have done, are doing and will continue to do all that is in their power to procure the release of Miss Stone.

Want the President to Stop the Supplies.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 8.—A communication received in this city indicates that sympathizers in this country with the Boers are getting ready to appeal to President Roosevelt to stop the sending of supplies from the United States to the British in South Africa. The endless chain plan has been started by the American Transvaal League at Chicago, and sympathizers are sent the following card which they are asked to sign and forward to the President: "Please stop the shipment of horses and mules from New Orleans to Cape Town if possible. Please make England fight fair in South Africa."

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and robs marching of the foot-soreness which is its invariable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed. Times.]

—A post office key awaits an owner at the police office.

—The weather yesterday did not keep the crowd from going to Toronto to see the "Dook."

—A large number of people went to Norwood yesterday to attend the annual fall fair.

—The Norwood fair took place yesterday, and was not as largely attended as usual.

—The local members of the Royal Chorus will leave for Toronto this morning per C.P.R.

—Mr. Sam Ray has won the local golf championship, beating Dr. Eastwood in the finals.

—Mr. A. Devine was banquetted on Tuesday night by the members of the Total Abstinence Society Literary Committee.

—An incipient blaze in Mr. James Mongrain's stable on Queen-st on Wednesday evening was extinguished by a couple of pails of water.

—Mr. W. J. Pearson, the well known horse buyer, secured 25 fine animals in town yesterday, which were shipped to Montreal.

—Several of The Times staff are absent with the volunteers, which accounts for a smaller amount of reading matter than usual to-night.

—The proceeds of the social in aid of the Y.W.C.A., given by the King's Daughters of St. John's church and other young ladies, amounted to $18.71.

—Magistrate Edmison held court at Keene Wednesday, when several young men were charged with disorderly conduct and general disturbance of the peace. The Magistrate heard the evidence and found it insufficient to convict. The cases were dismissed.

—The remains of the late James Scott, of Cartwright, formerly of Keene, and son of the late Adam Scott, who will be remembered as one of the early pioneers of Peterborough, arrived at the C.P.R. depot by the 11.28 train yesterday morning, and were conveyed to Keene cemetery for interment.

—Mr. Geo. Maher had a narrow escape from what would undoubtedly have proven a serious accident a few days ago. He was chopping wood in his back yard when the axe caught in a clothes line overhead, and in the break-away that followed Mr. Maher received quite a cut upon the left ear, necessitating a couple of stitches.

Hon. N. Clarke Wallace's Funeral

The Canadian Pacific Railway will give a rate of single first class fare for the round trip from all stations in Ontario to Woodbridge, good on afternoon trains Friday, Oct. 11 and all trains Saturday, Oct. 12, returning up to and including Monday, Oct. 14, on account of the funeral of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace.

Illiterates Pouring In.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The annual report of Thomas Fitchie, Commissioner of Immigration at New York, shows that the number of aliens arrived at the port of New York during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, was [illegible]. The report says: "The conclusion, unfortunately, is unavoidable that our immigration is constantly increasing in illiteracy. Not only are we drawing more and more from the countries where illiteracy is high, but also the immigrants themselves are showing higher percentages of illiteracy. Nearly one-half of our steerage immigration now presents an illiteracy of from 40 to 50 per cent."

OBITUARY.

Death of One of the Oldest Residents of Otonabee

The death is announced with regret of Isabella Hope, of Allandale, aged 87, widow of the late Richard Short, who died about 15 years ago. The deceased had been indisposed for some time but her immediate death was not expected.

The deceased leaves four daughters and one son, all of whom reside in the vicinity of Allandale.

The funeral will be held tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at two o'clock, from the family residence, Allandale, to the Keene cemetery.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Wm. Brown is recovering rapidly under the care of Dr. Keith.

We regret to hear that Mr. J. H. Lowe has been ill for some time past and hope for his recovery soon. Dr. Keith is the attending physician.

Mr. T. W. McLean left for Toronto on the 4th inst.

Farmers are complaining that potatoes are rotting in the ground. The largest ones are the worst.

The Township Council of Cavan is making improvements on the Middle Line. We have not heard of tenders being called to expend the $200 on the 12th Concession Line in the swamp, east of the Middle Line. Now is the time to have the work done as promised, so that we may have a good winter road made through the swamp.

There are many who will not have sufficient apples for their own use during the winter, winter apples are very scarce.

Miss Ellis and Miss Dean, of Garden Hill, are visitors at the home of Mr. S. Casey.

Lord's Day Alliance.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance, was held Tuesday evening in the Y.M.C.A. Parlours, with the President, Sheriff Hall, in the chair. The other members in attendance were Messrs. Shuck, Harrison, G. M. Roger, G. W. Bennet, W. Yelland and Rev. J. P. Wilson. After a practical talk by Rev. J. G. Shearer, the election of officers took place, with the following result:

President—Sheriff Hall.
Vice-President—S. R. Armstrong.
Secretary-Treasurer—R. Harrison.

The ministers of the town were elected vice-presidents ex-officio.

DOUBTERS

Can be Changed by Knowledge

If there is any doubt about making brain power by the use of certain food, the doubter should make the following experiment.

Helen Frances Huntington, of Gainesville, Ga., says: "Just a word of commendation concerning Grape-Nuts, which I have found to be the most wholesome, nourishing and appetizing food that has ever come to my knowledge.

I am not a dyspeptic, but being constantly engaged in severe brain work I found that I did not thrive on ordinary diet; even a moderate dinner dulled my brain so as to be practically incapable of critical work. I tried meat-juice, peptonoids, the two meal system of light breakfast and no supper, which brought on nervous depletion and sleeplessness, so I resorted to one and another of the various health-foods which all seemed alike tasteless and valueless as a brain food, until, quite by chance, I had a dish of Grape-Nuts food served as a dessert. I liked it so well that I began to use it daily, for supper four teaspoonful in a saucer of hot milk, eaten before it dissolves to mushiness.

This point should be remembered as, after a certain time, evaporation seems to affect the sweet nutty flavor of the food as in the case of certain fine-flavored fruits.

The result in my case was simply astonishing. I had no desire whatever for sweet pastrys, meat or in fact anything else, and my brain was as clear and active at night as on awaking from a long, refreshing sleep.

The peculiar advantage about Grape-Nuts food is that it supplies the nutritive qualities of a varied diet without the bad results of heavy eating. I cheerfully recommend its use to all brain workers, if not as an exclusive diet, certainly for the last meal of the day. I always take it with me when travelling, which saves a deal of annoyance and discomfort."

THE GOLF EGOTIST

Written by our Printers' Devil and Dedicated to the man the Cap fits

My head is mighty big, so 'tis, I'll bet a fig,
A politician staunch and true,
And upon the golf club ticket, my autograph I'd stick it,
For any game both old or new.
I sought for recognition, but alas! got no position,
'Cause they played me false and I was done up brown.
At which members witty shed briny tears of pity,
The day that John the Mighty was turned down.

Not man could be found wiser than myself, the Supervisor—
The Club I greatly dignify, I know,
For I give a good solution of the laws and constitution
Of golfing did I get but half a show,
At the golf links' agitation more than any legislation.
Makes the man who is a lobster or a clown;
Rounds made by club bosses were played all o'er with crosses,
The day that John the Mighty was turned down.

A great event in hist'ry, no dead man's dreams nor myst'ry—
The sky aloft assumed a sable hue;
Saint and sinner swiftly spurted, each highway was deserted,
Lightning flashed and down in torrents fell the dew,
While in river, lake and ocean, waves tossed in wild commotion.
'And the hoodoo man strode roughshod through the town;
Wage earners were offended, and business all suspended,
The day that John the Mighty was turned down.

Now they call me a back number, and say, "John go take a slumber,
And dream about the happy days of yore.
Ere age had made you nervous, you rendered active service
To our party—but now, John, you are a bore."
Oh, shade of Tory faction, what think you of this action?
Protest I know you did with angry frown.
That dirge, I heard you chant it, from the manure pile where you're planted,
The day that John the Mighty was turned down.

A SMITH WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Margaret McKee and Mr Walter McKee.

A very interesting social event took place at "Maple Grove," the residence of Mr. Joseph McKee, Smith, on Wednesday, when his daughter, Miss Margaret, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter McKee, North Monaghan. Ferns and autumn flowers were used to decorate the interior of the house. The bridal party entered the drawing room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. R. Davidson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Campbell, of Lakefield, in the presence of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

The bride wore a pretty gown of white organdie trimmed with chiffon, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Edythe Tully, wore a gown of white and carried roses. The groom was supported by Mr. J. Middleton, of Monaghan.

After hearty congratulations had been extended to the happy couple, the wedding lunch was served, at the conclusion of which Mr. and Mrs. McKee drove to town and took the 5.50 train for Buffalo. On their return they will take up residence on 1st line, North Monaghan. The Times extends congratulations.

LOCAL LEGAL.

Mr. Justice Street Reserves Judgment in Mr. Thos. Harris's Action Against the Aetna Fire Insurance Co.

A case of much local interest was concluded in the Civil Assizes at Toronto yesterday, when Mr. Justice Street reserved judgment in the action of Thomas Harris, of Peterborough, to recover $2000 the amount of an insurance policy which he carried with the Aetna Fire Insurance Co. Barrie's premises were destroyed by fire on March 2nd, 1901, and his stock was damaged to the extent of $4,061.98.

The company refused to pay because they claimed the proof of loss under the policy misrepresented the value of property destroyed. The allegations of fraud and misrepresentation were thrown out as without foundation, and Mr. Justice Street's decision as to the amount payable by the Insurance Co. will probably be given in a few days.

The trial was commenced on Tuesday afternoon, October 1, and was not concluded till yesterday afternoon. Seven other companies are interested in the outcome of this case.

Held Him to His Bargain.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 9. — Yesterday a marriage took place near here which was something of a curiosity. A farmer named Winebloom, from near Guelph, Ontario, came here for the first time his fiancee, Mary Rearden, of Metamora, and after some difficulties the couple were married. The courtship was conducted entirely by letter, the woman having answered an advertisement for a wife.

Apparently she dealt quite frankly with her correspondent on all subjects but that of age, for when Winebloom, who confesses to forty-one years, saw his bride-elect, who is fifty, he was about to retreat from the contract, but changed his mind when convinced that his bride had a $1,000 bank account. Winebloom is an unsophisticated farmer, who has probably never been off the farm a dozen times. They left on the car for Air Line Junction last night to be married at the home of a cousin of the bride.

POTATOES ARE DEAR.

Heavy Rains Cause a Rot to Set In—Prices Advancing.

Farmers throughout the country are much disappointed in the potato crop. There is universally what is known as potato rot, caused by the heavy rains. At times during the summer there was so much water from rains that the potatoes could not be hoed. Then the water settling down quickly, the ground drying was caked so hard that the hoe could not possibly be used. As a result potatoes taken from the ground are to a large extent rotten or so affected that they will not keep. This is what accounts for them selling at 60c and 65c. per bag a month since. Farmers wanted to get rid of them as they would not keep. Now the price is 75 cents a bag, with every prospect of an increase. Such is the condition of affairs that some farmers realizing that it would not pay them, have not dug up their fields of potatoes at all.

WEDDING BELLS.

Marriage of Miss Genevieve Winnifred Amey and Mr. E. Bruce Fowler.

Yesterday afternoon a very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. H. Amey, 43 London street, when her daughter, Miss Genevieve Winnifred, was united in marriage to Mr. Edward Bruce Fowler, of the Toronto branch of the Bank of Toronto, who was connected with the local branch of the bank about six years ago. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the George street Methodist church, in the presence of only a few intimate friends of the family. The parlour was tastefully decorated with palms, smilax and white asters.

The bride was prettily attired in white organdie trimmed with white satin ribbons, and her bridesmaid, Miss Kate Fowler, sister of the groom, was similarly gowned. Mr. J. A. MacLaren, of Barrie, assisted the groom.

After a charming wedding dejeuner was served, Mr. and Mrs. Fowler left for a trip west, and will take up their residence in Toronto on their return.

AUSTRALIAN PROTECTION

Commonwealth Tariff Bill Introduced in Federal House.

Melbourne, Oct. 9—In the Federal House of Representatives to-day the Commonwealth tariff bill was introduced by the Right Hon. Charles Cameron Kingston, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who congratulated the House that from this moment free trade existed among the states of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Kingston explained that the new tariff would be on lines of moderate protection.

He announced that the government intended to introduce a system of bonuses instead of encouraging the establishment of new industries, especially in the case of locally smelted iron and locally made machinery.

Stop Thief!

would be a justifiable cry directed against the countless humbugs that offer a cure for Catarrh. There is only one scientific method of treatment for Catarrh. Make the air you breathe the carrier of healing, balsamic, curative agents. It bathes every inch of mucous membranes with its healing, soothing properties. That's Catarrhozone. Your druggist or doctor will tell you it's the only effective method of treatment and that it is sure—prompt — permanent. Remember the name Catarrhozone. All dealers, 25c. and $1.00.

Mr. George Forbes Follows Mr. Carnegie's Example.

Ottawa, Oct., 9.—An imitator of Andrew Carnegie has turned up in Mr. George Forbes, wholesale merchant, of Montreal, who has offered to erect a building in the village of Newington, near Cornwall, equip it with a library, smoking room and gymnasium if the people of Newington and the vicinity will agree to supply books and papers and keep the building open at all times at their own expense. A Committee of Management has been appointed and subscribed $50 at the initial meeting.

TALKING ABOUT A STRIKE.

Seven Thousand Coal Miners May be Called Out in Pennsylvania

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 10—The District Board of the United Mine Workers meets here tomorrow to consider the advisability of calling out on strike 7,000 men employed at thirteen collieries.

The Scranton Coal Company is controlled by the Ontario and Western Railroad. Last week the men went on strike on account of the card examination grievance. This was settled, but General Manager Bryden refused to open the colliery. The men are highly incensed over the lockout, and indications are that the board will countenance a general strike to force the reopening of the Pine Brook mine.

General Manager Bryden is evidently acting under instructions from President Fowler, of the Ontario and Western, who has refused to recognize the union and announce that operations would be resumed at the Company's pleasure.

REMARKABLE ANNOUNCEMENT.

We see by the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, that this season they are offering their readers no less than three valuable pictures, and the subjects elected are certainly worthy of that great family paper. Real good pictures of our new King and Queen are very opportune, and it goes without saying that the Family Herald's pictures are the best extant. They are each 18 x 24 inches, taken since the accession to the throne, and bearing the King's and Queen autograph. Being the first taken after the accession, they are sure to be handed down from generation to generation with the tradition; those of the King and Queen were the first pictures taken after they came to the throne. The third picture is a genuine surprise for Canadians, for it is these the publishers of the Family Herald have shown remarkable enterprise. All our readers heard of the renowned Gainsborough picture, the Duchess of Devonshire. It has a remarkable history. Stolen in England 25 years ago, brought to America, hidden for 25 long years and delivered to its rightful owners on payment of a reward of $25,000, and since sold to J. Pierpont Morgan for $75,000 cash. Canadians will be delighted to know that the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star secured the right to furnish their readers with copies, true to the original, of that renowned painting. The Family Herald's picture is 22 x 28, in ten rich colours, a perfect gem of a picture. Copies of the renowned Gainsborough sell in New York for twelve dollars each. When it is known that each subscriber will receive that great family paper, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, and the three pictures, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and the renowned Duchess of Devonshire, all for one dollar, there is bound to be a big demand for the Family Herald this season, and there should be, for it certainly is the biggest dollar's obtainable.

KEKEWIGH AND DELAREY MEET ON OLD BATTLE FIELD

Col. Baden-Powell, After Relief of Kimberley, Found Delarey at Same Place.

"C" BATTERY TOOK PART IN ENGAGEMENT.

Their Work Favorably Spoken of at That Time—Further Details of the Recent Battle—Cleared Out by Bayonets.

Petoria, Oct. 10.—Further details of the fight between 1,600 Boers under Delarey and Kemp and the British 600 under Colonel Kekewich, the defender of Kimberley, at Moedewell, have been received. The spot is known as the Bloody Triangle, and has been the scene of at least two former engagements in the present war and a terrific fight between the Kaffirs and the whites when the settlers first trekked to that part of the country. In July, 1900, when the force under Baden-Powell was crossing the country after the relief of Mafeking, he had an engagement with Delarey on this very spot, and on the 2nd of November last General Paget drove the enemy from their entrenchments on the northwestern side of the Bloody Triangle. In both of these fights C Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, was engaged, and its work elicited a recommendation in despatches by the officer commanding.

Delarey surprised the camp of Kekewick during the night. The Boers crept noiselessly up the river bed in the darkness and obtained partial command of the apex of the traingular donga, the base of which runs parallel with the Mafeking—Rustenburg road. A patrol of Yeomanry returning after a reconnaissance to the west in the direction of Eland's River was intercepted by the enemy in the drift, who thus prevented their communication with the main camp.

The Boers then attacked the Derbyshire pickets, who defended the approaches from the west to the camp, gallantly but unsuccessfully, at the expense of several men.

The second line of outposts, also composed of Derbyshires, was then attacked and held out heroically until every man was killed or wounded. A picket of the Scottish Horse, under Colonel Dick-Cunningham, stationed on the north of the camp in a donga south of Twee River, fought magnificently and held the post.

The men in the main camp, when the first and natural surprise of an unheralded attack was got over, sprang to their posts with alacrity and forming a firing line facing west, checked the Boers, who were nearly into the British lines.

A couple of companies of the Derbyshires were then despatched around the south of the British line to turn the Boers' left flank. They wheeled right around the camp and arrived without much opposition southeast of the point where the donga joins the river bed. Here they formed in line with the Scottish Horse and thus outflanked the Boers' left. Then the Scottish Horse and these Derbyshires charged the river and donga with fixed bayonets, and with an irresistible rush, cleared the Boers out.

SENT BOERS FLEEING.

Meanwhile the remaining Derbyshires on the British left and the Yeomanry made a similar rush on the river by the drift, and sent the Boers fleeing to the hills west of the river.

At the beginning of the fight, the firing was so hot that it was impossible to use the British artillery, but when the Boers began to retreat the guns rendered effective work. A Maxim gun was served fearlessly by nine of the Derbyshires, all of whom were killed or wounded. All the men fought as they had been instructed and directed.

There were numerous instances of heroism on the part of the British officers and men. After Colonel Kekewich had been hit he got up and stood by the guns, refusing to take cover, and encouraged and directed his men. The flank movement of the Derbyshires showed the remarkably cool direction of the fight.

The Boers lost heavily, especially in the final charges. They asked permission to move their dead, and a lull ensued while both sides were engaged in this work. The Boers carried numbers of their dead off in nets between their horses. It is estimated that fully 300 of the enemy were slain.

It is said that the Boers were greatly disheartened at the outcome of the attack, as they expected to obtain supplies and ammunition instead of being repulsed. Boer prisoners say they expected more from this battle than from years of guerilla fighting.

TUNNELLING THE CHANNEL BETWEEN ENGLAND AND IRELAND

The Tunnel Would Bring Ireland Closer to England.

London, October 11

The long-mooted project of a tunnel between Ireland and Scotland became again the subject of discussion at the International Engineering Congress recently held in the United Kingdom, and was pronounced entirely practicable by such experts as Mr. Barton, Mr. James Mansergh and Sir Douglas Fox. The execution of such a work would probably have important industrial, if not also political, consequences for Ireland, and it would shorten the sea voyage for Americans, many of whom are now deterred from stopping at an Irish port by their unwillingness to cross the Irish Channel.

Mr. Barton, who advocated an immediate prosecution of the scheme, expressed the belief that, in view of the experience gained in the construction of the Simplon tunnel, a submarine tunnel between the coasts of Wigtownshire in Scotland and that of County Antrim in Ireland might be completed and put in working order within a dozen years. Sir Douglas Fox was confident that less trouble would be encountered from incursions of water than had been met with in the case of the tunnel under the Mersey, or that under the Severn.

Mr. James Mansergh, President of the Congress, deemed it probable that there would be actually less trouble from water in a submarine tunnel than in a tunnel nearer the surface of the earth. It was agreed that the problem of ventilation could be solved easily by the use of electric power, a current of fresh air being sent in by a fan at one end and drawn out at the other. The length of the tunnel proposed by Mr. Barton would be 34 1-2 miles, of which 25 would be under the sea, and as it is intended that the trains should run at a speed of from sixty to seventy miles an hour, the time spent in the tunnel would be a little over 30 minutes. According to the figures submitted by engineers and contractors, the cost of constructing the tunnel, exclusive of interest during the progress of the work, would be $50,000,000. The expense could be exactly calculated, if a preliminary "heading," or boring, should be run through the whole 34 miles, or at least from the Irish side past the junction between the sandstone and the Silurian formations. It is suggested by influential newspapers that the British government should guarantee the cost of such preliminary work, which would hardly, in any event, exceed twelve and a half million dollars.

It is evident that such a tunnel would have the commercial effect of an isthmus connecting Belfast and other centres of industrial activity in northeastern Ireland with Glasgow and other seats of manufacturing industry in the Lowlands of Scotland. Between the regions thus brought into land communication the economic solidarity would be speedily developed with unifies the manufacturing districts in the North of England and in the Midlands, and so far as Ulster is concerned, an end would be put to that concentration of thought and hope upon the land which renders it easy to start an agrarian agitation. It is also manifest that the existence of a tunnel might draw Great Britain and Ireland together in a sentimental, as well as an economical sense; for it would cause the Emerald Isle to be visited by multitudes of Englishmen who hitherto have been kept away by the discomforts incident to crossing the Irish Channel. Were the tunnel now advocated to be constructed, a French invasion of Ireland, like that headed by Gen. Humbert in 1798, would lose all its terrors, since an overwhelming British force could be placed in the island, even though a French fleet should be temporarily mistress of the Irish Channel.

Would the construction of a submarine tunnel from Scotland to Ireland, and the resultant existence of a through railway from London cause a concentration of the transatlantic mail and passenger service at some port on the Irish west coast? Such a concentration at Galway was contemplated during the vice-royalty of Lord Carnarvon, and formed the subject of an elaborate inquiry by a committee presided over by Admiral Sir George Nares. There is said to be a consensus of expert opinion against the establishment of a transatlantic terminus on the west coast of Ireland, for the reason that the sea off this coast is to a great extent studded with small islands and points of rock, which in the fogs that prevail there, particularly in winter, render the approach extremely hazardous. No such objection can be brought against Queenstown on the south coast, or against Moville on the north, both of which have long been used as ports of arrival and departure for America.

It is suggested that, should Mr. Barton's plan for a tunnel between the coast of Wigtownshire and that of County Antrim be carried out and prove financially successful, a similar work might be undertaken between Fishguard, immediately north of Milford Haven and Rosslare near Wexford, where the width of the Irish Channel is only forty-five miles. Such a tunnel as the last-named would not only promote industrial development in the south Queenstown route to London by far the quickest and most direct.

THE FIELD FIRING EXPERIMENTS.

General Buller's Remarks at the Recent Exercises at Aldershot

THE ATTACK WAS TOO SLOW.

London, Oct. 10.—General Sir Redvers Buller, in his remarks upon the late field firing exercises at Aldershot, says that officers apparently hardly realized the extent to which the targets offered oportunities for instruction. The principal lines upon which improvement may be effected are pointed out by the general commanding, who makes the following summary:

"The attack on both days was too slow. Nothing is so bad as hurry, but at the same time men ought not to be kept exposed to an enemy's fire longer than can possibly be avoided. Section commanders got too close to their sections, and many of them seemed entirely to forget that they had duties as commanders to perform, and both officers and non-commissioned officers were observed shooting in the firing line, and not looking after their sections or observing their fire, or estimating the range. With regard to the men, they should be taught that when advancing against an enemy in position they should never take their eyes off the place in which they believe their enemy to be. If men stoop their heads while advancing down a slope against an enemy, they do not in that manner make themselves in any degree a less easy target, but they deprive themselves of the opportunity of dropping to the ground the moment the enemy shows himself to fire at them. The essence of the training was to teach the men to fall down and fire the moment the targets appeared, and to advance directly they disappeared. Company commanders also gave their men insufficient instructions.

"On the Fox Hills West, when the enemy's guns were observed firing and shells were bursting right among the attacking troops, no attempt was made to keep down the enemy's artillery fire by long range volleys, though at the moment a peculiarly favorable target was offered. The special idea for the right battalion particularly mentioned that an attempt would be made by the enemy to blow up the railway line. Very few shots, however, were directed at the demolitation party. The scouting was indifferent. Scouts seemed to go out without a clear idea of what they were to go for, and what sort of information they were to send back. They seldom used signals. No company commander appeared to wait for his neighbor on his right or left to commence firing in order to take the moment for the advance of a portion of his own company. It should be accepted as a general rule that to enable infantry to advance within effective ranges against an enemy in position that enemy must be kept under fire by another party of infantry specially ordered to assist in that manner. To ensure this the different company and section commanders must learn to co-operate more than they do at present."

UNITED STATES NAVY.

Nearly 1000 Men Needed to Properly Officer the Ships.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Admiral Crowninshield, as chief of the Bureau of Navigation, has completed his annual report, and it will be submitted to the Secretary of the Navy on Monday. The most important recommendation he makes is with regard to the personnel of the navy. He points out that if a war should break out now about one-half of the American ships would be compelled to lie idle in the shipyards out of commission, because of the lack of officers to take charge of them.

There are about 1,200 officers in the navy now, and nearly an equal number is needed to properly officer the ships now built and in course of building. Admiral Crowninshield, therefore, strongly recommends that immediate steps be taken by Congress to provide the necessary officers by increasing the number of cadets to go yearly to the Naval Academy, and by shortening the course there from six to four years.

SHOT BY UNKNOWN MAN.

Mrs. Carrol Shot in Her Room by Unknown Man.

New York, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Lucy H. Carroll, who lived with her father at 71 South Elliott place, Brooklyn, was shot and seriously wounded by a man known as Captain John B. Nelson. The woman was shot three times. Nelson then shot himself in the right temple and died instantly.

Mrs. Carrol was removed to the Brooklyn hospital, where it was said that there was a chance that she might survive her injuries. She told her story of the tragedy to the police, saying that she did not know the man who had shot her.

"I was awakened," said Mrs. Carroll, "at seeing a man in my room. I was much alarmed and cried: 'What do you want here?'

"Without reply the intruder drew a revolver and fired three times, and then turned and shot himself.

"I do not know him, nor can I imagine why he should have entered my room."

Mrs. Carroll's husband is said to be a soldier in the Philippines.

Valuable Advice to Rheumatics.

Eat meat sparingly and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25c bottle to-day, test it, and see if it is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

Two Negroes Executed at Philadelphia—Bob Fitzsimmons an American Citizen Now—Death of Bishop Burgess—Minor Despatches.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 11—John Connolly, who recently sold his farm near this city for $12,000, drew his money from the bank Saturday. Last night his body was struck by a street car. It is believed he had been given knockout drops, and laid on the track to make it appear that he had been killed by the car.

TWO NEGROES EXECUTED.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11—Henry Ivory and Charles Perry, negroes, were hanged to-day for the murder of Professor White. The drop fell at 10.06 They had been convicted of the murder and robbery of Roy Wilson White, a professor of law in the University of Pennsylvania. Amos Stirling, another negro, is awaiting sentence for complicity in the murder.

WILL ATTACK VARIOUS THINGS.

Chicago, Oct. 11—Football is an excessive exercise, and hunting and fishing as impure sports, will come up for censure, together with anarchy and its doctrine of free love, at the National Purity Convention which opens to-night at the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Theatres will be condemned, and cigarettes will also be attacked. Divorce will be the chief topic of discussion at the final session.

DEATH OF BISHOP BURGESS.

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 8—Right Rev. Alexander Burgess, D. D. L.L. D., Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of Quincy, Ill., died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Royes, in th iscity, early this morning. Death was due to a general breaking down, as the result of old age.

RENOUNCED HIS ALLEGIANCE.

New York, Oct. 11—Robert Fitzsimmons, the pugilist, has made application in Brooklyn for his final naturalization papers. The former champion of the ring was born in Australia. He took out his first citizenship papers three years ago in New Orleans, La.

THE SCHLEY INQUIRY

Washington, Oct 11—After the usual preliminaries in the Schley naval court of inquiry to-day, Lieut. C. W. Dyson, of the Bureau of steam engineering, of the navy department was recalled to continue his testimony regarding the coal supply of Admiral Schley's flying squadron at the time of its arrival of Santiago harbor on May 26, 1898. It was the understanding that when court opened that Commander Richard Wainwright would be the principal witness of the day. During the summer of 1898 Mr. Wainwright commanded the converted yacht Gloucester, which played a conspicuous part in the destruction of the Spanish torpedo boats Pluton and Furor in the battle of July 3rd.

$15,000,000 TAXES IN ONE DAY.

New York, October 11—All records for the collection of taxes in this city were broken yesterday, when $15,000,000 was paid into the city treasury. The first sum to be recorded was the tax on the Vanderbilt estate. This was for $816,000, paid in five separate checks. A Gwynne Vanderbilt is individually responsible for most of this as the residuary legatee of Cornelius Vanderbilt, and is the largest taxpayer on the personal assessment roll. From the Standard Oil Company a check for $180,000 was received, from the Gilsey estate $90,000, from H. Ely's $175,000. The aggregate taxes of the Astor estate are nearly $1,000,000.

A NEW ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

Chicago, Oct. 11—Members of the United States Steel Corporation are behind an electric railway which will run from Benton Harbor to Grand Rapids, Mich., bisecting the richest fruit country of Western Michigan. The corporation will also run two lines of steamers — one from Chicago to Benton Harbor, and the other from Benton Harbor to Milwaukee. The boats are now being built in Toledo, and will have a speed of more than twenty knots an hour. The name of the Corporation is the West Michigan Traction Company. Its capital stock is $1,000,000.

SAYS SHE IS INNOCENT.

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 11—Prof. Russell Elliott, the chemist, has made a report to the coroner on the chemical examination made on twelve drugs found at the home of Mrs. Witwer, who had been arrested, suspected of having committed at least a dozen murders. The chemist failed to find any poison in eleven of the drugs. The other drug will be examined to-day Mrs. Witwer insists that she is innocent. It has been ascertained that her first husband, Luther Swangen, died at Lebanon, Ohio, from small-pox, and that one child of this union also died, there being nothing mysterious about these deaths.

FRESH HORSES FOR THE BOERS

Why the Transvaal War Continues to Drag Along.

WOULD KILL ALL THE HORSES

London, Oct. 10—Thomas Smalley, late Railway Pioneer Regiment, has written to The Standard pointing out why the Transvaal war is dragging on so long. He says: "One feature in official reports which has been repeated ad nauseam is, 'the enemy were beaten, but managed to get away owing to their horses being fresh,' or they were able to pick up remounts on their line of retreat. Here lies the secret; the horse and horse alone is responsible for hostilities being continued. The Boer by heredity and development is a hunter, and as such never willingly will get into a position where he may be cornered and brought to bay. This trial has been further developed during the war, and in my opinion our policy throughout has greatly helped him. When Lord Roberts marched through Pretoria his horses were left behind in thousands on the line of march; after a week or two's rest these horses were in a far better condition than when the march from Bloemfontein began, as they were getting acclimatized. During this time the Boers were merrily taking the oath of neutrality, probably handing in an old flintlock gun, passing through our lines, and finding an abundance of good horses ready for them when they were ready to take the field again. The commando with which De Wet did such mischief in June, 1900, was composed almost wholly of such Boers, mounted on English horses. At this present time, when probably every foot of the late Free State and most of the Transvaal has been swept time and again by our columns, still the enemy are well supplied with horses. How do they get them? Let us take one instance of a horse and cattle camp. I was engaged on Tasibosh Spruit railway bridge for two months, a year ago. The garrison was composed of two or three squadrons of irregular Horse, with a company of King's Royal Rifles Militia, as guard for bridge and working party. Mobile columns were constantly bringing in horses and cattle, and nearly every night horses were being lifted in mobs of ten to fifty. It was impossible to keep the horses and cattle alive without extending the grazing ground beyond the powers of the garrison efficiently to protect. The same thing happens in all camps, and, if the horses could speak, probably some would confess to being taken prisoners a dozen times. There is a remedy for this state of affairs. Every horse which cannot be used by our own forces should be shot where it is found, denuding the whole country of horses. If a horse or horses belong to a loyal or neutral farmer, pay for them, but shoot all. The cost of the war for a month would pay for every horse from the Cape to Zambesi."

GIRL ANARCHIST TARRED.

Young Women in Grand Forks Hotel Punished the Anarchist.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 10.—One of the girls employed in the Crookston hotel, a dishwasher, has anarchistic tendencies and her complacency regarding the fate of President McKinley, together with her open expression of sympathy for Czolgosz, got her into serious trouble recently. She was warned by the other girls in the hotel that she would be treated to a coat of tar and feathers if she did not stop making remarks about the late President and Czolgosz.

She persisted, however, in her remarks, and, one evening, after the day's work had been completed, the dining-room force, re-enforced by other girl employes in the house, forced the door of the offending girl's room and proceeded to apply the promised coat of tar and feathers.

Some of the chambermaids rallied to the aid of the anarchist and a fierce fight ensued. Hair was pulled out, gowns torn to tatters and faces scratched, but the attacking party was finally victorious. They then proceeded with the rest of the program.

TRIBUTES TO N. C. WALLACE.

Press of Montreal Characterizes Him as a Man of Force and Honor.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—The flag on the Orange Hall in this city is at half mast out of respect for the late N. Clarke Wallace. A deputation representing the Montreal district will go to Woodbridge to attend the funeral.

With the exception of La Patrie, Mr. Tarte's organ, the Montreal papers contain kindly notices of the deceased. The Gazette expresses regret at the disappearance of such a strong character character from public life.

The Herald (Liberal) also pays a tribute to the deceased's untiring energy and strong character, and says he was a positive force in the House of Commons.

The Presse, the leading French-Canadian paper, while expressing regret that he should have been allied with Orangemen, pays an eloquent tribute to Mr. Wallace as "a man of the world," an excellent companion, a honest citizen, the good father, and the talented politician, who was such a prominent figure in the country.

"His surroundings," The Presse adds, "made him the leader of the Orangemen, but no spite or hatred will follow him to the tomb."

Rumors are Discredited.

London, Oct. 1.—The King has been forced by adverse rumors respecting his health to follow Queen Victoria's example and allow the public to know what is going on at court. The news is favorable, and tends to discredit the alarming rumors current last week.

CAMP DUKE OF CORNWALL BUSY PLACE YESTERDAY

The Largest Concentration of Troops that Canada Has Ever Seen.

PATHETIC MEETINGS OF MANY OLD COMRADES

Men Who Were Separated by Boer Shot and Shell, or by Enteric Fever Meet on the Exhibition Grounds.

Camp Duke of Cornwall, the largest concentration of volunteers that Canada has ever seen, was bustir early yesterday morning. The soldiers immediately set to work to give their uniforms and accoutrements an appearance befitting a royal reception. They polished their buttons, bayonets, belts, boots—polished everything except the weather, over which even the military have no control. It is safe to say that several hundredweight of button polish, pipeclay and dubbin was distributed this morning over the 8,000 or more suits of clothes and sets of accoutrements of the big army at the grounds. Then the men turned out and practised review movements on the muddy roads and the spongy grass, and had the satisfaction of seeing the results of their hours of labor washed away in a few moments under the weeping sky. The drivers in the artillery were the happiest men on the grounds this morning—the orders for the day did not call for their services to assist in lining the route over which the Duke travelled this afternoon. Ordinarily the lot of a driver of the artillery is considered more laborious than that of any other branch of the service. He turns out in the morning at "Reveille," attends to his team, and generally spends the balance of the day shining harness. To-day, however, he gloated gleefully over the gunners who had their allotted positions on the route.

NOTES OF THE CAMP.

The temporary headquarters of Major J. Lyons Biggar, the officer who has charge of the arrangements for the distribution of the South African war medals, was the scene of an interesting reunion, and many a hearty hand grasp, such as a soldier only can give. Veterans of the veldt and kopje, whose homes are situated in distant parts of the province, as well as Toronto men, gathered in this city to receive their decorations at the hands of the Duke, and many of them who presented themselves for identification met for the first time since they were parted by Boer shot and shell or the deadly enteric fever at the front. They all had stories to exchange, some laughable and others tear-worthy.

A man who came in rather late glanced down the line, and recognizing an old comrade whom he saw last at Reitfontein (there are half a dozen Reitfonteins on the map of South Africa), near Pretoria, exclaimed, Why, there's old Jimmy." A couple of "on to Preteria" strides brought him abreast of Jimmy, who shot out his left hand for the customary salutation.

"Excuse the hand," he said. "Can't offer you any other."

The newcomer looked surprised, and reached down to the end of his old comrade's arm, bringing up a cold steel hook, screwed into an inanimate block of wood.

"Why, didn't you hear about it?" asked Jimmy, noticing the questioning look in his old chum's face. "Well, after you were invalided home with dysentery, those blooming veldt sores on my hand got so bad that I couldn't hold my rifle, so I reported sick. I was put on light duty, and was gathering wood for the cook one day. My hand touched some poisoned leaf, and first thing I knew it was swollen up like a football and they sent me to Cape Town hospital, and from there to Netley. After cutting and jabbing it around until I was nearly crazy with pain, they sawed it off just above the wrist and sent me home to Canada."

This man's name appeared not among the "woundeds" in the laurel embellished casualty despatches from South Africa, but he spilled his blood and lost a limb for the Empire, just the same.

Sergeant Charlie Bond, who went out with C Battery, and enlisted in Howard's Scouts, told the story of the death of Duncan Macgregor and W. J. Hammond, both Toronto boys, at Harstefabricken.

"Did you bring home their effects with you?"

"No, the Boers stripped them of everything," was the reply.

Provost Marshal Captain Montgomery and his assistant, Sergeant Freemantle of the Royal Grenadiers, have had very little work to do at the grounds. Considering the especially large number of men on the grounds and the many temptations offered young soldiers when away from home, perhaps for the first time, of becoming intoxicated, the camp has been a particularly orderly one. Only three drunks were brought in yesterday by the Provost's men.

The camp postoffice, which is in charge of Capt. Ecclestone, the South African P. O. veteran, is run entirely apart from the general office. A special stencil is used by the military clerks at the special office. Envelopes bearing this stamp will probably be much sought for as souvenirs of the royal visit.

MILITARY LAW IN CAPE COLONY.

Result of Spriggs' Conference With Milner and Kitchener.

A VERY PAINFUL NECESSITY.

Cape Town, Oct. 10.—Martial law was proclaimed in the Gazette today, to take effect in the districts of Cape Town, Wynberg, Simonstown, Port Elizabeth, and East London. This places under military control the few districts in Cape Town hitherto exempted, and the civil constitution is therefore now suspended over the entire colony. The action is looked upon as foreshadowing the commencement of vigorous measures which those in authority realize as necessary to end the war. The docks and railroads will still be controlled by the civic authorities.

This, then, is the result of the conference of Lord Milner, General Kitchener, Sir John G. Sprigg, Governor of Cape Colony, and Under-Secretary McInnes, the object of which was the subject of much speculation. On the whole the proclamation has been received as an unwelcome necessity by the people.

One of the results of the extension of military rule will be that the censorship will prevail not only in the telegraph station but in the postoffice.

FOUR MINERS CRUSHED.

An Air Blast Caused Tons of Rock to Fall on Them.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 10.—Three miners were instantly killed by falling rock in No. 6 shaft Quincy Mine, Hancock, 4,000 feet under ground, yesterday. An air blast loosened many tons of rock to fall on the men, crushing them badly. The victims were brought to the surface, but nothing could be done for them. The dead: Alfred Gale, aged 46, married, leaves widow and seven children; Alfred G. Gale, son, aged 18; Fred Parsons, single, aged 28; Albert Lamb, a miner in the Groveland mine, Iron Mountain, was killed by a fall of rock. He was about 38 years of age.

HAD ENOUGH OF THE SHAMROCK.

New York Yacht Club Declines Sir Thomas Lipton's Offer.

NO CHANGES IN THE RULES.

New York, Oct. 9.—The New York Yacht Club today formally declined Sir Thomas Lipton's proposal to race the Shamrock II. again next summer for the America's Cup. A joint meeting of the committees of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club and of the New York Yacht Club was held today at the club-house, and Sir Thomas' proposition submitted by Vice-Commodore Sharman-Crawford. He stated that his committee, on behalf of Sir Thomas, desired to ask if the New York Yacht Club would withdraw in favor of the Shamrock II. that paragraph of the deed of gift providing that "No vessel which has been defeated in a match for this cup can be again selected by any club as its representative until after a contest for it by some other vessel has intervened, or until after the expiration of two years from time of such defeat." He also stated that in the event of this request being acceded to, should a challenge for next year be received from any one else, Sir Thomas would withdraw his challenge.

New Ameer is Pro-British.

Calcutta, Oct. 10.—The Indian Office has been officially notified of the Ameer's decease. All the nobles present at the deathbed swore allegiance to his eldest son, Habibulla Khan, and the British. Before passing away, he warned the Afghans against Russia. There is no panic in India over the succession, as the [illegible] pro-English opinions.

Weather Notes.

Friday: Fair and moderately warm.

Heavy rain has fallen in the northern portions of Ontario and Quebec and scattered showers have occurred in more southern districts. The weather is fair, and warm from Ontario to the Maritime Provinces, and cool in Manitoba and the Territories.

THE NEW AMEER

The accession of Habib Ullah Khan as Ameer of Afghanistan is announced, and hopes are entertained that the death of his father will not prejudicially affect British interests. Ever since the death of Timour and the accession of Zemaun in 1793, Afghanistan has been a cause of trouble to Britain. Zemaun conceived the idea of consolidating the Mohammedan power in India, and Sir John Malcolm was sent to the frontier to keep the Afghans in check. Dynastic quarrels helped the British cause for many years, but in 1838 it was found necessary to declare war, and an Anglo-Indian army, under Sir John Keane, marched toward Sinde. On February 20th, 1839, the British passed the Indus, and on April 25th entered Candahar. Dost Mohammed surrendered in October, 1840, and was sent to India, but insurrections followed during the whole of 1841, and the cost of the war, both in men and money, was enormous. An offensive and defensive alliance with England was concluded in 1856. Since that time the main effort has been to sustain the authority of one ruler against the various aspirants for the leadership, Afghanistan being regarded as a buffer state between Russia and India. The claims of the new Ameer will doubtless be disputed, and it will devolve upon him to keep his place, with Britain's help, against all comers.

FRASERVILLE

Miss Pue, of Keene, has been visiting Fraserville friends.

The Messrs. R. Armstrong, F. and J. Clark and others visited the Pan American recently. Mrs Laing, of Centreville, we understand, went a second time.

Perhaps there wasn't great rejoicing at the cheese factory when Mrs. Cline returned from her visit in the western peninsula.

Mrs. Richardson has been enjoying a visit among her friends. What makes him look so glum?

About a week ago Mr. George Bothwell's house was burned. Even the pump was destroyed. We are sorry for his loss. No insurance.

Some of our volunteers have left for Toronto for the Duke's reception. They seemed to be in high spirits.

The school was closed three days last week owing to sickness of the teacher.

Underground London.

At last we have an authoritative pronouncement on the rumors of cracks in St. Paul's, and the consequent alarm about tube schemes. Mr. Somers Clarke, architect to the dean and chapter of St. Paul's, sends a long letter to The London Times from which I quote, writes a London correspondent:

Within the first hundred years after the structure of the cathedral was finished the immense weight resting on the foundations of the eight piers which carry the dome and on the foundations of its abutments caused those parts of the structure to sink a little.

The settlement thus caused has broken the arches and the windows of the clerestory over them in the nave, the choir and the north and south transepts, where they abut on the dome piers.

In the same way the great weight of the western towers has caused them to sink. In sinking they have cracked the west front in a vertical direction through the great door, the window above and the vaulted ceiling of the portico. They have also cracked through the wall of the chapel to the east.

Some 30 years ago the Metropolitan District Railway was made under Queen Victoria street, cutting a large gash along the southern slope of the hill on which the cathedral stands.

Below the Underground Railway there has since been pierced the tube for the Waterloo and City Railway. How far this is down in the London clay I do not know.

Those who have studied earth movements, the result of deep excavations, know that a great deal of dislocation takes place in a line diagonally right and left of the parts excavated.

During the last 20 years fresh indications of settlement have been showing themselves in the walls of the church. The movements are still in progress.

But now comes the attack on the electric railways. One of these—the Victoria, City and Southern Electric Railway—proposes to come under the churchyard, taking a line between the cathedral and the great warehouses on the south. The line of the tube or tunnel would be about 100 feet from the southwest tower, and 50 to 60 feet from the south transept.

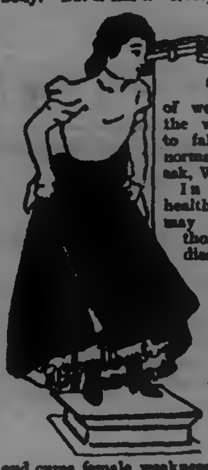
"One Foot in the Grave."—If the thousands of people who rush to so worthy a remedy as South American Nervine as a last resort would get it as a first resort, how much misery and suffering would be spared. If you have any nerve disorder you needn't suffer a minute longer. A thousand testimonies to prove it.—38 Sold by R. H. Rimmon.

WOMAN'S WEIGH



Does not always keep pace with woman's will. There are energetic, home-loving women who by sheer force of will keep themselves going, and fancy that strength of will can take the place of strength of body. But it can't. Every day will see a loss of strength, and that loss will be indicated by a loss of weight. When the weight begins to fall below the normal it is time to ask, Why?

In general, ill health in women may be traced to those womanly diseases which sap the strength and undermine the vitality. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. Where the disease is marked by loss of flesh, there is a steady regaining of weight coincident with the cure which proves the renewal of health to be thorough and permanent.

"Three years ago," writes Mrs. John Graham, of 2018 Plumb Street (Frankford), Philadelphia, Penna. "I had a very bad attack of dropsy which left me with heart trouble, and also a very weak back. At times I was so bad that I did not know what to do with myself. I came to Philadelphia two years ago, and picking up one of your little books one day began to read what your 'Favorite Prescription' had done for others. I determined to try it myself. I took seven bottles, and to-day I am a strong, well woman, weighing 160 pounds. Have gained 10 pounds since I started to use your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

REMARKABLE ANNOUNCEMENT.

We see by the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, that this season they are offering their readers no less than three valuable pictures, and the subjects elected are certainly worthy of that great family paper. Real good pictures of our new King and Queen are very opportune, and it goes without saying that the Family Herald's pictures are the best extant. They are each 18 x 24 inches, taken since the accession to the throne, and bearing the King's and Queen autograph. Being the first taken after the accession, they are sure to be handed down from generation to generation with the tradition; those of the King and Queen were the first pictures taken after they came to the throne. The third picture is a genuine surprise for Canadians, for it is there the publishers of the Family Herald have shown remarkable enterprise. All our readers heard of the renowned Gainsborough picture, the Duchess of Devonshire. It has a remarkable history. Stolen in England 25 years ago, brought to America, hidden for 25 long years and delivered to its rightful owners on payment of a reward of $25,000, and since sold to J. Pierpont Morgan for $75,000 cash. Canadians will be delighted to know that the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star secured the right to furnish their readers with copies, true to the original, of that renowned painting. The Family Herald's picture is 22 x 28, in ten rich colours, a perfect gem of a picture. Copies of the renowned Gainsborough sell in New York for twelve dollars each. When it is known that each subscriber will receive that great family paper, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, and the three pictures, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and the renowned Duchess of Devonshire, all for one dollar, there is bound to be a big demand for the Family Herald this season, and there should be, for it certainly is the biggest dollar's obtainable.

THE LAST HOPE GONE

London, October 10—The Cape Town correspondent of the Times writes: The Rev. Mr. Botha, the Dutch minister at Richmond, has written a letter to the civil commissioner of Richmond from the refugee camp at Vredefort Road, Orange River Colony, under date August 10, explaining the true position of affairs, in order to enlighten his congregation and fellow Cape Colonists. He says:

"A futile resistance cannot any longer be dignified by the name of war. The Boers still fighting have forfeited the sympathy of the Dutch Cape Colonists by the heartless way in which they have misled the people. They have told the colonists that their case was never more hopeful, whereas they know too well that it never was more hopeless. The presence of the commandos in the colony and the continued resistance is a crime, because, while there is nothing to gain, it simply is ruin for others who have no quarrel with them or the British."

Mr. Botha solemnly states that unless God works a miracle, the Boers will never regain their independence, and that, moreover, the feeling of the majority of the inhabitants is that there is nothing else to do but to submit to the inevitable with a good grace. Continuing, he says: "I have spoken to many surrendered burghers, who have fought manfully, but have given in like honest men when they saw the hopelessness of their case, and they all state that, with the present bitter feelings of those who are still fighting towards those who have surrendered, a civil war is sure to break out if the British do not stay. I earnestly beseech the people not to close their ears against everyone who recognizes the inevitable, and not to try to dispose of the matter by calling such people jingoes, traitors or bribed."

Referring to the refugee camps, Mr. Botha says that the commandos still in the colony have to some extent misled the Dutch by drawing harrowing pictures of the ill-treatment and sufferings of the people in the camps, putting forth such misrepresentations for the purpose of fanning the flame of rebellion in the colony. Mr. Botha says that there have been hardships, but that no needless suffering has been inflicted. He considers that the camps are not only an absolute necessity, but a real kindness. If peace were declared tomorrow and the people were sent away, hundreds would die. Mr. Botha also says that nothing so agreeably surprised and disarmed his prejudices, as the kindly feeling of the British toward the Dutch, from the administrator downwards. All the officials displayed not only genuine interest in the people, but an evident desire to smoothe over all ill-feeling and let bygones be bygones.

TRENT CANAL

TENDERS FOR WATER POWER.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tenders for Water Power," will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on the 21st day of October, 1901, for water power at Dam 5, between Peterborough and Lakefield.

The conditions and Form of Tender may be seen and obtained on and after the 30th day of September, 1901, at this Office and at the Office of the Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal, at Peterborough, Ont.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the Tender the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further an accepted bank cheque for the sum of $2,000 must accompany the Tender. This accepted bank cheque must be endorsed over to the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to execute the lease for the water power strictly in accordance with the terms expressed in the conditions.

The accepted cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the highest or any tender.

By Order,
L. K. JONES
Secretary.

CANADA IS NOT A NATION

Toronto, Oct. 9.—Goldwin Smith in The Weekly Sun says: Sir Wilfrid Laurier says that Canada is not a colony but a nation. With her population, her extent of territory, and her resources, Canada has in her the making of no mean nation. She surpasses in these respects Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, and Portugal; to say nothing of the Danubian Principalities or the South American Republics. But no community, however great, can be a nation while it lacks the sovereign power, while its constitution is imposed on it from without, while it is incapable of treating on its own account with foreign nations. On the road to nationality Canada may have been, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party, by turning her face towards Imperial Federation have been doing their utmost to make her retrace her steps. Imperial Federation may be a grand idea, but it means the renunciation of independence. About that there ought to be no mistake.

Our Dominion is not self-existent and sovereign; it is a body constituted by the British North American Act, and can have no powers but such as are given it directly or by implication by that Act. Sovereign power has not been conferred upon it.

Power of expropriation is essential to certain purposes of government, and with it every Government should naturally be invested. Yet it is easier to say this than to say by what right the Government of the Canadian Dominion or that of any Canadian Province exercises the power. There seems to be nothing in the British North American Act by which the power is directly conferred. Blackstone speaks of expropriation in the most serious tone, as a high and perilous attribute of sovereign authority, to be employed with the utmost circumspection, since it trenches on that right of property which it is the object of all government to preserve. It is natural to surmise that the power would not have been deliberately conferred without limitations safeguarding its exercise. The power of taking a man's property otherwise than with full compensations impartially adjudged is not one to be assumed without authority or conferred without circumspection.

$43,959 FOR MISS STONE

Boston, Oct. 10.—With receipts coming in from many quarters the fund for the ransom of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary captured by brigands in Turkey, at 11 o'clock yesterday had reached $27,000. At noon it was $43,959.

Miss Stone's ransom is $110,000. Unless it is paid by to-morrow, the brigands say they will put her to death. The Boston churches began the movement to raise the ransom last Saturday.

Washington, Oct. 7—It is not probable that the kidnappers of Miss Stone will enforce their ultimatum to-morrow, although that was the date named as the last day of grace in her case. The danger is by no means averted, and the most that can be said now is that there is a likelihood of securing a short extension by the brigands for the time allowed for the payment of the ransom. The State Department is busying itself earnestly in this direction, evidently acting under the belief that in the course of two or three days the charitable people of the United States will make up the fund necessary to secure Miss Stone's release.

Mr. Adee, the acting Secretary of State was again at the White House to-day in consultation with the President touching Miss Stone's case and it is believed that negotiations are in progress indirectly with her captors. Meanwhile the White House and the State Department are flooded by letters and telegrams imploring the officials to save Miss Stone.

Prospectus United Factories Limited

Objects of the Company.

The Charter of the "United Factories has been obtained and Stock issued to acquire as going concerns, the Brush, Broom and Woodenware businesses of the well-known and long-established firms of Boeckh Bros. & Company, of Toronto and Montreal.

Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, Newmarket.
Thomas Bryan, London, Ontario.

including all properties, leaseholds, real estate, plant and machinery, stock-in-trade manufactured and in process of manufacture, timber limits (many years' supply), trade marks, patents, and in fact every asset of the three businesses except book debts and bills receivable, AND THUS THE NEW COMPANY TAKES UP THE WHOLE BUSINESS AND CONTINUES THE SAME WITHOUT INTERRUPTION OR CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Accountants' Certificate.

"We hereby certify that we have examined the books and accounts of Boeckh Bros. & Company, and Thomas Bryan, for the years 1898 and 1899, and the Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, for the years 1897, 1898 and 1899, and find that the combined average yearly net profits amount to $15,659.91. All expenses, including bad and doubtful debts, allowance for depreciation of plant and equipment at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and also salary for management, have been charged in arriving at these profits.

"As stocks had been taken at varying dates, it is impossible to show in tabular form the profits earned yearly. We find, however, that the sales have increased OVER 52 PER CENT DURING THE PAST FOUR YEARS, and these three businesses ARE YEAR BY YEAR INCREASING THEIR PROFITS.

"A. C. NEFF, F.C.A.,
WILTON C. EDDIS, F.C.A.,
Chartered Accountants."

Toronto, May 21st, 1901.

NOTE.—It will be observed that, after deducting Management salaries, all expenses, providing for bad and doubtful debts, and annually writing off 7 per cent. for depreciation of plant, the net profits have been at the rate of $15,659.91 per annum. In consequence of increased business of the past nine months it is estimated that the net profits for the current year will be over $50,000, and continue to largely increase, so that the $28,000 required to pay the 7 per cent. dividends upon the First Preference Stock is more than assured.

Distribution of Profits--Reserve Account.

THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is entitled to preferential (cumulative) dividends of 7 per cent. per annum payable QUARTERLY on MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER and DECEMBER the FIRST.

Of the remaining profits, not less than 10 per cent nor more than 20 per cent thereof, shall be transferred to a reserve account to better ensure the above mentioned dividends (to be used in the business of the Company), and this policy is to be continued until the reserve reaches 20 per cent. of the First Preference Stock issued and outstanding, at which sum it will be maintained, and if drawn upon will in like manner be restored.

THE SECOND PREFERENCE STOCK is non-cumulative and is entitled to divide out of the then remaining profits up to 5 per cent. per annum payable yearly. After which all three Stocks—FIRST AND SECOND PREFERENCE AND COMMON—are entitled to PARTICIPATE EQUALLY in any further profits of each fiscal year.

In the event of the liquidation or dissolution of the Company the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is to be paid in full before anything can be paid on the Second Preference, and the SECOND PREFERENCE then stands next for payment in full before anything can be paid on the COMMON STOCK.

These provisions make the First Preference Stock unusually attractive, as its own 7 per cent. (cumulative) dividends and safety are not only guarded, but the Directors of the Company believe it WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING LARGER DIVIDENDS IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME.

Management of the Company.

The Directors and Managers of the Company are gentlemen of standing and LONG EXPERIENCE in this class of business, inasmuch as all of them were INSTRUMENTAL in making the old firms such a SUBSTANTIAL SUCCESS and their goods so favorably known from one end of Canada to the other.

Working Capital, Etc.

In addition to the other assets of the old businesses, the Company, after all adjustments are made, will have a working capital of $125,000, besides $100,000 of First Preference Stock in the treasury; will have no liabilities, mortgages, OR DEBTS OF ANY KIND, and will possess a UNION OF THE THREE BUSINESSES PROFITABLY ESTABLISHED FOR UPWARDS OF FORTY YEARS, during all of which time the manufactured goods and standing of the firms were of the highest class.

Toronto Stock Exchange.

Application will be made in due course to have the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the usual way.

Letter from Mr. Emil C. Boeckh.

Attention is directed to the annexed letter from MR. EMIL C. BOECKH, OF TORONTO, the President and General Manager of the Company:

Toronto, Sept. 28th, 1901.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Vice-President and General Manager,
The Union Trust Company, Toronto.

"Dear Sir,—In connection with the issue of the Prospectus and Stock of UNITED FACTORIES LIMITED, it may prove of interest to add a few words as to "WHY WE UNITE."

"The primary object has been to give permanence to a line of industries which have grown up with the country, and which through consolidation will continue to grow without fear of the interruptions which are liable to occur in an ordinary company or partnership business.

"These industries are, in their very nature, difficult ones to establish, requiring technical knowledge, perfect organization and careful attention to details, so that the possibility of undesirable competition is reduced to a minimum.

"Arrangements have been made to retain the present managers, who are all interested very largely in the financial success of the Company through holdings of shares acquired in the transfer of their respective businesses.

"Through many years' connection in the markets of the world, for the buying of Bristles, Broom Corn and other raw material, and possessing important timber limits, through which its lumber is acquired at first cost, and through extensive additions to its plant already made, the Company will be in a position to greatly increase its business and profits in the future.

"An important objective point which the new Company will achieve is the manufacturing and marketing of a better article than has been possible in the past, and AT NO INCREASE IN COST.

"There are no articles in general use better known to the trade and consumers in Canada than BOECKH'S STANDARD BRUSHES AND BROOMS, BRYAN'S LONDON BRUSHES, AND CANE'S NEWMARKET WOODENWARE, and the Company holds a most valuable asset in these well and favorably known brands. BRUSHES, BROOMS and WOODENWARE are in demand in every home, warehouse, factory, mill, stable and public building, and on boats, railways, farms, etc., and are distributed through dealers in hardware, paints and oils, groceries, harness, drugs, etc., and the Company has a very strong connection with the leading houses in these lines. Owing to the rapid development of the packing industries of the Dominion, both for export and for home consumption, the Company is assured of a CONSTANTLY INCREASING TRADE with pork packers, confectioners, canners and manufacturers of pickles, paints, oils, varnishes, syrups and jams, all of whom are very large consumers of wooden packages of all kinds.

"JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING, one of the secrets of modern business success, will form an important feature in the policy of the Company.

"It is a well-known fact that after passing a certain point, AND WHICH WE HAVE PASSED, increased business can be done with comparatively little extra expense, thus assuring greater profits while the retail prices are not disturbed.

"THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is strictly a safe investment, which will earn a practically guaranteed dividend of 7 per cent., and owing to the provisions made for participation in further profits, and judging from our steadily increasing business, I AM OF OPINION THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK IN A REASONABLE TIME WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING 8 PER CENT. AND HIGHER. Yours very truly, EMIL C. BOECKH."

Subscriptions for Stock.

The Directors and their associates HAVE TAKEN $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. It is their intention TO HOLD THE STOCK, and in the meantime have mutually agreed in writing to withhold it from the market. They have also taken the whole of the Second Preference Stock, THUS LEAVING ONLY $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK for sale, and which is now offered for public subscription.

Terms of Subscription.

A deposit of 5 per cent. is to be made on application, 25 per cent. on allotment, and the balance in two instalments of 35 per cent. each in one and two months respectively from date of allotments, but subscribers may make payments in advance, and will be entitled to dividends from such advanced dates. If no allotment is made the deposit will be returned without deduction, and if a partial allotment is made the deposit will be applied towards the payments of the instalments. The first dividend for the broken period and a quarter will be made on March 1st, 1902.

Subscriptions Received.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, IS AUTHORIZED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SHARES OF THE SAID $200,000 FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. Application may be made personally or by ORDINARY LETTER, addressed to the Union Trust Company, Limited, Temple Building, Toronto. Make all cheques payable to said Company. The books will be closed within seven days.

BOER'S HOPELESS APPEAL.

New York, Oct 10.—The Sun says: We have been requested to publish the subjoined letter, sent primarily to the President of the United States:

HEXTON VICARAGE.

Hitchen, England, Sept. 26, 1901.—Mr. President: In venturing to address your Excellency on the subject of the war in South Africa I am voicing the feelings and wishes of thousands of my countrymen, and I am prompted by the single desire to see the end of this awful and useless bloodshed.

Nearly half of the people of England have from the first felt this war to be unnecessary, disgraceful and unjust. These feelings have been intensified by the methods pursued by our Government—farm burnings, concentration camps, savage proclamations contrary to the usages of warfare. We feel as patriots that these things are bringing an indelible disgrace on the English name.

We therefore venture to solicit your friendly intervention to put a stop to this warfare. We speak not only on behalf of the Boers of South Africa, but on behalf of our own country. The continuance of the struggle is to us ruinous and disastrous, and we shall not long be able to endure the drain in men and money. It would make your term of office a glorious record if you could, by a vigorous and determined intervention, which our present weak Government would not dare to defy, secure the cessation of this bloodshed, and the granting of reasonable terms to the Boers.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,
R. C. FILLINGHAM

To his Excellency the President of the United States.

Appeals are pouring in upon Mr. Roosevelt to put into his first Executive message something that shall be the means of bringing to a close the tragedy in South Africa. But for him to mention this subject in the manner urged by the vicar of Hexton, would, of course, be out of the question. A threat of American intervention would be intervention, and not to be thought of. The English people should right

GREAT BRITAIN'S ARMY.

London, Oct. 10.—Lord Kitchener's demand for 25,000 more men ready for immediate service in south Africa is interpreted by semiofficial army and navy journals as equivalent to resort to conscription. The decline of volunteering, the worthlessness of city riffraff for for military duty, point to the more respectable manhood as the only available contingent, whence the new and urgent call for fighting men can be satisfied.

A year and a half ago motion was made in parliament that the ancient constitutional law of compulsory military service be put in force in such modified form as would not make it unduly burdensome upon the people.

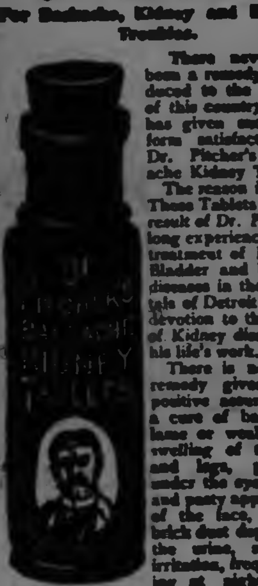
The ministry objected on the score that the volunteer system had not shown itself inadequate and that "balloting for service" under the ancient law would "inevitably lead to conscription, which if put in force would provoke a reactionary feeling against the war in South Africa."

A few months later, however, an act was passed "to increase the usefulness of the volunteers" in "great emergency." The militia, the yeomanry and the volunteers have hitherto been free from compulsory service abroad. According to tradition that was the duty of the regulars exclusively. The reserve and the auxiliary have been maintained as home defence with no expectation of being called into action. The yeomanry are an ancient corps of mounted men with an organization of their own.

Investigation unexpectedly revealed that instead of numbering 500,000, as they showed on paper, the entire home defence body could not muster more than 15,000 militia and about 22,000 yeomanry fit for foreign duty. The military system of the country was declared by experts to have broken down,

THE NEW REMEDY

For Backache, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.



There never has been a remedy introduced to the people of this country which has given such uniform satisfaction as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

The reason is plain. These Tablets are the result of Dr. Pitcher's long experience in the treatment of Kidney, Bladder and Urinary diseases in the hospitals of Detroit and his devotion to the study of Kidney diseases as his life's work.

There is no other remedy gives such positive assurance of a cure of backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the feet and legs, puffiness under the eyes, puffy and pasty appearance of the face, gravel, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding, irritation, frequent rising at night, high colour of the urine, pains in the joints and hips, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, specks before the eyes, dragging pain in the loins, Kidney weakness of children and old people, and all symptomatic indications of Kidney trouble.

If you have Kidney complaint in any form and are anxiously desirous of being cured, insist on having Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Is the Act Legal.

Toronto Telegram—One of the visitors at the Parliament buildings this morning was Geo. P. Graham, M.P.P. for Brockville. He had a talk with Premier Ross and some of the other Cabinet Ministers. It will be remembered that Mr. Graham had in charge the bill passed at the last session of the Legislature to prevent the use of trading stamps. To-day, Mr. Graham said, he had been informed that the trading stamp people were going to test the legality of the act passed, claiming that trading stamps came under the head of trade and commerce, and that the Province had no power to prevent their use.

Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium.

The Physical Committee of the Y.M. C.A. have purchased several new pieces of apparatus for the gymnasium, which will greatly add to its appearance and equipment. A new spring board, 20 wands and 25 pairs of new one pound dumb bells for the boys, are some of the new arrivals and, after several day's test, have given the best of satisfaction. The boys, both juniors and seniors, are already attending in large numbers, and those contemplating taking membership are asked to join at once and get in the swing. There are at present 213 members enrolled for gymnasium classes and all are running smoothly.

BRIDGENORTH.

Heavy frost these nights.

Ennismore is again let loose.

The Calumet came down from Bobcaygeon on Saturday.

Mr. Smith has a gang of men removing the old bridge out on dry land.

Mr. R. C. Heard has added a new rubber-tired buggy to his livery.

The German Medicine Company is located in Kelly's hall, and is doing a land office business.

Mr. George Bell is erecting a fine dwelling just east of his factory, which, when completed, will add greatly to beautifying the south side.

Buy your groceries at the P.O., where you get trading stamps.

Kelly's steamer took an excursion up to Bobcaygeon fair.

The Kawartha Canoe Club, of Bobcaygeon, came down to Chemong on Thursday night, per steamer Manita. The party was composed of some thirty of Bobcaygeon's elite society. They enjoyed themselves in the ball room during their four hours' stay at the park.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Geraghty who have been occupying rooms with Mrs. P. Geraghty since their marriage, have taken up house in the mill yard.

Mrs. C. Blewett, who has been spending the past week visiting her sister in Detroit, has returned home.

Miss O'Leary, who has been spending the summer at her home in the village, left on Wednesday for Toronto, where she will reside in the future.

Mr. J. A. Johns, Dr. Morgan, Rev. George Nickle and wife, went to Toronto on Wednesday morning to see the "Dook."

The work of planking the new bridge lengthwise is to be commenced in a few days. Mr. O'Leary is likely to get the job, although Mr. Jopling has offered to do it for half price.

Ennismore people seem to be well pleased with the new bridge, with the exception of the two sky scraper approaches at each side. It is understood that Mr. John Telford intends having the Ennismore approach shingled, so as to protect it from the rain.

George Bell succeeded in getting second place with "Maggie B" in Bobcaygeon. Well done, George!

Wedding Bells.

On Wednesday afternoon a pretty wedding took place at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. James Wilson, Otonabee, when his daughter, Miss Helen Louise, was married to Mr. Charles C. Munroe, accountant for the H. P. Kennedy firm.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Munroe left on the nine o'clock Grand Trunk express for a trip east, accompanied by the good wishes of a host of friends, in which the Times cordially joins.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

Predicted to be Close at Hand by Rev. A. B. Simpson.

New York, October 11—The money-raising orator, the Rev. A. B. Simpson, has again become specific as to the ending of the world. On Sunday last he announced that only thirty years of life for the human race remain. The first sign of the final collapse of terrestrial things was the fall of Jerusalem. The next was the descent of the Gentiles on the Holy City, which they were to rule seven times seven prophetic years, each of which is 360 years. This would leave only thirty years. The immediate signs are the wars and tragic happenings and the progress of Zionism, which means the return of the Jews to Jerusalem. There have been wars and tragic happenings in other ages, and they have been quite as furious and destructive as the guerilla warfare in South Africa and in the Philippines. Indeed, until the past century there was never a time when a large proportion of mankind was not engaged in fighting; and to the reader of history the tragic events of our time seem few by comparison with those of the past. It is the idea of the modern prophets that the end of the world must be preceded by a great increase in wickedness, which they profess to find now. As a matter of fact the world was never so good as it is to-day.

A Knock Out for Asthma.

You have had many disappointments, filled your stomach with nasty drugs, tried lots of things, but they all failed. Not being a stomach complaint, of course Asthma can't be cured by stomach medicine. But Catarrhozone cures Asthma; it gives it a tired feeling in about fifteen minutes. Inhale Catarrhozone; it makes breathing easy, cures the cough, makes you well. Doctors say there is nothing like Catarrhozone for Asthma. 25c. and $1.00

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Mr. Con. Clancy Meets with a Severe Accident Yesterday.

Yesterday morning Mr. Con Clancy, who has charge of the McLaughlin Carriage Company's warerooms on Water street, of which Mr. Robt. H. Leary is the agent, met with a severe and painful accident, which will lay him up for some days.

It appears that Mr. Clancy was engaged in removing a piece of rope from the pulley, which hangs from an arm over a window in the rear of the warerooms, when he placed a little too much weight on the rope and it broke causing him to overbalance and fall to the ground. He lit on his feet and the jar was sufficient to badly injure his back. Just as he struck the ground the pulley fell from the arm and striking him on the head inflicted a dangerous gash.

The injured man was removed to his home on Stewart street, Ashburnham, Dr. Moher being in attendance. It is not yet known whether he has received internal injuries or not.

HIS FAITH SHAKEN.

How a Little Lad Treated the Toothache.

Little Freddy, who regularly attends the George street Methodist Sunday school, was told by his teacher that the Lord would heal in answer to prayer. A thunderstorm happened to be raging at the same time Freddy had a jumping toothache, and his mother overheard this:

"Oh, Lord, stop my toothache."

Silence for thirty seconds.

"Oh, Lord, please do, for heaven's sake, stop my toothache."

More silence; then a crash of thunder; then:

"Oh, Lord, please do stop that blame thunder long enough to listen to me."

The next day Freddy had his tooth pulled, and now he wouldn't be a Christian Scientist for $1.00 cash and an air gun.

MEANS PERIL FOR TURKEY.

Reward for Russia for Mediation in French Dispute Twice Rumored.

London, Oct. 11—The Brussels correspondent of the Times quotes a despatch sent by the Constantinople representatives of the Independence Belge, which repeats the rumor that Russia will intervene in the dispute between Turkey and France.

The porte is said to be willing, in exchange for Russia's assistance, in obtaining a friendly settlement, to cede to Russia the port of Burghas, seventy-six miles north-east of Adrianople, and only ten hours' steam from Constantinople. The rumor is not confirmed. The cession of the port would create a grave situation, giving Russia virtual command of the Black sea and enabling her to occupy Constantinople at a few hours' notice.

He Wants Heavy Damages.

John Brotherson was working on the Trent Valley canal when a derrick fell on him, injuring him severely. He entered action against the contractors Corry & Laverdure, but was non-suited. He appealed and the case was tried by Chief Justice Falconbridge, Mr. Justice Street and Mr. Justice Britton at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning. Judgment was reserved. Heavy damages are asked.

Threatened the Pope.

Rome, Oct. 10. — Glavinovitch, the anarchist arrested here recently after having been heard to threaten the lives of the Pope and of Cardinal Rampolla, pontifical Secretary of State, has been sentenced to a fortnight's imprisonment for carrying deadly weapons and then deported to his home in Dalmatia.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for fittings, Armouries, Windsor, Ont.," will be received at this office until Wednesday, 16th October, 1901, inclusively, for the fittings required for the Drill Hall, Windsor, Ont.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the office of Charles Smith, Clerk of Works, Windsor, Ont.

Sealed Tenders endorsed "Tender for fittings, Post Office, Picton, Ont.," will also be received at the same time for fittings required for the post office building, Picton, Ont.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the office of Peter Pulver, Clerk of Works, Picton, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

SHOWERS OF MANNA.

JUST WHY AND HOW SUCH PHENOMENA ARE POSSIBLE.

This Food of the People of Israel in the Wilderness Is an Edible Lichen That Is Still Found in Parts of Asia and Africa.

"It is manna!" exclaimed the people of Israel as they gathered the food which seemed so miraculously to appear at their very feet in answer to their cry for sustenance, but though they ate and were satisfied, we are told they "wist not what it was."

And during the ages that have passed since its first appearance on that memorable dewy morning in the wilderness of sin men have declared again and again that they "wist not what it was" that thus fed the Israelites in their need, though numberless conjectures have been made and discussions held on the matter.

The chief opinion which had sway for a long time was that manna was the sap of the tamarisk, but now authorities, seeing in the light of widening scientific knowledge, declare that manna was without doubt a certain lichen (Lecanora esculenta).

This is borne out by the fact that well authenticated rains of manna, absolutely believed by the inhabitants to be showers from heaven, have been reported at least six times during the past century by reliable travelers in the east, and the descriptions of the deposit given in precise present day language leave no doubt upon the point.

If a piece of manna be examined under the microscope, its peculiar compound structure can be clearly seen. There is a delicate network of interlacing fungal threads glistening in the light, while inclosed in their meshes are a number of round, bright green cells, each a tiny algal plant. Thus fungus and alga live together in most intimate connection.

It may be asked how fresh manna lichens arise, seeing that it is difficult to imagine a frequent coincident meeting of a particular fungus and a particular green plant. But granted the meeting has once taken place, the rapid reproduction is easy to understand.

At certain times in the year a yellowish dust appears in little green cups growing on the surface of the plant, and each of the grains of dust is a minute bundle containing a few of the white filaments and a few of the green cells wrapped up together, so that wherever this dust may fall each grain can become a new manna lichen.

There is, moreover, a second method of reproduction in which the fungus alone takes part and sends out tiny offspring to take their chance in the wide world of finding a suitable host, as their parent has done, but the details are complicated and at present involved in some obscurity.

Thus, then, Lecanora esculenta—manna—is in its very nature one of the most remarkable phenomena in the vegetable world. It is found over great tracts of southwest Asia, near Constantinople, in the Crimea, the deserts of Arabia, in the Sahara and the deserts of Algeria.

It is easy to pass it by unnoticed, for it is grayish yellow in color and grows on gray limestone rocks and fragments of rock in the form of a wrinkled crust which seems to the casual observer part of the very rock itself, and needs care to distinguish it.

Cut through, it is white like corn within, dry and powdery. It is, moreover, extremely light in weight. It is obvious that there is not much nourishment to be obtained from the bare face of the limestone rock, hence all the sustenance of the two plants must be obtained from the atmosphere and the rain by the little green plant, which must thus work doubly hard to be able to pass on sufficient food for its partner's living in addition to providing its own.

By degrees, as it grows older, it becomes loosened or even detached from the rocks, and then, when the sudden whirlwinds and violent storms which affect many of these regions blow, the featherweight pieces of lichen crust are torn up and blown into the air at the mercy of the wind and carried, it may be, for immense distances.

The rains, too, that descend with such sudden vehemence sweep it away into water channels, where it is borne along on the stream and deposited in hollows and left there in heaps when the water subsides.

At times, too, a waterspout will gather it up, carry it along and ultimately deposit it in a place where hitherto it had been practically unknown.

Care In Making Axes.

An ax is subject to rigid tests before it is pronounced perfect. The steel must be of the required temper, the weight of all axes of the same size must be uniform, all must be ground alike and in various other ways conform to an established standard. The inspector who tests the quality of the steel does so by hammering the blade and striking the edge to ascertain whether it be too brittle or not. An ax that breaks during the test is thrown aside to be made over. Before the material of an ax is in the proper shape it has been heated five times, including the tempering process, and the ax when completed has passed through the hands of about 40 workmen, each of whom has done something toward perfecting it. After passing inspection the axes go to the grinding department and from that to the polishers, who finish them upon emery wheels.

Cunning Harry.

Harry and Charlie, aged 5 and 3 respectively, have just been seated at the nursery table for dinner. Harry sees there is but one orange on the table and immediately sets up a wail that brings his mother to the scene.

"Why, Harry, what are you crying for?" she asks.

"Because there ain't any orange for Charlie."

Bunched His Blunders.

"John," said Mrs. Billus after the caller had gone away, "I wish you wouldn't bunch your blunders so."

"What do you mean, Maria?" asked Mr. Billus.

"I didn't mind your telling her that you were ten years older than I, but you followed it up a minute later by letting it slip out that you were 52."

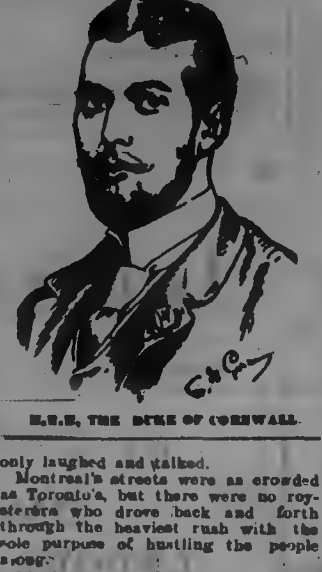
A ROYAL GREETING TO THE KING'S SON

A Magnificent Spectacle in Toronto Yesterday.

Both Duke and Duchess Express Delight at Their Reception.



H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CORNWALL.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Toronto is a noisy town. Every time she undertakes to celebrate anything or do honor to anybody, she sets out to see how much din she can create. The Queen City is unique in this respect. Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec crowds at night were silent crowds. They were out to see the decorations, the lights, and the celebrities who accompanied His Royal Highness. They made no more noise than on an ordinary night. They chattered and talked, but there were no cheers unless the Duke was upon the scene. There was a roar from Younge street last night, and another from King street and Queen joined the chorus, and from every side where a coterie of celebrants tramped along there was a shout to add to the volume of sound that spilt holes in the darkness above the roofs. Horns, tin pans, whistles, rattles, everything that could make a noise was pressed into service and help vigorous lungs out. The cheering commenced in the afternoon when the Duke arrived, and rolled on until daybreak.

FAR INTO THE NIGHT

At ten o'clock last night the roar was greatest, and at midnight there was but little sign of abatement. Stray parties kept it up till the darkness retreated before the grey mists.

The streets were crowded last night with streams of vehicular traffic. Everything with four wheels from dainty runabouts and dog-carts to farmers' wagons and moving vans was pressed into service.

Everybody cheered. The young women squealed and thrust bunches of ribbons or evergreens into faces on the kerbs. The male members of each party shouted and hurrahed, and when their throats played out they fell back on fish horns and megaphones.

There were probably more vehicles on Montreal streets the night the Duke arrived, but the occupants were quiet. They did not cheer and scream; they only laughed and talked.

Montreal's streets were as crowded as Toronto's, but there were no roysterers who drove back and forth through the heaviest rush with the sole purpose of hustling the people along.

FIREMEN CHEER THE DUKE.

There was great furbishing of fire-fighting apparatus in the fire halls of the city all morning, in preparation for the review of the department by the Duke this afternoon. Things are spick and span around a Toronto fire hall almost any time, but horses, harness, and hose wagons received an extra touch to-day for the Duke's sake.

There will be five steamers, a chemical engine, twelve hose and three ladder wagons, two aerial trucks, and a water tower, all manned by 150 firemen in red blouses and helmets, before the Duke in University avenue this afternoon. They will drive down one side of the avenue from College street as the Royal carriage comes up the other side. The Royal carriage will stop to see them pass by and watch the aerial truck with water tower sections operate their sky-scraping apparatus.

Then the firemen will line up, salute the Duke, and give him a parting cheer. Chief Thompson and Deputy Chief Noble will be in command.

BIG SCANDAL STIRS MONTREAL.

Lipton's Agent Sues Montreal Merchant for Stealing Wife's Love.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 12—A $1,000 action for the alleged alienation of a wife's affection has been entered in the superior court by C. E. P. Lyon, 36 St. [illegible] street, who advertises himself as the Canadian agent for Lipton "Limited," against Captain Frank Fisher, the Canadian member of the wholesale dry goods firm of John Fisher, Son & Co., of London, England.

Mr. Fisher claims that the affair is a blackmailing scheme of the Lyon couple, regarding whose antecedents he has obtained the following alleged facts:

Mrs. Lyon's maiden name was Ethel Moore. She lived in Millville, N. J., where she eloped about five years ago with a man of the name of Amsthurst. They went to Washington, where they were married, and then went into Virginia, and finally to St. Augustine, Fla., where Mrs. Amsthurst met C. E. P. Lyon, who was said to be a wealthy English traveller. He won the wife's heart and she ran away with him. They were in jail in Chattanooga for non-payment of board.

They were next heard of in London, Ont. Here Mr. and Mrs. Lyon had a pew in a prominent church. In or about January, 1900 they came to Montreal and were soon living as man and wife at a well-known boarding-house on Dorchester street. It was there they met Captain Fisher and other prominent young people of Montreal. A party was organized to go up to the Adirondacks and Captain Fisher was invited.

The party was a jolly one and a few days after Captain Fisher came back to attend to his business in the city and Mr. Lyon and Mrs. Amsthurst drove a few miles to Westport, a quiet little country town, and there they were given the right to the name which they had claimed long—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. P. Lyon. The record of marriages at Westport shows that they were wedded on Sept. 1, 1900.

FRANCE'S MARINE.

Paris Temps Says it is Decreasing Terribly.

London, Oct. 12—The Paris correspondent of the Times quotes an editorial article in the Temps commenting on the appointment of a commission in Tong-King to report on shipping bounties in the Far East.

The Temps says the French mercantile marine is decreasing terribly, and this is nullifying the colonial policy of the country, since there is no use in securing privileged markets if the trade is carried in foreign vessels. There are no French ships now engaged in the Far Eastern trade except those belonging to subsidized lines, hence a scheme of colonial bounties may benefit the French maritime world.

THE CONTRACT LET.

For the Erection of Another Grist Mill in Peterborough

Yesterday the contract for the erection of the flouring mills of the Central Milling Company was awarded to Finnie & Gordon.

The new building will stand on the corner of George and Dalhousie streets, opposite the Ackerman harness factory. The structure will be of brick, 40 x 40 feet, and four stories in height, including basement. The basement will be of Longford stone, and rise four feet above the ground level. The contract for the machinery goes to the Stratford Mill Building Co. The capacity of the mill will be from 150 to 200 barrels per day. The contract of Messrs. Finnie & Gordon calls for the completion of their work by December 1st next.

Plans are being prepared for an elevator with a capacity of 50,000 bushels, the erection of which will start at an early date.

THE BRIDE DISAPPEARED.

But the Man in Order to Console Himself Married Her Sister.

Ottawa, October 11—St. Rose de Lima, a little hamlet near East Templeton, is rejoicing in a curious marriage sensation, according to an old resident, who was in town yesterday.

According to his story, an elderly man, said to be about 70, was yesterday to have married a girl of 16 or 17. The friends of both parties objected to the match, but the bride, though she had another lover of more tender years, refused all along to break with her old admirer. Yesterday, however, the younger lover apparently rose to the occasion, for when the hour of the wedding came round the bride prospective was not to be found.

The excitement naturally to be expected under such circumstances in a small place like St. Rose de Lima, followed, and the groom prospective was generally commiserated with even by those who had said he had no right to marry so young a girl.

Finally some genius suggested that the bereaved one need not go without a wedding while there were older sisters of the missing girl left at home. The groom prospective seized on the suggestion, promptly proposed to the elder sister, was accepted and inside of an hour they were married, and the wedding bells rang out joyously.

VACCINE FARM NEEDED.

Director-General of Health Thinks it should be Established.

Ottawa, Oct. 12—Two more cases of smallpox, making 18 since Sunday, were discovered in the city to-night. Dr. Montizambert is a staunch advocate of vaccination. He believes it to be an absolute preventative of smallpox. He says there is absolutely no excuse for any person taking the disease. At the same time the Director-General holds that vaccine lymph should be secured under Government supervision. He thinks that a vaccine farm could be established, and effectively carried out in connection with the Government experimental farms.

CHURCHILL'S WRATH.

He Wades Into the Government Over the Boer War Matters.

London, October 12—Even so loyal and intense a Tory as Mr. Winston Churchill, M.P., finds it necessary to tell the men who ought to be on the British watch tower, but who notoriously are not just now, that they would do well to mend their ways, and that what they take to be only a heavy dew is in fact the flood. He has publicly reminded Mr. Balfour, who is off golfing, and Mr. Chamberlain, who is deeply immersed in the contemplation of his collection of orchids, that the country looks to them for some accomplishment in the South African business, especially since Lord Salisbury is still holiday making in the south of France. He says that it is not a time to leave a crisis in the history of the nation solely in the hands of a subordinate Minister. This is a little hard on Mr. St. John Brodrick, Secretary of State for War, but probably it is true.

Our Debts Growing.

The general rise in the debt of the Ontario municipalities is quite out of proportion to the increase in the assessment. Part of the increase is, of course, due to the establishment of useful works, but it is to be feared that there have been great additions to the debt burden that will never directly or indirectly yield a revenue. Under this head come bonuses to draw industries from one town to another. The man who holds tightly to the town purse-strings is not always the most popular, but he's badly needed. This applies with special force to Peterborough just now.

MISS STONE GIVEN UP BY BRIGANDS

$35,000 of Ransom Money Delivered to Her Captors

SULTAN SOUGHT FOR REVENGE.

London, Oct. 11.—"Miss Stone's abduction is due to Turkey," is the news received by a morning paper here from Vienna. The report goes on to say that the Sultan of Turkey, seeking revenge for the $90,000 indemnity which he was compelled to pay to the United States Government, concocted this barbarous plan to get even. General Montschew, president of the Macedonian committee, was telegraphed to in regard to the current rumor in Vienna that his committee had a hand in the abduction of the American missionary. His reply was an indignant denial. He added: "The committee desires the support of the civilised world for the Macedonian cause and, therefore, would not commit such a folly. The Turks did the deed and Turkey must be made responsible."

MAY BE FREE NOW

Apprehension for the safety of the captive has subsided on the part of those who are acquainted with the situation. Indeed, there is a persistent belief, founded on a report from the Austro-Hungarian capital, that Miss Stone is even now free, and that the next few days will see her safely returned to the arms of her friends. The Vienna advice says that United States Consul Dickson and an envoy of the missionary society has arrived at Sofia and deposited $35,000 of the $110,000 ransom demanded for the release of the captive, and that upon payment of the same immediate restoration of Miss Stone to her friends has been effected. The Consul, according to this report, followed up the trail of the brigands and succeeded in obtaining a conference with their chief. This ended in the Consul assuring the outlaw chief that the remainder of the $110,000 would be paid inside of 30 days. The brigand accepted this promise as coming from the United States Government, and, so it is stated and hoped, handed over the prisoner immediately. "Whatever may be their faults, these brigands are honorable men as far as their word goes, and no more harm may be expected to come to Miss Stone."

THE GOAL STATISTICS.

OVER 180 PRISONERS COMMITTED DURING THE YEAR.

Interesting Details of the County Penitentiary—58 Were Sentenced to Various Terms of Imprisonment.

The following statistics are published in connection with Peterborough County gaol:

On the 1st of October, 1900, there were 15 prisoners in the gaol, and during the year 169 more were committed, including 15 females. Seven were under 16 years of age. Of those committed 105 "went up" for the first time, 16 for the second, 24 for the third, and 25 for more than the third time.

Twenty-three were committed as of unsound mind, of which 3 were females.

Twenty-four of those committed were acquitted on trial, 44 were discharged by order of Court without trial; 10 were allowed to go on suspended sentence, and 58 were sentenced to terms as follows:—6 to the Central Prison, 2 to the Penetentiary, 2 to the Reformatory and 48 to the gaol. (One died in gaol while under going sentence.)

The periods of sentences awarded were distributed as follows:—Under 30 days, 16; 2 months, 8; 3 months, 7; 4 months, 2, 5 months 2; 6 months, 16; 1 year, 1, 2 years, 1; 3 years, 2; Reformatory for boys 2.

The maintenance of 24 prisoners was defrayed by the Government.

The nationality classification of the prisoners was as appended:—Canadian, 127; English, 16; Irish, 12; Scotch, 4; Yankees, 7.

Religious denominations — Roman Catholic, 41; Church of England 37; Presbyterian, 19; Methodist, 53; Other denominations, 11.

Seventy-one of the prisoners were married and 89 unmarried.

Thirty of the prisoners could neither read nor write; 107 were temperate, and 59 intemperate.

The gaol expenditure was as subjoined:—

For food, clothing, fuel etc.	$1289.61
For Officers' salaries	1350.00
Total...	[illegible]

The daily cost per prisoner for rations was 12 3-8 cents.

The greatest number of prisoners confined in the gaol at any time during the year was 29, and the lowest number 10. There were 11 prisoners in the gaol at the close of the year on Sept. 30th.

Of the 169 prisoners who were committed to gaol during the year, 13 were charged with assault; 1 cruelty to animals; 1 detained as witness; 13 drunk and disorderly; 8 forgery; 2 horse stealing; 1 indecent assault; 1 frequenter bawdy house; 2 keeping bawdy house; 37 larceny; 23 insane, 3 murder; 2 perjury; 6 receiving stolen goods; 4 trespass; 31 vagrancy; 12 other offences.

AN INDUSTRIAL BATTLE.

The Noxon Works of Ingersoll Now Controlled by New Hands.

For several months the big Noxon agricultural works in Ingersoll, who have an agency in Peterborough and other places in this district, have been the scene of an industrial war, in which the managers, stockholders and a bank have participated.

The contest ended on Monday with a victory for Messrs. Riley and Cother, backed by the Merchants Bank, who have bought out their opponents and will now control the works. The Merchants bank is largely interested in the enterprise and threw its support to the side of the purchasers.

LADY MINTO'S RIDE ON THE ENGINE

She Passes Through the Rockies on the Pilot.

A THRILLING ADVENTURE.

The Countess Makes the Journey from Glacier Station.

A Trip Full of the Wildest Excitement and Danger—Fifteen Miles of Sublime Scenery.

Montreal, Oct. 12—The Star's correspondent on the Royal train writes: From Glacier House to Illecillewaet upon the pilot of the engine of the royal train—a wild dash through the keen evening air, high up among the grandeur of the Rockies—a dash for fifteen miles around startling curves, through gloomy tunnels and high above the long snow shed the Summit range, with lofty Sir Donald overlooking all.

This was the experience of the Countess of Minto during the western progress of the Royal train. The air was growing chilly when Her Excellency took her seat upon the pilot, for the sun had gone down behind the lofty mountain peaks and deep purple shadows were already beginning to grow among the hills.

THE VICE-REGAL PARTY

Alan MacNab, a Nova Scotian, selected out of seventy or eighty drivers for the honorable post, stood at the throttle of engine number [illegible]. He wore a smart little bouquet of purple pansies in honor of the occasion. A parting ray of the sun shot down through a mountain gorge and flashed along the sunny sides of the big boiler. A rug was spread along the front of the pilot and Her Excellency took a seat on the left side. On her extreme left was Captain Graham, A.D.C., and others in the party were Major and Mrs. Maude, and Miss Grenfell, Mr. Sidney Hall, artist with the Royal suite, occupied the extreme right. Hon. Arthur Guise was on one side of the cab and the Star correspondent was on the other.

There on board the locomotive with the lives of Her Excellency and her companions in their keeping were Allan MacNab, engineer; Joseph Callaghan, special engineer, and W. E. Todd, fireman. The bell rang, rugs were tucked warmly around the distinguished travellers on the pilot, and with many a sharp hissing and panting, No. [illegible] had started.

THE TRIP BEGINS.

The monster gained speed slowly, but with its driving wheels grinding steadily, and smoothly gripping the rails, the engine soon was racing along.

There was a roar about the cab like a tumult of many waters. The human voice was muffled with the congregation of sounds. The shining rails were like toy things as they seemed to meet far in the distance. The first section man was passed like a flash. He took off his hat, and, flag in hand, smiled as the Countess threw him a pleasant greeting.

THE PEAKS FLY PAST.

And now farther to the left are the sharp peaks—Uto, Eagle, Avalanche, and Macdonald and the snowy Hermit Range with its wild Grizzly peak, where the bears, after which it is called, are so often encountered. Far down among the trees the Illecillewaet shows a silver thread across the valley.

Around the curves the locomotive dashes with the ends of rugs flying loose from the pilot and a gloved hand at either side grasping tightly the short stubby flag staves.

Section man after section man is passed with hat in hand having completed the work of inspection and now content with placid mind to watch the Royal progress.

THE GREAT GLACIER

looms up in the distance, and its grotto-like, crystal seracs shine and glow far off in hues of green and white and blue.

The giant locomotive groans and pants as it ascends the heavy grade, in some parts as steep as one hundred and sixteen feet to the mile. Suddenly a spot of blackness appears against the side of a steep wall and with a roar which seems to split one's ear-drums the engine has plunged into the depths of a tunnel. The vibration of the roar against the sides of the rocky cave is terrific. The engine seems surrounded and enveloped in a great swallowing noise which is like a thousand drums and tom-toms. There is nothing ahead but in the rock through which the engine is being hurled. With a sudden motion, Engineer Macnab presses a button and immediately a powerful ray of light is thrown forward through the gloom, lighting up the dismal interior and showing in the shadows beneath the little party on the pilot. It is the electric headlight, a new device in the West, which is being used to reassure the distinguished visitors upon the pilot. At the end of the tunnel a heavy shower of water is falling and the travellers on the pilot duck their heads as they dash through the drizzling downpour. Out into daylight we dash and with the pressure of the button the electric light is gone.

THE PASSING PANORAMA

Far above our heads tower the giant Rockies with their white capped summits now wrapped in gloomy shadows. Grayish hued glaciers are gazing upon some slopes and a warm garment of green verdure encircles others. Tall trees are like tiny shrubs in the distance, and here and there are ugly scars among the greenery, showing where landslides have torn down the mountain sides. Around the lower slopes are the sweet-smelling pine trees and the firs and a maple tree here and there exhibiting its glorious coloring among the more sombre surroundings. Over all this grandeur we flash with the pace taking hold of the heart, and the harsh, strenuous muffled puffs of the iron monster making a fearsome accompaniment. The Countess waves to an old Italian woman by the side of the track and a rare smile illuminates for an instant as we flash by the ancient olive-tinted countenance. The lofty ranges, the home of the mountain goat and the bear, swing slowly past one by one, and sweep into a lordly panorama in the rear. The Loop is now at hand with the railway's sudden turns and twistings. The engine rushes across a valley leading down from the Mount Bonney glacier, touching for a moment on the base of Ross Peak, then doubling away back to the right upon itself a mile or more. Then swinging around to the right it touches Cougar Mountain, crossing again to the left, and at last shooting down the valley parallel with its former course. A glance behind shows two long gashes in the mountain slope, one above the other, but those upon the pilot cannot know of this.

THE NIGHT WIND

is now bitter cold as the locomotive cuts its way fiercely through the mountain passes. The driving bars rattle slightly and the cab rocks sometimes to and fro as the bounding monster answers the master's hand at the throttle.

Fourteen miles have now been covered since the travellers perched upon the pilot, took their seats—fourteen miles of keen, swift-rushing air, of delightful shivers as the engine plunges across a trestle with a gaping gorge and [illegible] waters far below—fourteen miles of careful watch upon the track for fallen rocks or trees—fourteen miles of exhilaration such as can be had in no other situation.

The Illecillewaet river, with its pea-green water, is now in sight. Gigantic trees for which British Columbia is famous, line the gorge like an army of titanic warders. The engine slows up and stops, giving a final proud hiss of satisfaction. The Countess, with a little sigh of relief, steps from the pilot and is escorted to her carriage in the rear.

FREDERICK YORSTON.

EX-PRES. KRUGER IS BREAKING DOWN

Takes No Further Interests in The World's Affairs.

HE IS ALMOST AN IMBECILE.

London, Oct. 11.—The most serious stories came from The Hague concerning the health of ex-President Kruger of the Transvaal republic, and the inference is that the Grand Old Man of South Africa is a hopeless physical and mental wreck. During the past few weeks his decadence has, it is said, been so rapid that his friends do not expect him to linger many weeks. The death of his wife a few weeks ago, so soon followed by that of his son, Tjaardt Kruger, while a prisoner in the British lines, has had a startling effect on the aged statesman. His disappointments and shocks have been so rapid in the last year that his feeble vitality has given away with startling swiftness. In plain words, Mr. Kruger is said to be in a state closely bordering on imbecility.

MIND ALMOST A BLANK.

Mr. Kruger takes almost as little interest in Boer affairs now as he does in the most insignificant domestic matter. When his friends attempt to talk with him on the question he does not seem to comprehend and when, occasionally, flashes of his former vigorous mentality manifest themselves, he soon lapses into a state of stolidity from which it is impossible to arouse him. At times he shows great irritability, particularly when anybody exhibits concern over his health or asks after his condition. It will surprise his friends if he lives through the cold weather, which in Holland is unusually severe on weakened constitutions.

Another story in this connection is to the effect that Mr. Kruger's death, in spite of the fact that he is supposed to have hoarded great wealth when he fled from the Transvaal, will show that he is almost penniless.

OVER THE RIVER

What is Transpiring in Ashburnham Village.

—Everybody in Little Brooklyn reads the Times.

—Messrs. Alex. Patterson and George Wheeler have commenced business as butchers and meat merchants in Sam Bickell's old stand. George is a practical butcher, and looks after the domestic end of the business, while Alex., who is a born hunter, will see that his customers will be supplied with choice cuts of bear, deer, rabbit, ground-hog, etc. The Times wishes the new firm every success.

—It is a curious thing that the Council should extend the water works to the north end in view of the recent adverse vote of the ratepayers. But why should not the northerners have water? It is all very well for those living in the south to deny water to their fellow-townsmen, but there is a reason for it. The southerners have beer as well as water, or is it because they have stock in our brewery that they desire to increase beer drinking by refusing nature's liquid? The Times suggests that Mr. Quartermaine have the Board of Trade take the matter up and effect a solution.

—A villager suggested to the Times representative the other day that the Flaneur Club should get in their work this year early. There is much to engage the club this year. Mr. T. B. Manice, who is one of the charter members, together with the High Village Constable, should issue warrants at once for a meeting.

—The suggestion made by a writer in the Times, that a move be made looking towards a union of Peterborough and Ashburnham is not favorably regarded here. I think if your Council came over with a proposal of this kind, and it was generally known beforehand, they would be all ducked in the river. No, sir! we don't want any of it, with the great money-wasting street department that Peterborough has.

LOOKING FOR GAS AND OIL.

Port Hope is Sinking a Well for Natural Gas and Oil.

That gas and petroleum exists in this section is generally believed. Experts have told us that we are on the Trenton rock, which is most favorable for these natural stores, but Peterborough people are proverbially slow, and no capital has yet been forthcoming to exploit the matter.

Port Hope is setting us an example in this respect, as will be seen from the following, taken from The Times: "The Port Hope Natural Gas and Oil Co. have let the contract for boring the well to Messrs. Frazer and Harvey of Petrolia. Mr. Harvey is now in town with his machinery, which has been taken to the site chosen for the first well on Cavan street at rear of Barrett's Mills, and is now being erected ready to begin operations."

GEN. REDVERS BULLER BREAKS THE SILENCE.

His Reply to Critics Brings Severe Censure Down on Himself.

ORDERS WHITE TO SURRENDER LADYSMITH.

Speaks at Luncheon Given in His Honor by the King's Royal Rifles —Describes His Own and Gen. White's Difficulties.

London, Oct. 11.—Speaking after a luncheon given in his honor by the King's Royal Rifles, General Sir Redvers Buller, whose recent appointment as commander of an army corps has been much criticised, said he had been attacked on account of a telegram which it was said he had sent ordering Gen. White to surrender Ladysmith after his (Buller's) attack on Colenso on December 15, 1899, had resulted unsuccessfully. General Buller described at length his own and General White's difficulties at that time. He said that at that time he prepared a message telling General White that his (Buller's) attack had failed, and he could not make another attempt to relieve him within a month in the then slow fighting. General Buller said he read this telegram over several times, saying to himself, "That's a mean thing to send a fellow." but he knew the

and that General White could say, if he surrendered, that General Buller had advised it. The same telegram suggested that it might be necessary to surrender, and in that case General Buller made some suggestions as to what General White should do and how he should do it, thinking that it would be cover for a man whom he believed to be in greater difficulties than his own.

Gen. Buller declared that he wanted to bring the man who said he had counseled General White to surrender into the ring. Therefore he challenged him to produce the telegram, which, he said, he knew was in the hands of the editor of a magazine, and must have been stolen, because it was in cipher addressed to General White, and was perfectly private.

General Buller's speech has made a tremendous stir. The newspapers are divided in their opinions of it. A majority of them, including some that are not hostile to General Buller, regard it as and greatly regret that the general did not adhere to his lately avowed practice to not answer newspaper criticism. Several papers declare that his explanation that he heliographed to General White, suggesting that it might be necessary for him to surrender, and advising what to do in such a case, was actually instruction to surrender, and they condemn him accordingly. One paper compares the message to Sir H Parker's famous order to Nelson to retire at Copenhagen, which posterity has unsparingly condemned.

The Standard may be quoted as expressing the severest view set forth with the greatest moderation compatible with such an opinion. It says,—

"On the fatally damaging episode of the heliograph message, General Buller admitted the worst that can be said against him. It is not the least surprising feature of the case that he does not evince any consciousness of the real character of his admissions. By authorizing General White to surrender, he contemplated a humiliation compared with which all the other reverses of the war would have been trivial. His motive, it seems, was a generous desire to shield a subordinate from responsibility, but if this was chivalry.

IT WAS NOT WAR.

It was not leadership, and it was not policy. The error was committed under circumstances which possibly vindicate General Buller's good nature, but only at the expense of his judgement, capacity, and competence to hold a responsible office. It seems to us there is only one course left for its unfortunate author. On sober reconsideration of all that his admissions involve, it should be obvious to General Buller that he would best consult his own dignity and the national interests by resigning his command and seeking the retirement he has earned by years of arduous service. He must see that he is no longer in his place at the head of an army corps.

General Buller's apologists, who as said are in the minority, are impressed by his manly protest against hair-brained critics who hardly know a musket from a field gun, and they unhesitatingly accept his explanation as manly and frank.

The Telegraph, the chief of these, says, however, that General Buller is mistaken in treating the heliograph affair as involving theft, or the improper divulgence of secrets. It intimates that the facts were fairly well known so far back as August, 1900. Although thinking that General Buller had ample justification for his indignant protest, the paper thinks it would have been enough if he had said that Earl Roberts, who knew all the circumstances in which the despatch was sent, as General Buller's critics cannot possibly know, retained him in his command, and subsequently deliberately continued him in office at Aldershot. That surely says the Telegraph was a complete and absolute vindication of General Buller on an occasion which is responsible for so much ill-timed and ill-formed scandal.

NEW PROVINCE FOR WESTERN CANADA

Territories May Soon HaVe Enlarged Powers

THE MATTER IS ARRANGED.

Premier Haultain and Provincial Treasurer are in Ottawa.

They Discuss Subject With Federal Authorities—Their Views Will Likely be Acceded to.

Ottawa, October 12—F. W. G. Haultain, Premier of the North-west territories, and Hon. A. L. Sifton, Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Public Works, have arrived here to discuss with the Minister of the Interior and a sub-committee of the Cabinet the question of organizing the North-West Territories into a province. The conference is the result of correspondence between Hon. Clifford Sifton and Premier Haultain, during which the former expressed the belief that the time has arrived when the question of organizing the territories on a provincial basis ought to be the subject of full consideration and intimated his willingness, in order to bring the matter to a more definite issue, to arrange a conference on the subject between the representatives of the Territorial Government and a committee of the Council representing the Federal Government.

It is unlikely that there will be any serious discussion of the question which has brought Premier Haultain and his colleague to the Capital until the return of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the rest of the Ministers to the Capital. Mr. Haultain himself realizes this and intends to pay a short visit to Toronto and Buffalo.

Premier Haultain brings with him a proposition in writing, and when he returns to Ottawa this proposition will be laid before the sub-committee of the Cabinet. If the sub-committee regards favorably upon it, and the Government is agreeable, legislation may be introduced at the coming session of Parliament to give effect to the long-cherished ambition of the Territories.

THE MORBID PRINCIPLE OF RHEUMATISM IS URIC ACID

Paines Celery Compound

DRIVES IT FROM THE BLOOD AND CURES THE DISEASE.

The Wonderful Medicine Does a Marvellous Work for Mr. G. J. McDonald of Cornwall, Ont.

The ablest pathologists are of opinion that there is a morbid principle in the blood when rheumatism is present. This morbid principle is uric acid, which circulates with the blood and acts upon the joints and muscles, causing the pains and agonies of rheumatism.

Paine's Celery Compound is the only scientific remedy for the complete banishment of every form of rheumatism. If your joints are painful; if the knees, wrists, elbows or ankles are swollen, a few bottles of Paine's Celery Compound will surely remove all your troubles and pains. A 64 page book "Diseases of the Nervous System and how to cure them." is sent free to any address by The Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal. This book furnishes valuable diet-lists for various diseases.

Mr. McDonald, for the benefit of rheumatic sufferers writes as follows:

"After giving your Paine's Celery Compound a thorough testing, I am pleased to say a few words in its favor. For three years I suffered terribly from rheumatism. It seemed to me that I was forced to endure all the agonies and pains that a mortal could possibly experience from the dreadful disease.

While suffering I tried many of the advertised medicines and also doctors' prescriptions, but never found a cure until I procured a supply of Paine's Celery Compound. It worked like a charm — it seemed to strike at the very root of my trouble. I am now cured; all pains are banished, and in every respect I am a new man.

"I shall always consider it a pleasure and duty to strongly recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who are afflicted with rheumatism."

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 12 1901

There is one man who will never be knighted, no matter how common the conferring of titles upon Canadian public men may become. That is Senator Templeman, proprietor of the Victoria Times. He got out a souvenir number of his paper, containing a splendid portrait of the Duchess of Cornwall, underneath which he printed "H.R.H. Victoria Mary, born on May 26th, 1887." That would make the Duchess 14 years old, or 8 years older than her husband, whereas all the world knows that she was born in 1867 and is two years younger than the Duke. There are some insults which can only be wiped out in blood.

Mr. H. F. Knight, one of the British newspaper correspondents with the Royal party, says that if he had to live anywhere outside of England, his first choice should be Victoria, B.C. That sort of talk is excusable, coming from a gentleman who has not yet been in Peterboro. Perhaps Mr. Knight did not go through Chinatown when he was in Victoria.

A Chicago young man invited five friends to dinner. On the bill of fare was Belgian hare, which was pronounced excellent. The next day each guest received a note from the host explaining that the Belgian hare was in reality fried tom cat.

Suit has been begun to stop Ottawa City Council from paying $7,500 to the Royal Reception Committee. Some people do not like to pay for their fun.

A man named Pappa is a candidate for the mayoralty of Walkerton. He should make a good city father.

HOW LITTLE IT COSTS.

How little it costs, if we give it a thought,
To make happy some heart each day!
Just one kind word or a tender smile
As we go on our daily way;
Perchance a look will suffice to clear
The cloud from a neighbor's face
And the press of a hand in sympathy
A sorrowful tear efface.

One walks in sunlight; another goes
All weary in the shade,
One treads a path that is fair and smooth
Another must pray for aid.
It costs so little! I wonder why
We give it so little thought.
A smile, kind words, a glance, a touch;
What magic with them is wrought!

THE KING.

His Majesty Edward VII. as He Appears at Work and at Play.

The King is an inveterate smoker.

Edward VII. is rather a light eater except at dinner, and has never been a great wine drinker.

Whether in England or on the continent, the King receives by telegraph every night an abstract of the work of the House of Commons.

One of the happiest moments of the King's life was when he won the Derby with Persimmon in 1896. This had long been the ambition of his life.

Shooting, the King places above all other entertainments that can be afforded him, and his principal visits have always been paid in the shooting season.

In his own set his favorite topic of conversation has been clothes. Over the fashion of a tie, the cut of a jacket, and even the shape of a boot, he will grow loquacious.

The King is an expert shoemaker, a handicraft he chose to learn when a boy, being obliged by his royal parents to learn some trade. He has worn shoes of his own make.

The King, the Lord Mayor, and the [illegible] are the only ones who know the password of the Tower of London. This password is sent to the Mansion House quarterly, signed by His Majesty, and is a survival of an ancient custom.

Ruler of the largest empire the world has ever known, Edward VII. of England, the mightiest of monarchs, reigns over about 400,000,000 people, or a quarter of mankind. In other words, nearly one person out of every four owes allegiance to him.

One hobby of King Edward's is collecting crystals. For some time he has been collecting historic specimens, those expensive baubles which for centuries have been regarded in the orient as revealers of the future. Last year, at an auction of crystals, His Majesty was outbid by a woman, who paid $4,000 for a crystal. He also knows all about ceramics and bronzes.

Good Boys

Are the bad boys very often. The boy that's good for anything is generally pugnacious. He's a healthy animal, and the healthy animal will always fight for his rights.

When a boy shuns the rough sports of his companions he is apt to be a weakling, and to be conscious of the fact.

A great many mothers have testified to the wonderful curing and strengthening power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. All strength comes from food after it has been perfectly digested and assimilated. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the perfect nourishment of the body, which is thus built up in the only way a body can be built up—by food.

There is no alcohol in "Discovery," and it entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartrick, of Dempster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had one in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

REMARKABLE ANNOUNCEMENT

We see by the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, that this season they are offering their readers no less than three valuable pictures, and the subjects selected are certainly worthy of that great family paper. Real good pictures of our new King and Queen are very opportune, and it goes without saying that the Family Herald's pictures are the best extant. They are each 18 x 24 inches, taken since the accession to the throne, and bearing the King's and Queen's autograph. Being the first taken after the accession, they are sure to be handed down from generation to generation with the tradition; these of the King and Queen were the first pictures taken after they came to the throne. The third picture is a genuine surprise for Canadians, for it is there the publishers of the Family Herald have shown remarkable enterprise. All our readers heard of the renowned Gainsborough picture, the Duchess of Devonshire. It has a remarkable history. Stolen in England 25 years ago, brought to America, hidden for 25 long years and delivered to its rightful owners on payment of a reward of $25,000, and since sold to J. Pierpont Morgan for $75,000 cash. Canadians will be delighted to know that the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star secured the right to furnish their readers with copies, true to the original, of that renowned painting. The Family Herald's picture is 22 x 28, in ten rich colours, a perfect gem of a picture. Copies of the renowned Gainsborough sell in New York for twelve dollars each. When it is known that each subscriber will receive that great family paper, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, and the three pictures, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and the renowned Duchess of Devonshire, all for one dollar, there is bound to be a big demand for the Family Herald this season, and there should be, for it certainly is the biggest dollar's obtainable.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in affecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

TO TUNNEL THE CHANNEL

London, October 11.—The long-mooted project of a tunnel between Ireland and Scotland became again the subject of discussion at the International Engineering Congress recently held in the United Kingdom, and was pronounced entirely practicable by such experts as Mr. Barton, Mr. James Mansergh and Sir Douglas Fox. The execution of such a work would probably have important industrial, if not also political, consequences for Ireland, and it would shorten the sea voyage for Americans, many of whom are now deterred from stopping at an Irish port by their unwillingness to cross the Irish Channel.

Mr. Barton, who advocated an immediate prosecution of the scheme, expressed the belief that, in view of the experience gained in the construction of the Simplon tunnel, a submarine tunnel between the coasts of Wigtownshire in Scotland and that of County Antrim in Ireland might be completed and put in working order within a dozen years. Sir Douglas Fox was confident that less trouble would be encountered from incursions of water than had been met with in the case of the tunnel under the Mersey, or that under the Severn.

Mr. James Mansergh, President of the Congress, deemed it probable that there would be actually less trouble from water in a submarine tunnel than in a tunnel nearer the surface of the earth. It was agreed that the problem of ventilation could be solved easily by the use of electric power, a current of fresh air being sent in by a fan at one end and drawn out at the other. The length of the tunnel proposed by Mr. Barton would be 34 1-2 miles, of which 25 would be under the sea, and as it is intended that the trains should run at a speed of from sixty to seventy miles an hour, the time spent in the tunnel would be a little over 30 minutes. According to the figures submitted by engineers and contractors, the cost of constructing the tunnel, exclusive of interest during the progress of the work, would be $50,000,000. The expense could be exactly calculated if a preliminary "heading," or boring, should be run through the whole 34 miles, or at least from the Irish side past the junction between the sandstone and the Silurian formations. It is suggested by influential newspapers that the British government should guarantee the cost of such preliminary work, which would hardly, in any event, exceed twelve and a half million dollars.

It is evident that such a tunnel would have the commercial effect of an isthmus connecting Belfast and other centres of industrial activity in northeastern Ireland with Glasgow and other seats of manufacturing industry in the Lowlands of Scotland. Between the regions thus brought into land communication the economic solidarity would be speedily developed with unifies the manufacturing districts in the North of England and in the Midlands, and so far as Ulster is concerned, an end would be put to that concentration of thought and hope upon the land which renders it easy to start an agrarian agitation. It is also manifest that the existence of a tunnel might draw Great Britain and Ireland together in a sentimental, as well as an economical sense; for it would cause the Emerald isle to be visited by multitudes of Englishmen who hitherto have been kept away by the discomforts incident to crossing the Irish Channel. Were the tunnel now advocated to be constructed, a French invasion of Ireland, like that headed by Gen. Humbert in 1798, would lose all its terrors, since an overwhelming British force could be placed on the island, even though a French fleet should be temporarily mistress of the Irish Channel.

Would the construction of a submarine tunnel from Scotland to Ireland, and the resultant existence of a through railway from London cause a concentration of the transatlantic mail and passenger service at some port on the Irish west coast? Such a concentration at Galway was contemplated during the vice-royalty of Lord Carnarvon, and formed the subject of an elaborate inquiry by a committee presided over by Admiral Sir George Nares. There is said to be a consensus of expert opinion against the establishment of a transatlantic terminus on the west coast of Ireland for the reason that the now desirable coast is to a great extent studded with small islands and points of rock, which in the fogs that prevail there, particularly in winter, render the approach extremely hazardous. No such objection can be brought against Queenstown on the south coast, or against Moville on the north, both of which have long been used as ports of arrival and departure for America.

It is suggested that, should Mr. Barton's plan for a tunnel between the coast of Wigtownshire and that of County Antrim be carried out and prove financially successful, a similar work might be undertaken between Fishguard, immediately north of Milford Haven and Rosslare near Wexford, where the width of the Irish Channel is only forty-five miles. Such a tunnel as the last-named would not only promote industrial development in the south Queenstown route to London by far the quickest and most direct.

A GENERALS' BATTLE.

Pretoria, Oct. 10.—Further details of the fight between 1,500 Boers under Delarey and Kemp and the British 600 under Colonel Kekewich, the defender of Kimberley, at Moedwell, have been received. The spot is known as the Bloody Triangle, and has been the scene of at least two former engagements in the present war and a terrific fight between the Kaffirs and the whites when the settlers first trekked to that part of the country. In July, 1900, when the force under Baden-Powell was crossing the country after the relief of Mafeking, he had an engagement with Delarey on this very spot, and on the 2nd of November last General Paget drove the enemy from their entrenchments on the northwestern side of the Bloody Triangle. In both of these fights O Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, was engaged, and its work elicited a recommendation in despatches by the officer commanding.

Delarey surprised the camp of Kekewich during the night. The Boers crept noiselessly up the river bed in the darkness and obtained partial command of the apex of the triangular donga, the base of which runs parallel with the Mafeking—Rustenburg road. A patrol of Yeomanry returning after a reconnaissance to the west in the direction of Eland's River was intercepted by the enemy in the drift, who thus [illegible] their communication with the main camp.

The Boers then attacked the Derbyshire pickets, who defended the approaches from the west to the camp, gallantly but unsuccessfully, at the expense of several men.

The second line of outposts, also composed of Derbyshires, was then attacked and held out heroically until every man was killed or wounded. A picket of the Scottish Horse, under Colonel Dick-Cunningham, stationed on the north of the camp in a donga south of Twee River, fought magnificently and held the post.

The men in the main camp, when the first and natural surprise of an unheralded attack was got over, sprang to their posts with alacrity and forming a firing line facing west, checked the Boers, who were nearly into the British lines.

A couple of companies of the Derbyshires were then despatched around the south of the British line to turn the Boers' left flank. They wheeled right around the camp and arrived without much opposition southeast of the point where the donga joins the river bed. Here they formed in line with the Scottish Horse and thus outflanked the Boers' left. Then the Scottish Horse and these Derbyshires charged the river and donga with fixed bayonets, and with an irresistible rush, cleared the Boers out.

SENT BOERS FLEEING.

Meanwhile the remaining Derbyshires on the British left and the Yeomanry made a similar rush on the river by the drift, and sent the Boers fleeing to the hills west of the river.

At the beginning of the fight, the firing was so hot that it was impossible to use the British artillery, but when the Boers began to retreat the guns rendered effective work. A Maxim gun was served fearlessly by nine of the Derbyshires, all of whom were killed or wounded. All the men fought as they had been instructed and directed.

There were numerous instances of heroism on the part of the British officers and men. After Colonel Kekewich had been hit he got up and stood by the guns, refusing to take cover, and encouraged and directed his men. The flank movement of the Derbyshires showed the remarkably cool direction of the fight.

The Boers lost heavily, especially in the final charges. They asked permission to move their dead, and a lull ensued while both sides were engaged in this work. The Boers carried numbers of their dead off in nets between their horses. It is estimated that fully 300 of the enemy were slain.

It is said that the Boers were greatly disheartened at the outcome of the attack, as they expected to obtain supplies and ammunition instead of being repulsed. Boer prisoners say they expected more from this battle than from years of guerilla fighting.

—Fishing is reported to be good just now and large catches of bass and maskinonge are made every day.

including all properties, leaseholds, real estate, plant and machinery, stock-in-trade manufactured and in process of manufacture, timber limits (many years' supply), trade marks, patents, and in fact every asset of the three businesses except book debts and bills receivable, AND THUS THE NEW COMPANY TAKES UP THE WHOLE BUSINESS AND CONTINUES THE SAME WITHOUT INTERRUPTION OR CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Accountants' Certificate.

"We hereby certify that we have examined the books and accounts of Boeckh Bros. & Company, and Thomas Bryan, for the years 1898 and 1899, and The Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, for the years 1897, 1898 and 1899, and find that the combined average yearly net profits amount to $45,869.91. All expenses, including bad and doubtful debts, allowance for depreciation of plant and equipment at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and also salary for management, have been charged in arriving at these profits.

"As stocks had been taken at varying dates, it is impossible to show in tabular form the profits earned yearly. We find, however, that the sales have increased OVER 52 PER CENT. DURING THE PAST FOUR YEARS, and these three businesses ARE YEAR BY YEAR INCREASING THEIR PROFITS.

"A. C. NEFF, F.C.A.,
WILTON C. EDDIS, F.C.A.,
Chartered Accountants."

Toronto, May 21st, 1901.

NOTE.—It will be observed that, after deducting Management salaries, all expenses, providing for bad and doubtful debts, and annually writing off 7 per cent. for depreciation of plant, the net profits have been at the rate of [illegible] per annum. In consequence of increased business of the past nine months it is estimated that the net profits for the current year will be over [illegible], and continue to largely increase, so that the [illegible] required to pay the 7 per cent. dividends upon the First Preference Stock is more than assured.

Distribution of Profits--Reserve Account.

THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is entitled to preferential (cumulative) dividends of 7 per cent. per annum payable QUARTERLY on MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER, and DECEMBER the FIRST.

Of the remaining profits, not less than 10 per cent. nor more than 20 per cent thereof, shall be transferred to a reserve account to better ensure the above mentioned dividends (to be used in the business of the Company), and this policy is to be continued until the reserve reaches 20 per cent. of the First Preference Stock issued and outstanding, at which sum it will be maintained, and if drawn upon will in like manner be restored.

THE SECOND PREFERENCE STOCK is non-cumulative and is entitled to divide out of the then remaining profits up to 5 per cent. per annum payable yearly. After which all three Stocks—FIRST AND SECOND PREFERENCE AND COMMON are entitled to PARTICIPATE EQUALLY in any further profits of such fiscal year.

In the event of the liquidation or dissolution of the Company the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is to be paid in full before anything can be paid on the Second Preference, and the SECOND PREFERENCE then stands next for payment in full before anything can be paid on the COMMON STOCK.

These provisions make the First Preference Stock unusually attractive, as its own 7 per cent. (cumulative) dividends and safety are not only guarded, but the Directors of the Company believe it WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING LARGER DIVIDENDS IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME.

Management of the Company.

The Directors and Managers of the Company are gentlemen of standing and LONG EXPERIENCE in this class of business, inasmuch as all of them were INSTRUMENTAL in making the old firms such a SUBSTANTIAL SUCCESS and [illegible] so favorably known from one end of Canada to the other.

Working Capital, Etc.

In addition to the fixed assets of the old businesses, the Company, after all adjustments are made, will have a working capital of $125,000; besides [illegible] of First Preference Stock in the treasury; will have no liabilities, mortgages, OR DEBTS OF ANY KIND, and will possess a UNION OF THE THREE BUSINESSES PROFITABLY ESTABLISHED FOR UPWARDS OF FORTY YEARS, during all of which time the manufactured goods and standing of the firms were of the highest class.

Toronto Stock Exchange.

Application will be made in due course to have the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the usual way.

Letter from Mr. Emil C. Boeckh.

Attention is directed to the annexed letter from MR. EMIL C. BOECKH, OF TORONTO, the President and General Manager of the Company:

Toronto, Sept. 28th, 1901.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Vice-President and General Manager,
The Union Trust Company, Toronto.

"Dear Sir,—In connection with the issue of the Prospectus and Stock of UNITED FACTORIES LIMITED, it may prove of interest to add a few words as to "WHY WE UNITE."

"The primary object has been to give permanence to a line of industries which have grown up with the country, and which through consolidation will continue to grow without fear of the interruptions which are liable to occur in an ordinary company or partnership business.

"These industries are, in their very nature, difficult ones to establish, requiring technical knowledge, perfect organization and careful attention to details, so that the possibility of [illegible] is reduced to a minimum.

"Arrangements have been made to retain the present managers, who are all interested very largely in the financial success of the Company through holdings of shares acquired in the transfer of their respective businesses.

"Through many years' connection in the markets of the world, for the buying of Bristles, Broom Corn and other raw material, and possessing important timber limits, through which its lumber is acquired at first cost, and through extensive additions to its plant already made, the Company will be in a position to greatly increase its business and profits in the future.

"An important objective point which the new Company will achieve is the manufacturing and marketing of a better article than has been possible in the past, and AT NO INCREASE IN COST.

"There are no articles in general use better known to the trade and consumers in Canada than BOECKH'S STANDARD BRUSHES AND BROOMS, BRYAN'S LONDON BRUSHES, AND CANE'S NEWMARKET WOODENWARE, and the Company holds a most valuable asset in these well and favorably known brands. BRUSHES, BROOMS and WOODENWARE are in demand in every home, warehouse, factory, mill, stable and public building, and on boats, railways, farms, etc., and are distributed through dealers in hardware, paints and oils, groceries, harness, drugs, etc., and the Company has a very strong connection with the leading houses in these lines. Owing to the rapid development of the packing industries of the Dominion, both for export and for home consumption, the Company is assured of a CONSTANTLY INCREASING TRADE with pork packers, confectioners, canners and manufacturers of pickles, paints, oils, varnishes, syrups and jams, all of whom are very large consumers of wooden packages of all kinds.

"JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING, one of the secrets of modern business success, will form an important feature in the policy of the Company.

"It is a well-known fact that after passing a certain point, AND WHICH WE HAVE PASSED, increased business can be done with comparatively little extra expense, thus assuring greater profits while the retail prices are not disturbed.

"THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is strictly a safe investment, which will earn a practically guaranteed dividend of 7 per cent., and owing to the provisions made for participation in further profits, and judging from our steadily increasing business, I AM OF OPINION THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK IN A REASONABLE TIME WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING 8 PER CENT. AND HIGHER. Yours very truly, EMIL C. BOECKH."

Subscriptions for Stock.

The Directors and their associates HAVE TAKEN $300,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. It is their intention TO HOLD THIS STOCK, and in the meantime have mutually agreed in writing to withhold it from the market. They have also taken the whole of the Second Preference Stock, THUS LEAVING ONLY $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK for sale, and which is now offered for public subscription.

Terms of Subscription.

A deposit of 5 per cent. is to be made on application, 25 per cent. on allotment, and the balance in two instalments of 35 per cent. each in one and two months respectively from date of allotments, but subscribers may make payments in advance, and will be entitled to dividends from such advanced dates. If no allotment is made the deposit will be returned without deduction, and if a partial allotment is made the deposit will be applied towards the payments of the instalments. The first dividend for the broken period and a quarter will be made on March 1st, 1902.

Subscriptions Received.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, IS AUTHORIZED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SHARES OF THE SAID $200,000 FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. Application may be made personally or by ORDINARY LETTER, addressed to the Union Trust Company, Limited, Temple Building, Toronto. Make all cheques payable to said Company. The books will be closed within seven days.

SHOT BY UNKNOWN MAN.

New York, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Lucy H. Carroll, who lived with her father at 78 South Elliott place, Brooklyn, was shot and seriously wounded by a man known as Captain John B. Nelson. The woman was shot three times. Nelson then shot himself in the right temple and died instantly.

Mrs. Carroll was removed to the Brooklyn hospital, where it was said that there was a chance that she might survive her injuries. She told her story of the tragedy to the police, saying that she did not know the man who had shot her.

"I was awakened," said Mrs. Carroll, "at seeing a man in my room. I was much alarmed and cried: 'What do you want here?'

"Without reply, the intruder drew a revolver and fired three times, and then turned and shot himself.

"I did not know him, nor can I imagine why he should have entered my rooms."

Mrs. Carroll's husband is said to be a soldier in the Philippines.

Our New Book on Cancer

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no regiment of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and robs marching of the [illegible] which is its invariable accompaniment. Mr. T. Bucknell, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. Bucknell.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail, Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET.

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box, at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free, Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

What's the Matter With [illegible]?

Talk about Canada being a country of ice and snow! It is not, for a few days ago Mrs. John Holmes, of Lakefield, left on the table of the editor of the News a few bunches of ripe rasberries, picked from the bushes in Burleigh, being a second crop. The bushes are well laden with fruit. The fact is, this glorious climate of Canada is the best in the world.

A WANDERING WOMAN.

An Aged Wayfarer Disturbs the Residents of George Street West.

An old woman who said she was from Toronto went from door to door on George street west, between 7 and 8 o'clock, last evening, asking to be taken in for the night. She gave an intelligent account of herself and became abusive when she was turned away. At length someone telephoned for the police and she was given lodgings at the station and will have an opportunity to explain herself to the Magistrate this morning.

Poor Girl Pity Her.

Growing! Yes, into weakness, but not strength. Studies—plenty of them. Tired, of course she is, and weak too. Does not eat enough, and digests far less than enough. This condition is so frequent, but how seldom noticed even by fond parents. Give her Ferrozone, then watch her appetite improve, her cheeks and lips grow ruddy, her step elastic, her spirits buoyant. All this simply the result of eating and digesting enough, making blood, and thereby strengthening the nerve and brain power. Ferrozone gives a woman's strength to weak girls. THE CHILDREN EAGERLY LOOK FOR THEIR DISH OF

Malt Breakfast Food

EACH MORNING

Happy and cheerful reports of the wonderful work that Malt Breakfast Food is doing for growing children, come to the notice of the manufacturers every day. Many fathers and mothers declare that their little ones look more eagerly and anxiously for their dish of Malt Breakfast Food each morning than for anything else. All the children relish it, and find it delicious and appetizing. Malt Breakfast Food is giving in every instance the happy results that careful parents look for—increase in flesh, purer blood, brighter eyes and greater bodily strength. We strongly advise parents to adopt the use of Malt Breakfast Food if their children are not showing evidences of healthy growth. Grocers ev.

Pain in the Joints.

may be muscular or rheumatic. The joints are hard to get at, and it requires a powerful, penetrating remedy to reach the affected parts. Polson's Nerviline, exactly meets the requirements, for it is both powerful and penetrating. The pain is expelled as if by magic, for one drop of Nerviline equals in strength five drops of other remedies. You won't often need the doctor if Nerviline is in the house. Price 25c.

A BOWER OF PLENTY.

Surprisingly Big Stock Shown at Kennedy's Meat Market.

That this is the era of the full dinner pail is strikingly exemplified by a look into Kennedy's Meat Market. No less than twenty dressed beefs are ready for today's trade, and the array of lambs, fowl, choice cuts of pork, sausages, cured meats, etc., seems endless. Mr. Kennedy prides himself on the choice quality of his beef and handles only the finest animals. The extreme cleanliness of the store, the skillful and careful manner in which the meats are handled, courteous attention and close prices are influences which attract the public and render the turning over of such large stocks possible. Today Mr. Kennedy is selling in lots of fifty pounds or more at wholesale prices.

THE SECOND BOAT.

The Second Steamer to Come Down from Lakefield.

The little steamer Victoria, owned by R. B. Rogers, superintendent of the Trent Valley canal, made the trip from Lakefield to the Whitlaw road some months ago. This trip was repeated again on Thursday.

The little steamer is used by Mr. Conroy, who had the contract of putting in the glance booms. Mr. Conroy informed the Times when the initial trip was made, and a notice of it was printed in these columns at the time.

ATHLETE'S FAILURE

Was Not a Success Until He Was Put on the Right Food.

Cornelius X. Hale, of 1717 Barclay street, Baltimore, Md., now quite a famous runner, has had some interesting experience in regard to proper feeding. His testimony is worth the attention of any athlete, or in fact, of any person who cares for good, sturdy, powerful health.

"Up to about 18 months ago I had been in many athletic contests without much success. I about made up my mind it was time to stop, but a physical director of the Y.M.C.A. of this city advised me to use Grape-Nuts Food and Postum Cereal Coffee as principal factors in my diet.

I accepted the advice and to-day am in possession of perfect health, and a great many medals won in different athletic events. I can now run a race and finish in fine condition, whereas before I started on the right diet, I would find myself in a faint at the end of a race.

Formerly I had more or less nervous trouble and severe headaches. I am glad to say since using Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee I have forgotten what a headache feels like. My heart is in perfect condition, whereas while I was using ordinary coffee it would not stand the heavy strain. This statement is absolutely true, and I do not object to your publishing it, for it may bring back health and strength to some poor being suffering from ill-health, caused by the use of improper food."

There is a reason for this: in the first place, ordinary coffee will show its effects somewhere in the nervous system,—frequently in weakening of the heart or in stomach troubles, which prevents one from obtaining the strength and value of food. It is, therefore, necessary to quit the use of this drug and in its place use Postum Cereal Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts Food.

They were both invented by a food expert and are made at the famous pure food factories of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., at Battle Creek, Mich. This food and the food drink are both made for a definite purpose and there are thousands of users throughout the world that can justify, from practical experience, that the theory is borne out by the facts.

Our Local Leaders

Editor Morning Times

Sir,—When next the Tory leaders (sic) meet to complete their quadrennial job of choosing a suitable (to themselves) man, it is to be hoped that they will consider the fitness of things just a little—that is all the people ask. Let neither "vaulting ambition" nor the spirit of Mammary move them to the usual course of duplicity and vice. As dry land cries out for rain so are the people crying out for something better than a lot of scheming, self-sufficient and ignorant party managers. [illegible] used to be the cry when any member of the party outside the ring made an independent suggestion. "Oh! It will hurt the party!" Who is "the party"—in the name of decency and common sense? What fools these mortals be!" The head and tail of all this running and caballing will meet some day, and then the body will get its due. It is little wonder that the average elector laughs with an incredulous and cynical laugh when the name of "our leaders" is mentioned. Be fair up and aboveboard, gentlemen, if I may call you such without offence! It will pay you not quite so well, but then "have ye no ear for public praise?" I had nearly headed this article "Printing and the Party Organ," but will devote myself to "the little weakly round the corner" some other day, when there is nothing better to do. In the meantime watch the Tory lawyers running to each other's offices and embracing each other (that is if they have a pull). But what of the versatile and nimble gentlemen (again I offer an apology) who vote where duty (to their pockets) calls, namely on the Grit side for the local and the other way for the Dominion? It is a beautiful and edifying sight to watch these gentlemen standing in with everybody. "Business is business," said Mr. Tarte, and there you are. Better be a scavenger in either party at so much a year, than a spectator at a feast even of the gods.

Peterborough, October 11.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

—Will all young women desiring to enroll for physical culture, please make note of the following: The two divisions of the class will meet respectively on Tuesday evening, October 15th at 8 o'clock, and on Thursday evening, October 17th, at the same hour. Please enroll immediately, if you have not already done so, as it is desirable that all members of the classes be present from the beginning.

—The class in dressmaking will meet on Tuesday evening, Oct. 15th, at 7.30 o'clock.

—The class in book-keeping and stenography on Wednesday evening at the same hour, and the class in composition and letter writing on Thursday evening Oct. 17th, at 8 o'clock.

—We would also call attention to the class in English literature. The study for this year is Tennyson's "In Memoriam," and the class will be under the direction of Sheriff Hall.

—We have also secured the services of thoroughly competent teachers in vocal and instrumental music, fancy work, and wood carving.

—Register now.

—Don't forget the gospel meeting tomorrow afternoon, 4.15—5.15. Leader—the secretary.

—The sewing class in connection with the Junior Department of the Young Women's Christian Association, will meet for the first time this afternoon, October 12th, at 3 o'clock. There is no extra fee for this class.

The gospel meeting held last Sabbath afternoon was well attended, and was led by the secretary, Miss Dickson; who took as the basis for her talk, Haggai II 4—9. A beautiful and appropriate solo was rendered by Miss Weddel whose sweet voice added not a little to the musical part of the service. The service closed promptly at 5.15.

These meetings will be continued weekly and we most cordially invite all young women to attend, not only for the help they may receive but for the help they may give. The meetings last only for one hour and are made as bright, interesting and helpful as possible.

The Alexandra Club met as usual on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and had their first regular gymnasium work, which they have commenced most enthusiastically. The club is making very satisfactory progress under its efficient little officers: President, Zetta Jamieson; Vice-President, Dolly Hundle; Secretary, Maud Rountree; Treasurer, Kathleen Kincaid.

The members of the Victoria Club were out in full force on Thursday afternoon for the opening of physical culture work and after a half-hour in the gymnasium had their regular club meeting at which it was decided to limit the club membership to 70—just here we would like to say that if any friends are especially interested in the work of the Junior Department, that interest might be manifested in a very practical way by contributing some chairs for the club room, as the present supply is [illegible] limited. The officers of the Victoria Club are: President, Hattie Clementie; Vice-President, Hattie Gillespie; Secretary, Ethel Roberts; Treasurer, May Edwards; Pianist, Mattie Robertson. The meeting next week is to be a business meeting when written reports are to be handed in, and a club constitution adopted. The club is one of which its members may well be proud, not only in point of numbers, but in its efficient officers and the spirit of good-fellowship that prevails everywhere.

On Friday evening an I.W.T. Club was organized in connection with the association. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Paterson; Vice-President, Miss M. White; Secretary, Miss Godfrey; Treasurer, Miss Currie. The regular club constitution was read and adopted. The club motto is, Isaiah 12. 2, and the club hymn, "More Love to Thee O Christ." The meetings are to be held weekly on Friday evenings, and conducted in the following order: Devotional exercises, business of the club, talk by the leader of the bible study. The bible work for the coming year is based upon Rev'd Laura H. Wild's "Studies in the Life of Christ," and is to be illustrated by copies of the best pictures. All young women will be most cordially welcomed at the meetings.

Better without a Stomach than with one that's got a constant "hurt" to it. Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets stimulate the digestive organs. Let one enjoy the good things of life and have no bad effects—carry them with you in your vest pocket—60 in box, 35 cents.—68

Successful and Pleasing Work When the Diamond Dyes Are Used.

Do You Wish to See the DIAMOND DYE MAT AND RUG PATTERNS?

The mothers, wives and daughters of Canada who buy fully eighty-five per cent. of all goods consumed in the home, should be extremely careful when they purchase dyes for home dyeing. Some dealers for the sake of large profits are selling poor imitations of the Diamond Dyes, under other names, assuring their customers that they are as good as the genuine Diamond Dyes. This low form of deception should be watched by all. In every case insist upon getting the genuine Diamond Dyes; the name appears on each package. If you would like to see the newest designs for mats and floor rugs, send your address to the Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, and they will send you free by mail sheets of the "Diamond Dye Mat and Rug patterns."

A GREAT PICK UP IN MILL REMNANTS OF FINE ALL WOOL TWEEDS AND WORSTEDS

We were fortunate enough to come across a rare chance to buy a pile of Excellent Remnants of Tweeds and Worsteds, three-quarters of a yard long to whole webs, which the millmen wanted to close out to some one who would take the whole lot off their hands. We took the pile at less than one-half the regular mill prices. They are now offered to our customers for less money than similar new cloths were ever sold in town. Cloths worth 90c and $1.00 per yard for 50c. Cloths worth 75c and 90c per yard for 35c. Other qualities proportionately reduced. These mill ends consist of the very same fashionable patterns which some of the best dressed men are now wearing. Whole suits made to order from single suit lengths, worth $18 to $19 for only $14.00. Trousers made to order worth $4.00 and $5.00 for only $3.25. Parents who want short ends or longer pieces for suits or parts of suits for their boys are not likely to miss this chance. H. LEBRUN & CO.

Federation of Labor.

The regular meeting of Peterborough Union of the Federation of Labor was held last night. A special feature of the meeting was the presentation of a banner by Mr. W. C. Tonley. The banner is a handsome one of crimson silk with gold trimmings. The Union continues to grow in strength, new members being added at every meeting.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

WAR IN THE ORIENT SAID TO BE BREWING

Russian Diplomats Say That War with Britain Is Inevitable.

RUSSIA STRONGLY ADVISED TO SEIZE HERAT

Big Reinforcements Said To Have Been Sent to the Frontier—Demand That England Be Prevented from Annexing.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 14 — Well informed diplomats here see in the present Afghanistan situation a bloody conflict between Russia and Britain in the near future. The Russian press is unanimous in its demands on the government to take advantage of the chaotic state of affairs in Afghanistan since the death of the Ameer and make a bold advance on the Afghan frontiers.

All the papers agree that now is the time to counteract British designs and that under no circumstances must Great Britain be permitted to annex Afghanistan. In fact throughout the empire a sudden and very anti-British and very warlike sentiment is arising.

The Svet, a semi-official organ, says in an article evidently inspired by the war office:

"Herat must be occupied at once. Many other important points on the Afghan frontier, which are in peril of British invasion, must be garrisoned immediately until such time as Afghanistan can be called completely tranquil. The moment is propitious for a courageous advance should England be prevented from annexing Afghanistan to her Indian domain. Russia does not seek war against India, since India would bring only annoyance, but Russia requires a strong police on her Central Asian frontiers. If Russia controlled Afghanistan peace with England would be assured."

STIR IN ARMY CIRCLES

There is a great stir in army circles to-day on account of a report that telegrams had already been sent to Kush ordering large reinforcements of Russian troops along the frontier of Central Asia to be in readiness, if necessary, to seize Herat, the key to India.

That Habib Oullah Khan, the eldest son of the dead Ameer, will not be permitted to stay in power without a bitter struggle and that a civil war is imminent in Afghanistan is positively known here. Mohammed Umar, the fourth son of the late ameer, has already proclaimed his rights of succession. He is favored by Russia and far more popular both with the princes and the people than his older brother. With Russian aid he is massing his forces and an outbreak is momentarily expected.

Since the Russians seized Kyber pass it has been only a matter of time and opportunity for the Russian occupation of Herat. The Kyber pass is the point of real strategic value in this region. The Russian railroad from the Caspian to the base of the Pamirs insures Russia's ability to hold this point, or at least to make it a very costly achievement to wrest it from her.

Herat is only about sixty miles south of this railroad. Russia has never seen fit to move in this direction, but if at any time it were necessary to her plans it could be occupied with little trouble.

Great Britain has twice invaded the territory of Afghanistan, but in 1880 Abdul Rhaman Khan, a grandson of the Dost Mohammed, repulsed the British and formed an independent government, whose stability is guaranteed by interlapping treaties with himself by Russia and Great Britain. The inhabitants of the province are almost entirely Moslem. As between Great Britain and Russia the people and the khan incline more toward the czar than King Edward.

Herat has been besieged more times than any other place in the world. If the sieges are accurately counted the result is fifty-two. It was the capital of Timor, it was fought for by the Mohammedans, by the Persians, by the ameers of Kabul, and there was always an ameer of Herat anxious to regain his patrimony. The years when Herat has not seen fighting have been rare, and Herat is a very old town.

During the present century it has been unsuccessfully besieged in 1837, and 1838 by the Persians and taken by them in 1856, regained by Dost Mohammed, ameer of Kabul, in 1863; lost by him to an ameer of Herat and regained by him in 1881 under the late ameer, Abburrahman Khan.

HORSES FOR THE VELDT

EIGHT HUNDRED SHIPPED FROM MONTREAL SATURDAY.

Over Five Thousand Have Been Sent and Many More Could Be Taken if They Were Available—Another Shipment in November.

Montreal, Oct. 14—The Allan Line steamship Sicilian sailed from this city for Capetown on Saturday with a cargo of 818 horses, the same to be used in the cavalry service in South Africa.

The entire cargo was loaded on board the Sicilian in the space of two hours and thirty-five minutes, which is thought to be a record for the port. The animals are a well set up lot of medium size and weight, and looked very fit for the work before them. The horses are quartered on three decks, and the fittings, over which no time and expense has been spared, are of the very best. The Sicilian will call at St. Vincent on her way out, and it is expected that she will arrive at Cape Town inside of thirty days.

Mr. Andrew Allan and Captain Barclay, the Allan's shore captain, were both at Windmill point seeing to the arrangements, and Colonel Dent, of the British Remount Service, who had charge of the shipment, was also on hand. By a quarter of twelve, Col. Dent had finished his official count, the word was given and the Sicilian started on her long voyage.

So far this year, 5,149 horses have been shipped from the port of Montreal to South Africa. In May 750 were sent out. In June the number was 800; in July and August, 1,830; in September 950, and now 818. If it was not for the fact that the country is pretty well cleaned out of desirable stock, the shipments of horses to South Africa would have been double or perhaps triple the actual shipments.

The Elder-Dempster steamship Montfort has been chartered by the British Government to carry a cargo of about eight hundred horses to the Cape. It is expected that she will sail from Montreal about Nov. 15. This will likely be the last shipment for the present year.

CLARKE WALLACE'S SUCCESSOR

His Brother, Mr. Thos. Wallace, the Likely Nominee.

The feeling seems to be gaining ground that the Conservatives of West York will offer the nomination to Mr. T. F. Wallace, brother of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace. He is known to everybody in West-York as Tom Wallace, and for a number of years has been closely identified with the County Council, the Township Council, and various agricultural societies. He is a first-class business man, and is two years older than his more distinguished brother. Mr. Wallace could easily carry the riding if the nomination were tendered him.

GEN. BULLER GIVEN NUMEROUS HINTS.

WAR OFFICE DID NOT WANT HIM TO MAKE SPEECHES

A Mistake to Say the Boer War is Over—Developments Similar to Those of the Burmah War.

London, Oct. 14.—A representative of the Associated Press learns that previous to Gen. Buller's speech of Thursday, he had received several plain hints from the War Office, expressing the hope that he would not accept invitations to make speeches.

One of the highest officials connected with the administration of the army said to a representative of the Associated Press: "the ultimate spirit of the age has taken away these sinecures, such as Governor of Tilbury, and Commander-in-Chief of Berwick, with which a hundred years ago Gen. Buller might be shelved, and at the same time rewarded. We had no alternative but to reward Gen. Buller's long and conscientious period of service by kicking him out or giving him a command which his rank demands.

"As for the public dissatisfaction with our progress in South Africa, I fear that Lord Roberts and other optimistic prophets are unintentionally more to blame than any one else. No one got up and said the Burmah war was over, or that it would be over in a foolishly short space of time. It lasted nearly four years and the British public took it as a matter of course. The South African war has probably got another two years to run, developing like the Burmah affair into a subaltern's campaign. Continual local disturbances are being put down by the small garrison. To supervise such work we know of no one better than Lord Kitchener. His chief difficulty, which seems to have missed the attention of the critics, is that having non-combatant natives populating the war area, he is prohibited from destroying supplies to any degree of military thoroughness. If we could concentrate or deport the natives I think an effective devastation would quickly end the campaign."

CONFESSED TO STEALING.

And the Man Who Received the Stolen Money Will be Prosecuted.

Winnipeg, Oct. 12.—John Paik, the post-office employee charged with taking registered mail from the Winnipeg office, has confessed. When arrested in Emerson $350 was found upon him, and he gave besides $1,000 to a friend in the city.

Stung to Death.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 12.—A special from Mishawaka, Ind., says: The 10-year-old son of John H. Ellis, living south of Mishawaka, accidentally backed a team of horses into an apiary, upsetting the hives. Thousands of bees attacked the boy and horses. The boy lost the sight of both eyes as the result of stings and may die. Both horses were stung to death.

CLARKE WALLACE WAS LAID TO REST

Deceased Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order Interred.

ORANGEMEN OUT IN FORCE.

Nearly Two Thousand Members of the Order from Toronto Alone Followed the Remains to the Grave.

Woodbridge, Oct. 12.—The funeral of Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, late Grand Sovereign of the Orange Association of British North America, took place this afternoon, and the obsequies were the most widely attended of any ever held in this town. All parts of the province were represented, and delegates came from Quebec and the more distant provinces. Nearly two thousand Orangemen came from Toronto on special trains, leaving that city.

The Grand Lodge of British North America and the Grand Lodge of Ontario West were jointly responsible for the funeral arrangements. The services before the removal of the body and the funeral procession were conducted by Rev. Mr. Swallow, rector of the Anglican Church, and formerly pastor of the deceased. These being concluded the mournful cortege wended its way to Christ Church Cemetery, where the remains were interred. The pall-bearers were numerous, including the officers of the Grand Lodge of British North America and old Orange associations, to the number of about twenty-five. The hearse was drawn by four black horses.

The services at the grave were conducted by Grand Master Dr. T. S. Sproule, Rev. William Walsh, Grand Chaplain, of British North America, and Rev A. H. Dixon, Grand Chaplain of Ontario West. The chief mourners were the deceased's widow, four sons, and two brothers.

The county and district officers of the association wore their official regalia. All other members were in mourning costume. A large proportion of them wore button photographs of the deceased, and this constituted a very noticeable feature among the various expressions of grief.

Flowers were sent in such great profusion from all quarters that they required special means of conveyance to the grave. Wreaths came from various bodies outside the Orange order, as well as from the Supreme Grand Lodge of Ontario West, the County Lodge of Toronto, the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, L.O.L., 207, Parkdale, Dr. Sproule and Mrs. Mary Cullum, Grand Mistress of the Orange Association. A very large wreath was sent by Dunlop's of Toronto, on behalf of the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, R. L. Borden, E. F. Clarke, and many others.

THE BOYS IN KHAKI.

Who Bored Face Colonel Pipeclay and General Sealingwax in Ottawa

The Huntingdon Gleaner thus speaks of a notable incident in connection with the Royal visit to the Federal capital:

"The worst instance of how not to do it, was the treatment of the volunteers who served in South Africa. They were notified to attend and receive their service medals from the Duke. This order was coupled with another that they were to be dressed in the uniforms of the corps to which they belonged. To many of them this was impossible, for they had not returned to the corps from which they enlisted, and had not their uniforms. They said they all had their khaki suits and could appear in them. They were curtly told that no soldier in khaki would be allowed to approach the Duke. Thus barred from appearing in the dress in which they performed the services which entitled them to the medal a number did not present themselves at Quebec and Montreal. At Ottawa the Africans struck: if not allowed to wear khaki suits they would not go at all. An official order was issued warning them if they paraded in that costume they would be "guilty of gross disrespect of H.R.H. the Duke of York." The men who had faced Boer bullets were unterrified, and at the appointed hour approached the sacred enclosure in the tabooed khaki. What was to be done? Colonel Pipeclay and General Sealing Wax were horrified, and if they had those rebellious militia men in Hold Hengland would have tried them by drum martial. Happily there was one man in authority who had some common sense. Dr. Borden being confined to his room with the burns sustained on the Tarte steamboat at Quebec, and Hon. Mr. Scott was acting Minister of Militia, and to prevent a scene he ordered that the men in khaki be admitted. They filed in, received their medals and departed, without the tower of the parliament buildings falling upon them."

But an investigation into their alleged insubordination is now proceeding, and the offenders may yet be punished for their almost justifiable audacity.

Prof Hand Killed in Explosion

Hamilton, Oct. 12.—Prof. Hand was fatally injured yesterday in an explosion of gunpowder at his factory. The well-known manufacturer of fireworks was engaged in one of the small buildings, when the accident occurred. His body, face, and hands were severely burned. He was taken to the hospital, where he died at 10 o'clock. He was over 60 years of age, and left a widow and family. His son, Mr. Thomas W. Hand, is the head of the T. W. Hand Fireworks Company, which the deceased founded in this city many years ago. This is the second fatality at the fireworks manufactory, Mr. Walter Teale, a partner of Mr. Thomas W. Hand, having been blown to pieces a couple of years ago.

GERMAN SAILORS ARE BADLY ROUTED

Venezuelans Fight Warship's Men and Drive Them Away.

BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

Attack Steamer on Which Vanquished Take Refuge in Flight

Armed Force from Big Cruiser Overawes the Rioters—International Trouble May Follow a Row in South America.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Oct. 14.—The British royal mail steamer Eden to-day brought from La Guayra, Venezuela, the following story: Last Sunday night about fifty sailors from the German cruiser Vineta engaged in a street row with the populace. Police in civilian clothes interfered, siding with the inhabitants, and the fight became general, the Germans making their way to the wharf, where they boarded the German steamer Valesia. Meantime two petty officers of the Vineta, who were sober and who were waiting at the wharf to take the Vineta's boat, were attacked by the police. They resisted and the police wounded them both badly with swords.

All the Germans ashore were unarmed. The wounded officers were carried on board the Valesia by members of the Valesia's crew, the populace and police still attacking them with stones and sticks. The mob then tried to board the Valesia, but was prevented from so doing by the captain and crew.

ARMED GERMANS DISPERSE MOB.

The captain of the Valesia signaled to the Vineta, which was in the harbor the perilous situation of the Germans, and the Vineta sent a boat load of thirty armed men to the Valesia, which they boarded by the side opposite the wharf, not landing on Venezuelan soil.

The mob, estimated to number 1,200 persons, was still acting in a threatening manner and fired a few shots. The commander of the Vineta's boat ordered his men to perform the motions of loading, but not to introduce cartridges into their rifles. Hearing the rattling of the breeches of the weapons, the mob disappeared rapidly in all directions.

It is said the Venezuelan government is putting the blame for the affair upon the Germans and has requested the German minister to apologize for the sailors' conduct. It is believed at Caracas that the German minister intends to ask Venezuela to apologize. There was still much excitement at Porto Cabello when the Eden sailed.

REPORTS ROUT OF GENERAL URIBE.

Colon, Columbia, Oct. 14.—An official bulletin dated Barranquilla, Oct. 6, says the French steamer Fournel brings news that General Uribe-Uribe was utterly routed at Tachira and arrived at Maracaibo the morning of Oct. 6.

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 14.—The British steamer Barbadean to-day brought further refugees from Colon, Colombia. They say the situation there is still serious. A couple of days ago the rebels commenced to attack a town near Colon, but desisted owing to an order from the commander of the United States gunboat Machias.

Caracas, Venezuela, Oct. 10.—The idea of a peaceful, friendly and conclusive arrangement between Venezuela and Colombia of the existing trouble is not repulsive to Venezuela, it being understood that Venezuela's honor will not suffer thereby. The possibility of an amicable settlement is now occupying public attention.

WILL RISK LIVES IN SMALL CRAFT

Captain Andrews and Bride Will Attempt to Cross Atlantic.

SEAMEN EXPECT A WRECK.

They Say the Small Boat Will Not Stand The Trip.—They Will Throw Overboard Bottles Containing Messages.

Atlantic City, N. J. Oct. 12.—Death or a fortune is involved in the daring ocean voyage that Captain William Andrews and his bride of a few weeks commenced on Saturday. Both realize the perils that await them in their lonely, long, and dangerous voyage across three thousand miles of sea in a thirteen and a half foot boat, sloop rigged.

Their only object in hazarding their lives is the fortune they expect to realize from exhibitions of the boat and themselves if they should successfully complete their trip.

The craft in which they are to trust their fate is a novelty in its appearance—sharp at both ends, and broadened in the middle out of all ordinary proportion. The bottom is flat and the sides straight up and down. The mast is short and the boom long.

It is built on plans furnished by Captain Andrews, and every seaman here who has looked at it declares that it will not survive in ordinary heavy weather. Captain Andrews only smiles, and his wife simply says she has confidence in her husband's judgement and experience. He has named the craft the Dark Secret. She is painted black, and is constructed of half-inch cedar, and covered with canvas. Three hundred pounds of lead are fastened to her keel, to keep her from turning over and to right her when she is struck by a sea. Besides, there is a considerable quantity of ballast to keep her well in the water.

"Our sole object," said Capt. Andrews, "is to break all records in crossing the ocean in the smallest boat that was ever put to the test. Our course will lie in the trade routes, headed for the Azores. There we will take on the provisions for the run to Palos, Spain, which will be the end of the journey.

"I count on six weeks in getting to the Azores and three weeks in going to Spain. We may be two months in making the entire journey. We are not trying to break a speed record. It is our intention to let our friends hear from us at sea by throwing bottles overboard with messages in them stating where we are and telling the incidents of the journey."

Venezuela is confident she can hold her present positions on the frontier against possible invasion.

UNITED STATES STILL ON GUARD.

Washington, Oct. 14.—It is the intention of the navy department to send one of its vessels to Panama to relieve the battleship Iowa, which had been watching American interests during the unsettled conditions on the isthmus and which is in need of overhauling. The Iowa will proceed later to Talcahuano, Chili, and will be the first big American ship to go into dock on the Pacific coast outside of the United States.

SMUGGLE GUNS FROM NEW YORK.

New York, Oct. 14.—The government of Colombia, which is reported to have bought two modern warships in Europe, is gathering up all the rapid fire guns for sale here. It has also bought four rifled canon in this city. As the insurgents are paying high prices for arms and ammunition speculators in the West Indies and in Central and South American countries, who are smuggling the stores into Colombia and Venezuela, are getting much of their material from this port and the dangerous stuff is being shipped as fireworks.

French Captures Commandant Scheeper.

Boer Leader so Ill That He Had to Travel in a Buggy—Rebel Leader and Two Young Farmers Executed.

London, Oct. 13—Lord Kitchener Reports to the War Office from Pretoria under yesterday's date that Gen. French's column's have captured Commandant Scheeper. Lord Kitchener does not state whether Scheeper's commando, which has been so active in Cape Colony, was captured or not. The British have been in pursuit for a couple of weeks. Scheeper himself was so ill that he was obliged to travel in a buggy.

HANGINGS IN CAPE COLONY.

Middleburg, Cape Colony, Oct. 13.—The two young farmers who had twice joined the Boers have been hanged at Vryburg. The death sentences of a number of other condemned men have been commuted to penal servitude.

Commandant Lotter, the Cape rebel whose commando—consisting almost wholly of rebels—was captured south of Petersburg in September, and who was sentenced to death, was executed yesterday morning.

Mauled by Strikers.

New York, Oct. 12.—A number of women and girls employed by the Cooper Wrapping Company, Williamsburg, Brooklyn, where a strike is in progress, were attacked on their way to work to-day, and many of them were badly hurt. A dozen policemen, who had been detailed to come to the Wrapper Company's factory, had hard work to quell the disturbance and it was necessary for them to use clubs to restore order. Rosie Solomon, said to be the leader of the attacking party was arrested.

It will cure the pains and aches of the entire family and relieve a vast amount of suffering every year.

BOER WAR WILL LAST TWO YEARS LONGER

The Pacification of South Africa Will be a Long Drawn Process.

GEN. REDVERS BULLER IS A SHATTERED IDOL

Curious Effect of South African War on British Generals—Public Attention Centered on General Buller.

London, Oct. 12.—The South African campaign has a curious effect on British generals. Public attention is centered on Gen. Buller's extraordinary exhibition, while society is gossiping about the remarkable action of another general. This one is a Knight Commander of the Bath, holding a high command in South Africa. He is over 60 years of age, has been a widower for two years, and has engaged himself by letter to marry a woman of 56, whom he has not seen for twenty years. The bride-elect, who is an Irishwoman, is preparing to go out to South Africa.

As for Gen. Buller, he seems to have forever shattered every vestige of his reputation. Previous to Gen. Buller's speech of Thursday he had received several plain hints from the War Office expressing the hope that he would not accept invitations to make speeches. His appointment to the command of an army corps was made in a spirit of generosity. It was thought that Gen. Buller could not do much harm in the two years remaining before his retirement. Failure to appoint him would have signified a public disgrace, which the War Office was not willing to inflict on him, believing that Gen. Buller had done the best his ability showed.

WAR OFFICE'S DIFFICULTY.

One of the highest officials connected with the administration of the army said: "The utilitarian spirit of the age has taken away these sinecures, such as Governor of Tilbury and Commander-in-Chief of Berwick, with which a hundred years ago Gen. Buller might be shelved, and at the same time rewarded. We had no alternative but to reward Gen. Buller's long and conscientious period of service by kicking him out or giving him a command which his rank demands. Of the two evils, we chose what we thought was the least. Our jurisdication is perhaps somewhat sentimental. But no army can run without a certain amount of sentiment.

TWO MORE YEARS OF WAR.

"As for the public dissatisfaction with our progress in South Africa, I fear that Lord Roberts and other optimistic prophets are unintentionally more to blame than anyone else. No one got up and said that the Burmah war was over, or that it would be over in a foolishly short space of time. It lasted nearly 4 years, and the British public took it as a matter of course. The South African war has probably got another two years to run, developing like the Burmah affair, into a subaltern's campaign. Continual local disturbances are being put down by the small garrisons. To supervise such work we know of no one better than Lord Kitchener. His chief difficulty, which seems to have missed the attention of the critics, is that having non-combatant natives populating the war area, he is prohibited from destroying supplies to any degree of military thoroughness. If we could concentrate or deport the natives, I think an effective devastation would quickly end the campaign."

SAID TO HAVE HEART DISEASE.

Is No Longer the Robust Man of Former Times—He Never, However, Misses a Day at the Office.

London, Oct. 14.—Cecil Rhodes, whose part in politics and empire-making is vividly recalled by the Schnaedhorst letters, is living almost absolutely alone at a quiet hotel on diet, and with the attentions of a man who is seriously ill. There is no doubt that he is suffering from heart disease and is no longer the robust man of former times; yet he never missed a day this week at the office of the British Chartered South African Company burying himself in the details and conducting long, tedious meetings without complaint or mention of his ill-health. But after these, in the quiet of his home, he seems to become almost a wreck, like a man almost likely to go off at any moment, as one of his visitors said on coming out from his room. Usually Mr. Rhodes is supremely indifferent to public sentiment, preferring rather to ride roughshod over criticisms; but in the matter of the Schnaedhorst letters he has exhibited the keenest desire to head off adverse comment. His efforts, however, have met with slight success.

Jealousy Leads to Suicide.

New York, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Lucy H. Carrol, who lives with her mother at 76 South Elliott place, Brooklyn, was shot and seriously wounded at her home early this morning by Captain John B. Neilson. Neilson then shot himself in the right temple and died instantly. Mrs. Carroll at first told the police that she did not know the man who had shot her.

The police found a portrait of Neilson in Mrs. Carrol's room, and when she was told of this she said she had known Neilson for some time, that he had paid her much attention and had been very jealous of her recently. Neilson was about 35 years old and was at one time a sea captain. Mrs. Carroll is about 30 years old. According to the police the woman's husband enlisted a year or more ago in a United States engineering corps. At about the same time Neilson secured a place on one of the United States army transports, and it is said, came back a third officer. He had served on the transports Conte and Arathusa, and had sailed as second officer on the steamship Givenne. Upon his return from his first trip to the Philippines he carried a letter of introduction to Mrs. Carroll from her husband, and from that time on became a visitor at her parent's home.

Filipinos Force a Retreat

Manila, Oct. 14.—A detachment of the twenty-first company of Macabebes to-day encountered a large force of insurgents near Lipa, a province of Batangas. Lieutenant Bean of the Macabebes was killed and one of the force was wounded. The enemy was strongly intrenched.

After two hours' fighting the Americans retreated to await reinforcements. The insurgents numbered over 300, were armed with Remington and Mauser rifles, and apparently had plenty of ammunition.

Martin, a teacher at Mauban, was captured by insurgents while visiting a neighboring town under an escort of native police. The next day his captors tied him in a hammock, carried him to within a mile of town and released him, saying he was a noncombatant.

The entire police force of Catanag, province of Tayabas, numbering eleven has been carried off by insurgents.

Have Trace of Miss Stone

Cradock, Cape Colony, Oct. 14. — Lieutenant Grant, 12th Lancers, entered Commandant Sheeper's laager on the night of September 23 and called upon the Boers to surrender. Three of them immediately did so and Lieut. Grant threw their rifles and bandoliers into the river. Then drawing his revolver, he killed one of the enemy, and wounded three.

$10 a Minute for Preaching

London, Oct. 14.—The vicar of Sherborne obtains a portion of his income in a curious manner. The last Earl of Bristol, who died in 1780, bequeathed to the vicar of Sherborne, for the time being, the sum of £30 a year for a sermon to be preached in the Abbey church on each anniversary of his death. This year the anniversary fell on Monday last, and the vicar, despite the fact that the congregation consisted of only two persons besides the inmates of a local almshouse whose attendance is compulsory, delivered an eloquent discourse lasting exactly fifteen minutes. He thus received the handsome renumeration of $10 a minute.

Officers Hold Suspects

New York, Oct. 12.—According to the Sofia correspondent of The World, the Bulgarian police are assured that Miss Ellen H. Stone, the kidnapped American missionary, has been conducted by twenty brigands close to the village of Iakaruta in Turkish territory.

Dynamite Shipped to Canada

Canton, Oct. 12.—The Viceroy of Canton has received an intimation from the Chinese Minister in London that large quantities of dynamite, arms and ammunition have been shipped to China, presumably for the use of the reformers.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 14 1901

LOCAL NEWS-LETTER

APSLEY

Our people are heartily discouraged over the railway matter. That their hopes should have been raised to the highest pitch, and suddenly, and without apparent reason, dashed to the earth, is very disappointing. Still, we are not without hope. Something will come of the recent agitation, I am sure.

The annual exhibition of the Townships of Burleigh, Chandos and Anstruther was held on Friday, October 4th, at the village of Apsley. The day was fine and great crowds turned out. The fair was a success, the exhibits in almost every class being up to the usual mark. Quite a few visitors were present from a distance.

The only special exhibit was the Singer sewing machines, exhibited by the Company's representative from Lakefield, Mr. J. W. Smart, who did a good business, as usual.

The Methodists of this section are preparing to build a new church. They have already received quite a number of subscriptions. On the day of the fair they gave a tea in an empty store, and held a concert in the hall at night. From tea and concert they netted in the neighborhood of $60.

Dr. Alex. Bell, our esteemed clerk, was in Peterborough on municipal business a few days ago, accompanied by Councillor Wigg.

Value of Diamonds.

As to the value of diamonds, perfectly white stones or decided tints of red, rose, green or blue are most highly prized. Fine cinnamon and salmon or brown, black or yellow stones also are esteemed. If flawless and without tint of any kind, they are termed first water. If they possess a steely blue color, at times almost opalescent, they are called blue white. Such are usually Brazilian stones. Exceptionally perfect stones are termed gems, and for such there is no fixed value, the price depending on the purity and the brilliancy of the stone. The term first water varies in meaning, according to the class of goods carried by the dealer using it.

It is impossible to estimate the value of a diamond by its weight. Color, brilliancy, cut and general perfection of the stone all are to be taken into account. Of two stones, both flawless and weighing ten carats, one may be worth $900 and the other $12,000. Exceptional stones often bring special prices. Off color or imperfect stones sell at an average price per carat regardless of size.

How Fortress Monroe Was Built.

The manner of constructing the fort at Old Point Comfort is interesting and throws some light on customs and practices then in vogue. The work was almost wholly done by slaves who were brought to the place by their masters and leased to the engineers in charge. The slave owner received 50 cents a day for each slave, and the government furnished each "laborer," as the slave was called, with two suits of working clothes, a pair or two of shoes, rations, quarters and occasionally a little tobacco. The "laborers" worked with very little clothes and generally without shoes. They lived in barracks and were subject to a kind of military discipline. The owners were regular in coming in to collect the hire for their slaves, from which we may infer that the "constituents" of those days knew how to appreciate a good thing to a degree worthy of the present generation.

The Water Beetle.

The great carnivorous water beetle, the dytiscus, after catching and eating other creatures all day, with two minute intervals to come up, poke the tips of its wings out of the water and jam some air against its spiracles before descending once more to its subaqueous hunting grounds, will rise by night from the surface of the Thames, lift again those horny wing cases, unfold a broad and beautiful pair of gauzy wings and whirl off on a visit of love and adventure to some distant pond, on to which it descends like a bullet from the air above.

When people are sitting in a greenhouse at night with no lamp lighted, talking or smoking, they sometimes hear a smash as if a pebble had been dropped on the glass from above. It is a dysticus beetle whose compound eyes have mistaken the shine of the glass in the moonlight for the gleam of a pond.

At night some of the whirligig beetles, the shiny beanlike creatures seen whirling in incessant circles in corners by the bank, make a quite audible and almost musical sound upon the water.

She Showed Him Her Work.

The woman had her arms in the tub and was fiercely scrubbing one dirty garment after another. Book agents don't often penetrate to that part of Chicago, but this one did. He knocked on the front door until he was tired, and then he went around to the back door. The woman was bobbing up and down over the washboard.

"Good morning, madam," said the book agent pleasantly.

"Good mornin," said the woman shortly.

"Pleasant day," observed the book agent, sparring for an opening.

"Good enough," answered the woman.

"Excuse me, madam," said the book agent, "but I have here a work that I would like to show you."

"Have you?" answered the woman. "Well, I've got a lot of work that I'd like to show you." She took one soapy hand out of the tub and waved it at a great pile of dirty clothes.

"That's my work," went on the woman. "If your work can beat that, all right; if it can't, why, skip out."

The book agent skipped.

ONE WOMAN

With two faces; one face bright with health, the other face pinched and drawn by illness. Many a woman can take the portrait of herself made but a few years ago, and holding it by her face in the mirror realize a similar change.

Behind this change in form and feature is always disease, and generally disease which affects the womanly organism. The backache and bearing-down pains put a heavy strain on the nervous system. There is loss of sleep, lack of appetite, and, as a natural result, loss of strength and flesh.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases of the womanly organs. It establishes regularity, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Words cannot tell what I suffered for thirteen years with womb trouble and dragging-down pains through my hips and back," writes Mrs. John Dickson, of Grenfell, Assiniboia Dist., N. W. Ter. "I can't describe the misery it was to be on my feet long at a time. I could not eat nor sleep. Often I wished to die. Then I saw Dr. Pierce's medicines advertised and thought I would try them. Had not taken one bottle till I was feeling well. After I had taken five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was like a new woman. Could eat and sleep and do all my own work. I would entreat of any lady suffering from female weakness to give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial, for I know the benefit she will receive."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

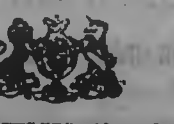
Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained."

Dr Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

Eight Pieces of Music for 10c.

To anyone sending us ten cents we will send 8 pieces of new, full size, copyrighted music, the publisher's price of which is $4.00. Besides this we will send 36 pages of bright, interesting, illustrated stories and up-to-date articles. This is a fair and square offer or it would not appear in these columns. Address A. D. Hill, 1123 Broadway, N.Y.C.



SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for fittings, Armouries, Windsor, Ont.," will be received at this office until Wednesday, 16th October, 1901, inclusively, for the fittings required for the Drill Hall, Windsor, Ont.

Perfect Manhood

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality; it creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease; no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and make the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 18 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his abilities. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,
O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

LADY MINTO ON THE ENGINE

Montreal, Oct. 12—The Star's correspondent on the Royal train writes: From Glacier House to Illecillewaet upon the pilot of the engine of the royal train—a wild dash through the keen evening air, high up among the grandeur of the Rockies—a dash for fifteen miles around startling curves, through gloomy tunnels and high above the long snow shed the Summit range, with lofty Sir Donald overlooking all.

This was the experience of the Countess of Minto during the western progress of the royal train. The air was growing chilly when Her Excellency took her seat upon the pilot, for the sun had gone down behind the lofty mountain peaks and deep purple shadows were already beginning to grow among the hills.

Alan Macnab, a Nova Scotian, selected out of seventy or eighty drivers for the honorable post, stood at the throttle of engine number 455. He wore a smart little bouquet of purple pansies in honor of the occasion. A parting ray of the sun shot down through a mountain gorge and flashed along the sombre sides of the big boiler. A rug was spread along the front of the pilot and Her Excellency took a seat on the left side. On her extreme left was Captain Graham, A.D.C., and others in the party were Major and Mrs. Maude, and Miss Grenfell. Mr. Sidney Hall, artist with the Royal suite, occupied the extreme right. Hon. Arthur Guise was on one side of the cab and the Star correspondent was on the other.

Those on board the locomotive with the lives of Her Excellency and her companions in their keeping were Allan MacNab, engineer; Joseph Callaghan, special engineer, and W. E. Dodd, fireman. The bell rang, rugs were tucked warmly around the distinguished travellers on the pilot, and with many a sharp hissing and panting, No. 455 had started.

The monster gained speed slowly, but with its driving wheels grinding steadily, and strongly gripping the rails, the engine soon was racing along.

There was a roar about the cab like a tumult of many waters. The human voice was muffled with the congregation of sounds. The shining rails were like toy things as they seemed to meet far in the distance. The first section man was passed like a flash. He took off his hat, and, flag in hand, smiled as the Countess threw him a pleasant greeting.

And now farther to the left are the sharp peaks—Uto, Eagle, Avalanche, and Macdonald and the snowy Hermit Range with its wild Grizzly peak, where the bears, after which it is called, are so often encountered. Far down among the trees the Illecillewaet shows a silver thread across the valley.

Around the curves the locomotive dashes with the ends of rugs flying loose from the pilot and a gloved hand at either side grasping tightly the short stubby flag staves.

Section man after section man is passed with hat in hand having completed the work of inspection and now content with placid mind to watch the Royal progress.

looms up in the distance, and its grotto-like, abysmal surface shine and glow far off in hues of green and white and blue.

The great locomotive groans and pants as it ascends the heavy grade, in some parts as steep as one hundred and sixteen feet to the mile. Suddenly a spot of blackness appears against the side of a steep wall and with a roar which seems to split one's ear-drums the engine has plunged into the depths of a tunnel. The vibration of the roar against the sides of the rocky cave is terrific. The engine seems surrounded and enveloped in a great swallowing noise which is like a thousand drums and tom-toms. There is nothing ahead but in the rock through which the engine is being hurled. With a sudden motion, Engineer Macnab presses a button and immediately a powerful ray of light is thrown forward through the gloom, lighting up the dismal interior and showing in the shadows beneath the little party on the pilot. It is the electric headlight, a new device in the West, which is being used to reassure the distinguished visitors upon the pilot. At the end of the tunnel a heavy shower of water is falling and the travellers on the pilot duck their heads as they dash through the drizzling downpour. Out into daylight we dash and with the pressure of the button the electric light is gone.

Far above our heads tower the giant Rockies with their white capped summits now wrapped in gloomy shadows. Grayish hued glaciers are pausing upon some slopes and a warm garment of green verdure encircles others. Tall trees are like tiny shrubs in the distance, and here and there are ugly scars among the greenery, showing where landslides have torn down the mountain sides. About the lower slopes are the sweet-smelling pine trees and the firs and a maple tree here and there exhibiting its glorious coloring among the more sombre surroundings. Past all this grandeur we flash with the awe taking hold of the heart, and the harsh, strenuous mutterings of the iron monster making a fearsome accompaniment. The Countess waves to an old Italian woman by the side of the track and a rare smile illuminates for an instant as we flash by the ancient olive-tinted countenance. The lofty ranges, the home of the mountain goat and the bear, swing slowly past one by one, and crowd into a lordly panorama in the rear. The Loop is now at hand with the railway's sudden turns and twistings. The engine rushes across a valley leading down from the Mount Bonney glacier, touching for a moment on the base of Ross Peak, then doubling away back to the right upon itself a mile or more. Then sweeping around to the right it touches Cougar Mountain, crossing again to the left, and at last shooting down the valley parallel with its former course. A glance behind shows two long gashes in the mountain slope, one above the other, but those upon the pilot cannot know of this.

It is now bitter cold as the locomotive cuts its way fiercely through the mountain passes. The driving bars rattle slightly and the cab rocks sometimes to and fro as the hissing monster answers the master's hand at the throttle.

Fourteen miles have now been covered since the travellers, perched upon the pilot, took their seats—fourteen miles of keen, swift-rushing air, of delightful shivers as the engine plunges across a trestle with a gaping gorge and seething waters far below—fourteen miles of careful watch upon the track for fallen rocks or trees—fourteen miles of exhilaration such as can be had in no other situation.

The Illecillewaet river, with its pea-green water, is now in sight. Gigantic trees for which British Columbia is famous, line the gorge like an army of titanic warders. The engine slows up and stops, giving a final proud hiss of satisfaction. The Countess, with a little sigh of relief, steps from the pilot and is escorted to her carriage in the rear.

Prospectus United Factories Limited

Objects of the Company.

The Charter of the "United Factories has been obtained and Stock issued to acquire as going concerns, the Brush, Broom and Woodenware businesses of the well-known and long-established firms of Boeckh Bros. & Company, of Toronto and Montreal.

Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, Newmarket.
Thomas Bryan, London, Ontario.

including all properties, leaseholds, real estate, plant and machinery, stock-in-trade manufactured and in process of manufacture, timber limits (many years' supply), trade marks, patents, and in fact every asset of the three businesses except book debts and bills receivable. AND THUS THE NEW COMPANY TAKES UP THE WHOLE BUSINESS AND CONTINUES THE SAME WITHOUT INTERRUPTION OR CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Accountants' Certificate.

"We hereby certify that we have examined the books and accounts of Boeckh Bros. & Company, and Thomas Bryan, for the years 1898 and 1899, and the Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, for the years 1897, 1898 and 1899, and find that the combined average yearly net profits amount to $45,669.91. All expenses, including bad and doubtful debts, allowance for depreciation of plant and equipment at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and also salary for management, have been charged in arriving at these profits.

"As stocks had been taken at varying dates, it is impossible to show in tabular form the profits earned yearly. We find, however, that the sales have increased OVER 62 PER CENT DURING THE PAST FOUR YEARS, and these three businesses ARE YEAR BY YEAR INCREASING THEIR PROFITS.

"A. C. NEFF, F.C.A.,
WILTON C. EDDIS, F.C.A.,
Chartered Accountants."

Toronto, May 21st, 1901.

NOTE.—It will be observed that, after deducting Management salaries, all expenses, providing for bad and doubtful debts, and annually writing off 7 per cent. for depreciation of plant, the net profits have been at the rate of $45,669.91 per annum. In consequence of increased business of the past nine months it is estimated that the net profits for the current year will be over $60,000, and continue to largely increase, so that the $28,000 required to pay the 7 per cent. dividends upon the First Preference Stock is more than assured.

Distribution of Profits--Reserve Account.

THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is entitled to preferential (cumulative) dividends of 7 per cent. per annum payable QUARTERLY on MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER and DECEMBER the FIRST.

Of the remaining profits, not less than 10 per cent. nor more than 20 per cent thereof, shall be transferred to a reserve account to better ensure the above mentioned dividends (to be used in the business of the Company), and this policy is to be continued until the reserve reaches 20 per cent. of the First Preference Stock issued and outstanding, at which sum it will be maintained, and if drawn upon will in like manner be restored.

THE SECOND PREFERENCE STOCK is non-cumulative and is entitled to divide out of the then remaining profits up to 5 per cent per annum payable yearly. After which all three Stocks—FIRST AND SECOND PREFERENCE AND COMMON—are entitled to PARTICIPATE EQUALLY in any further profits of each fiscal year.

In the event of the liquidation or dissolution of the Company the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is to be paid in full before anything can be paid on the Second Preference, and the SECOND PREFERENCE then stands next for payment in full before anything can be paid on the COMMON STOCK.

These provisions make the First Preference Stock unusually attractive, as its own 7 per cent. (cumulative) dividends and safety are not only guarded, but the Directors of the Company believe it WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING LARGER DIVIDENDS IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME.

Management of the Company.

The Directors and Managers of the Company are gentlemen of standing and LONG EXPERIENCE in this class of business, inasmuch as all of them were INSTRUMENTAL in making the old firms such a SUBSTANTIAL SUCCESS and their goods so favorably known from one end of Canada to the other.

Working Capital, Etc.

In addition to the other assets of the old businesses, the Company, after all adjustments are made, will have a working capital of $125,000, besides $100,000 of First Preference Stock in the treasury; will have no liabilities, mortgages, OR DEBTS OF ANY KIND, and will possess a UNION OF THE THREE BUSINESSES PROFITABLY ESTABLISHED FOR UPWARDS OF FORTY YEARS, during all of which time the manufactured goods and standing of the firms were of the highest class.

Toronto Stock Exchange.

Application will be made in due course to have the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the usual way.

Letter from Mr. Emil C. Boeckh.

Attention is directed to the annexed letter from MR. EMIL C. [illegible] OF TORONTO, the President and General Manager of the Co[illegible]

Toronto, [illegible]

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Vice-President and General Manag[illegible]
The Union Trust Company, [illegible]

"Dear Sir,—In connection with the issue of the P[illegible] UNITED FACTORIES LIMITED, it may prove of interest [illegible] as to "WHY WE UNITE."

"The primary object has been to give permanence to a [illegible] tries which have grown up with the country, and which through [illegible] dation will continue to grow without fear of the interruptions which are liable to occur in an ordinary company or partnership business.

"These industries are, in their very nature, difficult ones to establish, requiring technical knowledge, perfect organization and careful attention to details, so that the possibility of undesirable competition is reduced to a minimum.

"Arrangements have been made to retain the present managers, who are all interested very largely in the financial success of the Company through holdings of shares acquired in the transfer of their respective businesses.

"Through many years' connection in the markets of the world, for the buying of Bristles, Broom Corn and other raw material, and possessing important timber limits, through which its lumber is acquired at first cost, and through extensive additions to its plant already made, the Company will be in a position to greatly increase its business and profits in the future.

"An important objective point which the new Company will achieve is the manufacturing and marketing of a better article than has been possible in the past, and AT NO INCREASE IN COST.

"There are no articles in general use better known to the trade and consumers in Canada than BOECKH'S STANDARD BRUSHES AND BROOMS, BRYAN'S LONDON BRUSHES, AND CANE'S NEWMARKET WOODENWARE, and the Company holds a most valuable asset in these well and favorably known brands. BRUSHES, BROOMS and WOODENWARE are in demand in every home, warehouse, factory, mill, stable and public building, and on boats, railways, farms, etc., and are distributed through dealers in hardware, paints and oils, groceries, harness, drugs, etc., and the Company has a very strong connection with the leading houses in these lines. Owing to the rapid development of the packing industries of the Dominion, both for export and for home consumption, the Company is assured of a CONSTANTLY INCREASING TRADE with pork packers, confectioners, canners and manufacturers of pickles, paints, oils, varnishes, syrups and jams, all of whom are very large consumers of wooden packages of all kinds.

"JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING, one of the secrets of modern business success, will form an important feature in the policy of the Company.

"It is a well-known fact that after passing a certain point, AND WHICH WE HAVE PASSED, increased business can be done with comparatively little extra expense, thus assuring greater profits while the retail prices are not disturbed.

"THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is strictly a safe investment, which will earn a practically guaranteed dividend of 7 per cent., and owing to the provisions made for participation in further profits, and judging from our steadily increasing business, I AM OF OPINION THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK IN A REASONABLE TIME WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING 8 PER CENT. AND HIGHER. Yours very truly, EMIL C. BOECKH."

Subscriptions for Stock.

The Directors and their associates HAVE TAKEN $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. It is their intention TO HOLD THE STOCK, and in the meantime have mutually agreed in writing to withhold it from the market. They have also taken the whole of the Second Preference Stock, THUS LEAVING ONLY $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK for sale, and which is now offered for public subscription.

Terms of Subscription.

A deposit of 5 per cent. is to be made on application, 25 per cent. on allotment, and the balance in two instalments of 35 per cent. each in one and two months respectively from date of allotments, but subscribers may make payments in advance, and will be entitled to dividends from such advanced dates. If no allotment is made the deposit will be returned without deduction, and if a partial allotment is made the deposit will be applied towards the payments of the instalments. The first dividend for the broken period and a quarter will be made on March 1st, 1902.

Subscriptions Received.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, IS AUTHORIZED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SHARES OF THE SAID $200,000 FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. Application may be made personally or by ORDINARY LETTER, addressed to the Union Trust Company, Limited, Temple Building, Toronto. Make all cheques payable to said Company. The books will be closed within seven days.

BULLER BREAKS SILENCE.

London, Oct. 11.—Speaking after a luncheon given in his honor by the King's Royal Rifles, General Sir Redvers Buller, whose recent appointment as commander of an army corps has been much criticised, said he had been attacked on account of a telegram which it was said he had sent ordering Gen. White to surrender Ladysmith after his (Buller's) attack on Colenso on December 15, 1899, had resulted unsuccessfully. General Buller described at length his own and General White's difficulties at that time. He said that at that time he prepared a message telling General White that his (Buller's) attack had failed, and he could not make another attempt to relieve him within a month in the then slow fighting. General Buller said he read this telegram over several times, saying to himself, "That's a mean thing to send a fellow," but he knew the and that General White could say, if he surrendered, that General Buller had advised it. The same telegram suggested that it might be necessary to surrender, and in that case General Buller made some suggestions as to what General White should do and how he should do it, thinking that it would be cover for a man whom he believed to be in greater difficulties than his own.

Gen. Buller declared that he wanted to bring the man who said he had counseled General White to surrender into the ring. Therefore he challenged him to produce the telegram, which, he said, be knew was in the hands of the editor of a magazine, and must have been stolen, because it was in cipher addressed to General White, and was perfectly private.

General Buller's speech has made a tremendous stir. The newspapers are divided in their opinions of it. A majority of them, including some that are not hostile to General Buller, regard it as and greatly regret that the general did not adhere to his lately avowed practice to not answer newspaper criticism. Several papers declare that his explanation that be heliographed to General White suggesting that it might be necessary for him to surrender, and advising what to do in such a case, was actually instruction to surrender, and they condemn him accordingly. One paper compares the message to Sir H Parker's famous order to Nelson to retire at Copenhagen, which posterity has unsparingly condemned.

The Standard may be quoted as expressing the severest view set forth with the greatest moderation compatible with such an opinion. It says,—

"On the fatally damaging episode of the heliograph message. General Buller admitted the worst that can be said against him. It is not the least surprising feature of the case that be does not evince any consciousness of the real character of his admissions. By authorising General White to surrender be contemplated a humiliation compared with which all the other reverses of the war would have been trivial. His motive, it seems, was a generous desire to shield a subordinate from responsibility, but if this was chivalry.

It was not leadership, and it was not policy. The error, was committed under circumstances which possibly vindicate General Buller's good nature, but only at the expense of his judgement, capacity, and competence to hold a responsible office. It seems to us there is only one course left for its unfortunate author. On sober reconsideration of all that his admissions involve, it should be obvious to General Buller that he would best consult his own dignity and the national interests by resigning his command and seeking the retirement he has earned by years of arduous service. He must see that he is no longer in his place at the head of an army corps.

General Buller's apologists, who as said, are in the minority, are impressed by his manly protest against hair-brained critics, who hardly know a musket from a field gun, and they unhesitatingly accept his explanation as manly and frank.

The Telegraph, the chief of these, says, however, that General Buller is mistaken in treating the heliograph affair as involving theft, or the improper divulgence of secrets. It intimates that the facts were fairly well known so far back as August 1900. Although thinking that General Buller had ample justification for his indignant protest, the paper thinks it would have been enough if he had said that Earl Roberts, who knew all the circumstances in which the despatch was sent, as General Buller's critics cannot possibly know retained him in his command, and subsequently deliberately continued him in office at Aldershot. That surely says the Telegraph was a complete and absolute vindication of General Buller on an occasion which is responsible for so much ill-timed and ill-formed scandal.

Perfect Manhood

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality; it creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease; no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and make the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 18 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his abilities. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

LADY MINTO ON THE ENGINE

Montreal, Oct. 12—The Star's correspondent on the Royal train writes: From Glacier House to Illecillewaet upon the pilot of the engine of the royal train—a wild dash through the keen evening air, high up among the grandeur of the Rockies—a dash for fifteen miles around startling curves, through gloomy tunnels and high above the long snow shed the summit range, with lofty Sir Donald overlooking all.

This was the experience of the Countess of Minto during the western progress of the royal train. The air was growing chilly when Her Excellency took her seat upon the pilot, for the sun had gone down behind the lofty mountain peaks and deep purple shadows were already beginning to grow among the hills.

Alan Macnab, a Nova Scotian, selected out of seventy or eighty drivers for the honorable post, stood at the throttle of engine number [illegible]. He wore a smart little bouquet of purple pansies in honor of the occasion. A parting ray of the sun, shot down through a mountain gorge and flashed along the sombre sides of the big boiler. A rug was spread along the front of the pilot and Her Excellency took a seat on the left side. On her extreme left was Captain Graham, A.D.C.; and others in the party were Major and Mrs. Maude, and Miss Grenfell. Mr. Sidney Hall, artist with the Royal suite, occupied the extreme right. Hon. Arthur Guise was on one side of the cab and the Star correspondent was on the other.

Those on board the locomotive with the lives of Her Excellency and her companions in their keeping were Allan Macnab, engineer; Joseph Callaghan, special engineer, and W. E. Lodd, fireman. The bell rang, rugs were tucked warmly around the distinguished travellers on the pilot, and with many a sharp hissing and panting, No. [illegible] had started.

The monster gained speed slowly, but with its driving wheels grinding steadily, and strongly gripping the rails, the engine soon was racing along.

There was a roar about the cab like a tumult of many waters. The human voice was muffled with the congregation of sounds. The shining rails were like toy things as they seemed to meet far in the distance. The first section man was passed like a flash. He took off his hat, and, flag in hand, smiled as the Countess threw him a pleasant greeting.

And now farther to the left are the sharp peaks—Uto, Eagle, Avalanche, and Macdonald and the snowy Hermit Range with its wild Grizzly peak, where the bears, after which it is called, are so often encountered. Far down among the trees the Illecillewaet shows a silver thread across the valley.

Around the curves the locomotive dashes with the ends of rugs flying loose from the pilot and a gloved hand at either side grasping tightly the short stubby flag staves.

Section man after section man is passed with hat in hand having completed the work of inspection and now content with placid mind to watch the Royal progress.
looms up in the distance, and its grotto-like, abysmal recesses shine and glow far off in hues of green and white and blue.

The great locomotive groans and pants as it ascends the heavy grade, in some parts as steep as one hundred and sixteen feet to the mile. Suddenly a spot of blackness appears against the side of a steep wall and with a roar which seems to split one's ear-drums the engine has plunged into the depths of a tunnel. The vibration of the roar against the sides of the rocky cave is terrific. The engine seems surrounded and enveloped in a great swallowing noise which is like a thousand drums and tom-toms. There is nothing ahead but in the rock through which the engine is being buried. With a sudden motion, Engineer Macnab presses a button and immediately a powerful ray of light is thrown forward through the gloom, lighting up the dismal interior and showing in the shadows beneath the little party on the pilot. It is the electric headlight, a new device in the West, which is being used to reassure the distinguished visitors upon the pilot. At the end of the tunnel a heavy shower of water is falling and the travellers on the pilot duck their heads as they dash through the drizzling downpour. Out into daylight we dash and with the pressure of the button the electric light is gone.

Far above our heads tower the giant Rockies with their white capped summits now wrapped in gloomy shadows. Grayish hued glaciers are pausing upon some slopes and a warm garment of green verdure encircles others. Tall trees are like tiny shrubs in the distance, and here and there are ugly scars among the greenery, showing where landslides have torn down the mountain sides. About the lower slopes are the sweet-smelling pine trees and the firs and a maple tree here and there exhibiting its glorious coloring among the more sombre surroundings. Past all this grandeur we flash with the awe taking hold of the heart, and the harsh, strenuous mutterings of the iron monster making a fearsome accompaniment. The Countess waves to an old Italian woman by the side of the track and a rare smile illuminates for an instant as we flash by the ancient olive-tinted countenance. The lofty ranges, the home of the mountain goat and the bear, swing slowly past one by one, and crowd into a lordly panorama in the rear. The Loop is now at hand with the railway's sudden turns and twistings. The engine rushes across a valley leading down from the Mount Bonney glacier, touching for a moment on the base of Ross Peak, then doubling away back to the right upon itself a mile or more. Then swinging around to the right it touches Cougar Mountain, crossing again to the left, and at last shooting down the valley parallel with its former course. A glance behind shows two long gashes in the mountain slope, one above the other, but those upon the pilot cannot know of this. is now bitter cold as the locomotive cuts its way fiercely through the mountain passes. The driving bars rattle slightly and the cab rocks sometimes to and fro as the hissing monster answers the master's hand at the throttle.

Fourteen miles have now been covered since the travellers, perched upon the pilot, took their seats—fourteen miles of keen, swift-rushing air, of delightful shivers as the engine plunges across a trestle with a gaping gorge and seething waters far below—fourteen miles of careful watch upon the track for fallen rocks or trees—fourteen miles of exhilaration such as can be had in no other situation.

The Illecillewaet river, with its pea-green water, is now in sight. Gigantic trees for which British Columbia is famous, line the gorge like an army of titanic warders. The engine slows up and stops, giving a final proud hiss of satisfaction. The Countess, with a little sigh of relief, steps from the pilot and is escorted to her carriage in the rear.

Prospectus United Factories Limited

Objects of the Company.

The Charter of the "United Factories has been obtained and Stock issued to acquire as going concerns, the Brush, Broom and Woodenware businesses of the well-known and long-established firms of Boeckh Bros. & Company, of Toronto and Montreal.

Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, Newmarket.
Thomas Bryan, London, Ontario.

including all properties, leaseholds, real estate, plant and machinery, stock-in-trade manufactured and in process of manufacture, timber limits (many years' supply), trade marks, patents, and in fact every asset of the three businesses except book debts and bills receivable, AND THUS THE NEW COMPANY TAKES UP THE WHOLE BUSINESS AND CONTINUES THE SAME WITHOUT INTERRUPTION OR CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Accountants' Certificate.

"We hereby certify that we have examined the books and accounts of Boeckh Bros. & Company, and Thomas Bryan, for the years 1898 and 1899, and the Wm. Cane & Sons Manufacturing Company, Limited, for the years 1897, 1898 and 1899, and find that the combined average yearly net profits amount to $45,669.91. All expenses, including bad and doubtful debts, allowance for depreciation of plant and equipment at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and also salary for management, have been charged in arriving at these profits.

"As stocks had been taken at varying dates, it is impossible to show in tabular form the profits earned yearly. We find, however, that the sales have increased OVER 52 PER CENT DURING THE PAST FOUR YEARS, and these three businesses ARE YEAR BY YEAR INCREASING THEIR PROFITS.

"A. C. NEFF, F.C.A.,
WILTON C. EDDIS, F.C.A.,
Chartered Accountants."

Toronto, May 21st, 1901.

NOTE.—It will be observed that, after deducting Management salaries, all expenses, providing for bad and doubtful debts, and annually writing off 7 per cent. for depreciation of plant, the net profits have been at the rate of $45,669.91 per annum. In consequence of increased business of the past nine months it is estimated that the net profits for the current year will be over $60,000, and continue to largely increase, so that the $28,000 required to pay the 7 per cent. dividents upon the First Preference Stock is more than assured.

Distribution of Profits--Reserve Account.

THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is entitled to preferential (cumulative) dividends of 7 per cent. per annum payable QUARTERLY on MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER and DECEMBER the FIRST.

Of the remaining profits, not less than 10 per cent. nor more than 20 per cent thereof, shall be transferred to a reserve account to better ensure the above mentioned dividends (to be used in the business of the Company), and this policy is to be continued until the reserve reaches 20 per cent. of the First Preference Stock issued and outstanding, at which sum it will be maintained, and if drawn upon will in like manner be restored.

THE SECOND PREFERENCE STOCK is non-cumulative and is entitled to divide out of the then remaining profits up to 5 per cent. per annum payable yearly. After which all three Stocks—FIRST AND SECOND PREFERENCE AND COMMON—are entitled to PARTICIPATE EQUALLY in any further profits of each fiscal year.

In the event of the liquidation or dissolution of the Company the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is to be paid in full before anything can be paid on the Second Preference, and the SECOND PREFERENCE then stands next for payment in full before anything can be paid on the COMMON STOCK.

These provisions make the First Preference Stock unusually attractive, as its own 7 per cent. (cumulative) dividends and safety are not only guarded, but the Directors of the Company believe it WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING LARGER DIVIDENDS IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME.

Management of the Company.

The Directors and Managers of the Company are gentlemen of standing and LONG EXPERIENCE in this class of business, inasmuch as all of them were INSTRUMENTAL in making the old firms such a SUBSTANTIAL SUCCESS and their goods so favorably known from one end of Canada to the other.

Working Capital, Etc.

In addition to the other assets of the old businesses, the Company, after all adjustments are made, will have a working capital of $125,000, besides $100,000 of First Preference Stock in the treasury; will have no liabilities, mortgages, OR DEBTS OF ANY KIND, and will possess a UNION OF THE THREE BUSINESSES PROFITABLY ESTABLISHED FOR UPWARDS OF FORTY YEARS, during all of which time the manufactured goods and standing of the firms were of the highest class.

Toronto Stock Exchange.

Application will be made in due course to have the FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the usual way.

Letter from Mr. Emil C. Boeckh.

Attention is directed to the annexed letter from MR. EMIL C. BOECKH, OF TORONTO, the President and General Manager of the Company:

Toronto, Sept. 28th, 1901.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Vice-President and General Manager,
The Union Trust Company, Toronto.

"Dear Sir,—In connection with the issue of the Prospectus and Stock of UNITED FACTORIES LIMITED, it may prove of interest to add a few words as to "WHY WE UNITE."

"The primary object has been to give permanence to a line of industries which have grown up with the country, and which through consolidation will continue to grow without fear of the interruptions which are liable to occur in an ordinary company or partnership business.

"These industries are, in their very nature, difficult ones to establish, requiring technical knowledge, perfect organization and careful attention to details, so that the possibility of undesirable competition is reduced to a minimum.

"Arrangements have been made to retain the present managers, who are all interested very largely in the financial success of the Company through holdings of shares acquired in the transfer of their respective businesses.

"Through many years' connection in the markets of the world, for the buying of Bristles, Broom Corn and other raw material, and possessing important timber limits, through which its lumber is acquired at first cost, and through extensive additions to its plant already made, the Company will be in a position to greatly increase its business and profits in the future.

"An important objective point which the new Company will achieve is the manufacturing and marketing of a better article than has been possible in the past, and AT NO INCREASE IN COST.

"There are no articles in general use better known to the trade and consumers in Canada than BOECKH'S STANDARD BRUSHES AND BROOMS, BRYAN'S LONDON BRUSHES, AND CANE'S NEWMARKET WOODENWARE, and the Company holds a most valuable asset in these well and favorably known brands. BRUSHES, BROOMS and WOODENWARE are in demand in every home, warehouse, factory, mill, stable and public building, and on boats, railways, farms, etc., and are distributed through dealers in hardware, paints and oils, groceries, harness, drugs, etc., and the Company has a very strong connection with the leading houses in these lines. Owing to the rapid development of the packing industries of the Dominion, both for export and for home consumption, the Company is assured of a CONSTANTLY INCREASING TRADE with pork packers, confectioners, canners and manufacturers of pickles, paints, oils, varnishes, syrups and jams, all of whom are very large consumers of wooden packages of all kinds.

"JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING, one of the secrets of modern business success, will form an important feature in the policy of the Company.

"It is a well-known fact that after passing a certain point, AND WHICH WE HAVE PASSED, increased business can be done with comparatively little extra expense, thus assuring greater profits while the retail prices are not disturbed.

"THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK is strictly a safe investment, which will earn a practically guaranteed dividend of 7 per cent., and owing to the provisions made for participation in further profits, and judging from our steadily increasing business, I AM OF OPINION THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK IN A REASONABLE TIME WILL BE EARNING AND PAYING 8 PER CENT. AND HIGHER. Yours very truly, EMIL C. BOECKH."

Subscriptions for Stock.

The Directors and their associates HAVE TAKEN $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. It is their intention TO HOLD THE STOCK, and in the meantime have mutually agreed in writing to withhold it from the market. They have also taken the whole of the Second Preference Stock, THUS LEAVING ONLY $200,000 OF THE FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK for sale, and which is now offered for public subscription.

Terms of Subscription.

A deposit of 5 per cent. is to be made on application, 25 per cent. on allotment, and the balance in two instalments of 35 per cent. each in one and two months respectively from date of allotments, but subscribers may make payments in advance, and will be entitled to dividends from such advanced dates. If no allotment is made the deposit will be returned without deduction, and if a partial allotment is made the deposit will be applied towards the payments of the instalments. The first dividend for the broken period and a quarter will be made on March 1st, 1902.

Subscriptions Received.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY, LIMITED, IS AUTHORIZED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SHARES OF THE SAID $200,000 FIRST PREFERENCE STOCK AT PAR. Application may be made personally or by ORDINARY LETTER, addressed to the Union Trust Company, Limited, Temple Building, Toronto. Make all cheques payable to said Company. The books will be closed within seven days.

BULLER BREAKS SILENCE.

London, Oct. 11.—Speaking after a luncheon given in his honor by the King's Royal Rifles, General Sir Redvers Buller, whose recent appointment as commander of an army corps has been much criticised, said he had been attacked on account of a telegram which it was said he had sent ordering Gen. White to surrender Ladysmith after his (Buller's) attack on Colenso on December 15, 1899, had resulted unsuccessfully. General Buller described at length his own and General White's difficulties at that time. He said that at that time he prepared a message telling General White that his (Buller's) attack had failed, and he could not make another attempt to relieve him within a month in the then slow fighting. General Buller said he read this telegram over several times, saying to himself, "That's a mean thing to send a fellow," but he knew the
and that General White could say, if he surrendered, that General Buller had advised it. The same telegram suggested that it might be necessary to surrender, and in that case General Buller made some suggestions as to what General White should do and how he should do it, thinking that it would be cover for a man whom he believed to be in greater difficulties than his own.

Gen. Buller declared that he wanted to bring the man who said he had counseled General White to surrender into the ring. Therefore he challenged him to produce the telegram, which, he said, he knew was in the hands of the editor of a magazine, and must have been stolen, because it was in cipher addressed to General White, and was perfectly private.

General Buller's speech has made a tremendous stir. The newspapers are divided in their opinions of it. A majority of them, including some that are not hostile to General Buller, regard it as and greatly regret that the general did not adhere to his lately avowed practice to not answer newspaper criticism. Several papers declare that his explanation that he heliographed to General White suggesting that it might be necessary for him to surrender, and advising what to do in such a case, was actually instruction to surrender, and they condemn him accordingly. One paper compares the message to Sir H Parker's famous order to Nelson to retire at Copenhagen, which posterity has unsparingly condemned.

The Standard may be quoted as expressing the severest view set forth with the greatest moderation compatible with such an opinion. It says,—

"On the fatally damaging episode of the heliograph message, General Buller admitted the worst that can be said against him. It is not the least surprising feature of the case that he does not evince any consciousness of the real character of his admissions. By authorising General White to surrender he contemplated a humiliation compared with which all the other reverses of the war would have been trivial. His motive, it seems, was a generous desire to shield a subordinate from responsibility, but if this was chivalry.
It was not leadership, and it was not policy. The error was committed under circumstances which possibly vindicate General Buller's good nature, but only at the expense of his judgement, capacity, and competence to hold a responsible office. It seems to us there is only one course left for its unfortunate author. On sober reconsideration of all that his admissions involve, it should be obvious to General Buller that he would best consult his own dignity and the national interests by resigning his command and seeking the retirement he has earned by years of arduous service. He must see that he is no longer in his place at the head of an army corps.

General Buller's apologists, who as said, are in the minority, are impressed by his manly protest against hair-brained critics, who hardly know a musket from a field gun, and they unhesitatingly accept his explanation as manly and frank.

The Telegraph, the chief of these, says, however, that General Buller is mistaken in treating the heliograph affair as involving theft, or the improper divulgence of secrets. It intimates that the facts were fairly well known as far back as August 1900. Although thinking that General Buller had ample justification for his indignant protest, the paper thinks it would have been enough if he had said that Earl Roberts, who knew all the circumstances in which the despatch was sent, as General Buller's critics cannot possibly know, retained him in his command, and subsequently deliberately continued him in office at Aldershot. That surely says the Telegraph was a complete and absolute vindication of General Buller on an occasion which is responsible for so much ill-timed and ill-formed scandal.

An Old Man States His Case

A Peterborough Resident Tells How Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Cured Him.

Those who want evidence of the curative power of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets for all forms of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles of young and old, can easily find plenty of Peterboro people who have been cured by this remedy and who are pleased to speak a word in its favor.

Mr. Robert McClelland, Water St., a old resident, states his case as follows: "I have suffered from constipation and bladder trouble for fifteen years. I heard of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets and secured a bottle, and they have given me great satisfaction. My age, over 70 years, is against me, yet they worked finely with me, and I can highly recommend them."

Remember for the backache, urinary troubles and frequent rising at night, that afflict the aged, there is no better remedy than Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. Price 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

—What has become of the Common Weal Society?

—There is a heavy demand just now for bricklayers and stone masons.

—The boys' Bible training classes were organized at the Y.M.C.A. Sunday morning.

—John Mulhall, for being drunk and disorderly and for assaulting Officer McGinty, was fined $1 in Police Court on Saturday.

—The steamers were up as usual yesterday from Rice Lake ports with passengers and freight.

—A tea and concert, under the auspices of Lady Lansdowne Lodge, No. 22, will be held in the Sons of England hall, on Thursday evening, Oct. 17. A good programme is being prepared.

—Catherine Russell, a strange vagrant, who was causing trouble on George street on Friday, was arrested and the Magistrate sentenced her to five months in jail.

—A careless man, who lives near the Auburn Woollen Mills, recently mixed some cartridges with his smoking tobacco and didn't think of them again until he lit his pipe a day or two later. He can buy a new pipe easily enough, but will have trouble replacing the tip of his nose.

A Popular Company.

While in Toronto the other day the President of the North American Life Assurance Company told a representative of The Times that this popular institution never had a more successful period than it is having at present. The Peterborough district, under Mr. Garvin's capable management, was well up in line. The many friends and patrons of the company in Peterborough will be pleased to hear this.

MARKET NOTES.

Saturday's market was the largest for some time. Large quantities of poultry were offered for sale. The following were a few of the current prices: Apples, 50c to 60c per bag; potatoes, 50c to 55c per bag; eggs, 16c to 17c per dozen; butter, 18c to 24c per pound; ducks, 60c to 75c pair; geese and turkeys, 50c to 75c each.

Dan Spence Memorial.

A public meeting will be held on Thursday evening to deal with the matter of the memorial to the late private Dan Spence, who was killed in South Africa. Action on this matter has been long delayed and it is hoped that whatever is to be done will be proceeded with at once.

The People's Photographer is Mr. G. E. Whiten. He is kept busy all the time supplying his many customers with his high class work. Sign of the Golden Camera, 156 Hunter street.

ELECTRIC LIGHT TO-NIGHT.

The Repairs to the Dickson Raceway Completed Saturday.

The citizens have been very considerate to the Electric Light Company in their trouble. For over two weeks has the town been in darkness, while the repairs to the raceway have been going on. We are pleased to say that the work is now completed, and there will be no further stoppage to the light. The Cereal Company, which owns the property, put in solid concrete walls, so that there is no danger of another break. The light will be on to-night.

RETURN OF THE 57TH.

The Regiment Arrived From Toronto Saturday Morning.

The 57th Regiment returned from Toronto at 9.30 Saturday morning, and marched from the C. P. R. station to the drill shed to the lively strains of the two bands.

The boys were delighted with their trip, which, while considerable fatigue was entailed, was thoroughly enjoyed.

The Peterborough sections of the Field Battery returned Saturday evening.

Arrested in Toronto.

James Rives was arrested in Toronto on Saturday, charged with theft. Rives is alleged to have stolen a gold watch and chain from Mrs. Ensign, town, in September, 1900. Chief Rennel will delegate a member of the force to Toronto this morning to bring the prisoner to Peterborough.

—Dr. and Mrs. Bradd are in Buffalo.

—Warden Fitzgerald returned from Toronto yesterday.

—Mr. George J. Chalmers and son Alex., Water street, started for Mairn Centre on Saturday evening, where they have been engaged by the Cleveland-Sarnia Saw Mill Co., to cull their season's cut of logs, and do not expect to return to town again until spring.

THEIR ESCAPE A NEAT ONE

Released Themselves From Prison Bake Shop With Key of their Own Making

Toronto, Oct. 12.—Donald Black and James Armstrong, two Central Prison convicts, broke out of the Central about six o'clock this morning and have not been seen since.

The manner of their departure was rather clever. Both men, who are expert mechanics, have been employed in the bake-shop kitchen. The usual practice is to take the prisoners so employed from their cells at 4.35 and lock them in the kitchen in charge of a jail official. This was done this morning as usual, but the official in charge had many things to attend to, and about six o'clock Black and Armstrong vanished. There were four doors to the kitchen, and every one was locked when the escape was discovered. Evidently the men had manufactured a key, let themselves out, and locked the door carefully after them. Once in the prison yard it was a comparatively easy task to get out, as the walls were not guarded, and the yard contains several lumber piles.

Donald Black comes from Port Hope and was serving his second sentence for theft when he escaped.

Armstrong is a professional crook from Barrie, and has been in several times.

A GREAT PICK UP IN MILL REMNANTS OF FINE ALL WOOL TWEEDS AND WORSTEDS

We were fortunate enough to come across a rare chance to buy a pile of Excellent Remnants of Tweeds and Worsteds, three-quarters of a yard long to whole webs, which the millmen wanted to close out to some one who would take the whole lot off their hands. We took the pile at less than one-half the regular mill prices. They are now offered to our customers for less money than similar new cloths were ever sold in town. Cloths worth 90c and $1.00 per yard for 50c. Cloths worth 75c and 85c per yard for 35c. Other qualities proportionately reduced. These mill ends consist of the very same fashionable patterns which some of the best dressed men are now wearing. Whole suits made to order from single suit lengths, worth $18 to $19 for only $14.00. Trousers made to order worth $4.00 and $5.00 for only $3.25. Parents who want short ends or longer pieces for suits or parts of suits for their boys are not likely to miss this chance. H. LEBRUN & CO.

SPORTING NOTES.

FOOTBALL.

The match between the Peterborough Rugby team and the intermediate team of Ottawa, was played in that city on Saturday, and resulted in a victory for Ottawa by a score of 1-0.

The following rugby team from Trinity College School, Port Hope, played a practice match with Peterborough Juniors on the Nicholl's Oval Saturday afternoon: H. R. Langlow, back; T. H. McPherson, R. P. Tett and C. W. Walker, halves; H. O. Lawson, quarter, T. A. Paschal, R. H. Stenson, H. R. Derry, scrimmage; W. S. Curry, G. Cauldwell, W. H. Haven, R. A. Wrighan, D. Deacon, Smith, H. Rodgers, wings; Geo. Rogers, Hammond and McCaffrey, spare men. Mr. F. J. Sawers is manager for the team.

LACROSSE.

Montreal, Oct. 12.—The lacrosse match for the Minto Cup here to-day resulted in a victory for the home team, the final score being: Shamrocks, 5; Vancouver, Y.M.C.A., 0.

The games were scored as follows:

Games.	Won by	Time.
1	Shamrocks	2 min.
2	Shamrocks	30 mins.
3	Shamrocks	3 mins.
4	Shamrocks	35 mins.
5	Shamrocks	8 mins.

According to arrangement, only one game will be played, and the cup will stay in Montreal.

DON'T HURT SOME.

But Coffee Certainly Ruins Some of the Most Highly Organized People.

"One year I lived where the water was bitter with iron and I could not bear to drink it, so I began drinking coffee three times a day.

Gradually I noticed an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach, and more or less constipation. In a few months I began to lie awake at night long after I had retired.

This increased, until I never thought of going to sleep before three or four o'clock in the morning, and then only after getting out of bed and walking the floor for an hour.

I was talking of my nervous state with a friend, who suggested that perhaps it was the coffee I had been using. She felt quite sure it was, and stated that coffee would not stay on her stomach at all, but as she felt she must have a hot drink for breakfast, she had been using Postum Food Coffee. She said she didn't like Postum particularly well, and at breakfast the next morning I didn't wonder, when I tasted the flat drink that the servant brought on.

The same day I was invited to take dinner with another friend, Mrs. Foster. I had visited her often before, and knew she made delicious coffee, so when she asked how I liked her coffee, said, 'It is just as fine as usual.' She invited me to have another cup, but I said, 'I would not dare to take the second.' 'Oh, you can drink as many cups of this as you like; it won't hurt you. This is Postum Food Coffee. We have been using it a year now, and the little children have all they want and our family have never been so healthy as in the past year.' 'Postum,' said I doubtfully, 'why the Postum I had this morning didn't taste any more like this than dishwater.'

Perhaps it was not made right,' said my friend. I have known more than one person to be turned away from Postum because it was poorly made. There is no secret in it; only allow it to boil long enough to bring out the taste, and there you are.' I have been using Postum since and am entirely cured of my trouble. I cannot say to much for it." Grace A. Foster, Omaha, Neb.

The Yacht Race.

Editor Morning Times

Sir,—Will the Times kindly publish the conditions under which the recent yacht race was won in New York harbor, and oblige

A READER

Reply—The following are the stipulations laid down in the America's cup deed of gift: The competing yachts or vessels, if of one mast, shall be not less than 65 feet nor more than 90 feet on the load waterline; if of more than one mast, they shall not be less than 80 feet nor more than 115 feet on the load water-line. The challenging club shall give ten months' notice, in writing, naming the days for the proposed races, but no race shall be sailed in the days intervening between November 1 and May 1. Accompanying the ten months' notice if challenge there must be sent the name of the owner, and a certificate of the name, rig and following dimensions of the challenging vessel, namely, length on load water-line and extreme beam and draught of water, which dimensions shall not be exceeded, and a custom house registry of the vessel must also be sent as soon as possible. Vessels selected to compete for this cup must proceed under sail on their own bottoms to the port where the contest is to take place—Ed. Times.

COAL OIL AND GAS.

A Proposal to Sink a Test Well in Peterborough.

A member of the Board of Trade recently received the following letter in regard to sinking a test well in Peterborough. The letter speaks for itself:

Port Hope, Oct. 11.

Dear Sir,—I wrote you from Berlin in July last in reply to a letter from you to Mr. Fraser, of Petrolia. I did not at that time expect to come east to sink a well, but, however, we are in Port Hope now, and are engaged in putting down a well here.

If there is a chance to sink a test well in Peterborough, we would be willing to take stock in the Company if formed for the purpose.

I would like to look over the ground, and if you are as favorably situated as I think you are, your chance of getting oil or gas is very promising.

You should lie on or near the summit of the Cincinnati anticline, running across Ontario from Lake Huron, passing north of Toronto to its outcrop below us on Lake Ontario.

As we are so close to Peterborough now, we could make the price of a test very reasonable.

Yours very truly,
JOSEPH HARVEY,

Mr. Harvey is an expert oil man, and is a member of the firm of Frazer & Harvey, Petrolia, drillers of oil, gas, salt, etc.,

The Times called up President Dumble on Saturday, and suggested that the Board of Trade take the matter up. Mr. Dumble is not sanguine that we have the right formation for either oil or gas, but promised to consider the matter.

KISSED BY THE DUCHESS.

Miss Irene Munro Presented a Bouquet and Received a Kiss

One of the prettiest incidents connected with Toronto's welcome to the Duke and Duchess of York on Thursday, was when little Miss Irene Munro, daughter of Mr. R. J. Munro, of the Morgan House, town, presented a bouquet to Her Royal Highness, and received a kiss in return. The incident took place in front of the City Hall. It appears that Miss Irene, who is a charming child of twelve years, was with her uncle, who lives in the city, and while playing about the store of her relative, her winsome face attracted the attention of a gentleman passing, and he invited her to accompany him to the City Hall, and present the flowers, which she did as above.

After the Duchess kissed the dainty little maiden, the Duke shook her warmly by the hand.

Mr. Munro was in the city at the time, and knew nothing of the affair. He is naturally proud of the honor done his little daughter.

How to Get up an Appetite.

Distaste for food often follows Grippe and fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food, and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Ferrozone. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of the disease and by removing the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Ferrozone will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone, how it cures and why it cures. Call to-day and see them. Price 50c.

WITH GENERAL BULLER.

A South African Soldier Who Fought Under Buller at Spion Kop.

A few days ago Mr. Albert Miller, whose former home was in Port Hope, was in town, and told about his experiences in South Africa.

Mr. Miller landed at Durban with the reinforcements which were sent to General Buller, and was with Thorneycroft's mounted infantry at Spion Kop. After the battle there was only four, of whom Mr. Miller was one, who answered to the roll call. The battle was one of the fiercest of the whole war, and was fought under the greatest difficulties. Mr. Miller went through to Ladysmith with the British forces, and was amongst the first to enter the city. He says that no man could have done better than Buller did in his advance to the relief of Gen. White.

CHURCH NOTES.

—Services were held in the school room of St. John's Church yesterday, the church being closed for repairs.

—Rev. J. H. Hazlewood of the Park Street Church, began a series of talks on the subject of life at the Y.M.C.A. men's meeting yesterday afternoon. There was a fair attendance.

Manly Strength and Womanly Beauty depend on purity of the blood, and much of that purity depends on perfect kidney filtering. If these organs are diseased and will not perform their functions, man will seek in vain for strength and woman for beauty. JILTED IN BRIDAL ROBES.

Tears Fell Where Joy Should Have Reigned Groom-Elect was Missing.

Vineland, N. J., Oct. 13.—There was to have been a pretty wedding at the home of William Nelson last night, when his daughter Jennie was to have become the bride of Frederick M. Lyons, a prominent young man of the town. Miss Nelson was attired in her bridal gown, the wedding cake was ready, invited guests arrived, the trunk had been packed for the honeymoon tour, and everything had been arranged for the nuptials but the bridegroom-to-be failed to appear.

As the hours wore on Miss Nelson's mother and friends began to cry, but Miss Jennie still had faith, and waited patiently, but the awful truth soon dawned upon her, and she was prostrated.

A messenger who was sent to the home of Frederick Lyons arrived with the intelligence that he was nowhere to be found.

Mrs. Nelson hurriedly called upon the young man's mother, who told her that Frederick had left on a late train for New York City, and had left no address. Mrs. Lyons could not understand her son's sudden change of mind.

Frederick Lyons is a recent High school graduate and is a son of Frank M. Lyons, a well-to-do pearl button manufacturer here. The young man's former schoolmates and friends are shocked by his strange conduct, as he seemed very happy over the approaching event. The couple appeared very loving and devoted to each other, and many of their friends predicted a happy match. Lyons had been courting Miss Nelson for two or three years.

THE YACHT RACE.

Glasgow Syndicate May Challenge - Suggestion as Regards Shamrock I.

Glasgow, Oct. 12.—Considerable interest has been created in yachting circles to-day by an editorial in The Citizen to the effect that the proposal of the Glasgow syndicate to issue a challenge for the cup is the outcome of the series of experiments carried out in connection with the designing of Shamrock II.

It is stated that the present challenger is not a great departure from previous designs as the result of experiments in the Dumbarton model tank suggested, and it is reported on authority that later experiments with models at Messrs. Denny's yard have shown improvements equivalent to a gain of one mile on a 30-mile course.

New York, Oct. 12.—As the New York Yacht Club has declined to change the deed of gift so as to allow Shamrock II to contest again for the cup before two years have elapsed from the date of her defeat, a suggestion has been made to Sir Thomas Lipton to challenge with Shamrock I. for next year. The two years which must elapse after the defeat of one boat before she can sail again for the cup, will expire in favor of the first Shamrock on Oct. 20, and the suggestion is that if the first Shamrock has, as reported, received improvements she greatly needed when she entered her races with the Columbia in 1899, she should be in good condition to give the Columbia a good run for the trophy in 1902.

ABOUT SUGAR BEETS.

The Enormous Output of Sugar Beets in the United States.

We are indebted to Mr. J. H. McClellan for the following information regarding the production of sugar beets in the United States. Mr. McClellan, who is ever watchful for the interests of this locality, thinks that Peterborough should produce 50,000 tons of beets. There is evidently a great future for the industry:

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson estimates the total production of beet sugar in the United States this year at 196,500 tons. This is a big gain over last year, when the output was 72,944 tons. California is the largest beet sugar state, being credited with 80,000 tons this year, Michigan coming next with 60,000, Colorado third with 20,000 and Utah fourth with 15,000. New York and Nebraska each produced 7,000 tons. While this country is making rapid progress as a beet sugar country it is still far behind its European competitors. In 1899-1900 Germany produced 1,790,000 tons, Austria 1,120,000 tons, France 970,000 tons, Russia 900,000 and even little Belgium 300,000 tons. But the industry is comparatively new in America, and great possibilities are ahead of it.

Mr Elliott's Condition.

We regret to state that Mr. Robert Elliott, who lives at 230 George street, and who was seriously injured by the falling of a scaffold at the electric works some time ago, has to undergo a severe treatment in consequence of his injured knee not being right. He has been ordered to bed for six weeks, so that the injury may heal.

Tendency of Catarrh is to Spread.

Just a slight matter at first, and because slight, neglected; but the seed sown brings forth a dangerous harvest, Consumption, which is the harvest of death. Better spend a few moments each day inhaling Catarrhozone, an aromatic antiseptic that relieves at once, clears the nasal passages, and restores lost sense of taste and smell. The immediate effect of Catarrhozone is magical, so prompt and efficient. Cure is certain and permanent if you use Catarrhozone. Price $1.00. ASKS FOR DELAY.

Wants a Month in Which to Produce Evidence.

Montreal, October 14—Mr. Geoffrion, counsel for the condemned man Laplaine, whose execution is fixed for the 25th inst., presented a petition in Ottawa, this time asking for a reprieve of a month, as the time between the sentence and execution is too short to allow of the defence producing proofs of hereditary insanity.

The policy of the Department of Justice is not to grant a reprieve unless it is the intention to exercise the prerogative of clemency. So far the only insanity shown to have existed in the direct line of descent was in the case of the murderer's greatgrandfather, who died of insanity, induced by extreme use of alcohol, in Longue Pointe asylum.

REMARKABLE ANNOUNCEMENT

We see by the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, that this season they are offering their readers no less than three valuable pictures, and the subjects elected are certainly worthy of that great family paper. Real good pictures of our new King and Queen are very opportune, and it goes without saying that the Family Herald's pictures are the best extant. They are each 18 x 24 inches, taken since the accession to the throne, and bearing the King's and Queen autograph. Being the first taken after the accession, they are sure to be handed down from generation to generation with the tradition; those of the King and Queen were the first pictures taken after they came to the throne. The third picture is a genuine surprise for Canadians, for it is there the publishers of the Family Herald have shown remarkable enterprise. All our readers heard of the renowned Gainsborough picture, the Duchess of Devonshire. It has a remarkable history. Stolen in England 25 years ago, brought to America, hidden for 25 long years and delivered to its rightful owners on payment of a reward of $25,000, and since sold to J. Pierpont Morgan for $75,000 cash. Canadians will be delighted to know that the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star secured the right to furnish their readers with copies, true to the original, of that renowned painting. The Family Herald's picture is 22 x 28, in ten rich colours, a perfect gem of a picture. Copies of the renowned Gainsborough sell in New York for twelve dollars each. When it is known that each subscriber will receive that great family paper, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, and the three pictures, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and the renowned Duchess of Devonshire, all for one dollar, there is bound to be a big demand for the Family Herald this season, and there should be, for it certainly is the biggest dollar's obtainable.

WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA PROGRESSING SLOWLY

And Is Being Kept Up by Rebels from Natal and Cape Colony.

THE SITUATION TAKEN FROM BOER STANDPOINT

The Boers Say They Have Any Amount of Arms and Ammunition Buried and Can Keep Up a War for Years

New York, Oct. 15.—The Sun publishes the following, giving from a Boer standpoint, the situation in South Africa:

The commandos in the field, while shedding those who become physically unfit or undesirable, receive recruits from among the disaffected Dutch and others in Cape Colony and Natal, and, notwithstanding reports to the contrary, have sufficient arms and ammunition to last, with care, for a prolonged period. According to reports from perfectly trustworthy sources, President Steyn and Gen. Botha are confident of their ability to continue the war quite two years longer. At present they are using the Lee-Metford rifles taken during the war, for which they obtain ample ammunition in the convoys they capture and in the British camps which they surprise at intervals. In case this resource fails them, they still have a reserve of Mauser rifles with ammunition to fall back upon, safely deposited beyond danger falling into the hands of the British columns. Although a large extent of country has been laid waste, the food supply has not failed, and as the natives are not hostile to the Boers, the latter find no difficulty in obtaining what they require to replenish their simple commissariat. The Basutos hold aloof from participating in the war, owing to the younger and more intelligent element being opposed to it and their example is followed by other tribes.

One notable feature of the present stage of the conflict is that that section of the population of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State before the war which was opposed to the Kruger policy and would have been willing to arrange with the British Government, is now opposed to any terms that do not recognise the independence of the two republics and is resolved to fight on to the end, whatever it may be. They were much encouraged by the results of the fighting at Vladfontein in May and at Wilmansrust in June. In the fight at Valdfontein they inflicted our loss on a strong British column with a loss of only nine killed and eleven wounded; while at Wilmansrust they captured the British camp, all standing, with a loss of only six killed and four wounded to themselves. The British loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was over 350, of whom 200 were unwounded prisoners. In the recent fighting in Zululand they appear to have been less fortunate but the details are still wanting; and the capture of a large British convoy close to [illegible] would seem to imply that their reported defeat had not seriously discouraged them. In the attack on the British camp at Mafeking, they were more successful, and struck a heavy blow at a vital point in the communications between the two places. The force engaged in this affair was under Gen. Delarey, and was reported a short time before to have been driven north by Lord Methuen in great confusion.

The present activity of the Boers is due principally to the fact that their horses find grass all over the country, whereas during the winter they were restricted to the valleys. The British, owing to the devastation of the country, have contributed to the restriction of their own movements, which are rarely carried out to any great distance from the railway lines and large supply depots. To guard Johannesberg and the mines, they have between 40,000 and 50,000 men permanently encamped on the Rand. A large proportion of the remaining 150,000 men composing the effective army are in blockhouses along the railway lines and in barbed-wire enclosed camps at the principal towns, or watching the drifts on the Vaal and Orange rivers. The mobile force is thus reduced to a minimum, and is quite inadequate to put down the insurrection in the Cape Colony and dispose of the commandos operating over a territory nearly as large as France and Germany.

All the efforts to end the war on the part of the British have, so far, been ineffectual. The army is with difficulty kept up to full strength, the men enlisting in England falling off both in numbers and quality; so much so that many, both officers and men, have been sent back to England from South Africa as unfit for the field. The Cape Dutch who were disposed in the earlier stages of the war to remain quiet and abide the issue have, through the rigorous administration of natural law in certain districts, been practically driven to active rebellion; and it is only through fear that the Afrikanders of British and other origins than Dutch would also be driven to revolt that martial law has not been declared all over the colony.

What the issue of the conflict is to be, is not at all clear. It hardly seems within the bounds of possibility that the Boers should win all they are fighting for, but conditions seem to be arising in other parts of the world that would appear to make it prudent, to say the least, on the part of the British Government to make concessions to a brave and spirited people.

The British estimate that about 11,000 Boers still remain in arms; they themselves had in May last 249,416 officers and men in the field and along the lines of communication—the largest army Great Britain has ever put in the field. At present nineteen out of thirty-one cavalry regiments, one-third of the field and horse batteries of artillery, and one-half of the infantry battalions, are in South Africa, without counting militia and volunteer troops. The military question is complicated by financial questions as well; the war has already cost one-fourth as much as the Napoleonic wars cost England, and the British public is said to be wearying of the delay in ending the strife. Social influence and favoritism, to the effects of which, rightly or wrongly, the early British disasters were ascribed, is regaining strength, and it seems as if the dearly bought lesson of the last two years might be thrown away. Altogether, though the final outcome of the war cannot be doubted, the future offers little more of hope to the British than the past two years have had of glory.

DUKE PRAISES THE REVIEW

GENERAL O'GRADY-HALY RECEIVES TELEGRAM.

The Duke Much Struck With the Number and Spirit of the Troops of Ontario and Gives Them Great Praise,

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—General O'Grady-Haly has received the following telegram regarding the Toronto review:

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Oct. 12.—His Excellency has been requested by his Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York to make known to you and to all concerned how much pleased his Royal Highness was with yesterday's Review and with the arrangements connected with it. His Royal Highness was much struck with the large number present on parade and with the general bearing of the troops under arms.

The court of enquiry into the insubordination of Ottawa militiamen for wearing khaki against orders to receive their medals was to have met here to-day. It was postponed by telegram from Colonel Drury until Wednesday.

CANADIAN HORSES HEAD LIST

Of Prize Winners at Pan American—Clydesdales Capture Every Prize

Buffalo, New York, Oct. 14.—Canadian horsemen are well represented in the list of blue ribbon winners at the Pan-American. The Telfer and Climie Company of Montreal, was awarded first prize in the thoroughbred class. Canadian Clydesdales swept everything before them, capturing every prize offered for this class of horses. Graham Bros., of Claremont, won first in the three classes for stallions and first for three-year-old mares. Hodgkinson & Tisdell, of Beaverton, were awarded firsts for 1-year-old and 2-year-old fillies and brood mare with foal.

In the French-Canadian classes [illegible] de Land of l'Acadie, Que., was awarded three firsts, for mare, filly, and brood mare with foal. L. P. Sylvester, of St. Theodore d'Acton, Que., won the blue ribbon for 3-year-old stallions, and Samuel G. Mooney, of Vankleek Hill, Ont., won first in the class for 2-year-old stallions.

MAY KILL THEIR CAPTIVE

CAPTORS OF MISS STONE CHANGE THEIR RETREAT.

Movement of Troops is Ended at the Request of the United States, as It is Feared Pursuit Might Result in Her Murder.

Constantinople, Oct. 15.—Since the brigands who abducted Miss Stone were located on the mountain of Gultepe, the approach of the troops induced them to change their retreat. They are now hiding on the Turko-Bulgarian frontier, ready to cross to either side, as circumstances demand.

The decision to suspend the movements of the troops was partially due to the difficulties of operating in the mountainous country, and partly owing to fear that a further advance might endanger the life of Miss Stone, hence the American desire to try and negotiate for the payment of a ransom. It is hoped this will result in the release of Miss Stone in a few days.

The officials of the United States legation are much gratified at the Russian action in the matter. The Russian ambassador, I. A. Zinovieff, is supporting the American demands, and the steps taken by the secretary of the United States, Spencer Eddy, in every way possible.

United States on Guard

Washington, Oct. 14.—It is the intention of the navy department to send one of its vessels to Panama to relieve the battleship Iowa, which had been watching American interests during the unsettled conditions on the isthmus and which is in need of overhauling. The Iowa will proceed later to Talcahuano, Chili, and will be the first big American ship to go into dock on the Pacific coast outside of the United States.

Smuggling Guns

New York, Oct. 14.—The government of Colombia, which is reported to have bought two modern warships in Europe, is gathering up all the rapid fire guns for sale here. It has also bought four rifled canon in this city. As the insurgents are paying high prices for arms and ammunition speculators in the West Indies and in Central and South American countries, who are smuggling the stores into Colombia and Venezuela, are getting much of their material from this port and the dangerous stuff is being shipped as fireworks.

THE CHINESE ON THE PACIFIC COAST

A Visit to Their Quarters in Victoria, B. C.

OPIUM SMOKING HOTELS

Rich Wholesale Houses Which Import Quantities of the Narcotic.

The Oriental as He is Found in Canada—Can Stand More Than a White Man.

Montreal Oct. 15.—The Star's correspondent writes: When in Victoria, His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York took occasion to drive through the Chinese quarter of that city, and it is stated later in the evening the Duke visited incog. some of the most noted Chinese resorts.

The Chinese quarter in Victoria is one of the most interesting features of that city. There are, first, the wholesale houses, owned by wealthy Chinamen, who handle yearly immense quantities of opium and other commodities extensively used by the Chinese. These places are magnificently fitted up and some of the interior decorations, especially the wood carvings, are most ornate and elaborate. The exteriors of these establishments showed some of the finest illuminations in Victoria during the Royal visit. Enormous Chinese lanterns swung in gorgeously colored festoons from all parts of these buildings. The decorative scheme was completely Oriental in all its details. One could almost imagine himself in the streets of Canton on a holiday occasion.

We went into one of these gaily decorated wholesale houses, and were immediately handed out bad cigars by the polite old proprietor, who was strolling aimlessly about with his hands in his trouser pockets. Americanized Chinamen sat around and came in and went out as their fancy dictated. Far up towards the lofty ceiling extended gloomy carven shelves with their heavy burden of opium.

VISIT TO A JOSS HOUSE.

And then we went to the Joss House, where the Chinese God abides in all his splendour. Here was an old Chinaman, who in the dim light, closely watched our every movement. There was a collection of Chinese war weapons lining the walls on every side. To look at these was to get into an atmosphere of the Boxers with their huge wooden weapons. Beautiful carvings were all around and behind a high breastwork of such was the Chinese God, hideous in expression, but surrounded with all the appurtenances of Chinese civilization.

Moving farther down, the opium joints came in sight. We roam among strange wooden alleyways, our young Chinaman guide always in the lead. Through dimly lighted wooden corridors we take our way until suddenly a door is opened and we are admitted, by the good offices of our guide, into an opium joint.

An old Chinaman, with his cheeks fallen in, is reclining on a wooden couch. There is no mattress, but a small pillow supports his head. He has a long flute-like pipe between the fingers of one hand, and with his other hand he takes from a bottle a dark, sticky molasses-like mixture, which he rolls around on a wire. Industriously he rolls and rolls until he has the mixture thoroughly detached from the bottle. There is a small oil lamp in front of him with a dirty glass globe some four inches in height. Holding the opium above the lamp, he turns and twists the dark, sticky mixture in the heat of the flame. Suddenly the mass begins to swell and a round bulb appears on the end of the wire. Larger and larger it swells, until what at first was the size of a pea is now become much larger than a marble. Suddenly the continued application of the heat has its effect. The expansion is checked and the bulb begins to get smaller. The old Chinaman still industriously turns and twists the opium. Gradually its size decreases until it is of almost the same bulk as when it was taken from the bottle. The Chinaman pauses in the operation, and, with a sudden motion, stuffs the cooked mixture into the narrow orifice of the pipe, and, placing the latter between his lips, he holds the bowl in the flame and takes two or three long breaths. No smoke is apparent, only a cracking and a sizzling noise from the opium. At last, after two or three long, sucking inhalations, the dusky jaws open and a cloud of dark, heavy smelling smoke is emitted. Another and another follows.

When the fourth puff is over the cracking sound ceases. The opium is smoked. The pipe is cold. The Chinaman sinks back upon the pillow in a delicious languor.

The surroundings are weird. The light is dim in the poorly lighted wooden cabin. There are dirty shelves above the room, filled with all sorts of cooking utensils. There is a cramped air about the place. The crowded atmosphere of the East is with us. Chinamen recline around us, in loose flowing garments, and smoke their long slumber-giving pipes. The low ceiling oppresses one. The atmosphere is full of the pungent opium smoke.

There is a gleam of eyes peering forth indifferently from between narrow slits as the smokers sink into repose. In long lines they recline indifferent and oblivious to the surroundings. The smell of the smoke oppresses the visitor. There are white faces also among the smokers, and a magnificent diamond flashes as the owner tries to hide his face with his hand as we go through the joint. Chinamen stare carelessly at us as we curiously watch the lamps and the smokers.

"Me smokee twenty years," said Tom Lung, the proprietor of the joint. "It hurt white man much more than China man. But all same me could never never stop smoke. It makes deep sleep. Much fine dreams and life in fast moving clouds. Visit often in pipe dream home in China across Pacific. Me never could give up smoke now so long a habit. White men come to me often, and women too. They smoke pipe and sleep sound, but not live very long. Pipe smoke bad thing for white man, but give good dreams to Chinaman."

FREDERIC YORSTON.

DEATH OF THE AMEER RAHMAN

Has no Effect Whatever Upon the Status of Russia and Great Britain.

London, Oct. 14.—The death of the Ameer Abdu Rahman and the succession of his eldest son, Habibulla seems to have had no effect whatever upon the status of Russia and Great Britain in Afghanistan. Simla reports state that the new ruler came to the throne peacefully and that his brothers and sisters, the army and the people paid allegiance to him. He is announced as having determined to walk in the footsteps of his father.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Standard telegraphed yesterday: "Much doubt is cast upon the accuracy of the telegrams from Simla. According to official intelligence which has been received here from Bokhara, Habibulla did proclaim his accession to the throne, but his brothers did not recognise it for the simple reason that they had already left Cabul secretly with their partisans! This aroused the indignation of Habibulla, who surrounded himself with trusty troops, who guard the approaches to the palace. He also sent strong detachments on all roads leading to Cabul to prevent the return of his brothers or to bring them back as rebel prisoners."

Sir T. Salter Pyne, chief engineer of the Afghan Government since 1885, and a close friend of the old Ameer, has stated that it is extremely unsafe to prophesy about the buffer country. He is hopeful that the succession has been peacefully settled, and points out that the late sovereign "removed" many strong men who might have caused trouble at the present juncture. A strong factor for peace is Habibulla's undoubted popularity with the soldiers, and another thing making for quiet is the time of the year. The people in the provinces cannot make any hostile demonstration now, as winter will soon cover the land with snow. When spring comes the new potentate will have entrenched his position against all-comers.

The financial difficulties of Russia and the South African war of England make it necessary for these two great powers to preserve peace in Afghanistan if they can possibly do so with honor.

SOO CANAL AN AID TO AMITY.

Americans Want It Improved to Promote Friendship.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 14.—A party consisting of Congressmen Esch and Jenkins of Wisconsin, Congressmen Burke of South Dakota, Senators Knute Nelson and Moses E. Clapp, of Minnesota, Congressmen Tawney, McCleary, Edey, Stevens, Fletcher, and Morris has just returned from Sault Ste. Marie.

Congressman Esch said that a proper appropriation would make the Sault Ste Marie, in his opinion, the most important waterway in the world. He reported that its traffic is four times that of the Suez canal, the tonnage of the latter last year having been 7,000,000, as compared with 25,000,000 for the Sault Ste. Marie.

It is known that this matter will come before Congress next winter, and Mr. Esch believes that several millions of dollars should and will be appropriated for the improvement of the waterway. He adds that not the least of its important features is that it will encourage friendly relations with Canada, between which country and the United States he hopes that complete harmony will prevail. To make this waterway available and convenient appears to Mr. Esch as a means of commercially amalgamating two countries which politically are separate and distinct.

Did Not Co-Operate in Last Strike

New York, Oct. 14.—The misunderstanding between the International Association of Machinists and the Amalgamated Society of Engineers led to an exchange of word abetween the representatives of the two bodies at a recent meeting of the Central Federated Union. The Amalgamated Society of Engineers has its headquarters in England, and has only a branch organization in this country. The trouble grows out of the failure, it is alleged, of the Amalgamated Society, which has a number of machinists in its ranks, to co-operate with the International Association of Machinists during strikes. The Amalgamated Society was suspended by the building trades' section of the central body last week for failing to strike in sympathy with the machinists. George H. Warner, delegate to the International Association, started hostilities by demanding that the action of the building trades' section be sustained. The whole question was finally referred to the affiliated unions for a vote.

Has Rhodes More Bombs?

London, Oct. 14.—Business associates of Mr. Cecil Rhodes make no secret of their belief that his correspondence with Mr. Schnadhorst in regard to the famous check for £5,000 forms by no means the best card which the Cape ex-Premier has to play against his Liberal opponents. It is hinted that he is in a position to disclose financial relations between certain officials of Liberal organizations and Mr. Kruger. Liberals, for their part, believe that Mr. Rhodes endeavoured to bribe Mr. Schnadhorst by offering to make him a present of a number of shares in the Chartered Company of South Africa.

The Critical Age.

Height of vigor past—nature's power slowing down, vitality less, recuperative power less, endurance less. Stop the progress of decay, tone up the weakened nerve centres, impart vigor to the tiring brain, prepare for the crisis. THE BOER COLONY AT ST. HELENA

How the Prisoners Take Their Medicine

LESSONS IN CLEANLINESS.

Imparted by Tommy Atkins to the Filthy South Africans

General Cronje Has Taken to Wearing a Plug Hat—A Mild Form of Military Despotism.

London, Oct. 15.—The London Telegraph publishes the following: Most of the Boers when captured by the British were ragged, dirty and unkempt. In these respects a great improvement has been effected at St. Helena. The old clothes have been burnt and new ones supplied. They are made according to the West End fashion, but they are clean and comfortable. It is unfortunately true that the demand for soap is still very small at the camps, but many of the prisoners—so strong is the force of example and association—have learned to imitate the scrupulous cleanliness of "Thomas Atkins." Even a barber's shop has been installed in the camps, and the patronage has grown steadily. General Cronje, who lives a long way from the Deadwood camp, is stated to have improved his wardrobe considerably during his residence on the island. He wears a frock coat and a tall hat on Sunday, while Mrs. Cronje, whose garments when she entrained at Modder River for Simonstown were contained in a modest pillow slip, is well supplied by a local dressmaker. "On Sundays," to quote one of the Gloucesters, "she comes out in tip-top style, with a silk dress and patent leather boots." It is satisfactory to know that the Boers are very careful with the clothes supplied to them by a paternal Government. The only woman prisoner on the island is Mrs. Cronje, and as she is unequal to the repairs of so large a family, the men have to undertake the duty for themselves. Except in the departments of darning and button holing they proved the merit of their workmanship. A big sewing machine has been supplied to the camp, and by an ingenious windmill arrangement, devised by a prisoner with a natural bent for mechanical novelties, the motive power is actually supplied by the fresh breezes which constantly blow across the sun girt isle.

The military discipline is apparently the mildest form of despotism consistent with the preservation of the welfare of the camp generally. "They can get up when they like" — to quote the words of the guard — "they can eat when they like, and they can go to bed when they like." Many arise before daybreak and commence making the inevitable coffee. A little later the Boers, some in small groups and others individually, begin singing the hymns and psalms with which it is their custom to preface the day's work. Some of the old Doppers are provided with a fiddle or other musical instrument, with which they lead the singing of their compatriots. In addition to the nationalities already enumerated, there are English, Scotch and Irish among the exiles, and it is a melancholy fact that these cannot be induced to assist the pious Boers in their morning devotions, though they attend the more formal services held in camp every Sunday. Every Thursday an officer, accompanied by a guard of 100 men, enters the inclosure in order to call the roll, but with this exception the privacy of the prisoner's domain is rarely invaded. The Gloucesters state that the Boers have proved themselves to be very industrious in St. Helena. Many have worked for the local farmers, and a still larger number have employed themselves profitably in some small industry, such as stick, pipe and basket making. Large numbers are allowed out on leave every day and by special permission can visit Jamestown. Little shops have been started in the camps for the sale of luxuries, and even a pawnbroker's establishment has recently been added to the strange city of tents and biscuit tin huts.

Even in St. Helena the prisoners have been divided latterly into two hostile parties. The trouble began apparently owing to the distribution of a circular asking for the signature of the men who were in favor of taking the oath of allegiance. Those who assented became targets for the opprobrium and persecution of their fellows who advocated the continuance of the war. It seems impossible to obtain a true estimate of the strength of the rival parties, but the belligerents were certainly the most demonstrative. To such an extent did the quarrel go that the huts of two or three of the peace party were burnt and the inhabitants assaulted. Finally, the authorities decided to allow those prisoners desiring protection to leave the inclosure and set up another camp outside. About 60 of the ringleaders including the notorious Kloff, were taken to High Knoll Fort, and there subjected to more rigid discipline. Offences in camp, generally speaking, are punished by bread and water diet or confinement to a tent outside the inclosure. The latter is not popular, seeing that such entertainments as take place — sports of various kinds, concerts, sing-songs and even boxing — are confined to the arena within the barbed wire. Letters, papers, and parcels are received by the prisoners, but everything intended either for the camp or for South Africa must necessarily be submitted to the staff of censors. The interchange of correspondence between the prisoners and their friends outside, to say nothing of the facilities enjoyed in the island, enables the camp to follow the course of the war fairly well. It is encouraging to know that the majority of the prisoners are convinced that they have lost the fight, though there exists a considerable number in their ranks who persist in believing that the day of their deliverance "as a nation" may still be effected—providing their comrades in the field "can but hold out a little longer." As a rule the Gloucesters and their charges were on good terms, and the stoning of sentries which led some time ago to the death of a soldier has been abandoned.

MYSTERY OF THE SEA IS SOLVED AT LAST

Missing British Steamer Manchester Wrecked in a Pacific Ocean Typhoon.

THE BIRDS HAD BEEN SUCKED FOR BLOOD.

Traces on Bikar Island of Captain Clemens, Family and Crew—They Probably Died of Thirst.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 14.—The steamship Glenroy brings news from Hong Kong that wreckage has been found on Bikar Island, a small uninhabited island of the Marshall group, which proves that the British ship Manchester came to grief there. The Manchester, Captain F. Clemens, left New York loaded with kerosene shipped by the Standard Oil Company, just one year ago. Her destination was Yokohama, and shipping men have agreed long since that she must have been lost in a typhoon. Footprints and marks of two boats' keels on the sand, together with other signs, make it certain that Captain Clemens, his wife, two children and crew have been on the island and, unable to find water, pushed off again. Plainly marked in the sand were footprints of a woman and children. The body of one sailor was found in a scrubby growth of trees near shore. There were also found bodies of birds, which had been sucked for their blood. As no sign has since been found of Captain Clemens, his family and crew, it is supposed that they died of thirst before they reached inhabited islands. The Manchester carried a crew of twenty-five men, most of them British sailors. The value of ship and cargo was nearly $500,000.

ROYALTY AT HAMILTON

Enthusiastic Reception to Their Royal Highnesses.

NEW COLORS WERE PRESENTED

Thousands of Spectators Saw the Duke Present Them to the 13th Regiment of Infantry.

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 14.—This city testified its loyalty to the King and Empire to-day by giving the royal representatives thereof such welcomes as will be remembered many years by the thousands of people who had part in it. The buildings on the streets through which the royal party was to pass were gay with bunting, flags, shields and words of welcome, and notwithstanding that a high wind storm, accompanied by rain, did considerable damage to the decorations on Saturday night, they showed up well this morning. One of the early features of the day's celebration was the parade of the Fourth Field Battery through the streets and down to the Stuart street station, where it was posted on the hill, ready to fire a royal salute on the arrival of the royal train from the Falls. A guard of 100 men of the 13th Regiment went to the station early and over 2,000 representatives of fraternal societies were lined up on Stuart street, waiting to cheer for the Duke and Duchess. Several thousand citizens gathered at the station although there was no admission for them.

As the royal train approached the cheering was exceedingly loud and hearty, and all the way from the station to the City Hall cheering thousands stood waving their hats and showing appreciation of the visit of the royal party.

When the royal carriage pulled up in front of the City Hall, 2,000 school children, who were standing on a specially built platform, greeted the royal party with patriotic songs, being led by the Sons of England band. The royal party, escorted by the Reception Committee, of which Ald. Frank E. Walker is chairman, alighted and passed through the hall to a highly decorated platform on the south side of the civic building, where the reception proper took place. Here about sixty leading citizens, including all the Aldermen, ex-Mayors, civic officers and county officers, ready to welcome the royal visitors, and here Mayor Hendrie read the address from the city to the Duke. His Royal Highness replied in a neat and not very long speech.

Besides the civic address there was one from Fessenden Chapter, daughter of the Empire, which was handed in by Mrs. P. D. Crerar, vice-president of the chapter, Mrs. Teetzel, the president, being absent owing to the recent death of her father. Miss Ethel Walker, daughter of Ald. Walker, presented the Duchess with a bouquet. From the City Hall the royal parade was down King street east as far as Catharine street and back to James street, and up town to Wm. Hendrie's residence, the "Holmstead," where the royal party were the guests of Mayor John Hendrie and a number of citizens. The greatest feature of the day's doings in this city was the presentation of colors to the 13th Regiment by the Duke at Victoria Park, this taking place shortly after 2 o'clock. The colors had been donated by the Daughters of the Empire. The royal party left the city at 3.30 for Brantford. While the royal party was at the City Hall, John Flockton, an old sailor who had been with the Duke on the man-of-war Bacchante three years, was presented to his Royal Highness, and the Duke remembered him and greeted him very cordially. The ducal train will pass through Toronto this evening, remaining for a few minutes. The night will be spent at Belleville.

DEPARTURE FROM NIAGARA.

On board Royal Train, Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 14.—The royal train pulled out of Niagara-on-the-Lake in two sections this morning, the Governor-General's carriages leaving at 9.30 and the Duke and Duchess resuming their passage through Western Ontario at 10 o'clock. There was a quiet send-off given the royal pair as the second section left the station. Mayor Best, on behalf of the inhabitants, bid the royal pair farewell. The visitors stopped a few minutes at St. Catharines, where there was considerable cheering. The town was gaily decorated with bunting in honor of the visit of the Duke and Duchess.

BEST MEN VICTORIOUS

Personal Element is the Most Important Thing in War

SURRENDER IS A DISGRACE.

Lord Selborne Discusses Naval and Military Affairs—War Never Would be a Simple Game of Chess.

London, Oct. 14.—Lord Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, addressed a meeting at Portsmouth on "The Imperial Forces." He saw that some of our foreign critics had said that our officers had not studied the problems of naval and military warfare sufficiently. Now he thought there was a little justice in that criticism, and he would say to the young officer of the navy, "Remember that the first-class officer is not only only the one who is a leader of men, but one who is a student of naval problems." Therefore, while he would say to all ranks "Use all the wits you have got to think out the problems connected with the work you have got to do," yet even study is dangerous in itself. If they played a war game the umpires could always balance the material resources on one or the other. They could always weigh the tactical or strategical opportunities of the moment. The one thing they could never weight, and what was the most important thing, was the personal element. Depend upon it that in the future, as in the past, if two great nations had to fight all the weapons they fought with would be generally equal. What would win would be the best disciplined, most courageous, most self-reliant and most tenacious officers and men, led by the most capable admiral. War, whether by sea or by land, never had been or never would be a simple game of chess. The personal element would always carry the day in the long run. A man was never defeated—he was was talking now of an individual—till he was either killed or he surrendered; and though there he does hand would be again surrenders which were very honorable to the men who surrendered, the presumption which every member of his Majesty's navy ought always to carry before him was that surrender was in itself an unutterable disgrace. He had heard people laugh and call a silly boast the old saying of the French Guard in the time of Napoleon I: "The guard dies but never surrenders." But that criticism was a very shallow and a wrong one. That reputation of the French Guard was worth a whole army to the French nation.

Four Killed in a Nipissing Wreck.

North Bay, Ont., Oct. 14.—On Saturday night about nine o'clock, two miles east of Machey's station, an eastbound cattle train and westbound freight train crashed into each other, running thirty miles an hour. Both engines were demolished, the cars piled up, and the following trainmen killed:

James Y. Phillips, fireman, North Bay.

George Thomas, fireman, North Bay.

Herb. Allen, brakeman, North Bay.

Louis Morel, brakeman, Mattawa.

Allen, formerly of London, Ontario, served as sergeant in the first Canadian contingent in the South African war. His remains will be taken to Allenford, Bruce County for interment.

Fretting About Her Daughter.

—New York, Oct. 14.—Word comes from Boston in a special to The World that Mrs. Stone, mother of Miss Ellen M. Stone, is sinking under the strain of the anxiety concerning her daughter. Mrs. Stone is more than 80 years old, and has been in feeble health for years. Her condition now is such that her friends fear that she will die of agonizing suspense.

Weather Notes.

Tuesday: Fresh to strong south-west shifting to north-west winds, fair and cool.

The weather is now fine throughout Ontario and Quebec, with a tendency towards somewhat lower temperature there is, however, no indication of any very pronounced change.

Where Medical Science Fails.

to cure rheumatism, and all the time you suffer dreadfully, why don't you get a bottle of Polson's Nerviline and try that? Rub it into your stiff joints sore arms, lame back, bent shoulders —wherever the pain is. Nerviline has cured plenty of people in this way, and that ought to be proof enough that it will cure you too. It is an unusually strong liniment that cures rheumatism in unusually quick time. Best household liniment known. 25 cents.

THE CIGARETTE HABIT

Much sympathy will be felt for the efforts which the local committee in charge of the anti-cigarette movement are making to save children from the effects of the cigarette habit, for few will deny that the consumption of tobacco by the young is a harmful habit. This question of how to eradicate the use of cigarettes, especially by the young, is one which has been given a good deal of attention. One of the last acts of the recent Presbyterian General Assembly held at Philadelphia, whose discussion regarding the advisability of revising the Westminster Confession attracted so much attention, was to pass a resolution which recommended: "Inasmuch as the cigarette habit among the young people of our country has reached such alarming proportions as to demand decisive action on the part of the General Assembly, we recommend that our permanent committee be directed to call the attention of our church to this great evil, and to urge them to use their utmost endeavors to counteract the same." Any measures which are likely to put an end to the evil are to be commended. Perhaps the best plan is to awaken parents to an appreciation of the injurious effects of the consumption of cigarettes by children. It is their influence which will be the most useful in suppressing the habit.

But while the consumption of cigarettes by the young is undoubtedly deleterious, it is by no means certain that cigarettes are as baneful to older persons as is sometimes imagined. It is generally believed that cigarettes are the most dangerous form in which tobacco can be consumed but, as some of the readers of the Times may remember, an article was published not long ago in the London Lancet, one of the best known medical authorities, which maintained that the cigarette is less harmful than either a pipe or a cigar. The article denied that nicotine, as far as smoking is concerned, is harmful and asserted that pyridine, a volatile liquid, is the mischief making compound of tobacco. The article said that the amount of pyridine which reaches the smoker's lips depends upon his method of smoking and upon the completeness of combustion during the operation. It contended that less pyridine enters the mouth when a cigarette is used than in a case of a pipe or cigar, and expressed the opinion that the pipe is preferable to the cigar because it condenses the pyridine.

But be this as it may, it is not denied that the cigarette is harmful and efforts to stamp out the cigarette habit among the young will be greatly generally endorsed. It is however, a task of some difficulty and although often attempted has not always been attended with much success. Nevertheless the campaign to be started in Peterborough with the object of preventing the use of cigarettes by the young, provided that it is rationally conducted, merits countenance and assistance. The mistake must not be made of urging more than is reasonable or more than can be proved. In such matters children are often told things that their own observation shows to be extreme and untrue, and the whole effect of the teaching is lost.

THE EASTERN WAR CLOUD

Great Britain has twice invaded the territory of Afghanistan, but in 1880 Abdul Rhaman Khan, a grandson of the Dost Mohammed, repulsed the British and formed an independent government, whose stability is guaranteed by interlapping treaties with himself by Russia and Great Britain. The inhabitants of the province are almost entirely Moslem. As between Great Britain and Russia the people and the khan incline more toward the czar than King Edward.

Herat has been besieged more times than any other place in the world. If the sieges are accurately counted the result is fifty-two. It was the capital of Timor, it was fought for by the Mohammedans, by the Persians, by the ameers of Kabul, and there was always an ameer of Herat anxious to regain his patrimony. The years when Herat has not seen fighting have been rare, and Herat is a very old town.

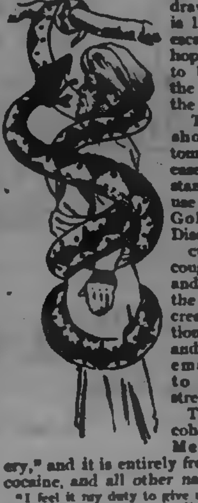
During the present century it has been unsuccessfully besieged in 1837, and 1838 by the Persians and taken by them in 1856, regained by Dost Mohammed, ameer of Kabul, in 1863; lost by him to an ameer of Herat and regained by him in 1881 under the late ameer, Abdurrahman Khan.

Since the Russians seized Kybor pass it has been only a matter of time and opportunity for the Russian occupation of Herat. The Kyber pass is the point of real strategic value in this region. The Russian railroad from the Caspian to the base of the Pamirs insures Russia's ability to hold this point, or at least to make it a very costly achievement to wrest it from her.

Herat is only about sixty miles south of this railroad. Russia has never seen fit to move in this direction, but if at any time it were necessary to her plans it could be occupied with little trouble.

How to Get up an Appetite.

Distaste for food often follows Grippe and fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food, and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Ferrozone. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of the disease and by removing the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Ferrozone will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone, how it cures and why it cures. Call to-day and see them. Price 50c.



CONSUMPTION
Is like the constrictor which drops its coils around its victim and slowly tightens them until life is extinguished. Once the coils are drawn tight there is little chance of escape. The one hope of safety is to break loose at the beginning of the attack.

Those who are showing symptoms of lung disease should instantly begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will cure obstinate coughs, bronchitis and bleeding of the lungs. It increases the nutrition of the body, and so restores the emaciated form to health and strength.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"I feel it my duty to give my testimonial in behalf of your great medicine," writes Mr. John T. Reed, of Jefferson, Jefferson Co. Ark. "When I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I was very low with a cough, and would at times spit blood. I was not able to do any work at all, was weak and my head was dizzy. The first bottle I took did me so much good that I had faith in it and continued until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I do not look like nor feel like the same man as I was a year ago. People were astonished and said they did not think that I could live. I can thankfully say that I am entirely cured of a disease from which had it not been for your wonderful 'Discovery' I would have died."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clark's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in affecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained."

Dr Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

HIS SURGICAL EXPERIENCE.

SHORT STORY FOR THE DAY.

Larry O'Hearn was a bachelor who had grown comfortably well off through contracts he was fortunate enough to secure when the R. R and P. was in course of construction. As every gentleman should, when he had secured a competency Larry decided to take a few years' rest and he accordingly fitted himself up for comfort and settled down. Among other things with which Larry provided himself when he laid aside the overalls and coarse shoes, the collarless shirt and close-fitting cap and substituted patent leathers, cassimeres, high collars and a silk hat, was a store set of teeth convivial when he met a party of old friends, which was often, for Larry had money and was a general favorite, and to avoid the possibility of accident he acquired the habit of removing the plate from his mouth every night before retiring and depositing it on the dresser in his room. One evening he had been out rather late with a couple of old railroad cronies and upon their return to the boarding-house Larry exacted a promise from them that they would awaken him early so that he could accompany them for a day's fishing. During the night, however, big Tom Flynn, one of the trio, received an urgency order from headquarters to report for duty at Golden Valley in the morning, and as he passed Larry's room soon after daylight he paused at the door a moment, thinking he would shout a farewell to his friend. He hesitated a moment about awakening the whole house, and as he did so he noticed that Larry's door was ajar, for he had gone to bed forgetting to lock his apartment.

Larry was inclined to be somewhat for his upper jaw.

Poor Larry was sleeping the sleep of the tired and the innocent, and after watching him a moment Flynn decided not to arouse him.

"God bless ye," said Tom under his breath, 'ye've earned yer rest. I'll just leave ye to sleep it off, an' maybe the next time ye go out wid Pat Lundergin and Tom ye'll be a bit more careful wid yer drinks."

And then, after arranging two or three articles of wearing apparel that had been somewhat carelessly bestowed upon the floor, Mr. Flynn slipped the thumbscrew on the night latch so it would catch when he shut the door, and went away about his business.

Two or three hours later Mr. O'he thought great loads of bowlders were tumbling out of a score of carts down an embankment, to a realization that someone was thumping his door.

"What the divil does yez want?" Hearn awoke out of a dream in which he shouted rather thickly.

"Come out of that, Larry," replied the voice of Lundergin. "It's time we started an hour ago. Flynn has been ordered out to the works by a telegram, an' we'll have to go alone."

Mr. O'Hearn then remembered the injunction he had placed upon his friends and he promised to rise immediately. With the remark that he would give orders for the horse, Lundergin went down the stairway.

Slowly and with many a firm resolution crowding his reeling brain Larry got out of bed. He looked around the room a moment in a somewhat hazy, half-awake manner and then drained half the contents of the water pitcher down his throat before he took breath. Then he poured the remaining water into the bowl and bathed his face. Refreshed somewhat by his ablutions, Larry proceeded to array himself in the garments intended to be worn on the expedition, but he had not proceeded very far in this duty before he went to the dresser and looked carefully over its top. Then he returned to the washstand and examined that, and then he ran to the bed, pulling off the coverings and tossing the pillows over in excited haste. He groped around the floor on his hands and knees; under the couch, into the compartments of his chiffonier —everywhere, faster and faster, with heightened color and confused haste.

Then Mr. O'Hearn stood up in the center of the room, his eyes staring wildly at the ceiling, one hand grasping his nightshirt over his heart and the perspiration oozing out in great drops all over the top of his bald head.

"Be hivens!" he gasped. "I'm no better than a dead man."

Running to the door he threw it wide open.

"Lundergin, Lundergin! Flynn! Mrs. Slattery! Riley! Doyle!" he shouted into the hall. "Come here, quick!; It's Larry O'Hearn that calls, an' he'll soon be a corpse!"

There was instant commotion in the boarding-house. Lundergin went bounding up the stairs from the hall below and Riley and Doyle bolted from their room. Mrs. Slattery heard the shout in the kitchen and with the aroma of fried pork and potatoes about her went as far up the stairs as it behooved a respectable widow to go when a middle-aged boarder stood in the door of his room in a half-clad condition.

"For the love of hiven, what ails ye, O'Hearn?" asked Lundergin, keeping back a bit with the others, not being just sure that the man before him was entirely sane.

"Be all the saints, Lundergin, tread softly, for ye are now gazin' upon the face of a dyin' man," said Larry impressively.

They looked at him a moment in silence.

"G'wan wid yer jokes," said Riley. "Ye're no more dyin' than an officeholder, with yer standin' there as strong as a milipost an' yermid axed as a bate."

O'Hearn grasped his chest the tighter and made a grimmance as though in pain.

"Larry, me b'y," whined Mrs. Slattery from the stairs as she peeped discreetly through the banisters, "go into yer room and lie down a bit an' I'll bring a' drap to quiet yer nerves."

"Take the widdy's advice," said Doyle "Shure ye're on the verge of the tremmins."

"Doyle!" thundered Larry with dramatic contempt, "I'm no nearer tremmins than a child that has never had a drap to drink but milk. Be all the saints an' as true as me name is Larry O'Hearn, I'll never see the sun rise on another day. Gintlemen—" (with a fine impressiveness that carried conviction in its very ring) "I've swallowed me store teeth!"

With a cry of "Och hone!" Mrs. Slattery sank fainting upon the stairs. Lundergin, Doyle looked upon their friend in amazement, unable to articulate a word, while Riley crossed himself hurriedly and began to mutter his prayers. It seemed a painfully long time before a word was spoken, but finally Doyle advanced and in a sympathetic tone advised Larry to return to his bed till a doctor could be brought. This course was taken and very soon the man of medicine was bending over his patient and listening to descriptions of the agonies he rendured as the teeth slowly progressed through O'Hearn's chist" toward his stomach. Directly another man of science came, and then there was a description of more symptoms, followed by a long consultation. In time strange looking apparatus was brought and heavy storage batteries were carried to O'Hearn's room and then the weird, wonderful X-rays were directed upon the suffering man, whose pain and exhaustion each moment until he appeared to be approaching a collapse.

Out on the works beyond Golden Valley in the afternoon Flynn stood watching the operations of the steam shovel when Dennis Cleary, one of the foremen, came sauntering along.

"Whin did ye come back from Springville, Dennis?" asked Flynn.

"On No. 16," was the reply.

"What's the news down there?"

"Shure, what's the use of yer askin'? Wasn't ye down there yerself last night?"

"I was that, but I heard nothin' strange."

"An' didn't anybody tell ye that poor Larry O'Hearn lies at the p'int of death?"

"The divil he does, man! Shure that can't be so, for didn't I lave him this mornin' early as well as ye are this minute—barrin' a slight dizziness he may have had in his head."

"That may true for ye, but all the same Larry's a doomed man."

"What the blazes could have happened him so quick, Dennis? Did he meet wid an accident?"

"He did that, for he swall'ed his false teeth while he slept, an' all the doctors in the town are searchin' up an' down his interior wid electric lights thryin to discover where the obsthruction was lodged."

Flynn knocked the ashes from his briarwood and then slowly refilled it.

"Ye aint jokin,' Dennis?"

"Never a bit of it, Mr. Flynn. I'm as serious as a confessional."

"Where'd ye hear the sthory?"

"Mike O'Brien, who drives for Doctor Russell, towld me at the station."

"Flynn shook his head. "Poor Larry," he said, sadly, "he has me sympathy."

Then he walked over to the toolbox, shut down the cover and on the back of a time slip wrote a few words. Calling a water boy Flynn told the lad to run to the village with the message as fast as possible, and not to stop till the telegraph operator had received it.

The long summer day was drawing to a close in the sick chamber when Mrs. Slattery came softly to the door beckoned to Lundergin, who sat by the bed of his friend. The doctors had departed, leaving word that they must be notified immediately should any change occur in the patient. For an hour O'Hearn had been comparatively quiet, for he was dosed liberally with quieting drugs and had grown weak with the worry, excitement and terror over his condition. Occasionally he spoke in feeble and husky tones to his friend and told him of the pain he experienced from his missing plate, which now appeared to O'Hearn to have lodged in his left lung. He dreaded the operation which he feared must come, and more than once he had exacted from Lundergin the promise that he would stay by through it all and, if the worst came, see that he had a 'sitable wake and a decent funeral."

The widow whispered a few words and handed Lundergin a yellow envelope.

"What is it, Pat, me b'y?" asked O'Hearn, scarcely above a whisper.

"A telegram to ye, Larry; that's all."

"Who could be sindin me a telegram, I wonder! Open it, Lundergin, an' read it to me."

His friend stepped to the window to be nearer the light. Then he broke the seal and read:

Golden Valley, Aug. 15—To Larry O'Hearn, Springville: A forchune-teller here says that ye will discover yer teeth in one of yer shoes.

TOM FLYNN.

Be the livin' hivins," thundered O'Hearn, leaping from the bed as though the stored energy of the X-ray batteries had been shot through him in one shock.

He rushed across the room to the corner where his shoes stood and nervously thrust a hand into each. With his left hand he drew forth the terra cotta colored plate and its row of white porcelains. Clinching them with a grip that threatened their immediate destruction, he turned his face to the window and looked away toward Golden Valley as he shook his fist in the air.

"Lundergin," said O'Hearn impressively, "if I ever lay the two eyes of me on Tom Flynn I'll break every bone in his face."

Do Not Experiment With Medicines That Have No Reputation.

PAINES CELERY COMPOUND

IS THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT IS FULLY GUARANTEED AS A BANISHER OF SUFFERING AND DISEASE.

Used and Recommended by the Ablest Physicians.

In matters of life and health no man or woman can afford to take risks or experiment foolishly. A heedless move, or following the advice of the careless and ignorant, may result in very serious complications.

When the physical powers are impaired when you are weak, nervous, irritable, despondent, sleepless, or if may be suffering the agonies of rheumatism and neuralgia, it is wisdom on your part to use the medicine that has banished these troubles for tens of thousands of others around you.

Paine's Celery Compound, a safe and powerful health-giving medicine now within reach of all, is used and prescribed by the best and ablest physicians.

Avoid worthless substitutes that may be offered to you for Paines Celery Compound. Some dealers recommend other preparations simply because they pay large profits. Your special case demands the use of the best medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. See that the outer wrapper and bottle bear the name "PAINE'S," with the trade mark, the Stalk of Celery; no other is genuine.

GERMANS AT VENEZUELA.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Oct. 14.—The British royal mail steamer Eden to-day brought from La Guayra, Venezuela, the following story: Last Sunday night about fifty sailors from the German cruiser Vineta engaged in a street row with the populace. Police in civilian clothes interfered, siding with the inhabitants, and the fight became general, the Germans making their way to the wharf, where they boarded the German steamer Valesia. Meantime two petty officers of the Vineta, who were sober and who were waiting at the wharf to take the Vineta's boat, were attacked by the police. They resisted and the police wounded them both badly with swords.

All the Germans ashore were unarmed. The wounded officers were carried on board the Valesia by members of the Valesia's crew, the populace and police still attacking them with stones and sticks. The mob then tried to board the Valesia, but was prevented from so doing by the captain and crew.

ARMED GERMANS DISPERSE MOB.

The captain of the Valesia signaled to the Vineta, which was in the harbor, the perilous situation of the Germans, and the Vineta sent a boat load of thirty armed men to the Valesia, which they boarded by the side opposite the wharf, not landing on Venezuelan soil.

The mob, estimated to number 1,200 persons, was still acting in a threatening manner and fired a few shots. The commander of the Vineta's boat ordered his men to perform the motions of loading, but not to introduce cartridges into their rifles. Hearing the rattling of the breeches of the weapons, the mob disappeared rapidly in all directions.

It is said the Venezuelan government is putting the blame for the affair upon the Germans and has requested the German minister to apologise for the sailors' conduct. It is believed at Caracas that the German minister intends to ask Venezuela to apologise. There was still much excitement at Porto Cabello when the Eden sailed.

REPORTS ROUT OF GENERAL URIBE.

Colon, Columbia, Oct. 14.—An official bulletin dated Barranquilla, Oct. 6, says the French steamer Fournel brings news that General Uribe-Uribe was utterly routed at Tachira and arrived at Maracaibo the morning of Oct. 4.

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 14.—The British steamer Barbadoan to-day brought further refugees from Colon, Colombia. They say the situation there is still serious. A couple of days ago the rebels commenced to attack a town near Colon, but desisted owing to an order from the commander of the United States gunboat Machias.

Caracas, Venezuela, Oct. 10.—The idea of a peaceful, friendly and conclusive arrangement between Venezuela and Colombia of the existing trouble is not repulsive to Venezuela, it being understood that Venezuela's honor will not suffer thereby. The possibility of an amicable settlement is now occupying public attention.

SOUTH AFRICAN AFFAIRS

London, Oct. 12.—The South African campaign has a curious effect on British generals. Public attention is centered on Gen. Buller's extraordinary exhibition, while society is gossiping about the remarkable action of another general. This one is a Knight Commander of the Bath, holding a high command in South Africa. He is over 60 years of age, has been a widower for two years, and has engaged himself by letter to marry a woman of 60, whom he has not seen for twenty years. The bride-elect, who is an Irishwoman, is preparing to go out to South Africa.

As for Gen. Buller, he seems to have forever shattered every vestige of his reputation. Previous to Gen. Buller's speech of Thursday he had received several plain hints from the War Office expressing the hope that he would not accept invitations to make speeches. His appointment to the command of an army corps was made in a spirit of generosity. It was thought that Gen. Buller could not do much harm in the two years remaining before his retirement. Failure to appoint him would have signified a public disgrace, which the War Office was not willing to inflict on him, believing that Gen. Buller had done the best his ability showed.

WAR OFFICE'S DIFFICULTY.

One of the highest officials connected with the administration of the army said: "The utilitarian spirit of the age has taken away those sinecures, such as Governor of Tilbury and Commander-in-Chief of Berwick, with which a hundred years ago Gen. Buller might be shelved, and at the same time rewarded. We had no alternative but to reward Gen. Buller's long and conscientious period of service by kicking him out or giving him a command which his rank demands. Of the two evils, we chose what we thought was the least. Our jurisdiction is perhaps somewhat sentimental, but no army can run without a certain amount of sentiment.

TWO MORE YEARS OF WAR.

"As for the public dissatisfaction with our progress in South Africa, I fear that Lord Roberts and other optimistic prophets are unintentionally more to blame than anyone else. No one got up and said that the Burmah war was over, or that it would be over in a foolishly short space of time. It lasted nearly 4 years, and the British public took it as a matter of course. The South African war has probably got another two years to run, developing like the Burmah affair, into a subaltern's campaign. Continual local disturbances are being put down by the small garrisons. To supervise such work we know of no one better than Lord Kitchener. His chief difficulty, which seems to have missed the attention of the critics, is that having non-combatant natives populating the war area, he is prohibited from destroying supplies to any degree of military thoroughness. If we could concentrate or deport the natives, I think an effective devastation would quickly end the campaign."

Arrested in Toronto.

James Elves was arrested in Toronto on Saturday, charged with theft. Elves is alleged to have stolen a gold watch and chain from Mrs. Ensign, town, in September, 1900. Chief Rogers will despatch a member of the force to Toronto this morning to bring the prisoner to Peterborough.

TO RISK LIVES IN SMALL CRAFT

Atlantic City, N. J. Oct. 12.—Death or a fortune is involved in the daring ocean voyage that Captain William Andrews and his bride of a few weeks commenced on Saturday. Both realize the perils that await them in their lonely, long, and dangerous voyage across three thousand miles of sea in a thirteen and a half foot boat, sloop rigged.

Their only object in hazarding their lives is the fortune they expect to realize from exhibitions of the boat and themselves if they should successfully complete their trip.

The craft in which they are to trust their fate is a novelty in its appearance—sharp at both ends, and broadened in the middle out of all ordinary proportion. The bottom is flat and the sides straight up and down. The mast is short and the boom long.

It is built on plans furnished by Captain Andrews, and every seaman here who has looked at it declares that it will not survive in ordinary heavy weather. Captain Andrews only smiles, and his wife simply says she has confidence in her husband's judgement and experience. He has named the craft the Dark Secret. She is painted black, and is constructed of half-inch cedar, and covered with canvas. Three hundred pounds of lead are fastened to her keel, to keep her from turning over and to right her when she is struck by a sea. Besides, there is a considerable quantity of ballast to keep her well in the water.

"Our sole object," said Capt. Andrews, "is to break all records in crossing the ocean in the smallest boat that was ever put to the test. Our course will lie in the trade routes, headed for the Azores. There we will take on the provisions for the run to Palos, Spain, which will be the end of the journey.

"I count on six weeks in getting to the Azores and three weeks in going to Spain. We may be two months in making the entire journey. We are not trying to break a speed record. It is our intention to let our friends hear from us at sea by throwing bottles overboard with messages in them stating where we are and telling the incidents of the journey."

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.,

President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1900.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

• • • • •

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for no securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June. New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is to-day the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but shows their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1865, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong." but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.

New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were buying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest an almost successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others followed the publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the gross stupidity of limitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

ARTEMAS WARD,

Advertising Manager for Sapolio.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be absolutely correct in every statement it makes.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,892 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspaper directories gratis; but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12, 1900.

JOS. H. HANNEN,

Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation, as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

S. H. HARDWICK,

General Passenger Agent,

Washington, D. C., May 21, 1901.

BALTIMORE.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
HAY FEVER
ASTHMA
EVERY BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

New York, Jan. 3, 1901.

Drs. Taft Bros.' Medicine Co.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

Avon Springs, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle and I am ever grateful I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation, and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There By The Times.

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed. Times.]

—The Times circulation is gradually extending.

—Hundreds went over Sunday to see the lift lock.

—Coal has advanced another 25c per ton at the mines.

—St. Paul's choir has been invited to give a concert in Norwood on Oct. 25th.

—The Board of Trade will probably take up the subject of sinking a test well for oil or gas.

—The finishing touches were put on the repairs to the pavement at the Morrow corner yesterday, by the removal of the debris.

—Contractor Bogue is making splendid progress with the foundations of the Cereal Company's buildings.

—The officers of the 57th Regiment held a meeting last night, when matters pertaining to the welfare of the corps were discussed.

—Port Hope people believe that oil and gas exist under the town, and are sinking a test well. Peterborough has reason to feel equally sanguine.

—The George street choir will rehearse for this week on Wednesday evening after the praise service. All members are requested to attend the praise service and also rehearsal.

—Dr. McGrath's favorite fox terrier, "Jack," dropped dead on Saturday evening from the effects of a dose of poison. He picked up a dose of strychinine which had been left out for rats.

—James Elves, a piano tuner, who is charged with stealing a quantity of jewellry from Mrs. Ensign, town, was brought to town last night, and will appear at the police court this morning.

—A letter dealing with local golfing matters has been received at this office, but it cannot appear, as the writer's name is not given, and the letter is too personal.

—The hunters are becoming very restless. Mr. Snowden was seen yesterday pricing the largest padlock in town. It is presumed it will be used to lock up the buttermilk tank of the Gold Lake hunters when they get to their hunting grounds, as Mr. Snowden has charge of that department.

Died in St. Catharines.

—Dr. S. P. Ford, of Norwood, received a despatch yesterday morning informing him of the death of his daughter, Mrs. Dr. Jory, St. Catharines. Dr. Ford left yesterday for St. Catharines. It is believed that the cause of death was due to confinement. The Times joins Dr. Ford's many friends in sympathy for him and his family in their great bereavement.

Died in Buffalo.

The remains of the late John McNamara, a former resident of Peterborough, who died in Buffalo on Saturday last arrived here yesterday morning by C.P.R., and were interred in the Roman Catholic Cemetery. Mr. McNamara left here for Texas about 29 years ago, although he has re-visited his old town several times subsequently. Becoming ill recently in Texas, he came north as far as Buffalo, where death occurred. While in Peterborough he engaged in railroading. He was 52 years of age and has a cousin, Patrick McNamara, living in town. A brother, Patrick, and wife and children, and a brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bruner, of Rochester, accompanied the remains here.

A GREAT PICK UP IN MILL REMNANTS OF FINE ALL WOOL TWEEDS AND WORSTEDS

We were fortunate enough to come across a rare chance to buy a pile of Excellent Remnants of Tweeds and Worsteds, three-quarters of a yard long to whole webs, which the millmen wanted to clean out to some one who would take the whole lot off their hands. We took the pile at less than one-half the regular mill prices. They are now offered to our customers for less money than similar new cloths were ever sold in town. Cloths worth 90c and $1.00 per yard for 60c. Cloths worth 75c and 80c per yard for 50c. Other qualities proportionately reduced. These mill ends consist of the very same fashionable patterns which some of the best dressed men are now wearing. Whole suits made to order from single suit lengths, worth $18 to $19 for only $14.00. Trousers made to order worth $4.00 and $5.00 for only $3.25. Parents who want short ends or longer pieces for suits or parts of suits for their boys are not likely to miss this chance. H. LEBRUN & CO.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Events Under This Head Transpiring in and Around Peterborough.

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature either by phone or in writing.—Ed. Times.]

—Rev. Mr. Archibald, of Warsaw, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. Frank Buck has returned home after spending some time at the Pan-American.

—Dr. Fitzgerald, of Coboconk, dropped into The Times yesterday on a friendly call.

—Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, was in town over Sunday, and left for the west yesterday.

—Rev. C. B. Kenrick, formerly a curate here, is about to retire from his charge in New Brunswick.

—Mr. Chas. Grow, of the Lost Freight Department of the G. T. R., was in town yesterday, and gave The Times a call.

—Mr. Charles Jordan and daughter, Miss Millietta, of Esquimalt, B. C. have arrived in town to spend the winter with relatives.

—Mr. Robert Baker, Ashburnham, Mr. Robert Weir and Mr. Sidney Weir, Peterborough, were present at the funeral of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, at Woodbridge on Saturday.

—Rev. W. A. Gunton, of the Gilmour Baptist Church, and Mr. W. Graham, of Smith, are attending the annual Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec. Rev. J. Bastow and Mr. Jos. Steelbrooke, of the Murray street church, left at noon yesterday.

Postponed Meeting.

The postponed meeting of the Ashburnham Branch of the National Home Reading Union, will be held at Mrs. McAllister's this evening at 7.30 sharp, to arrange the meetings for the winter.

BIG POW-WOW.

Members of the Gold Lake Hunt Club to Meet This Evening.

Chief Snowden, of the Gold Lake Hunt Club, has issued a summons for a big pow-wow of the members of the club, for tonight, at the Snowden House, when the election of officers will take place, and arrangements made for the annual camp this year.

It is understood that the Club will move north this year in two sections; those going first will take in the trout fishing which abounds in the vicinity of Gold Lake, and the second division will push the deer.

A stronger and more efficient commissariat department will be organized, so as to ensure a regular supply of buttermilk.

The following is a list of members: Messrs. W. Snowden, Larry Steele, S. Ray, T. Rutherford, A. Blade, W. Hartshorn, C. W. Gutterson, A. H. Stratton, P. Stenson, T. E. Boddy, D. Davidson, John Curran, D. W. Dumble, B. D. Hall, J. Pentland, G. M. Roger, M. McFadden, Ed. Brown, J. H. Hall, Ed. Bennie and — Bastie, Supervisor of Internal Economy.

AN EMBARASSING INCIDENT.

How a West Ender Got Into a Heap of Trouble.

A well known citizen, who lives in the west end has just made quite an addition to his residence property, among the improvements being a bell on the front door.

The boys in the neighborhood are not much used to such up-to-date attachments, and have been amusing themselves and annoying the P. C. and his good wife, by ringing the bell and then making themselves scarce. Sunday evening has been the boy's favorite time for such capers, and last Sunday evening the P. C. thought he would "lay" for them, so stationed himself close to the door and waited. He had not been there long until the bell gave a lively peal.

Mr. —— threw open the door, grabbed with both hands, and found the wife of one of his neighbors in his arms, and the neighbor standing by laughing. They had come to call, and were met with a warm reception.

It took most of the time of the call for the host to explain.

ANOTHER INDUSTRY.

It is a Beet Sugar Factory This Time if Everything is Propitious.

Yesterday Mayor Denne received a letter from a gentleman in New York, with whom he has been in correspondence some time, relative to the establishment of a beet sugar factory in Peterborough. The gentleman will be here this week to look over the ground and if the quality of the soil is right, there is a good chance of another industry being added to the town.

The establishment of such an industry to Peterborough would be of great help to the town, as it would be the greatest distributor of money that it is possible to have.

TRIBUTE FOR CHINESE COURT

Dowager Empress Upheld Magistrate Who Refused to Give It.

Shanghai, Oct. 15.—Before leaving Sin-gan-fu on her way to Pekin the Dowager Empress took occasion to compliment the local authorities on the hospitable manner in which they have treated the members of the Court during their stay there. Afterward the eunuchs attached to the Court made a demand for tribute on the local Magistrate, and when he refused to give them anything made a complaint against him to the Governor. The Governor offered to degrade the Magistrate, but the Dowager Empress upheld the latter.

Gen. Tung Fu Hsiang, the notorious antiforeigner, whose troops were reported to have attacked the legations and who was sentenced to be deprived of his rank and degraded on account of his connection with the Boxer uprising, proposed to escort the Court on its way to Pekin with his followers. When Li Hung Chang heard of this he telegraphed a protest against it, and Tung Fu Hsiang's offer of an escort was refused.

Eight Pieces of Music for 10c.

To anyone sending us ten cents we will send 8 pieces of new, full size, copyrighted music, the publisher's price of which is $4.00. Hill, 1123 Broadway, N.Y.C.

NO NEW RINK.

The Curling Club Declines to Take Action in the Matter.

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Skating Rink Company, the chair was occupied by the President, Mr. W. G. Ferguson.

The Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. John Crane, presented his financial report for the season, showing a slight balance on the right, it is said, after meeting the current expenses. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Pres.—W. G. Ferguson.

Sec.-Treas.—John Crane.

Directors.—Dr. Boucher, C. McGill, Adam Hall, and Dickson Davidson, in place of Mr. R. S. Davidson, deceased.

The matter of rebuilding the present rink, or improving it to some extent, so as to meet the alleged requirements of the Hockey Club, was fully discussed, but it was felt that the revenue was not sufficient to warrant any action being taken in this regard, and therefore the present season will not likely see a new or improved rink in Peterborough.

HUGGED BY A GLACIER BEAR.

A Small Dog Saved Life of an Alaskan Prospector.

Valdes, Alaska, Oct. 15.—Archie Park a pioneer of this place, was carried off by a gigantic white bear last week, and had it not been for a small dog, he would have lost his life. He was badly used up and several bones were broken.

With two companions Mr. Park was prospecting the headwaters of the Shushetna river, and at the time of his exciting experience was some distance ahead of them on the trail. Hearing a noise in the bush, he investigated. To his surprise he suddenly found himself face to face with an immense white glacier bear, which immediately came at him with an ominous growl. Mr. Park threw his rifle to his shoulder and fired, but probably did not hit, as the bear rushed on and grabbed him. As Mr. Park felt the embrace of bruin he thought it was all off with him, but he had forgotten a little cur which he had previously been tempted to kill as a nuisance. With snapping and growling the dog worried the bear into dropping Mr. Park.

Mr. Park had heard that if one played dead a bear would leave him alone, but the plan did not work. Having driven the dog back, the bear again grabbed Mr. Park and was making off with him, when the dog attacked again and succeeded in making bruin drop him a second time. This time Mr. Park crawled off into the brush, and in the meantime his companions, having heard the noise, came up and opened fire on the bear, which made a hasty retreat.

Mr. Park was picked up a mass of blood and bruises. Several bones were broken and his scalp was torn loose. The affair occurred 100 miles from the nearest camp, and at last accounts the wounded man was being treated with ointment made from wild animals.

Do You Desire a Clear Brain and Strong Nerves?

Malt Breakfast Food

Fortifies Men and Women for Their Daily Work.

Starchy breakfast foods that tax digestion and use up vital energy, make thousands of toilers miserable for the whole day. A writer says: "Men and women should breakfast regularly on foods that keep the brain clear and the nerves strong."

Malt Breakfast Food is the only breakfast grain food in the world that contains food elements in just the proportion needed for perfect and healthy nutrition. Insoluble starch, indigestible particles and irritating properties are always present in oatmeal and other breakfast foods. Malt Breakfast Food has all the health-giving virtues that a perfect health food should possess. It furnishes the largest amount of energizing nourishment for brain and body. Ask your Grocer for it.

Perfect Cure for Bronchitis

This disease can be treated only by a remedy carried to the affected parts along with the air breathed, for nature intended these organs for the passage of air alone, and sprays, atomizers and internal medicines utterly fail. But Catarrhozone doesn't fail, for it goes wherever the air breathed goes, and its healing antiseptic vapor is sure to reach every affected part. Catarrhozone is inhaled at the mouth and after passing through every air cell of the breathing organs is slowly exhaled through the nostrils. Catarrhozone protects and heals the inflamed surface, relieves congestion, allays inflammation, and perfectly cures all bronchial affections. Price $1. Small size 25c. DUCHESS HAS FALSE PEARLS.

London Concern Sues for Bill and Society Discovers Secret.

New York, Oct. 15.—In December last the duke of Manchester bought a necklace for his bride from the Frederic Company, a concern that deals in imitation pearls. The price of the necklace was $695. When the bill was presented by the Frederic Company the duke in some way overlooked it. Then he sailed for England with his wife. Everybody who saw the duchess' wonderful necklace marveled at their beauty and wondered how the duke's supposed slim purse would permit of such extravagance. Time and again the Frederic Company wrote the the duke asking for a remittance. He ignored every letter. Then a member of the firm was sent to Paris. On his way home stopped at London and tried to collect the debt in person. He was unsuccessful. Failing to get any reply from the duke, Eugene Zimmerman was appealed to. Mr. Zimmerman was as noncommittal as his son-in-law. He ignored the letters, and it was then decided to sue the duke for the full amount. Attorney Henry Brill was instructed to bring suit in London for the full amount and interest. Had the suit not been brought it is possible that no one would ever have guessed that the imitation pearls worn by the duchess were not of great value.

The President a Slave to Catarrh.—D. T. Sample, president of Sample's Instalment Company, Washington, Pa., writes: "For years I was afflicted with Chronic Catarrh. Remedies and treatment by specialists only gave me temporary relief until I was induced to use Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. It gave almost instant relief. 50 cents.—49

BY CABLE AND LETTER

London, Oct. 14.—The preparation of the hull of the old battleship Belleisle for the next battering by the big guns of the Channel fleet is now practically completed. This week the vessel will be floated out of the dry-dock at Portsmouth in which she has been under treatment for many months past at the hands of a picked body of workmen. It is understood that the Belleisle will be fired at during next month, the place selected for the experiments being off Selsey as before. A twenty-foot section of the fore part of the ship has been turned into a target, one side of which represents our new armored cruisers of the Cressy type, and the others those of the Drake type. The experiments, which will be the most important of the kind ever made, are expected to demonstrate how our new cruisers would stand a heavy bombardment in action. The results obtained are expected to afford valuable data for use in building future ships.

RAINMAKING IN JAPAN.

London, Oct. 14.—According to the North China Herald, which apparently quotes from the Japanese papers, rainmaking has been again successfully performed in Japan by sending an electric current into the air. The process was tried in the Fukushima prefecture. Operations were commenced at 11 p.m., but there was no sign of atmospheric change till nine o'clock next morning, when a cluster of clouds was observed over the hill on which the experiment was held. However, the clouds very soon disappeared, and everyone seemed disappointed. At length, however, rain began to fall for the first time at about 4 a.m., followed by a second fall at 11 a.m., and afterwards, a third, fourth and fifth. It was about 9.30 p.m. when the last fall commenced, and an area extending over many miles derived the benefit of the rain, which had not fallen on that part for some time.

BRITISH BEAT THE FRENCH.

London, Oct. 14.—An interesting incident occurred in H.M.S. Robin's recent trip, some 300 miles up the North River in South China. It appears that the French river gunboat Vigilant was bound on a similar errand at the same time, and there was much rivalry between the two boats. On their progress up the river, according to the Hong Kong Daily Press, the Robin and Vigilant alternately stuck on mudbanks and were passed by one another. Finally both stuck at once toward nightfall, and the French captain decided to wait till morning. The Robin, however, made her effort the same night and got away with a strong lead, so that when the Vigilant ultimately arrived at the destination she found the Robin already waiting there.

SLAVERY IN BRITISH FACTORIES.

Manchester, Oct. 14.—A conference was held in Manchester recently between representatives of the North and Northeast Lancashire Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association and the Northern Counties Weavers' Association, to discuss grievances relating to what is known as the driving system in weaving sheds. The agitation on the part of the operatives for the abolition of the system took active shape after the occurrence of the Darwen case, in which a young woman, a weaver, committed suicide because of the harsh conditions of her employment. It appears that the overlookers are paid upon the amount of work turned out by the operatives under them, and it is complained by the latter that in consequence of the system they are oppressed and driven, and they asked for its abolition. The conference ended without an agreement being arrived at.

KING CONFERS HONORS.

Creates Eight Appointments Because of Duke's Visit to Canada.

London, Oct. 15.—Eight appointments to the Order of St. Michael and St George have been gazetted on the occasion of the visit of the duke and duchess of Cornwall and York to Canada. Sir John Boyd, chancellor of the high court of justice of Ontario, and Louis Jette, lieutenant-governor of Quebec, are made knights commanders of the order.

Joseph Pope, under secretary of state for Canada; Dr. Grant, principal of Queen's college, Kingston; William Peterson, principal of McGill college Montreal; Rev. Olivier Mathieu, principal of Laval university, Quebec; Oliver Howland, mayor of Toronto, and Maj. Maude, military secretary to that governor-general, are made companions.

WILL SEND GERMAN CRUISER.

Kaiser Threatens to Take Decisive Steps in South America.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—According to a special dispatch from Kiel to the Lokal Anzeiger preparations on the German cruiser Falke are being hurried so that she may leave for South American waters next Tuesday.

The Kiel correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt says: "The gunboat Panther, which is nearing completion in the imperial yards at Dantzic, is destined for use on the Amazon, the Orinoco and the Platte for the protection of German interests. She is of the improved type, with stronger artillery and is capable of thirteen knots."

Germany has repudiated the contention of Venezuela that the territory of the republic was violated during the affray of Oct. 6 at Porto Cabello between sailors from the German cruiser Vineta and the populace of Porto Cabello. In communicating this decision to Caracas Germany has reserved the right of presenting demands for the punishment of the guilty parties and for satisfaction.

CARLISTS GETTING ACTIVE.

Said to Have Decided to Begin Insurrection in Spain.

Cerbera, France, Oct. 15. — Carlist agents are overrunning the province of Lerida. At a meeting of Carlist chiefs, held at a house in the Rue Fusterie at Perpignan, under the presidency of Gen Moore, it was resolved to enter Spain by way of Lerida and begin the insurrection. Gen Moore has left for Marseilles.

Homemade Mats and Rugs at the Fall Exhibitions and Fairs

The autumn exhibitions and fairs held in the various towns and cities of Canada this year, demonstrate the important fact that the ladies are deeply interested in the making up of pretty rugs and mats for bedrooms, diningrooms parlors and halls. We had the pleasure of examining some beautiful specimens of home work which commanded the attention of all visitors. In every case these pretty floor ornaments were made from rags, yarns and other materials colored by the popular Diamond Dyes.

Thousands of ladies are now engaged in the working of one or more of the artistic designs made by the manufacturers of Diamond Dyes. If your dry goods dealer has not yet put in a stock of Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns for your convenience, send your address to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain Street, Montreal, P.Q., and they will mail you free of cost their sheet of designs.

Crocodile Man-Eater.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—A twenty-foot man eating crocodile and two alligators will probably be the next additions to the Zoo at Riverdale Park. Negotiations are under way between Ald. Lamb and the owner of the big crawlers, and it is expected that a bargain will be struck satisfactory to both parties. These will be a strong attraction to the boys and girls as well as to the parents who frequent the park in such throngs.

The new paddocks for the moose, elk and deer give those animals a better chance to keep in good condition, there being about three acres of hillside for them to roam over.

THE DUKE AND DUCHESS IN HISTORIC KINGSTON

Royal Highnesses are Accorded an Enthusiastic Welcome by Citizens

VISITED QUEEN'S AND MILITARY COLLEGE

Afterwards Embarked on the Steamer Kingston and Took a Trip Through the Thousand Islands.

Belleville, Ont., Oct. 15.—A very large crowd, estimated from 8,000 to 10,000 people, assembled at the G. T. R. station this morning to greet the Royal party, whose train had arrived late last night and had been switched on to the Midland siding, where they remained all night. The Governor-General's train was backed down at 9.15, and after Mayor Graham and other gentlemen had been introduced it left, after a few minutes' stay, for Kingston. Soon afterwards the Royal train arrived, and Mayor, aldermen, and a number of ladies and gentlemen were presented to the Duke and Duchess, a beautiful boquet being presented to the latter by Miss Graham, daughter of the Mayor. The stay of the train was not more than ten minutes. A guard of honor was furnished by the 15th and 49th Regiments and the Veterans' Association. The pupils of the Public schools, Albert College, and the business colleges sang the National Anthem and "Rule Britannia," which was joined in by the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb Institute by means of the sign language. Cheers greeted the Royal party, whose train left at 9.55 for Kingston, and the forenoon was observed as a half holiday.

KINGSTON'S LOYAL RECEPTION.

Kingston, Oct. 15.—Before the time arranged for the reception of the royal visitors, the streets of Kingston were crowded, the whole countryside having emptied its population into the old Limestone City. The day was beautiful, the air cool and invigorating. The decorations were unusually brilliant. The vice-regal party received a welcome salute of 19 guns from B Battery at Port Frederick; the royal party, who arrived at 11.25 a salute of 21 guns. There was tremendous enthusiasm as the Duke and Duchess drove up Ontario street from the handsomely decorated Grand Trunk station to the city. Here, under a picturesque pavilion near the entrance and on the site of Gen. Braddock's fortifications, they heard the civic address of welcome, listened to the singing of 3,000 children, saw them wave flags and cheer. It was an inspiring sight. The Duke made a brief well-timed address, and then received several addresses from adjacent places, which were only handed in. Miss Rilla Kent, daughter of Mayor Kent, gave the Duchess a fine bouquet, and made the presentation in pretty fashion. A few leading citizens and aldermen were presented.

TO QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

The Royal procession then moved to Queen's College through gaily decorated avenue, crowded with shouting spectators, past Monument Park and the hospital, all of historic interest. Out of a hospital window looked Very Rev. Principal Grant, convalescing from a serious illness. At the new Arts Building at Queen's a huge platform held dignitaries of the church, the law and public life. Sir Sandford Fleming, K.C., M.G., Chancellor of the University for over 25 years received the Duke and Duchess. On the Duke the degree of L.L.D. was conferred, Vice-Principal Watson making the presentation address. The newly-appointed honorary graduate made a felicitous reply at becoming a member of a university chartered by his illustrious grandmother. Then both the Duke and Duchess opened the second volume of the Domesday Book with their signatures and the Duke well and truly laid the corner-stone of the new building donated to the college by the citizens of Kingston. There was mighty cheering and lusty songs by the students, while a brief time was spent in exchange of good wishes.

MILITARY COLLEGE.

The drive was then resumed to the Royal Military College, the route passing Frontenac's Court House, the Kirkpatrick memorial, a quartette of fine churches, and then down Princess street, gay with flags bunting and maple leafs. The party drove across the venerable Cataraqui bridge, and at the Royal Military College were greeted with a royal salute by the military staff and cadets, 87 in number, the commandant, Lieut.-Col. Raymond Reade leading. There was a short inspection by the Duke, followed by a march past, a gymnastic display and a salute of 21 guns as the royal pair left. During the event Miss Mary Reade gave the Duchess a bouquet, and the wives of the staff were presented. Shortly after 1.15 o'clock the royal procession retraced its steps to Swift's wharf where the steamer Kingston awaited them to make a trip to Brockville, through the gorgeous beauty of the 1,000 Islands. They will reach Brockville this evening. There they will take train and proceed to Cardinal, where the train will remain for the night. The Duke and Duchess seemed extremely delighted at their reception. The day was so fine that this tended to make the city look handsome, to give spirit to the loyal demonstration, and with the marked display of military attendants, escort and guards, the sight was one not soon to be forgotten. A large number of residents of New York State were on hand to aid in the greetings.

PREPARATIONS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 15.—The centre span of the Victoria Jubilee Bridge of the Grand Trunk is being prettily decorated for the stop to be made about noon to-morrow by the Duke and Duchess of York to see the golden rivet driven by the King 41 years ago, when the bridge was first built. Four decorated flat cars will be run out just previous to the royal train, so that the party can step directly off the train.

COULD NOT CROSS THE MEDITERRANEAN

Balloon and Its Passengers Picked Up by Escorting Yacht.

THE WINDS AGAINST THEM.

Result of the Experiment Did Not Cause Any Surprise—The Count Abandoned Attempt.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The attempt of Count De La Vaulx to cross the Mediterranean in a balloon, which left Les Sablettes, near Toulon, Saturday night, has failed. The Minister of Marine, M. De Lanessan, has received a despatch from Toulon, announcing that the cruiser Du Chayla, which was escorting the balloon, is returning to port, and her passengers which she picked up ten miles east of St. Laurent Lighthouse. The balloon was uninjured. The result of the experiment did not cause any surprise after the news brought to Marseilles by incoming steamers this morning that the southeast winds which were blowing out at sea would carry the balloon to the coast of Spain or Gibraltar. Moreover, the latest news from the passengers of the balloon, indicated that it was proceeding very slowly. These two factors probably caused Count De La Vaulx to abandon his attempt.

NORTH POLE REACHED AT LAST

Sverdrup Supposed to Have Got There After Forty Months' Struggle.

Christiania, Oct. 15.—A strong belief exists in Scandinavia that Captain Sverdrup of the Fram has reached the North Pole, and is now returning home.

Sverdrup has been away on his expedition round Greenland for forty months.

As Lieut. Peary did not see him in the north of Greenland it is thought the brave Norwegian never intended to go round Greenland to reach the Pole.

In the summer of 1899 Sverdrup was on the north-west coast of Greenland. Lincoln's sea, to the north thereof, was ice free the following summer, according to Peary.

Scientists declare there is a strong probability that Sverdrup seized the opportunity and reached the Pole.

No fear is entertained as to the safety of the expedition, which was provisioned for five years.

JAPAN LIKELY TO WAR WITH RUSSIA

American Professor Speaks of his Observations in the Orient

THEY WILL FIGHT FOR COREA

Japanese Have Not Room Enough in Japan —Preparations for War in Progress.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—A war between Russia and Japan over Corea is predicted by Dr. Nicholas Senn, Professor of Surgery in the University of Chicago, who has arrived here from a tour of the Orient. Said he: "While I was in Japan I noticed on every hand that the Japanese were making preparations for war with Russia and they made no secret of it. The cause of the trouble is no secret in Japan. It wants Corea. Japan is not large enough for the Japanese. Russia practically holds Manchuria, and Japan does not intend letting this nation extend its influence to Corea.

DON CARLOS STILL HOPES.

Not Ready to Strike in Spain Now, but will When the Proper Time Comes

London, Oct 16.—There has been considerable talk in the newspapers for the past week about the activity of the Carlists in Spain, which does not seem to have any more foundation than the usual gossip of this kind. Don Carlos, who was interviewed in Venice last Wednesday, declared that he knew nothing of the militant proceedings of his partisans. He said that if the reports were based on facts, he repudiated and denounced them. He added:

"We are not ready for action. Any moment now would be ill-timed and doomed to failure. We will move in due course, but the time has not yet come to strike for the vindication of our inherent soverign rights.

Don Carlos was really agitated, possibly because he fears that he will be expelled from his comfortable asylum in Italy. It is quite likely that he will shortly issue a manifesto warning the people to be quiet. There is a very general impression among the Pretender's so-called court that the little King Alfonso, will never reach man's estate, and that on his death the nation will call Don Carlos to the throne of his ancestors.

DUKE OF YORK'S WELCOME HOME

England Preparing for His Reception.

EVENT TO BE MEMORABLE

Royal Party to Arrive at Portsmouth About November 1st.

And Will Be Met and Escorted Into Harbour by a Magnificent Fleet of Warships

London, Oct. 15.—England is already preparing to welcome back the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York on their return from their imperial tour. It is intended to celebrate the occasion on a scale that will make the event memorable in the history of the Empire. The Royal couple will sail from St. John's, Newfoundland, on October 25th. From there the Ophir will proceed with the direct to Portsmouth, where she is due to arrive on the afternoon of November 1st. To the Duke and Duchess the trans-Atlantic voyage of seven or eight days will be a slight feat compared to the vast stretches of sea they have already accomplished. It will be, moreover, a striking reminder to the that Canada is the nearest as well as the largest of the colonies. As the Royal yacht approaches Great Britain she will be met by all the ships of the Channel Squadron, under the command of Vice-Admiral A. K. Wilson, V.C., comprising eight of the finest battleships of the fleet and half a dozen cruisers. These vessels, which have recently arrived from Gibraltar, will assemble off the south coast of Ireland, in the vicinity of Cape Clear, towards the end of this month, and there await the arrival of the Ophir. The Reserve Squadron, known as the "home guard," comprising the battleships serving as coast and port guard ships, will, it is probable, also participate in the naval demonstration. They are now engaged in their quarterly cruise, but their movements will be timed so as to enable them to share in the function at Spithead. At that point every available man-of-war, decorated and illuminated to the fullest possible extent, will be assemble to do honor to the Duke and Duchess. The Royal yacht, escorted by a flotilla of torpedo boats will pass down the saluting lines of ships, manned and armed by their cheering crews, and thus triumphantly re-enter the famous harbor of Portsmouth. It is probable, although it is not yet announced by his Majesty, that the King and Queen will proceed to Spithead and there signal their congratulations as the Ophir comes in sight, accompanying the vessel back to port under escort of the destroyers. A prouder or more inspiring home-coming could hardly be devised to conclude the seven or eight months' Royal progress. It will be all the more cordial and enthusiastic because the Royal tourists have aroused such enthusiastic loyalty all over the Empire. Soon after they reach England we shall cease to hear of them as the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. They will become, by Royal prerogative, the Prince and Princess of Wales.

...Important to The Working Men...

We earnestly hope that the working men of this Province will see to it that control of industrial legislation does not wholly pass out of their hands. Now is the time to lay plans in order that every facility should be gven to the Labour Cause of holding its own against the inroads of capital. We do not blame Capitalists for the position taken by them in the control of public affairs. It has been an easy matter to get that control, and the results are irresistibly attractive. It is useless for workingmen to indulge in strikes. It is the old story of making a row after the horse is stolen. "Why didn't you see to your own protection before?" It is easy enough for Capital to take care of itself, but Labour seems to be incapable of self-protection. The ballot-box is more powerful than a battery of artillery—that is when it is really a ballot, and not capable of being tampered with. Critics say, however, that the workingman is not alive to his own interests, but that he prefers to be bought, sold and bossed generally by the capitalists and politicans, to thinking and acting for himself. It may be that he is not capable of better things. Certainly this supposition explains what otherwise is inexplicable, viz: the indifference of workingmen to the political candidates put forward to represent them in parliament and to make the laws which they themselves must obey. A secret ballot (as the Dominion ballot is) should be the first demand of the employed, so that the employers may not have their men at their mercy. The next thing is to find an honest and capable candidate, and when found set to work and elect him. Such a man is for your interests, not his own. It is easy enough, but yet the plausible politician, at the beck of the capitalists, steps into the ring at this juncture and cracks his whip. The entertainment begins, and then becomes more amusing than profitable to the working men. It is an unhappy sight. The change is a long time coming, and it will be after a long struggle of misery with ignorance, if it ever does come.

A Big Rally.

On Friday evening next a grand rally meeting of the members of the several Courts of the Canadian Order of Foresters of the town will be held in the Forester's Hall, Simcoe street. Mr. J. A. Stewart, mayor of the town of Perth, and members of the Executive Committee of the High Court, together with Mr. Ernest Gartung, Superintendent of Organization, and Mr. W. G. Strong, chief of the organization staff, will be present and address the meeting. A large attendance of brethren is particularly desired.

Weather Notes

Probs—To-day: Strong north-westerly winds, weather fair and becoming cooler.

Rain is falling in the Lower St. Lawrence Valley, but the weather is fine in Western Quebec and over the larger part of Ontario. Heavy frosts were prevalent in the North-west this morning. 16 degrees was registered at Qu'Appelle and Battleford.

NEARLY 50,000 HAS BEEN STOLEN

High Haul Made from the United States Express Company

ONE OF THE BILLS FOUND.

Signatures of Bank President and Cashier had Been Forged—Money was En Route to Helena.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15.—One of the largest express robberies that has occurred in this city or vicinity took place about three days ago. The amount taken was nearly fifty thousand dollars. It is believed the robbers are in the city, because one of the stolen $10 bills has turned up in the post office. It had the forged signatures of the bank president and cashier, neither of which signatures was right. The stolen money was in $10 and $20 bills, numbered from 1,301 to 2,001. The bills were to be issued by the National Bank of Helena, Mont.

As is the custom of the Treasury Department in Washington, when a National Bank desires to issue currency bearing the name of the bank, the bills were issued as Treasury notes, with a space left blank for the signature of the president and cashier of the bank, which are required before the notes are ready for general use.

In this case the notes, amounting to about $50,000, were printed by the Treasury Department for the National Bank of Helena, and about a week ago were shipped by express from Washington to the bank at Helena.

It was while en route to Helena that the bundle of money disappeared. How it occurred the United States secret service, which has several detectives at work upon the case, is unable to tell. The robbery is evidently that of professionals, for they noticed that the bills bore no signature and knew that without the signature the notes could never have been passed. The exact place in which the large package of money was stolen has not been located. The United States Express Company has the contract for carrying all of the Government money to and from Washington.

TWO YOUTHS TO BE HANGED.

Abandonment of Appeal Case for Henry Rowe and Watson Keiper.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 15.—When the case of Henry Rowe and Watson Keiper convicted of the murder of Cashier Ryan of the Halifax National Bank, is called for argument for a new trial before the Supreme Court at Pittsburg on Monday morning notice will be given that the case has been abandoned. This proceeding leaves their fate in the hands of the Governor, who will soon fix the time for their deaths. The reasons for the abandonment of the case are insufficient funds to prepare the facts properly for submission to the Supreme Court and the belief that it is a hopeless effort to try for a new trial.

Rowe and Keiper murdered Cashier Ryan last April during a daylight attempt to rob the bank. They were captured immediately and after a short trial were declared guilty. Each is under twenty years of age.

HORSE ARTILLERY ON THE WAY HOME

Troops for the Far East Should Cross Canada.

SPLENDID RECEPTION HERE

Commanding Officer Has Nothing but Praise of the Way the Men Were Received.

Montreal, Oct. 15.—The first detachment of Royal Horse Artillery, or, indeed, of any of the troops under the control of the War Office, to go East by the Canadian route, arrived in this city on their way back home from China.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has just closed a contract with the War Office to carry these troops across the Pacific, and Canada, so that we may expect to see them quite frequently.

Quite a number of the men who were here last night had seen service in the South campaign before they were sent to China and one of them, a corporal, who had been wounded, while fighting with his battery at Sanna's Post, had been particularly noticed by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York, at Vancouver.

On their arrival at the Windsor Station last evening the troops were met by the band of the 2nd Canadian Artillery, who played them down to the Allan line Corinthian, on which they sailed to-day for England. Along the route they were repeatedly cheered.

They are a fine looking body of men, and their marching and general discipline was greatly admired all along the route.

Captain Orr, who was in command of the visiting troops, was greatly pleased with the receptions which had been tendered them throughout Canada. Not only had the Canadian Pacific Railway Company made them as comfortable as could possibly be expected, but everywhere they had met along the route with spontaneous kindness, not not the brand which consists in asking a man to have a drink, but in thoughtful acts for the comfort of the men. As an instance he mentioned that at Victoria they were invited to witness a champion hip lacrosse match the sole pass needed being the khaki uniform. He believed that for Imperial reasons, if for nothing else, the troops coming home from the far East should be sent through Canada.

The detachment that sailed this morning is one of the pompom batteries. Eighteen of these weapons which did such good service for the Boers were in use in China. At the present time only six are kept there, and the men going across the ocean now will be drafted into other stations when they get back to England.

"The pom-pom is a handy little gun," said Captain Orr; "it may not do as much damage as some of the others, but it has a great moral effect on an opposing force. It will throw four or five shells into almost the same spot, and even if no one was hurt the enemy would decide to quit. They were not much used in China; but in Africa they had been most serviceable.

"These new guns are still in the experimental stage so far as the British army is concerned. They have been attached to the Royal Horse Artillery, so that they might be as mobile as possible. At first in South Africa they were manned by army service men on Royal Horse Artillery, as was most convenient."

Captain Orr expressed the warmest admiration for Earl Roberts, who, he believes, will be reckoned by historians as a military genius like Wellington. Lord Kitchener is a worthy successor to the Commander-in-Chief, and fully capable of accomplishing the work which still remains to be done.

As to General Buller, there is not a soldier who had ever served under him who does not express the greatest confidence in him. The captain has also a great admiration for Sir Percy Girouard, the young Canadian officer in charge of the military railway in South Africa, who has rendered himself popular with all ranks.

China enjoyed a fair state of peace when the troops left there. There exists some difficulty, from the fact that the central administration is being controlled by nations speaking different languages, but they work together. British prestige has not suffered anything; on the contrary, it has been increased. The Chinese do not want to see any foreigners at all, but if they must see some they prefer the English and Americans to any of the others. They do not care at all for the Germans and Russians. It may have been a knowledge of this disposition on the part of the Chinese that led Sir Alfred Gaselee to have so many Indian troops. Nobody could deny, however the gallantry and courage of these native troops. Their discipline was also splendid, and their physique was a matter of admiration, not a man being less than six feet high, and all magnificent fighters. No excesses of any kind could be charged to these troops.

Like Sir Claude Macdonald, Captain Orr was struck with the qualities of the Japanese troops. They are brave and determined, caring nothing for their losses so long as they win their point. They were always willing to learn anything, and seized upon all the good points in the training of the European troops. The appointment of Sir Ernest Satow, former Minister to Japan, to succeed Sir Claude Macdonald as Ambassador to China is considered a good move. The new Chinese Minister spent many years in Japan, and know their literature better than some of the natives. He would be of immense service to the Empire in working out the problems of the Far East.

Sure Cure for Sea Sickness.

Maladies of this type yield instantly to Polson's Nerviline, and if you suffer periodically from these complaints just keep Nerviline at hand. A few drops in sweetened water gives instant relief, and in the course of half an hour the cure is complete. A large 25c bottle of Nerviline in the house will save doctor bills and a vast amount of suffering every year.

HAS GENERAL BOTHA BEEN CAPTURED

Rumor on London Stock Exchange But not Corroborated

KITCHENER WAS MOVING AGAINST BOERS

General Scheepers' Command in Cape Colony Said to Have Been Broken Up.

London, Oct. 15.—A rumor was started on the Stock Exchange this morning that General Botha, the Boer commander-in-chief, had been captured. But a despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria yesterday evening, contains nothing more important than the weekly summary of captures, a reiteration of the statement that General Kitchener's columns are moving against a considerable force of Boers near the Natal frontier, with which General Botha is supposed to be, and the announcement that Commandant Scheeper's command in Cape Colony has been broken up.

Aldershot to Get Ready.

London, Oct. 15.—The Pall Mall Gazette says this afternoon: "Orders have been received at Aldershot to hold every available man in readiness to proceed on active service. The garrison totals 20,000 men."

The above is interpreted as meaning that the Government is desirous of re-assuring the public, and not as foreshadowing an immediate demand for the services of the first army corps.

PRO-BOER SHEET SUSPENDS.

London, Oct. 15.—A special despatch from Cape Town says that, owing to the restrictions of martial law, the pro-Boer South African News has been obliged to suspend publication.

FIGHTING MAC IN AUSTRALIA.

Sydney, Oct. 15.—Col. Sir Hector Macdonald has arrived unexpectedly at Fremantle, en route to Sydney and New Zealand, where it is understood that he has relatives.

He is on 90 days furlough, and declares that his visit is purely private and quite unconnected with the Federal commandantship, though he acknowledged to an interviewer his willingness to accept it if he were given the chance.

He discourages all fuss and receptions. Nevertheless it is likely that steps will be taken to give him a popular welcome.

His plucky and splendid career appeals strongly to the adventurous Australian temperament.

Kitchener as Dictator in South Africa.

London, Oct. 15.—Lord Kitchener is military dictator of South Africa, and the newspapers receive very little information as to the program of affairs there, being compelled to be content with the news which he chooses to publish. The commander-in-chief has proclaimed martial law in Cape Colony, and will doubtless follow up his proclamation with severe prosecution and summary dispensation of justice. If he succeeds, rebellion in Cape Colony will be annihilated and the Boers driven north into the Transvaal and Orange River Colony and gradually starved into submission.

This programme depends largely for its successful execution on the retaliatory methods adopted by the Boers, if, indeed, they adopt any scheme of reprisal.

WAS MISS STONE FORCED TO SEND A LETTER

Alleged Missive from Macedonia in Which the Girl Appeals for a Hasty Ransom.

New York, Oct. 15.—According to a despatch from Sofia further word has come from Miss Stone in the following letter, written from Macedonia to W. W. Peet, treasurer of the Turkish mission in Constantinople:

"My honored friend,—I write to inform you that on the third of September I was captured by a great number of armed men—some forty—as I travelled from Bansko to Djumaala, with about twenty teachers, students and others.

"They took with me my companion, Mrs. Catherine Tsilka. The reason why they captured us is for a ransom. The price which they demand for us is 120,000, Turkish, which sum must be paid in gold, and this entirely without the knowledge of the Turkish and Bulgarian Governments, within the term of eighteen days from to-day.

"The condition of Mrs. Tsilka decided the limit, as she is to give birth to a child in three months.

"We are pursued by a Turkish army. I beg Dr. Haskill himself to go to Constantinople and exert himself for the payment of the ransom at Samakov, where men will receive it on presenting an order from me.

"The men who captured us at first showed courtesy and consideration toward us, but now, since Turkish soldiers and Bashibazouks have begun to pursue us, and the ransom is delayed, our condition is altogether changed.

"Therefore, I beg you to hasten sending the ransom demanded, and that as energetically as possible you will represent to the Turkish Government that it stop the pursuit of us by soldiers and and Bashibazouks, otherwise we shall be killed by the people in whose hands we are. I pray you to communicate without delay the contents of this letter to the representative of the United States at the Porte, and request his most serious co-operation.

"Pray for us. We are at peace with God.

"With hearty salutations, your friend,

"ELLEN M. STONE."

The above letter is suspiciously like letters which brigands dictate to their captives at the point of a pistol in order to persuade their friends that their position is critical, and that they ought to hasten with the ransom. This is borne out by the request that the Government be requested to call off pursuing troops, which would certainly not be the wish of Miss Stone, but could easily be the desire of brigands who are uncomfortably pressed by their pursuers. It is also quite possible that the letter may not have come from Macedonia at all, but that it may have been written in New York, after the approved manner of the novelists, who deal with brigandage and afterwards published in some yellow journal from whose columns it has been clipped and wired to Toronto.

Sofia, Oct. 15.—Although the time fixed by the brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, for the payment of the ransom demanded, expired a week ago, no one has appeared at Samakoff to claim the money or to announce the fate of the captive. It is now learned that the band has dissolved, but that Miss Stone is kept under surveillance at some distance from the frontier. This is due to snow and cold weather rendering the mountains uninhabitable. The efforts of the police to arrest Saraoff, formerly President of the Macedonian committee, who is suspected of complicity in the kidnapping, are still unavailing. The failure is due to the sympathy of the inhabitants and local authorities.

WHERE MONEY IS A DRUG

Kansas bankers are astonished at the amount of money thrown on their hands and for which little or no outlet can be found. The explanation is that in the drought regions, owing to the shutting off of feed, the cattle have been turned into gold, and put on deposit. Thousands of farmers have sold their cattle because of this, and the cash, instead of going into corn and other grain to carry stock through, is deposited awaiting investment. Many western banks now pay no interest on deposits. Three years ago next January the cashier of one of the Kansas City banks called attention to his institution's deposits, saying:—"We have now over $14,000,000, and we expect eventually to reach $20,000,000. That is about the limit for this section of the country." The statement of that bank published this week shows $48,000,000 on deposit. A Central Kansas banker four years ago contemplated the deposits of his bank, then about $150,000, and promised that when they reached $200,000 he would reduce the interest rate of the community. This week he has $[illegible]25,000. There are a dozen small towns of the state with not to exceed 6,000 people that have in the banks $[illegible] each. Out in the western counties, Garden City, where the arid region makes irrigation the only means of successful agricultural development, but where the lack of water in the Arkansas River has handicapped the efforts of the people one bank has deposits of $300,000.

THE WAR

The New York Sun publishes the following, giving from a Boer standpoint, the situation in South Africa:

The commandos in the field, while shedding those who become physically unfit or undesirable, receive recruits from among the disaffected Dutch and others in Cape Colony and Natal, and, notwithstanding reports to the contrary, have sufficient arms and ammunition to last, with care, for a prolonged period. According to reports from perfectly trustworthy sources, President Steyn and Gen. Botha are confident of their ability to continue the war quite two years longer. At present they are using the Lee-Metford rifles taken during the war, for which they obtain ample ammunition in the convoys they capture and in the British camps which they surprise at intervals. In case this resource fails them, they still have a reserve of Mauser rifles with ammunition to fall back upon, safely deposited beyond danger falling into the hands of the British columns. Although a large extent of country has been laid waste, the food supply has not failed, and as the natives are not hostile to the Boers, the latter find no difficulty in obtaining what they require to replenish their simple commissariat. The Basutos hold aloof from participating in the war, owing to the younger and more intelligent element being opposed to it and their example is followed by other tribes.

One notable feature of the present stage of the conflict is that that section of the population of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State before the war which was opposed to the Kruger policy and would have been willing to arrange with the British Government, is now opposed to any terms that do not recognize the independence of the two republics and is resolved to fight on to the end, whatever it may be. They were much encouraged by the results of the fighting at Vlakfontein in May and at Wilmansrust in June. In the fight at Vlakfontein they inflicted our loss on a strong British column with a loss of only nine killed and eleven wounded; while at Wilmansrust they captured the British camp, after standing, with a loss of only six killed and four wounded to themselves. The British loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was over 350, of whom 200 were unwounded prisoners. In the recent fighting in Zululand they appear to have been less fortunate but the details are still wanting; and the capture of a large British convoy close to Melmoth would seem to imply that their reported defeat had not seriously discouraged them. In the attack on the British camp at Mafeking, they were more successful, and struck a heavy blow at a vital point in the communications between the two places. The force engaged in this affair was under Gen. Delarey, and was reported a short time before to have been driven north by Lord Methuen in great confusion.

The present activity of the Boers is due principally to the fact that their horses find grass all over the country, whereas during the winter they were restricted to the valleys. The British, owing to the devastation of the country, have contributed to the restriction of their own movements, which are rarely carried out to any great distance from the railway lines and large supply depots. To guard Johannesburg and the mines, they have between 40,000 and 50,000 men permanently encamped on the Rand. A large proportion of the remaining 150,000 men composing the effective army are in blockhouses along the railway lines and in barbed-wire enclosed camps at the principal towns, or watching the drifts on the Vaal and Orange rivers. The mobile force is thus reduced to a minimum, and is quite inadequate to put down the insurrection in the Cape Colony and dispose of the commandos operating over a territory nearly as large as France and Germany.

All the efforts to end the war on the part of the British have, so far, been ineffectual. The army is with difficulty kept up to full strength, the men enlisting in England falling off both in numbers and quality; so much so that many, both officers and men, have been sent back to England from South Africa as unfit for the field. The Cape Dutch who were disposed in the earlier stages of the war to remain quiet and abide the issue have, through the rigorous administration of natural law in certain districts, been practically driven to active rebellion; and it is only through fear that the Afrikanders of British and other origins than Dutch would also be driven to revolt, that martial law has not been declared all over the colony.

What the issue of the conflict is to be, is not at all clear. It hardly seems within the bounds of possibility that the Boers should win all they are fighting for, but conditions seem to be arising in other parts of the world that would appear to make it prudent, to say the least, on the part of the British Government to make concessions to a brave and spirited people.

The British estimate that about 11,000 Boers still remain in arms; they themselves had in May last 249,416 officers and men in the field and along the lines of communication—the largest army Great Britain has ever put in the field. At present nineteen out of thirty-one cavalry regiments, one-third of the field and horse batteries of artillery, and one-half of the infantry battalions, are in South Africa, without counting militia and volunteer troops. The military question is complicated by financial questions as well; the war has already cost one-fourth as much as the Napoleonic wars cost England, and the British public is said to be wearying of the delay in ending the strife. Social influence and favoritism, to the effects of which, rightly or wrongly, the early British disasters were ascribed, is regaining strength, and it seems as if the dearly bought lesson of the last two years might be thrown away. Altogether, though the final outcome of the war cannot be doubted, the future offers little more of hope to the British than the past two years have had of glory.

Pretty

Is an adjective which seems to have become monopolized by the young lady at the typewriter. It is astonishing what an array of beautiful women are found in stores and offices. In fact, the typical American beauty will be found sitting at the typewriter rather than lolling in a carriage in the park.

And yet this pretty young girl needs always to be reminded that "beauty is only skin deep," unless it roots in health. When the health is undermined by womanly diseases, the luster soon passes from the eyes, the cheeks grow thin, the body loses its plumpness.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases which weaken women and which destroy their strength and beauty. It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Several years ago I suffered severely from female weakness, prolapsus and menorrhagia, and used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with splendid effect," writes Fannie Shelton, of Washington, Iowa. "Glad I have not needed it for a few years past, but if I should ever have any return of the old trouble would surely try 'Favorite Prescription.' I have recommended it to a number of my lady friends. I always tell them to try a bottle, and if they are not benefited by it I will pay for the medicine. In every case they have spoken in praise of it."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure sick headache.

Has Rhodes More Bombs?

London, Oct 14.—Business associates of Mr. Cecil Rhodes make no secret of their belief that his correspondence with Mr. Schnadhorst, in regard to the famous check for £5,000 forms by no means the best card which the Cape ex-Premier has to play against his Liberal opponents. It is hinted that he is in a position to disclose financial relations between certain officials of Liberal organizations and Mr. Kruger. Liberals, for their part, believe that Mr. Rhodes endeavoured to bribe Mr. Schnadhorst by offering to make him a present of a number of shares in the Chartered Company of South Africa.

Dr Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

FATHER O'FLAHERTY'S TACTICS

SHORT STORY FOR THE DAY.

It was a neat little house in a quiet little street, Dennie Mullaney's residence, but it was not alone because of its neatness that Mrs. Mullaney was proud of it. She had bought that house—on the installment plan, mind you—out of her own earnings as a seamstress, and what she saved out of her husband's wages of $2 a day. And she had never, as she herself expressed it, had "liss than eight childer ter kape" while the house was in course of acquirement. For these beloved "childer" the social ambitions were high. It was no part of her plans that Molly, her eldest and the flower of the flock, should marry a "common teamster," although young "Jamesy" Murphy owned a fine team.

It is doubtful if the young people would ever have had a chance to be happy—without making a run for it, which Molly would never have consented to do—but for Father O'Flaherty's assistance.

Father O'Flaherty was the boyish-faced priest at St. Michael's, a young man just out from Ireland and, once more to quote Mrs. Mullaney, "wurrkin' loike the very divvle ter bate the fever of homesickness," which was consuming him. Father O'Flaherty was fond of calling at the Mullaney cottage because Mrs. Mullaney reminded him of the good, hard working, affectionate mother who had sacrificed her own joy in his presence for the sake of his future well being. He was sorry, upon the occasion of the call which directly followed Mrs. Mullaney's fiat against "Jamesy" Murphy to see that Molly looked pale and troubled and that her eyes showed traces of tears.

"It's hankering after Jamesy Murphy that she do be," the indignant mother burst forth in answer to the good priest's kindly inquiry. "But it's cry she'll have ter, unless Jamesy alters his ways."

"A good lad, Mrs. Mullaney," said Father O'Flaherty, "and very steady for his years."

"He may be as steady as the church fer awl I care," she declared, roundly, "an' as harnsome as Molly thinks him. But no young man that's willin' ter dhrive team these days is good enough for my Molly. It's eddication an' sthyle that helps a mon up in ther wurruld these days."

"It's love that makes people happy," ventured Molly, emboldened by the priest's evident sympathy.

"I believe you're right, my girl," Father O'Flaherty told her a few moments later, as she showed him out at the front door. "Keep up a good heart and a good courage, Molly, and you'll be a happy woman one of these days."

Straight home to the study, where a committee of "solid" parishioners waited to discuss plans for the building of the new church went Father O'Flaherty, thinking of [illegible] and Mrs. Mullaney [illegible] thinking a little too perhaps of the bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked Irish girl for whose sake he had been [illegible] to college a little earlier than he had expected, but of whose charms [illegible] dedicated to the priesthood from his infancy had no right to think. She [illegible] had looked a little [illegible] when just he saw her. The thin face of Father O'Flaherty looked thinner than ever as he faced his parishioners.

"I leave most of the details to you, gentlemen," [illegible] "But [illegible] I want young Jamesy Murphy to have the contract for the teaming. He's a good lad and the contract will help him. None of you will have any objection, I am sure."

"Jamesy isn't prepared for it," suggested one of the [illegible] members in the room.

That night he had an interview with the young teamster.

"I'm thinking, James," was the substance of this conversation, "that you could borrow the money for a couple of new teams from your father if you had a good contract in sight, couldn't you? And I myself shall be glad to lend you [illegible] good team [illegible] four teams [illegible] take the hauling contract [illegible] St. Michael's [illegible]."

"Never mind thanks, lad," he concluded the [illegible] and talk [illegible] you can [illegible] prejudice [illegible] for a [illegible] the church contract."

"Heaven bless ye, father," said young Jamesy [illegible] lar.

[illegible] expected [illegible] ambitious [illegible] her daughter recognised a [illegible] difference between the teamster who drove his own single team and the "contractor" who rejoiced in four teams and the church contract.

The neat little house was replaced by a tall [illegible] and [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, blissfully happy and successful, are joint owners [illegible] ancy of this new building. Father O'Flaherty, [illegible] quite [illegible] homelike as the old one, calls quite often and he is usually a little happier for every visit.

The sweet little Irish girl of whom Father O'Flaherty [illegible] be thinking slipped out of this life last winter and it comforts the man who has [illegible] to think of her to know that Molly Murphy, nee Molly Mullaney, was made happy for her sake.

ROYALTY AT HAMILTON

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 14.—This city testified its loyalty to the King and Empire to-day by giving the royal representatives thereof such welcome as will be remembered many years by the thousands of people who had part in it. The buildings on the streets through which the royal party was to pass were gay with bunting, flags, [illegible] and words of welcome, and notwithstanding that a high wind storm, accompanied by rain, did considerable damage to the decorations on Saturday night, they [illegible] well this morning. One of the early features of the day's celebration was the parade of the Fourth Field Battery through the streets and down to the Stuart street station, where it was posted on the hill, ready to fire a royal salute on the arrival of the royal train from the Falls. A guard of 100 men of the 13th Regiment went to the station early and over 2,000 representatives of fraternal societies were lined up on Stuart street, waiting to cheer for the Duke and Duchess. Several thousand citizens gathered at the station, although there was no admission for them.

As the royal train approached the cheering was exceedingly loud and hearty, and all the way from the station to the City Hall cheering thousands stood waving their hats and showing appreciation of the visit of the royal party.

When the royal carriage pulled up in front of the City Hall, 1,000 school children, who were standing on a specially built platform, greeted the royal party with patriotic songs, being led by the Sons of England band. The royal party, escorted by the Reception Committee, of which Ald. Frank E. Walker is chairman, alighted and passed through the hall to a highly decorated platform on the south side of the civic building, where the reception proper took place. Here about sixty leading citizens, including all the Aldermen, ex-Mayors, civic officers and county officers, ready to welcome the royal visitors, and here Mayor Hendrie read the address from the city to the Duke. His Royal Highness replied in a neat and [illegible] speech.

Besides the civic address there was one from Fessenden Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, which was handed in by Mrs. P. D. Crerar, vice-president of the Chapter, Miss Tesdal, the president, being absent owing to the recent death of her father. Miss Ethel Walker, daughter of Ald. Walker, presented the Duchess with a bouquet. From the City Hall the royal parade was down King street east as far as Catharine street and back to James street, and up James to Wm. Hendrie's residence, the "Holmstead," where the royal party were the guests of Mayor John Hendrie and a number of citizens. The greatest feature of the day's doings in this city was the presentation of colors to the 13th Regiment by the Duke at Victoria Park, this taking place shortly after 3 o'clock. The colors had been donated by the Daughters of the Empire. The royal party left the city at 3.30 for Brantford. While the royal party was at the City Hall, John Plesston, an old sailor who had been with the Duke on the man-of-war [illegible], was [illegible].

On board Royal Train, Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 14.—The royal train [illegible] Niagara-on-the-Lake in two sections [illegible] the Governor-General's [illegible] leaving at 9.30 and the Duke and Duchess [illegible] Western Ontario at 10 o'clock. There was a [illegible] royal pair as [illegible] station, Mayor Best, on behalf of the inhabitants, bid the royal pair farewell. The visitors stopped a few minutes at St. Catharines, where there was considerable cheering [illegible] in [illegible] visit [illegible] Dundas [illegible] presented [illegible] the Duke remembered him and greeted him very cordially. The ducal train [illegible] through Toronto this evening [illegible] will be spent at Belleville.

BEST MAN VICTORIOUS

[illegible] of the Admiralty, addressed a meeting at Portsmouth on "The Imperial Forces." He saw that some of our foreign critics had said that our officers had not studied the problems of naval and military warfare sufficiently. Now he thought there was a little [illegible] in that criticism, and he would say to the young officers of the navy, "Remember that the [illegible] is not only the one who is a leader of men, but one who is a student of naval problems." Therefore, while he would say to all ranks, "Use all the wits you have got to [illegible] the problems [illegible] work you have [illegible] study [illegible] in [illegible] played [illegible] always balance the material resources on one or the other. They could always weigh [illegible] opportunities of the moment. The one thing they could never [illegible] was the most important thing, was the [illegible] the future on to the past [illegible] nations had to fight all the [illegible] they fought with would be [illegible] al. What would win would be the [illegible] disciplined, most courageous, most [illegible] reliant and most [illegible] officers and men, led by [illegible] War, whether by sea or by land, never had been or never would be a simple game of chess. The personal element would always carry the day in the long run. A man was never defeated—he was [illegible] talking now of an individual—till he was either killed or he surrendered, and though there had been, and would be, such surrenders which were very honorable to the men who surrendered, the presumption which every member of His Majesty's navy [illegible] to cherish for ever was that surrender was in itself an unutterable [illegible]. They had heard people laugh and call a silly [illegible] the old saying of the French Guard in the days of Napoleon I: "The Guard dies but never surrenders." But that criticism was [illegible] and a wrong one. That reputation of the French Guard was worth a whole army to the French nation.

THE BOER PRISONERS

London, Oct. [illegible].—The London Telegraph [illegible] the following: [illegible] captured [illegible] and [illegible] improvement has been [illegible] St. Helena. The old clothes [illegible] burnt and new ones supplied, made according to the West [illegible] fashion, but they are clean and comfortable. It is unfortunately true that the demand for soap is still very small at the camps, but many of the prisoners [illegible] in the form of [illegible] have learned to imitate the [illegible] of [illegible]. A barber's shop has been installed in the camps, and the patronage [illegible] General Cronje, who lives a long way from the [illegible] his wardrobe considerably during his residence on the island. He wears a frock coat and a tall hat on Sunday, while Mrs. Cronje [illegible] Boer [illegible] in [illegible] of the [illegible] up-top style, with a silk [illegible] boots." It is satisfactory to know that the Boers are very careful with the [illegible] a family; [illegible] durably and [illegible] Adding sewing machine [illegible] to the camp, and by [illegible] arrangement, devised by [illegible] for mechanical novelties, the motive power is actually supplied by the fresh [illegible] which constantly blow across the [illegible] The [illegible] form of [illegible] consistent with the preservation of the welfare of the camp generally. "They can get [illegible] they like" — to quote the words of the guard — "they can eat when they like, and [illegible] like." [illegible] A little [illegible] groups [illegible] which [illegible] day's work [illegible] provided with a [illegible] instruments with [illegible] In addition to [illegible] enumerated [illegible] melancholy [illegible] [illegible] Sunday. Every [illegible] accompanied by a guard of 100 men, enters the inclosure in order to call [illegible] privacy [illegible] It is [illegible] The Gloucesters state that the Boers have [illegible] themselves to the [illegible] in St. Helena. Many have [illegible] for the local farmers, and still [illegible] number have employed themselves [illegible] industry, [illegible] making. Large numbers are allowed out on leave every day [illegible] mission [illegible] visit Jamestown. Little [illegible] sale of [illegible] [illegible] establishment has recently [illegible]

Even in St. Helena the prisoners have been divided [illegible] into two hostile [illegible]. The trouble began, apparently owing to the publication of a circular asking for the signature of the men who were in favor of taking the oath of allegiance. Those who assented became targets for the opprobrium [illegible] tion of [illegible] fellow [illegible] contented [illegible] the strength of the rival parties, but the belligerents were certainly the most demonstrative. To such an extent did the quarrel go that the huts of two or three of the peace party were burnt and the inhabitants assaulted. Finally, the authorities decided to allow those prisoners desiring protection to leave the inclosure and set up another camp outside. About 60 of the ringleaders, including the notorious Kloff, were taken to High Knoll Fort, and there subjected to more rigid discipline. Offences in camp, generally speaking, are punished by bread and water diet or confinement to a tent outside the inclosure. The latter is not popular, seeing that such entertainments as take place — sports of various kinds, concerts, singsongs and even boxing — are confined to the arena within the barbed wire. Letters, papers, and parcels are received by the prisoners, but everything intended either for the camp or for South Africa must necessarily be submitted to the staff of censors. The interchange of correspondence between the prisoners and their friends outside, to say nothing of the facilities enjoyed in the island, enable the camp to follow the course of the war fairly well. It is encouraging to know that the majority of the prisoners are convinced that they have lost the fight, though there exists a considerable number in their ranks who persist in believing that the day of their deliverance "as it maun" may still be effected—providing their comrades in the field "can hol' dout a little longer." As a rule the Gloucesters and their charges were on good terms, and the stoning of sentries which led some time ago to the death of a soldier has been abandoned.

Hodgkinson & Tindell, of Beaverton, were awarded firsts for 1-year-old and 2-year-old fillies and brood mare with foal.

In the French-Canadian classes Henri de Land of l'Acadie, Que., was awarded three firsts, for mare, filly, and brood mare with foal. G. P. Sylvester, of St. Theodore d'Acton, Que., won the blue ribbon for 2-year-old [illegible], and Samuel G. Mouney, of Vankleek Hill, Ont., won first in the class for 3-year-old stallions.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages. Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable book that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 26, 1900.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.

President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News, July 2, 1900.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard of newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is [illegible] when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In [illegible] other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for not securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June, New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is today the dependence and guide in a greater or less degree of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BABIES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

[illegible] Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country and the tremendous opportunities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

[illegible] advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the money. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but shows their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err, on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1880, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's American Newspaper Directory has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk.

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are most willing that their exact circulations be [illegible] it is the best [illegible] The [illegible]

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.

New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think we shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as flimsy [illegible] listed. Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements. Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the probable truth than any other [illegible] the American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day. It is difficult to [illegible] [illegible] the advertisers [illegible] [illegible] at all times [illegible]

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it and nourish for it.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7, 1901.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and [illegible] George P. Rowell, [illegible] He originated methods. Others followed his publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to keep it up and labor for it. [illegible] with the great popularity of advertising [illegible] is a fact that every agency down to [illegible] of Oshkosh or Okoboji [illegible] its own directory, and every [illegible] for not more than [illegible] was worth about [illegible]. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

WASHINGTON.

Every page of the American Newspaper Directory breathes the desire of its publishers that it shall be thoroughly correct in every statement it makes.

Truly yours,

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 8,000 miles of railway, stretching from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspaper directories gratis; but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13, 1900.

JOS. E. HANNEN,

Adv. Supt. Southern Railway.

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation, as although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
HAY FEVER
ASTHMA
EVERY BOTTLE BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

—A rugby dance is on the tapis.

—Peterborough Cheese Board meets to-day.

—Centreville world's fair takes place to-day.

—Prof. Sheets returned to town yesterday and resumed his classes.

—Messrs. Dixon Jewett and Con. Wall are on a duck shooting expedition to Ball Lake.

—"McCarthy's Mishaps" appeared in the Opera House last night to a fair audience.

—At the Norwood show Mr. Harold Bowden carried off four firsts, and nine seconds in the poultry class.

—The leaves are being raked in heaps and burned on the sides of the streets throughout the town in the evenings.

—At the police court yesterday Daniel Wires was charged with having allowed his cows to run at large. He was fined $1.

—The T. O. Rush Company will formally open their fine new store to the public this afternoon. The 57th band will be in attendance.

—The death occurred in Monaghan on Saturday evening of Mary Kennedy, relict of the late John McIntosh, after an illness of only a few days. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery, and was largely attended.

—A little child of Mr. Moore, an employee of the electric works, fell into the creek on Monday near the corner of Brock and Aylmer streets, and was nearly drowned. She was rescued by a farmer who happened to be passing, and was unconscious when brought to shore.

—James Kives, who was arrested in Toronto, and brought to Peterborough was charged at the police court yesterday with having stolen a quantity of jewelry, the property of Mrs. Ensign. He elected to be tried summarily, plead not guilty, and at Crown Attorney Wood's request was remanded for two weeks.

A Good Man.

The T. O. Rush clothing company have secured the services of Mr. Fred Allison as chief salesman. Mr. Allison's long experience in the business will make his services of inestimable value to the company. Mr. Rush is determined to do the leading trade of the town in the clothing line.

The Western Harvest

—Mr. Lewis Downer, who went to the Northwest in July, returned to town Mr. Downer took 3000 bus. of wheat off the quarter section owned by his son, who was recently killed by lightning in the Northwest. He states that the grain is still in stooks on thousands of acres, the farmers taking the risk of being caught by the rain in order to make the extra 2 cents a stook which is saved by not stacking. Mr. Downer took no such chance, but prudently stacked his grain, and was satisfied with a fair price. It is understood that he has rented his farm for a term of years.

Lost Forty Dollars.

While in Toronto last week, Mr. Robert Baker, sr., of Ashburnham, lost his wallet containing $40. It was a case of pocket picking. The matter was reported to the police, but there is little prospect of recovering the money.

The Honest Man

Not long ago the wife of a certain local politician asked him to lay aside politics long enough one day to dig the potatoes in the garden. He agreed to do it. After digging for a few minutes he went into the house and said that he had found a coin. He washed it off and it proved to be a silver quarter. He put it in his jeans and went back to work. Presently he went to the house again and said that he had found another coin. He washed the dirt off it. It was a silver half dollar. He put it in his jeans. "I have worked pretty hard," said he to his wife; "I guess I'll take a short nap." When he awoke he found that his wife had dug all the rest of the potatoes. But she found no coins. It then dawned upon her that she had been "worked."

"Regular Practitioner—No Result."—Mrs Annie C. Chestnut, of Whitby, was for months a rheumatic victim, but South American Rheumatic Cure changed the song from "despair" to "joy." She says: "I suffered untold misery from rheumatism—doctors' medicine did me no good—two bottles of South American Rheumatic Cure cured me—relief two hours after the first dose."—[illegible] Sold by H. —Miss Mamie Bogue has fully recovered from her recent illness, and has resumed her studies at the De Notre Dame Convent.

—Mr. John L. Armstrong's many friends will be pleased to learn that he has secured the appointment of organist at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham.

T. O. RUSH CLOTHING CO.

OPENING OF A NEW BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENT TO-DAY.

Important Addition to Peterboro's Mercantile Establishments About to Begin Operations.

The "growing time" upon which Peterborough is entering or has entered shows itself not only in increased business for existing mercantile establishments, but in the opening of new ones. To-day is the opening day for an important addition to the town's business establishments, viz: the T. O. Rush Clothing Company, who formally begin operations at No. 466 George street. The company starts under unusually favorable conditions. The stock has been all bought for cash; it represents the latest output of three prominent Canadian manufacturers, and was made especially for this fall and winter's trade in Peterborough. The fabrics include English, Canadian, Scotch, Irish, French and American manufacture, hence all tastes can be satisfied.

The manager of the firm, Mr. T. O. Rush, needs no introduction to the Peterborough public, being well-known and having had extended business experience in the district. He is familiar with both the retail and manufacturing departments of ready-to-wear clothing, and his customers will know that they can rely upon getting prime value for their money as well as courteous and straightforward dealing.

This afternoon at one o'clock the doors of the new store will be formally thrown open to the public, and everyone is cordially invited to call and criticise the stock. In the evening the band of the 57th Regiment will give a complimentary serenade in the store, rendering a programme of their popular selections, which will no doubt attract a large attendance.

Deafness is Curable.

Sufferers from impaired hearing will be glad to know that their affliction is probably not due to any organic defects in the ear, but results probably from a thickening of the lining of the middle ear caused by catarrhal inflammation. Hundreds of perfect recoveries as the result of the inhalation of Catarrhozone are reported, and on the highest authority we recommend this treatment to our readers. Catarrhozone quickly restores lost hearing, and its efficiency is placed beyond dispute by the case of Mr. Fezall of St. Thomas, who recovered perfect hearing by using Catarrhozone, after years of deafness. Price $1. At druggists or by mail, from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE LATE JAMES SCOTT.

Son of Adam Scott, The First Settled Hate Passes Away

On Sunday morning last James Scott, a former resident of Peterborough, passed away, in the 88th year of his age.

The deceased was the last surviving child of the late Adam Scott, the first settler in Peterborough, and who gave the place the name of "Scott's Plains," which was afterwards changed to Peterborough, in honor of the late Hon. Peter Robertson, who brought out 2,000 emigrants in 1825. The deceased resided in Peterborough for many years, being a foreman with the Dickson Company. Afterwards he conducted Gilchrist's mill at Keene and for the last forty years has lived in Cartwright with his daughter, Mrs. Isaiah Barclay. Another daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wilson, resides in the township of Fleas, near Middleton. He was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of the late Peter MacFarlane, of Otonabee.

McCarthy's Mishaps.

A rather poor house greeted the above Company last night, due no doubt to the fact that the show was poorly advertised. Of late Peterborough has been getting all the inferior shows that are on the road with very few good ones. People will soon tire of this, and it will in a short time be difficult to get business even for deserving and meritorious plays. It is better to let the public take the bake dtruth when barn stormers attack the town.

GOOD COFFEE MAKER.

Experience with the Berry.

"I have gained twenty-five pounds since I left off coffee and began drinking Postum Food Coffee in its place.

I had become very thin in flesh and suffered tortures with heartburn, was a nervous wreck, with headache practically all the time until one dreadful day when the good doctor told me I must quit drinking coffee, as he had nothing left to try, to relieve me.

I could not drink tea and had tried everything else, even Postum, but put it by at the first trial, because it was tasteless.

Forced to it again, I determined to see if it could not be made palatable and found at once that when I followed directions, and boiled it long enough, that I not only liked it, but gave it to my husband for several days without his finding it out. I have the name of making splendid coffee, and we always used the best, but of late I have given Postum to guests many times in place of coffee and have never been detected yet.

Our four children have not drank coffee for three years, and all have gained health and strength since using Postum. One son who was always sick, has been greatly benefited by its use, and, as above stated, I have gained twenty-five pounds since taking up Postum. I am healthier to-day than I have been for years, and give Postum all the credit. Please do not use my name in public."

This lady lives in Burlington, Iowa, and the name will be furnished by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., to those interested.

THE PLANET MARS.

Mars is a planet every body talks about.

The reason is that it gives signs of terrestrial life.

The diameter of Mars is 4,316 miles, somewhat more than half of that of the earth.

Mars revolves around the sun in a period of 686.98 days, in an orbit exterior to the earth's.

Mars has certainly water upon its surface, although its water supply appears to be very limited.

There is every reason to think that the polar caps of Mars are formed of ice and snow, like the earth.

Mars has a very rare atmosphere, its density perhaps being not more than one-seventh that of the earth's.

Mars appears to have winter and summer as is indicated by the increase and decrease of its "polar caps."

The surface area of Mars is a little more than one-quarter that of the earth. Its volume is about one-seventh that of the earth.

Mars is supposed by astronomers to be a partially arid planet, whose water supply is largely afforded by the annual melting of the polar snow.

The canals are not always visible nor are they all visible at the same time. They appear [illegible], as the Martian season advances.

The so-called canals are supposed to be vast irrigation ditches, which distribute the water, and are bordered by cultivated areas on either side.

The most peculiar feature of Mars are its so-called canals, which appear as straight lines crossing the surface of the planet at various angles.

Mars has changes of seasons as it circles round the sun, corresponding with the earth's, though the seasons of Mars are all nearly twice as long as ours.

The equator of Mars is inclined to the plane of its orbit about 25 degrees, which is a trifle more than the equatorial inclination of the earth—23 degrees, 28 minutes.

Mars turns on its axis in 24 hours 37 minutes, 22.7 seconds. The earth rotates in 23 hours and 56 minutes, about. The day of Mars is therefore about 41 minutes longer than ours.

Although the mean distance of Mars from the sun is one and a half times that of the earth, the planet seems, to judge from the department of the polar caps, to enjoy a climate or a series of climates quite as mild as the earth's.

The number of canals seen and mapped by [illegible] was 183, of which number 67 appear on the map of Schiaparelli. Of the 116 not on that map 44 are in the dark regions the regions formerly supposed to be seas.

The so-called canals vary in breadth from fifteen or twenty to one hundred and fifty miles. Their length is enormous, the shortest being 250 miles long, and the longest 3,540. A thousand or fifteen hundred miles is about their average length.

Mr. Lowell is strongly inclined to think that the water supply of Mars has fallen so low that the inhabitants of the planet have been compelled for the purpose of agriculture to resort to [illegible]. What we see and call a "canal" is really a strip of vegetation which is thus artificially nourished on either side of the canal proper, the water itself being invisible.

The "canals" of Mars were discovered in 1877 by M. Schiaparelli, the director of the observatory of Milan. For nearly ten years no other astronomer could see them. M. Perrotin, at Nice and Mr. Terby, at Louvain, were the first to confirm this great discovery. Professor W. H. Pickering saw them for the first time at the Harvard College observatory in 1892. They are now seen easily at Arequipa, in Peru, at Mount Hamilton, at Mr. Lowell's observatory, at Flagstaff, Arizona.

TELLING FORTUNES

The Young Man Acknowledged that the Joke was on Him.

At a little gathering in Harlem one recent evening the conversation turned on palmistry. "Palmistry is a back number," said a bright young girl. "I can read character and tell fortunes with nothing but a handkerchief to work on."

She was asked to illustrate her power, and readily consented. Turning to one of the young men she asked him for his handkerchief.

"Take it in the centre between your thumb and finger," she commanded. "That's right! Now clutch it tightly in your other hand, and draw it through. That leaves creases in your handkerchief, formed by the lines of your palm. I shall read your fortune from these creases, which are really the reflected lines of your character."

Then she spread the handkerchief out upon her lap and studied the creases. After a few moments of silence she began in the stereotyped way to speak of a wealthy marriage, a dark man to beware of, and similar stock phrases.

As she knew the young man very well, she was also in a position to speak of several characteristic traits which were undeniably true, and which lent a semblance of verity to the performance.

"Now," she said, "take the handkerchief between your teeth and bite it so as to leave the imprint of your teeth."

Amid breathless suspense the young man did as directed.

"Harder!" exclaimed the amateur soothsayer, "bite it as hard as you can."

The young man grew red in the face in his efforts to leave the desired impression.

"Oh, you bite too easily!" exclaimed the girl.

Then everybody laughed, and the victim acknowledged that the joke was on him.

No Wonder.

Little Bugsy wants to play!"

"THE WOMAN TEMPTED ME."

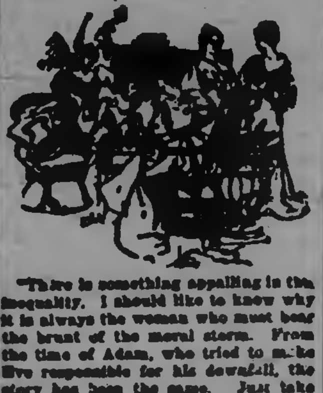
The Club Came to the Conclusion that There are Separate Codes of Ethics.

It was properly speaking, the afternoon set aside by the woman's club for the discussion of missions. Before the members could be called to order, however, one of the number started an informal talk on a subject somewhat nearer home, and the matter of missions was allowed to go over to the next meeting.

The member waved aloft a newspaper and read an extract describing arrests made in a saloon which was violating the closing law by being open on Sunday. The men and women were all taken to the station house. In closing the account of the very ordinary occurrence the paper said:

"The proprietor was held for trial for violation of the liquor tax law. The Magistrate committed the women to jail for a month each. He discharged the thirty-five men."

"This," said the member with the newspaper, "is such a common happening that it apparently doesn't rank very high as an item of news, because there is only very little space given to it. But it makes my blood boil to think of the injustice, the unchallenged injustice, of the law as it is interpreted. 'Court of justice,' indeed! 'He committed the women to jail for a month each. He discharged the thirty-five men!'



"There is something appalling in the inequality. I should like to know why it is always the woman who must bear the brunt of the moral storm. From the time of Adam, who tried to make Eve responsible for his downfall, the story has been the same. Just take this case, for an instance. Some men and women were aiding the proprietor of a saloon to break the law by buying drinks from him. If that is an offence, why were not both men and women held to account instead of just the women? If it was not an offence why were the women held at all?"

None of the other women was ready with an explanation. But many were anxious to corroborate the first speaker. Said one:

"You notice the same thing on the stage. The custom of making the woman suffer solely for the transgressions of all has become so common that a dramatist never thinks of presenting her in a light other than the light of being lost. Did you ever hear of society shutting its doors in the face of the male sinner and opening it to the woman sinner? Hardly. It is always the reverse of the situation."

After some further discussion, the club came to the conviction that there are separate codes of ethics for the sexes. They hadn't accomplished anything in the way of bettering the conditions, but they felt ever so much happier for having freed their minds.

For the Sick Room.

Wash two ounces of pearl barley, and put into a saucepan with one and a half pints of water and the rind of a lemon. Boil slowly for an hour; strain and add the juice of a small lemon; sweeten to taste.

Wash one ounce of linseed, put it into a saucepan with one quart of cold water, some licorice, and one ounce of the best sugar candy. Simmer for half an hour, then strain and drink hot.

Toast a slice of bread evenly to a nice brown; it must not be allowed to burn. Put it into a jug and pour cold water over; allow it to stand some time, closely covered; strain and use. Some people use boiling water, but the toast water will not be so clear as if made with cold.

Beat a fresh egg with a pint of milk, lukewarm, add a tablespoonful of capillaire, which is made by boiling a pound of lump sugar with one and a half pints of water until it thickens. Next add a tablespoonful of rosewater and a pinch of ground nutmeg. Drink night and morning until the cough is relieved.

Put a small bunch of sage, two sprigs of balm, and a little sorrel into a china jug, having first washed and dried them; peel a lemon very thinly; slice the lemon and put it with the peel into the jug; pour on it three pints of boiling water. Sweeten to taste and cover closely. Take a wineglassful, cold, twice or three times a day.

What to Read in Finger Nails.

Long nails never indicate such great physical strength as short, broad ones. Very long finger nailed persons are apt to have delicate chests and lungs.

Long nails, very wide at the top and bluish in appearance, denote bad circulation. Long-nailed men and women are less critical and more impressionable than those with short nails.

Long nails indicate ideality and an artistic temperament.

Long-nailed people are apt to be very visionary and hate to face disagreeable facts.

Short-nailed men never give up an argument.

A keen sense of humor accompanies short nails.

Short-nailed persons make good critics; they are sharper and more logical than long-nailed people, and usually more positive in assertion.

Short nails, very flat and sunken as it were into the flesh at the base, are a sign of diseased nerves.

Short nails, very flat and inclined to curve out or up at the edges, are the forerunners of paralysis.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Honest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: We any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the disease having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

A REMARKABLE STORY REGARDING THE WAR

Says That the British Are Deserting to the Ranks of the Boers

PREDICTED FINALITY OF WAR BY AN EXPERT

Who Says That the New Condition of Things Will Make all Future Wars of Slow and Long Drawn Out Operation.

London, Oct. 16.—With all sources of war news except what may trickle through the official dispatches sealed up owing to martial law at Cape Town, the discussion which has been growing daily in the London papers, promises soon to revolutionize public sentiment regarding the war.

General Sir Redvers Buller's bombshell speech on Thursday is regarded as the mere preliminary rumble of the coming thunder storm.

His close personal friendship with the King gives weight to his words, even greater than as spoken by the former Commander-in-chief of the South African army. A week ago Arnold White, the foremost spokesman in England of the reform element in the navy, demanded, in articles over his own signature, that the King should ask for the retirement of the Salisbury ministry. This article was copied and quoted in many papers, some even the hidebound supporters of the Tory government. The "Man-in-the-street," whom Mr. Balfour credited with better judgment in these matters than the combined ministry, wonders what it all means. Sentiments which a year ago would have been denounced as pro-Boer, are now openly advocated in the strongest Jingo papers. Public opinion was never in such a chaotic condition. Could a Gladstone arise to stir up the country as during the historic Bulgarian atrocity campaign, England would be ablaze with indignation within a week.

"Where are all the Boers coming from?" is a question heard a dozen times a day. If the official reports of the killed and prisoners are trustworthy the entire male population of the two republics was wiped out long ago.

An answer to this question came from one lately returned from South Africa, which is given exactly as it was stated: "Have you noticed how many are reported missing after every skirmish? Some of these return to the ranks, but many don't. No; the Boers don't keep prisoners, and are not yet accused of murdering them."

"This means that many are missing from the English ranks and prefer to stay among the Boers. Besides these there have been hundreds, probably thousands, of desertions of dissipated 'Tommies,' who, besides being underpaid and ill fed, are treated worse than slaves by arrogant officers and compelled to do menial work with savage Kaffirs, even envying these the privilege they enjoy of loafing off at their own sweet will when they don't choose to work.

"This accounts in a large degree for the facility of the Boer commandoes in walking through the British cordons whenever they please. It is the easiest thing in the world for a few former 'Tommies,' acting as scouts, on meeting a British outpost, to give a false description of the troops following and pass themselves off as British and so escape in the darkness.

"Of course there is no means of verifying the actual number of such desertions, but it was learned, on what I have reason to regard as excellent authority in Cape Town, that the total would more than account for all the reinforcements sent out for many months."

The dragging on of the war has been attributed to the natural difficulties of the country or the inefficiency of the British army. Now appears a continental expert, M. Jean de Bloch, who pronounces these explanations inadequate. In his opinion the prolongation of hostilities is the inevitable outcome of the changed conditions of modern warfare. He holds that any conflict on the continent of Europe today would be inconclusive. In short, it is his belief that South Africa has so demonstrated the futility of war, and that no sane nation hereafter can appeal to arms. The views of M. de Bloch, who is credited with having persuaded the Czar to call the Peace Congress, are set forth in the current number of the Contemporary Review.

M. de Bloch points out that the South African campaign is the first in which perfected firearms and smokeless powder have been used on a large scale. It is also the first in which the efficiency of trained soldiers has been tested against resourceful volunteers. The climate of South Africa M. de Bloch pronounces as salubrious as that of any European country. Its topographical difficulties he believes have been magnified. If Northern Natal be excepted the scene of the operations is flatter than most Europe. Besides, the British suffered as severely in the level regions as among the hills. The great extent of the theater of war instead of being a detriment to England this writer regards as a signal advantage such as European powers never enjoy in contests on the continent. The concentration of men on a small area tends to cause disease and greatly increases the difficulty of providing food.

The alleged superior marksmanship of the Boers M. de Bloch does not credit. He cites the opinion of the United States attache that they were bad marksmen when shooting at military distances. This judgment, he belives, is impartial and correct. The British artillerists have been severely criticised, but the Russian critic regards this point as ill taken as the others. They were efficient, he believes, and certainly far excelled the Boer artillerymen in numbers and power. Their superiority was greater than any European nation can hope to have over its antagonist. The lesson of South Africa is that artillery is practically useless against an intrenched enemy. Only on one occasion did the fire of heavy guns cause severe loss to the enemy or force him to disclose his position. Yet the artillery force of the assailants was from four to twenty times as great as that of the assailed in almost every instance. The occasion referred to was at Spion Kop, where the British were huddled on a hill top without shelter. Cavalry M. de Bloch regards as of even less use than artillery. He quotes Colonel Henderson, director of the intelligence department of Lord Roberts' staff, as saying: "Cavalry—armed, trained and equipped as is the cavalry of the European continent—is as obsolete as the Crusaders."

Having shown the inefficiency of artillery and cavalry, M. de Bloch turns to trained infantry. South Africa, he believes, has refuted all arguments in favor of conscription. It was the Canadians who made the final attack before the surrender of Cronje. Civilians defended Mafeking and Kimberley, against forces larger than those that attacked Ladysmith. Colonel Henderson said: "Our officers learned in South Africa that what they had practiced in peace was utterly unsuited to the Mauser swept battlefield. On hardly a single occasion was the usage of the maneuver ground adhered to." The point is that morale, intelligence, initiative count more than drill. These qualities are conspicuously weak in conscript armies and M. de Bloch predicts that conscription will soon become obsolete.

Everybody admits that warfare has been revolutionized by the introduction of the modern rifle. M. de Bloch's conclusions as to the military lessons of the war will find much readier acceptance than his general deductions about the disappearance of the conscript system and finality of war itself.

KIDNAPPING IS THREATENED

BANK PRESIDENT ASKED TO HELP ROB HIS OWN BANK

If the Miscreants do Not Capture Mr. Carpenter's Son, They Threaten to Injure Mrs. Carpenter.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 16.—C. R. Carpenter, President of the Commercial and Savings Bank of Racine, has received a mysterious letter, in which injury was threatened to his son or wife in case he refused to participate in the robbery of his own institution; that if willing to act with the robbers he should walk down the street of Racine at a specified time with a red carnation in his buttonhole. Failing to appear, the kidnapping of his son, Russel, was threatened, or if foiled in this, injury to his wife. The matter was reported to the police, who have thus far been unable to find a clue to the miscreants. Mr. Carpenter, who is a delegate to the American Bankers' Convention, now in session here, has confirmed the story in every detail.

THE NEXT CHALLENGER.

BUILDER WILL GET A CHANCE TO SHOW WHAT HE CAN DO.

When Earl Russel Comes Out He will Drop His Title and Become a Citizen of the Bald Old Eagle.

Glasgow, Oct. 16.—It is stated here that the next challenger for the America's Cup will embody the ideas of Denny, the builder of Shamrock II. which he pressed unsuccessfully on Watson for use in the construction of the last challenger. Denny is convinced a better challenger can be built.

AN AMERICAN EARL.

London, Oct. 16.—Earl Russel is to become American. He will leave Holloway Jail to-morrow, and as soon as he has arranged a few private business matters he and his second wife will leave for Nevada, where the Earl obtained a divorce from his first wife. It is said the Earl will drop the title and apply for American citizenship. He will probably settle on a ranch in Nevada and dispose of all his English holdings which are not entailed. The Earl's first wife is now playing in provincial music halls in England, and has never expressed regret for her prosecution of her former husband.

The Worcesters Inflicted Dangerous Wounds on Many of the Durhams. Progress of the Chinese Court.

London, Oct. 16.—The long-standing feud between the Durham and Worcester Regiments of Infantry, culminated last night in a serious affray at Aldershot, when the Worcesters with fixed bayonets and ball cartridges attacked the quarters of the Durhams. Severe fighting followed, during which many of the men were injured. A number of the Durhams are suffering from dangerous bayonet wounds.

NOVEL TRANSPORT SCHEME.

London, Oct. 16.—An interesting attempt is being made by the commanding officers of several metropolitan corps to grapple with the serious difficulties in the volunteer transport system. Hitherto a battalion on the march has had to depend entirely on railways and van delivery services which would not be available in the event of general mobilization. Several London battalions have therefore arranged with local tradesmen for the use of their vans and carts when needed, and in consideration of a small retaining fee the owners have agreed to parade their waggons at a given point within a few hours of being called upon to do so, even in times of peace. The experiment was recently tried by a South London battalion, and within twelve hours of notification fourteen vans paraded at headquarters.

STEAMER'S TERRIBLE VOYAGE.

London, Oct. 16.—The British steamer Cheronea, which left St. John, New Brunswick, for Cape Town on August 30, is reported to have experienced terrible weather in the Atlantic, resulting in the drowning of four men and the loss of her entire deck cargo. The four men were swept overboard by one wave, and it was impossible to try to save them. The Cheronea eventually had to run into St. Vincent, Cape Verd.

London, Oct. 15.—A despatch from Simla says that a report from the British political officer at Khyber Pass shows everything perfectly quiet on the frontier, and traders are passing through. The scene at the funeral of the late Ameer of Cabul was dramatic. The Chief Kad, addressing the people at Durbar, declared Abdur Rahman could not be buried until the new Ameer had assumed power. Then he wound a turban round Habib Ullah's head and saluted him as Ameer. Habib Ullah addressed the multitude, proclaimed his intention of maintaining his father's kingdom unlessened and unincreased, and of continuing in alliance and friendly relations with the British Government. The sentiments were applauded.

Socialist Papper Has Been Banned

New York, Oct. 15.—The Challenge, a paper devoted to Socialism and said to have a larger circulation than any other newspaper of its kind in the United States, has been refused admission to the mails as second class matter. This means that the editor will hereafter have to pay one cent a copy in postage instead of one cent a pound, and that whereas this item formerly cost but $4 a week, it will now cost $40 weekly."

H. Gaylord Wilshire, the editor, asserts that this is nothing less than suppression of his paper, and says it is the first case of a free press being stifled in this country. He is an ardent Socialist, and says he will take an appeal from the decision, and if that fails he will get his paper to his subscribers even if he has to employ the express companies to do it. He asserts, moreover that his paper was not refused mail privileges on any charge that its teachings are Socialistic or its utterances in any way inflammatory, but on what he describes as a specious plea on the part of Third Assistant Postmaster-General K. C. Madden, who made the ruling that it advertises too many ideas—Wilshire ideas—contains too many clippings, too little general information and too many personal letters.

The Challenge is published at No. 325 Fourth avenue. Up to three weeks ago the paper was published at Los Angeles, Cal., where it had a long and unusually successful career. It was on Mr. Wilshire's application for a transfer of its second class mail privileges from Los Angeles to New York that the trouble with the post office authorities came about.

Mr. Wilshire also spreads his doctrines from the lecture platform, and on a recent occasion barely escaped being mobbed at York, Pa., where he had attempted to give a lecture.

They Were Seven.

"Say, ma," said a little lad who attends George street Sunday school, to his mother last Monday.

"Well?"

"There are seven liars in our class at school."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that, dear. You might be mistaken."

"No, I ain't. Yesterday the teacher said that all of us that never told a lie should hold up our hands."

"And were there seven there who didn't hold up their hands?"

"No; there were seven that did."

BRITISH ANNOYED BY VENEZUELANS

Trinidad Notifies Colonial Office of Castro's Interference

CRAFT AND GOODS ARE SEIZED

Gunboat of Venezuela Makes Seizures in British Waters Passengers, Captain and Crew Held Captive.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Oct. 16.—Particulars have been received by the British authorities in this colony relative to what is contended to be an act of unjustifiable interference on the part of the Venezuelan authorities with British commerce in the Gulf of Paria, and which may probably lead to another rupture in the diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Venezuela.

For the second time within the last few months President Castro of Venezuela has given offence to the British Government, because one of his gunboats interfered with sailing craft in British waters and the rights of British subjects in British territory.

Trinidad is in close proximity to the Republic, and the waters of the Gulf of Paria wash the shores of both this island and Venezuela.

The schooner Pastora cleared at the Trinidad custom house for Guira, on the opposite shore of the Gulf of Paria, with a cargo of provisions on August 21st last. The craft sailed the following day for her destination, but on account of the rough weather the Pastora with other vessels had to put into the Bay of Patos for shelter.

As the sea continued to rise it was deemed advisable that, in order to lighten the vessel, her freight should be discharged temporarily until the storm had passed. On the morning of August 23, while these vessels were lying at Patos, the Venezuelan gunboat Tortumo arrived at Patos and her officers seized the Pastos and her officers seized the Pastora and several small boats, together with all the goods that were on shore.

GOODS WERE SOLD.

As soon as the weather moderated she took the seized craft and the goods to Guiria, where there is a Venezuelan custom house, and sold them. It is alleged that the officers of the Tortumo told the captains and crews of the seized craft to say nothing about the place at which the seizure was made, Patos being a British island, and asked them to say that the seizures were made in Venezuelan waters. But most of the crews were British subjects and the goods seized were partly owned by British subjects, also some of the craft owned or partly owned by subjects of Great Britain.

The Venezuelan authorities contend that the action of the captain of the Venezuelan gunboat was justified because it was to prevent smuggling and that, from information they had, the Pastora took certain goods from Trinidad that were not included in her customs papers, and these goods were tobacco and cigars. They also assert that the Pastora landed the tobacco and cigars at Patos, where there were several Venezuelan open boats waiting to receive them, and that the Tortumo's officers actually watched the transfer of these goods.

They also declare that when the Pastora sailed again she started for Venezuela, and when she got into Venezuelan waters the Tortumo's captain called upon her to stop, instead of complying with the demand, attempted to run back to Patos, a Mauser rifle bullet was fired at the Pastora, and the officers contend that she was then four miles from Patos and in Venezuelan waters.

The incident has been reported to the Colonial Office of the British Government, and the local authorities are awaiting instructions.

GIBRALTAR FORT IS NOT A REFUGE.

Prof Goldwin Smith Discusses the Possibilities of Gibraltar.

A LARGE ARMY IS REQUIRED

In Time of War a Big Force Would be Necessary to Defend the Fortress of the Mediterranean.

Mr. Goldwin Smith has the following article in the Weekly Sun: "Is Gibraltar untenable? This question is now being anxiously debated in England. The answer seems to be that Gibraltar is still impregnable as a fortress, but that since the vast increase in the range of artillery it has become untenable as a harbor of refuge. The latter fact cannot fail to strike every one who is not an expert on visiting the spot. To protect the harbor of refuge in case of war with Spain a large army would apparently be required; in which case the renowned fortress, instead of a bulwark, would become a drain. The question of retention is likely to be settled now, as more than once in history it has been, rather by national pride than by strategy. It is, however, pretty certain that since the strain recently put on the naval and military force of Great Britain, the British position in the Mediterranean, should there ever be war with the Mediterranean powers, has become a sort of serious concern to the Government. Would it be possible to hold Egypt? Would it be possible to hold Cyprus? Could British armies be detailed for that purpose? It can hardly fail presently to dawn on the minds of British statesmen that in the effort to perpetuate the empire of the seas, which England held after the destruction of all other navies in the war with Napoleon, her powers are being severely strained."

ST. LUKE'S GUILD.

The Election of Officers for the Ensuing Term.

The Chancel Guild of St. Luke's church met Tuesday evening. The attendance was large and encouraging.

Officers for the year were elected as follows:

Pres.—Mrs. Harry Adams.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Sawyer.
Secretary.—Mrs. Phillips.
Treasurer.—Miss Fitzgerald.

At a meeting of the Men's Guild it was decided to hold a concert on November 4th, and a committee to carry out the arrangements was appointed as follows: Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., Mr. H. Nesbitt, Mr. Sawyer, Mr. Pratley and Mr. Harry Adams. During the evening Rev. Mr. Langfeldt delivered a most inspiring address on "Loyalty—to the Home, to the Church and to the Country." Refreshments were served at the close.

COUNTY POLICE COURT.

An Alleged Insane Woman from Methuen Township—A Havelock Case.

Elizabeth Wallbridge, of Methuen township, appeared on a charge of insanity. She is the wife of Mr. F. W. Wallbridge, a labourer, and is about 35 years of age. The unfortunate woman has two children, one a boy of 10 years, and the other an infant. They were taken to the Children's Shelter, on Charlotte street, pending developments.

She was remanded until Friday at Havelock. The reason for having the hearing take place at Havelock is that it is more easily accessible.

County Police Magistrate Edmison will go to Havelock, to-morrow to hear a complaint that has been laid by a citizen of that village against a number of boys. He claims that they tied a wire around the chimney of his house and pulled it down.

THE POWER OF CAPITAL.

At the present moment the capitalist company seems to be all-powerful everywhere. Whatever it wants it gets. Municipality, workingmen, farmers—all have to bow down before it, all are tributary to it, from the laboring man to the farmer, and from the farmer to the municipality. Laws, legislation, banks—everything is made for it and it alone. The timely and determined protest of the assemblage of mayors and aldermen held in Toronto recently ought to help us a little, but unless it is followed up we shall continue to prostrate ourselves at the feet of every company that comes along, and beg them to take our tribute. The wheels of prosperity and good times bring little comfort in their round to anyone but the capitalist. The farmer still grinds with his face to the earth and his back to the glaring sun and the winds of winter. If farming ever passes into trusts and companies, Heaven help us. In the meantime the farmer gets the short end of it every time. Upon top of it all we find members of parliament, directors of these same companies. What fool expects justice of such as these? It reminds us of the old song:—

"Johnny had a little sheep,
Its fleece was white with care,
And everywhere that Johnny went
He scalped it to a hair."

The gentle reader may not think much of our poetry, but the truth of it will atone for lack of poetic inspiration. We often feel with the man who grasped his hair with both hands and exclaimed in anguish, "Oh! Lord! How long? How long?" When will men go to Parliament and make laws for the benefit of the people? It is said that the working people of all kinds in Ontario are robbed of ten million dollars a year that is their hard-earned due.

A New Store.

Mr. F. E. MacKenzie, of Chatham, has opened out a new confectionery store in the Grand Central Block, opposite the Times office, with a stock of plain and fancy goods—making a specialty of fancy lines. Mr. MacKenzie comes to Peterborough highly recommended, and will doubtless be accorded a liberal patronage.

WEATHER NOTES

Probs—To-day: Light to moderate variable winds, fair and cool.

Cloudy cool weather with scattered showers is general throughout Ontario and Quebec. It is fine and cool in Manitoba and the Territories, sharp frosts occurring at night. The general tendency is likely to be towards lower temperature between Ontario and the Maritime Provinces.

THE BOERS FLOGGED LOYAL CITIZENS.

Fouchee's Method of Dealing With a Captured Cape M. L. A.

SENTENCES OF BOERS WERE COMMUTED.

Lord Kitchener in a Merciful Mood—Armoured Trains Activ in Northern Transvaal.

Cape Town, Oct. 16.—The Botha brothers, two Cape loyalists, one of whom is a member of the Legislative Assembly, have arrived here from Aliwal North, after a vivid experience with Fouchee, the Boer leader. Fouchee captured them at Klipfontein at June 20, and subjected them to a mock court martial on Marais' farm at Bosjeslaagte, on the charge of high treason. J. Botha, the member, was fined £150 ($731), and his brother, George £50 ($243). The latter, in addition, was sjamboked severely. Mr. Marais borrowed the money to pay the fines for the Bothas from another farmer, and Fouchee gave a receipt for the cash as commandant of the Rouxville commando.

KITCHENER MERCIFUL.

Cape Town, Oct. 16.—General Kitchener has commuted to penal servitude for life the sentence of a number of members of Lotter's rebel commando, who were recently captured and sentenced by court martial to death.

ARMORED TRAINS ACTIVE.

Pretoria, Oct. 16.—Beyers is dodging the British columns in the northern districts, but has failed to do any damage. He attempted to cross the railway line between Potgieter's Rust and Nabooinspruit recently, but was engaged by armored trains, and compelled to retire.

WEEKLY REPORT.

London, Oct. 16.—Lord Kitchener's weekly report to the War Office shows that during the past week 25 Boers have been killed, 8 wounded, 191 prisoners have been taken, there have been 42 surrenders, and 102 rifles and 2,209 horses have been captured.

BOERS' RECRUITING OFFICER.

Durban, Oct. 15.—British columns operating in the Harrismith district are doing good work. A force recently paid a visit to Reits, where ex-President Steyn had such a narrow escape from capture a few months ago. Here the British captured twenty-two Boers, among them Pierre de Villiers, who has proven a great enemy to the British residents at Reits, attempting to force them to take up arms against the British. On one occasion he arraigned more than 50 of them for refusing to do so. De Villier's arrest has occasioned the greatest and widespread satisfaction.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

Good Prices Prevail—Circular Letter Read—Two More Meetings This Season.

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held yesterday morning. The following buyers were in attendance, Messrs. Fitzgerald, Kerr, Cook, Whitton, Rollins, Wrighton, Bailey, Cluxton and Sauve.

Before the bidding opened the President, Mr. Drummond, read the following circular from the Montreal Butter and Cheese Association:

To the Dairymen of Canada,—

At a general meeting of this association held on the 10th inst., it was resolved to issue a circular to the dairymen of Canada strongly advising them to turn their attention to butter more generally, and to discontinue the manufacture of cheese entirely after the 1st of November for the following reasons:

1. That fodder cheese hurts the consumption, thus diminishing the demand for grass goods and lowering its price.

2. That the outlet for cheese is limited, and everything depends on the quality to induce a large consumption.

3. That the consumption of cheese is not increasing but diminishing, while the consumption of finest creamery butter is rapidly growing.

4. That the price of butter is higher on an average all the year around than cheese for the finest qualities.

5. That the manufacture of butter is more profitable than cheese, not only in the comparative price but in that the farm stock and the land are better sustained.

6. That in order to maintain high prices there must be a continuous supply of the finest butter, and as the flow of milk is lessening now it is most urgent that the quality should be kept up as much as possible, and to divert the milk from cheese to this article, is the only way to keep up the supply.

Butter should be shipped fresh weekly to command the best price.

I am, Gentlemen,
Yours truly,
J. STANLEY COOK,
Secretary.

It is recommended that all factories should be fitted up so as to make either cheese or butter.

Cheese should be held three weeks at a temperature of sixty degrees to ensure proper curing. Serious complaints continue to come of cheese being shipped much too green.

Packages both of cheese and butter are still made of much too thin wood.

THE FACTORIES.

The factories boarded as follows:

The bidding opened at 8 3-4c by Mr. Cook. Mr. Fitzgerald went 1-16 higher, Mr. Bailey went 9c, Mr. Wrighton 9 1-16, and Mr. Fitzgerald 9 1-8. This was the limit of the first bid and Mr. Fitzgerald took Fraserville Keene, Central Smith, Lakefield Myrtle, Tregarra, and Cannington, but [illegible] refused.

The second bidding jumped very quickly up to 9 1-4 by Mr. Whitton. He called Shearer, Villiers, Westwood Ormonde, Melrose Abbey, Beaufort, and Norwood, all accepting.

Ballyduff sold to Mr. Kerr at 9 1-4, Montreal inspection. Buckhorn at the same figure sold to Mr. Bailey.

The Board adjourned for two weeks, after which another meeting

THE FORMAL OPENING.

Of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company Last Night.

The formal opening of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company took place last night, and was a decided hit. The store was beautifully decorated and fixed up for the occasion.

On a platform in the rear of the premises a section of the 57th Regimental Band were stationed, and discoursed sweet and inspiring music during the evening.

Mr. Rush, the progressive and enterprising manager, has set Peterborough talking, with the result that the name of the firm will soon be known far and near. The best quality of goods, bought for cash and sold at the closest possible prices, will do the rest.

Those who were unable to get in last night, on account of the crush, are invited to call around to-day and to-morrow and see the exhibition. The decorations were supplied by Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, who never do anything by halves.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Edith Hall and Mr. H. McKeown.

A very pretty house wedding took place yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Mr. Henry C. Hall, Waterford street, when his daughter, Miss Edith, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry McKeown. The drawing room and hall were tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Rev. Dr. Torrance tied the nuptial knot, the bride being given away by her brother, Mr. Leonard Hall, of Montreal.

The bride looked lovely in a bewitching costume of white silk with garniture of chiffon. The skirt was tucked in clusters with ruching of silk at the bottom. A bolero effect waist was worn, trimmed with silk chiffon. A handsome shower bouquet of white carnations was also carried.

Miss Ethel Wrighton, who acted as bridesmaid, was charmingly attired in linen colored silk grenadine over blue, trimmed with white crepe de chene and blue ribbon. She carried pink carnations. Little Miss Mollie Johnston, in white organdie over pink, made a very lovely little maid de honneur.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Percy McLean.

A daintily served wedding dejeuner was served in the dining room, which was also tastefully decorated. From corner to corner of the tables were stretched broad green ribbons, with a narrow strip of pink in the center, and a slender vine of smilax running from end to end, with huge bows of green and pink at the corners. The floral arrangements were of pink and white carnations.

The wedding presents were very handsome, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride is held by her many friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a solid gold watch and chain. He also presented the bridesmaid with a pearl pin.

Mr. and Mrs. McKeown left on the afternoon express for the west. Mrs. McKeown's travelling suit was of blue cloth with hat to match. On returning to Peterborough residence will be taken up on Waterford street.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 17 1901

There is nothing much bigger for its age than the Boer war, which is two years old.

British success in South Africa would be promoted by more mobility and fewer nobility.

ONEMEE

The chief topic for the last week has been the Duke and Duchess' visit to Toronto. Fully one half of our citizens took in the event and came home highly delighted, notwithstanding the crowds and crushing.

Peterborough band was considered by many of our musical critics second to none of the thirty-three bands at Toronto.

Those our citizens who had the pleasure of hearing Miss Hall sing at Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian concert recommend anyone fond of first class singing to embrace an opportunity of hearing this charming vocalist.

Presbyterian anniversary services October 27th. A great treat is looked forward to hear Prof. Dyde, Queens University.

THEIR WELCOME HOME

London, Oct. 15.—England is already preparing to welcome back the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York on their return from their imperial tour. It is intended to celebrate the occasion on a scale that will make the event memorable in the history of the empire. The Royal couple will sail from St. John's, Newfoundland, on October 25th, from there the Ophir will proceed with the indirect to Portsmouth, where she is due to arrive on the afternoon of November 1st. To the Duke and Duchess the trans-Atlantic voyage of seven or eight days will be a slight feat compared to the vast stretches of sea they have already accomplished. It will be, moreover, a striking reminder to the mind that Canada is the nearest as well as the largest of the colonies. As the Royal yacht approaches Great Britain she will be met by all the ships of the Channel Squadron, under the command of Vice-Admiral A. K. Wilson, V.C., comprising eight of the finest battleships of the fleet and half a dozen cruisers. These vessels, which have recently arrived from Gibraltar, will assemble off the south coast of Ireland, in the vicinity of Cape Clear, towards the end of this month, and there await the arrival of the Ophir. The Reserve Squadron, known as the "home guard," comprising the battleships serving as coast and port guard ships will, it is probable, also participate in the naval demonstration. They are now engaged in their quarterly cruise, but their movements will be timed so as to enable them to share in the function at Spithead. At that point every available man-of-war, decorated and illuminated to the fullest possible extent, will be assemble to do honor to the Duke and Duchess. The Royal yacht, escorted by a flotilla of torpedo boats will pass down the saluting lines of ships, manned and armed by their cheering crews, and thus triumphantly re-enter the famous harbor of Portsmouth. It is probable, although it is not yet announced by his Majesty, that the King and Queen will proceed to Spithead and there signal their congratulations as the Ophir comes in sight, accompanying the vessel back to port under escort of the destroyers. A prouder or more inspiring home-coming could hardly be devised to conclude the seven or eight months Royal progress. It will be all the more cordial and enthusiastic because the Royal tourists have aroused such enthusiastic loyalty all over the Empire. Soon after they reach England we shall cease to hear of them as the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. They will become, by Royal prerogative, the Prince and Princess of Wales.

Kitchener as Dictator in South Africa.

London, Oct. 15.—Lord Kitchener is military dictator of South Africa, and the newspapers receive very little information as to the progress of affairs there, being compelled to be content with the news which he chooses to publish. The commander-in-chief has proclaimed martial law in Cape Colony, and will doubtless follow up his proclamation with severe prosecution and summary dispensation of justice. If he succeeds, rebellion in Cape Colony will be annihilated and the Boers driven north into the Transvaal and Orange River Colony and gradually starved into submission.

This programme depends largely for its successful execution on the retaliatory methods adopted by the Boers, if, indeed, they adopt any scheme of reprisal.

A child three years of age died of drunkenness the other day in New York City. The parents said they had given the child whisky to strengthen him. In their absence he found a bottle of whisky and drank from it, until he fell over in a drunken stupor, from which the physician could not arouse him. That is only one case in several cases of baby drunkards recently noted. The important fact is that alcoholic stimulants quickly develop the alcoholic habit in children. This fact is just as true when the alcohol is disguised as a medicine, a "sarsaparilla" or other "compound." So many medicines contain alcohol, to the same extent that it is contained in beer or whisky, that parents should be cautious what medicines they give their children.

There is absolutely no alcohol, whisky or intoxicant in any form in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, neither does it contain opium or any other narcotic. It is a blood-making and body-building medicine. It does not make flabby flesh but good, firm flesh and muscle. It is pleasant to the taste.

"My four year old daughter had suffered from indigestion and bowel trouble from birth," writes Mrs. Lizzie Aten, of Baldmount, Lackawanna Co., Pa. "The treatment given her by home doctors afforded but temporary relief. Last February she was taken with severe pain in the bowels, followed by violent vomiting. She experienced difficulty in passing urine, which, when cool, deposited a milky sediment. I became alarmed from her symptoms and wrote to the World's Dispensary Medical Association of Buffalo, N. Y., receiving in reply a letter, advising the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, together with a special medicine which they sent. This line of treatment I followed for about two months, at the end of which time my child was enjoying good health, and she has had no severe attack of indigestion since."

Free. Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to defray expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

"No Cure, No Pay," is the Newest Proposal of the Proprietors of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the Times: To any one who is a subject of rheumatism (no matter how long standing) or any blood disease, as enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial and do not find a perfect cure we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no substantial improvement is observed, we will in addition, pay $10 in cash on satisfactory evidence being supplied us to this effect.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure. CANADA CHEMICAL CO.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. John's, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case, and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases having been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

She's as White as a Ghost.

As pale as a lily. A matter of pride? Certainly not. Strength! Color! Endurance! That's what every woman wants. Good digestion, perfect assimilation. Buoyancy and vim is the right of every woman. She need not lack these if she will only use Ferrozone. It makes blood, gives appetite, gives strength to the nerves, color to the cheeks, and brightness to the eyes. A box of Ferrozone tablets is at once transmittable into health, beauty and strength. There is power in Ferrozone. Try it and see if it is not so. Sold

SHOULD GO VIA CANADA

Montreal, Oct. 16.—The first detachment of Royal Horse Artillery, or, indeed, of any of the troops under the control of the War Office, to go East by the Canadian route, arrived in this city on their way back home from China.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has just closed a contract with the War Office to carry these troops across the Pacific, and Canada, so that we may expect to see them quite frequently.

Quite a number of the men who were here last night had seen service in the South campaign before they were sent to China and one of them, a corporal, who had been wounded, while fighting with his battery at Sanna's Post, had been particularly noticed by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York, at Vancouver.

On their arrival at the Windsor Station last evening the troops were met by the band of the 2nd Canadian Artillery, who played them down to the Allan line Corinthian, on which they sailed to-day for England. Along the route they were repeatedly cheered.

They are a fine looking body of men, and their marching and general discipline was greatly admired all along the route.

Captain Orr, who was in command of the visiting troops, was greatly pleased with the receptions which had been tendered them throughout Canada. Not only had the Canadian Pacific Railway Company made them as comfortable as could possibly be expected, but everywhere they had met along the route with spontaneous kindness, not the brand which consists in asking a man to have a drink, but in thoughtful acts for the comfort of the men. As an instance he mentioned that at Victoria they were invited to witness a champion lacrosse match, the sole pass needed being the khaki uniform. He believed that for Imperial reasons, if for nothing else, the troops coming home from the far East should be sent through Canada.

The detachment that sailed this morning is one of the pompom batteries. Eighteen of these weapons which did such good service for the Boers were in use in China. At the present time only six are kept there, and the men going across the ocean now will be drafted into other stations when they get back to England.

"The pom-pom is a handy little gun," said Captain Orr; "it may not do as much damage as some of the others, but it has a great moral effect on an opposing force. It will throw four or five shells into almost the same spot, and even if no one was hurt the enemy would decide to quit. They were not much used in China; but in Africa they had been most serviceable.

"These new guns are still in the experimental stage as far as the British army is concerned. They have been attached to the Royal Horse Artillery, so that they might, be as mobile as possible. At first in South Africa they were manned by army service men on Royal Horse Artillery, as was most convenient."

Captain Orr expressed the warmest admiration for Earl Roberts, who, he believes, will be reckoned by historians as a military genius like Wellington. Lord Kitchener is a worthy successor to the Commander-in-Chief, and fully capable of accomplishing the work which still remains to be done.

As to General Buller, there is not a soldier who has ever served under him who does not express the greatest confidence in him. The captain has also a great admiration for Sir Percy Girouard, the young Canadian officer in charge of the military railway in South Africa, who has rendered himself popular with all ranks.

China enjoyed a fair state of peace when the troops left there. There exists some difficulty from the fact that the central administration is being controlled by nations speaking different languages, but they work together. British prestige has not suffered anything; on the contrary, it has been increased. The Chinese do not want to see any foreigners at all, but if they must see some they prefer the English and Americans to any of the others. They do not care at all for the Germans and Russians. It may have been a knowledge of this disposition on the part of the Chinese that led Sir Alfred Gaselee to have so many Indian troops. Nobody could deny, however the gallantry and courage of these native troops. Their discipline was also splendid, and, their physique was a matter of admiration, not a man being less than six feet high, and all magnificent fighters. No excesses of any kind could be charged to these troops.

Like Sir Claude Macdonald, Captain Orr was struck with the qualities of the Japanese troops. They are brave and determined, caring nothing for their losses so long as they win their point. They were always willing to learn anything, and seized upon all the good points in the training of the European troops. The appointment of Sir Ernest Satow, former Minister to Japan, to succeed Sir Claude Macdonald as Ambassador to China is considered a good move. The new Chinese Minister spent many years in Japan, and knew their literature better than some of the natives. He would be of immense service to the Empire in working out the problems of the Far East.

THE ROYAL TOUR

Belleville, Ont., Oct. 15.—A very large crowd, estimated from 8,000 to 10,000 people, assembled at the G. T. R. station this morning to greet the Royal party, whose train had arrived late last night and had been switched on to the Midland siding, where they remained all night. The Governor-General's train was backed down at 9.15, and after Mayor Graham and other gentlemen had been introduced it left, after a few minutes' stay, for Kingston. Soon afterwards the Royal train arrived, and Mayor, aldermen, and a number of ladies and gentlemen were presented to the Duke and Duchess, a beautiful boquet being presented to the latter by Miss Graham, daughter of the Mayor. The stay of the train was not more than ten minutes. A guard of honor was furnished by the 15th and 49th Regiments and the Veterans' Association. The pupils of the Public schools, Albert College, and the business colleges sang the National Anthem and "Rule Britannia," which was joined in by the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb Institute by means of the sign language. Cheers greeted the Royal party, whose train left at 9.55 for Kingston, and the forenoon was observed as a half holiday.

KINGSTON'S LOYAL RECEPTION

Kingston, Oct. 15.—Before the time arranged for the reception of the royal visitors, the streets of Kingston were crowded, the whole countryside having emptied its population into the old Limestone City. The day was beautiful, the air cool and invigorating. The decorations were unusually brilliant. The vice-regal party received a welcome salute of 19 guns from B Battery at Port Frederick; the royal party, who arrived at 11.25 a salute of 21 guns. There was tremendous enthusiasm as the Duke and Duchess drove up Ontario street from the handsomely decorated Grand Trunk station to the city. Here, under a picturesque pavilion near the entrance and on the site of Gen. Braddock's fortifications, they heard the civic address of welcome, listened to the singing of 3,000 children, saw them Miss Rilla Kent, daughter of Mayor Kent, gave the Duchess a fine bouquet, and made the presentation in pretty fashion. A few leading citizens and aldermen were presented.

TO QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

places, which were only handed in. several addresses from adjacent spiring sight. The Duke made a brief well-timed address, and then received

The Royal procession then moved to Queen's College through gaily decorated avenue, crowded with shouting spectators, past Monument Park and the hospital, all of historic interest. Out of a hospital window looked Very Rev. Principal Grant, convalescing wave flags and cheer. It was an inspiring sight from a serious illness. At the new Arts Building at Queen's a huge platform held dignitaries of the church, the law and public life. Sir Sandford Fleming, K.C., M.G., Chancellor of the University for over 25 years received the Duke and Duchess. On the Duke the degree of L.L.D. was conferred. Vice-Principal Watson making the presentation address. The newly-appointed honorary graduate made a felicitous reply at becoming a member of a university chartered by his illustrious grandmother. Then both the Duke and Duchess opened the second volume of the Domesday Book with their signatures and the Duke well and truly laid the corner-stone of the new building donated to the college by the citizens of Kingston. There was mighty cheering and lusty songs by the students, while a brief time was spent in exchange of good wishes.

MILITARY COLLEGE.

The drive was then resumed to the Royal Military College, the route passing Frontenac's Court House, the Kirkpatrick memorial, a quartette of fine churches, and then down Princess street, gay with flags bunting and maple leafs. The party drove across the venerable Cataraqui bridge, and at the Royal Military College were greeted with a royal salute by the military staff and cadets, 87 in number, the commandant, Lieut.-Col. Raymond Reade leading. There was a short inspection by the Duke, followed by a march past, a gymnastic display and a salute of 21 guns as the royal pair left. During the event Miss Mary Reade gave the Duchess a bouquet, and the wives of the staff were presented. Shortly after 1.15 o'clock the royal procession retraced its steps to Swift's wharf where the steamer Kingston awaited them to make a trip to Brockville, through the gorgeous beauty of the 1,000 Islands. They will reach Brockville this evening. There they will take train and proceed to Cardinal, where the train will remain for the night. The Duke and Duchess seemed extremely delighted at their reception. The day was so fine that this tended to make the city look handsome, to give spirit to the loyal demonstration, and with the marked display of military attendants, escort and guards, the sight was one not soon to be forgotten. A large number of residents of New York State were on hand to aid in the greetings.

PREPARATIONS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal. Oct. 15.—The centre span of the Victoria Jubilee Bridge of the Grand Trunk is being prettily decorated for the stop to be made about noon to-morrow by the Duke and Duchess of York to see the golden rivet driven by the King 41 years ago, when the bridge was first built. Four decorated flat cars will be run out just previous to the royal train, so that the party can step directly off the train.

THE CASE OF MISS STONE

New York, Oct. 16.—According to a despatch from Sofia further word has come from Miss Stone in the following letter, written from Macedonia to W. W. Peet, treasurer of the Turkish mission in Constantinople:

"My honored friend,—I write to inform you that on the third of September I was captured by a great number of armed men—some forty—as I travelled from Bansko to Djumaia, with about twenty teachers, students and others.

"They took with me my companion, Mrs. Catherine Tsilka. The reason why they captured us is for a ransom. The price which they demand for us is 126,000, Turkish, which sum must be paid in gold, and this entirely without the knowledge of the Turkish and Bulgarian Governments, within the term of eighteen days from to-day.

"The condition of Mrs. Tsilka decided the limit, as she is to give birth to a child in three months.

"We are pursued by a Turkish army. I beg Dr. Haskill himself to go to Constantinople and exert himself for the payment of the ransom at Samakov, where men will receive it on presenting an order from me.

"The men who captured us at first showed courtesy and consideration toward us, but now, since Turkish soldiers and Bashibazouks have begun to pursue us, and the ransom is delayed, our condition is altogether changed.

"Therefore, I beg you to hasten sending the ransom demanded, and that as energetically as possible you will represent to the Turkish Government that it stop the pursuit of us by soldiers and and Bashibazouks, otherwise we shall be killed by the people in whose hands we are. I pray you to communicate without delay the contents of this letter to the representative of the United States at the Porte, and request his most serious co-operation.

"Pray for us. We are at peace with God.

"With hearty salutations, your friend,

"ELLEN M. STONE."

The above letter is suspiciously like letters which brigands dictate to their captives at the point of a pistol in order to persuade their friends that their position is critical, and that they ought to hasten with the ransom. This is borne out by the request that the Government be requested to call off pursuing troops, which would certainly not be the wish of Miss Stone, but could easily be the desire of brigands who are uncomfortably pressed by their pursuers. It is also quite possible that the letter may not have come from Macedonia at all, but that it may have been written in New York, after the approved manner of the novelists, who deal with brigandage and afterwards published in some yellow journal from whose columns it has been clipped and wired to Toronto.

Sofia, Oct. 15.—Although the time fixed by the brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, for the payment of the ransom demanded, expired a week ago, no one has appeared at Samakoff to claim the money or to announce the fate of the captive. It is now learned that the band has dissolved, but that Miss Stone is kept under surveillance at some distance from the frontier. This is due to snow and cold weather rendering the mountains uninhabitable. The efforts of the police to arrest Sarasoff, formerly President of the Macedonian committee, who is suspected of complicity in the kidnapping, are still unavailing. The failure is due to the sympathy of the inhabitants and local authorities.

GOOD COFFEE MAKER.

Experience with the Berry.

"I have gained twenty-five pounds since I left off coffee and began drinking Postum Food Coffee in its place. I had become very thin in flesh and suffered tortures with heartburn, was a nervous wreck, with headache practically all the time until one dreadful day when the good doctor told me I must quit drinking coffee, as he had nothing left to try, to relieve me.

I could not drink tea and had tried everything else, even Postum, but put it by at the first trial, because it was tasteless.

Forced to it again, I determined to see if it could not be made palatable and found at once that when I followed directions, and boiled it long enough, that I not only liked it, but gave it to my husband for several days without his finding it out. I have the name of making splendid coffee, and we always used the best, but of late I have given Postum to guests many times in place of coffee and have never been detected yet.

Our four children have not drank coffee for three years, and all have gained health and strength since using Postum. One son who was always sick, has been greatly benefited by its use, and, as above stated, I have gained twenty-five pounds since taking up Postum. I am healthier to-day than I have been for years, and give Postum all the credit. Please do not use my name in public."

DON CARLOS STILL HOPES.

Not Ready to Strike in Spain Now, but will When the Proper Time Comes

London, Oct 16.—There has been considerable talk in the newspapers for the past week about the activity of the Carlists in Spain, which does not seem to have any more foundation than the usual gossip of this kind. Don Carlos, who was interviewed in Venice last Wednesday, declared that he knew nothing of the militant proceedings of his partisans. He said that if the reports were based on facts, he repudiated and denounced them. He added:

"We are not ready for action. Any moment now would be ill-timed and doomed to failure. We will move in due course, but the time has not yet come to strike for the vindication of our inherent soverign rights.

Don Carlos was really agitated, possibly because he fears that he will be expelled from his comfortable asylum in Italy. It is quite likely that he will shortly issue a manifesto warning the people to be quiet. There is a very general impression among the Pretender's so-called court that the little King Alfonso, will never reach man's estate, and that on his death the nation will call Don Carlos to the throne of his ancestors.

NEARLY 50,000 HAS BEEN STOLEN

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15.—One of the largest express robberies that has occurred in this city or vicinity took place about three days ago. The amount taken was nearly fifty thousand dollars. It is believed the robbers are in the city, because one of the stolen $10 bills has turned up in the post office. It had the forged signatures of the bank president and cashier, neither of which signatures was right. The stolen money was in $10 and $20 bills, numbered from 1,261 to 3,001. The bills were to be issued by the National Bank of Helena, Mont.

As is the custom of the Treasury Department in Washington, when a National bank desires to issue currency bearing the name of the bank, the bills were issued as Treasury notes, with a space left blank for the signature of the president and cashier of the bank, which are required before the notes are ready for general use.

In this case the notes, amounting to about $50,000, were printed by the Treasury Department for the National Bank of Helena, and about a week ago were shipped by express from Washington to the bank at Helena.

It was while en route to Helena that the bundle of money disappeared. How it occurred the United States secret service, which has several detectives at work upon the case, is unable to tell. The robbery is evidently that of professionals, for they noticed that the bills bore no signature and knew that without the signature the notes could never have been passed. The exact place in which the large pacakge of money was stolen has not been located. The United States Express Company has the contract for carrying all of the Government money to and from Washington.

NORTH POLE REACHED AT LAST

Christiana, Oct. 15.—A strong belief exists in Scandinavia that Captain Sverdrup of the Fram has reached the North Pole, and is now returning home.

Sverdrup has been away on his expedition round Greenland for forty months.

As Lieut. Peary did not see him in the north of Greenland it is thought the brave Norwegian never intended to go round Greenland to reach the Pole.

In the summer of 1899 Sverdrup was on the north-west coast of Greenland. Lincoln's sea, to the north therof, was ice free the following summer, according to Peary.

Scientists declare there is a strong probability that Sverdrup seized the opportunity and reached the Pole.

No fear is entertained as to the safety of the expedition, which was provisioned for five years.

American Newspaper Directory.

Tells the circulations of all American newspapers. Revised, corrected and reissued every three months. Sixteen hundred pages: Price Five Dollars a volume or $20 a year.

BUFFALO.

We should hardly know how to get along without the American Newspaper Directory. We regard it by all odds the most complete and reliable guide that the advertiser can make use of; in fact we use no other.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24, 1901.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D.

President World's Dis. Med. Ass'n.

VERMONT.

The American Newspaper Directory stands, as it has always stood, the first and best of newspaper directories—the only one which cannot be ignored, the only one which every advertiser must have. No other can take its place; no other is needed.—Joseph Auld, in the Burlington (Vt.) News of July 3, 1900.

ADVISOR.

The Advisor accepts the American Newspaper Directory as the standard in newspaper ratings. The obstacles which obstruct its efforts to get true and reliable information are many.

• • • • •

The directory question is one which interests every publisher in the country—nay, the entire world. But in the United States, directories are becoming altogether too numerous. In this, as with other books of reference, it is necessary to have one which may be relied on as being an authority on the matter of newspaper circulations. There can be no question about the fact that at this time, as for many years past, the American Newspaper Directory is that authority. The Advisor is not paid to make this announcement. It makes the statement in the interest of advertisers and publishers because it is true. One thing the advertiser is almost cock-sure of when he refers to the American Newspaper Directory is that the circulation figures he sees therein are not overstated to any great extent. In most other directories they are. Only the publisher himself is to be blamed for no securing a proper rating in that publication, and every advertiser of consequence knows it. Thus the publisher who refuses to furnish a statement places himself under a reasonable suspicion.—The Advisor for June. New York, June, 1901.

CHICAGO.

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory has long since earned the reputation of being the best of its character. It contains the result of patient, expensive and systematic effort to secure all attainable information of interest concerning American newspapers. The work has been honestly done. This will not be questioned by any unprejudiced examiner. The most important question is circulation. In attempting to give this information the Editor of the Directory encounters his most difficult work. It is the aim and necessity of the Directory to give the truth. The American Newspaper Directory is today his dependence and guide in a greater or less degree, of every large advertiser in the country.—Chicago (Ill.) Daily News.

BATES.

The American Newspaper Directory is the only reliable guide for the advertiser.

No man who advertises can afford to do without it.

What Bradstreet and Dun are to the mercantile world, The American Newspaper Directory is to the world of periodical publications.

A new advertiser will get from the American Newspaper Directory a better idea of the greatness of his country, and the tremendous possibilities in newspaper advertising, than from any other source.

If an advertiser spends only $100 a year he should have the American Newspaper Directory. For his business may grow and his right expenditure of his money become increasingly important. The time to learn how to spend $10,000 a year is before it is spent, otherwise the spending may be disastrous.

Many times the best paper in town costs the advertiser no more than the poorest. The American Newspaper Directory tells which is which.

The paper that was the leader in its town five years ago may lag behind to-day. Even one year may witness astonishing changes. If you are spending money for publicity it is vastly important that you should know where to get the most of it for the price. The American Newspaper Directory gives not only the present circulation rating of every paper in America, but shows their history by quoting past ratings.

The book costs five dollars a copy, and a single reference to it may readily save or make many times its cost.

All newspaper directories but one are erroneously optimistic about circulations. The American Newspaper Directory may occasionally err on the other side, but that makes it all the safer for the advertiser.

My advertising experience began in 1865, and one of the first things I did was to buy a copy of the American Newspaper Directory.

For sixteen years Rowell's "The American Newspaper Directory" has had a place of honor and usefulness on my desk

Many a publisher is ready to prove by other directories that "Rowell's is wrong," but few indeed can be induced to prove it by opening their circulation books to the advertiser.

Among publishers who are not willing that their real circulations be known, it is the best hated book in print The moral is not far to find.

CHARLES AUSTIN BATES.

New York, June 24, 1901.

PABST.

If the improvement of the American Newspaper Directory continues in the future as it has during the past twenty years I do not think I shall live long enough to see any other directory take its place. There will, however, be the usual crop of directories just as every other good thing is imitated Your long years of experience in dealing with evasive circulation reports have most admirably fitted you for placing a proper valuation upon such statements Advertisers have come to know that the Rowell estimates are nearer the proper figure than can otherwise be obtained. The American Newspaper Directory is therefore indispensable in every well regulated advertising department. Lines are being more tightly drawn every day; it is difficult to collect for twenty thousand when you print only eight. If the advertiser were paying barley he would not accept three pecks for a bushel, although the quality might at all times be open for discussion.

The American Newspaper Directory is the guide and companion of the advertising man, and it is to the interest of all concerned to help perfect it, support it, and hurrah for it.

SAPOLIO.

A growing need created it—the advertising agency system. One of the earliest and almost successful workers, Geo. P. Rowell, is still in the field. He originated methods. Others follow—his publication of a list of all the papers—the American Newspaper Directory. He has never ceased to love it, and labor for it. Soon out of the gross stupidity of imitation, it became a rule that every agency down to those of Oshkosh or Oklahoma must issue its own directory. An awful waste, for not more than one out of ten was worth shelf room. If the National Association of Advertising Agents could agree long enough to buy Mr. Rowell's Directory, publish it officially and drop all the others, it would accomplish something.

SOUTHERN.

We subscribe to and pay cash for the American Newspaper Directory, and find it of great value in our advertising department. We have 6,892 miles of railway, extending from Washington, D. C., all over the South, and in advertising this system we use more than 1,000 publications, and in selecting this list we find that we get a correct idea of circulation from this Directory that can not be obtained from any other similar publication. We receive other newspapr directories gratis, but the fact that we pay cash for this one in addition shows that we can not place the same dependence upon the "free list."

We thoroughly appreciate the careful manner in which this Directory is compiled.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12, 1900.

JOS. H. HANNEN,

Adv. Dept. Southern Railway

I am looking forward to receiving the new edition with a great deal of anticipation, as, although the American Newspaper Directory seemed to have reached a high state of perfection several years ago, there is always something new and of value in each succeeding edition. It is regarded as the standard authority with the Southern Railway.

We have used the American Newspaper Directory for many years and find it more valuable to us than any other similar publication. Much of the information given we cannot obtain in any other way. The book is not only a great help, but a necessity to our business, and we think its way of stating circulations is the ideal one.

RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle and I am ever grateful I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrap-

—The granolithic walks are badly chipping in some places.

—By all means let the people of Peterborough hear the royal chorus.

—A Lindsay firm is buying all the chickens in sight.

—Another church parade of the 57th Regiment is likely to take place before long.

—Mr. Conroy's contract for building piers and glance booms for the Trent Valley Canal, has been completed.

—The T. O. Bush clothing Company are sure to do an immense business from the start, as they have the best goods bought at the closest prices for cash.

—A meeting of the Board of Works took place last night, followed by a meeting of the Council in Committee of the Whole, at which the press was excluded.

A Popular Railway Manager.

The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. M. C. Dickson, the genial, and popular District Passenger Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, Toronto, will be pleased to know that he has been highly complimented for the way he handled the crowds who attended the Duke of Cornwall's reception in Toronto. Mr. Dickson was present as a boy when King Edward VII, visited Hamilton. He had to do with the arrangements for moving the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise about, and was one of the party of railway men who accompanied Prince George, the present Duke of Cornwall and York on his visit to Port Dover in 1883.

A SMITH WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Florence Davidson and Mr. Fred H. Dixon.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated yesterday afternoon, at "The Maples," the residence of the bride's mother, when her second daughter, Miss Florence, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred H. Dixon, of town. The drawing and dining rooms were tastefully decorated with flowers and foleage.

The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Dr Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's church in the presence of a number of invited guests.

The bride looked charming in a dress of white crepe de chine silk, with trimmings of pleated Russels net and chiffon applique. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Mabel, who was daintily attired in a dress of white organdie, with trimmings of valenciennes lace. Mr. Dickson Davidson, cousin of the bride, acted as best man.

After receiving the hearty congratulations of those present, a dainty wedding dejeuner was served.

The large number of beautiful and costly wedding presents testified to the great popularity of the bride, who is one of Peterborough's most charming young ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon left on the 9 o'clock Grand Trunk train for Montreal and points east. On their return they will take up their residence at 535 Downie street.

Why Catarrhozone Cures Catarrh.

goes to every affected part and kills the germs that keep up the diseased condition. Catarrhozone never irritates but stimulates the mucous lining of the nose, throat and lungs to normal action, and keeps the nasal passages free from offensive discharges. Catarrhozone contains no dangerous drugs or opiates, and is delightfully pleasant and simple to use. Catarrhozone is an absolutely certain cure for any form of Catarrh and sells for dollar at druggists, small size 25c. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston Ont.

DON'T LIKE THE MEDICINE.

The Manager of "McCarthy's Mishaps" Co in Bad Temper.

Yesterday The Times was honored (?) with a visit from the manager of the above company, which played in the Opera House here on Tuesday night. He had blood in his eye as he enquired for the writer of the paragraph referring to his company, which was printed in our issue of yesterday.

His visit availed him nothing. If he expected that an apology would be offered, he was disappointed. This journal is in the habit of calling things by their proper names regardless of whom it may please or displease, and when we referred to the show as of a class without merit, it only spoke the truth. It was not only poor, but was indecent.

THE REALM OF SPORT.

GOLF.

The following draw has been made in the President vs. Captain match which is scheduled for Saturday afternoon:

	President.		Captain.
1	Burnett	vs.	Ray
2	Dennistoun		Eastwood
3	Burnham		Hamilton
4	McAllister		R. Neill
5	Complin		Parker
6	Hollingshead		Dr. Neill
7	Campbell		Bradburn
8	Davidson		Terrill
9	Hill		Hogg
10	Crane		J. H. Hall
11	McHarrie		A. St. A. Smith
12	McFall		D. Walker
13	Dr. Greer		A. H. Stratton
14	McGill		Young
15	W. Dean		McGill, jr.

In order that those who wish to witness Saturday's football game may not be debarred from playing in the match, it has been arranged that those who wish to do so may play off on Friday. The names mentioned above are those who have notified the president or the captain of their wish to participate. Any others wishing to do so may play by sending in their names any time before the match. Dinner will be served on Saturday evening at half-past six, when it is hoped that all the men who can possibly get out will be in attendance.

RUGBY.

The return game between Ottawa and Peterborough will take place on the Nicholls oval on Saturday afternoon. The ball will be kicked off at 3 o'clock sharp. There should be a large attendance.

CURLING.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association was held at the Walker House, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. J. S. Russell, who is one of the oldest members of the Association, and who has been secretary for most of the time, retired from office.

The Executive decided to adopt the same grouping as a year ago. Copies have been sent to all the clubs, and the matter came up at the meeting yesterday. The following are some of the proposed groups:

Group No. 1.—Toronto, Toronto Granites, Toronto Caledonian, Toronto Prospect Park, Toronto Queen City, Brampton. Play at Toronto.

Group No. 2.—Hamilton Asylum, Hamilton Thistle, Hamilton Victoria, Dundas, Glanford, Niagara Falls Simcoe, Minto of Milton. Play mainly at Hamilton.

Group No. 4.—Orillia, Peterborough Granite, Peterborough Thistle, Barrie, Collingwood, Churchill. Play mainly at Lindsay.

Group No. 5.—Cobourg, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Lindsay. Play mainly at Cobourg.

HOCKEY.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—An officer of the Ottawa Hockey Club, when seen to-day, says it is practically certain that the Ottawa team will go to Winnipeg to play for the Stanley Cup. They will request the league to arrange the schedule of games there so that they can make the trip. It is expected that the team will go up early in January as possible.

Changes at Port Hope.

Port Hope, Oct. 16.—This season Port Hope will be much stronger than last year, and have a good team for the O.H.A. intermediate series. Mike McMillan their speedy forward, will be moved back to goal, he being an acquisition in either position, and besides the Ontarios have a man to replace Michael. They have a splendid new point man, and to cap it all it is said that the work is to begin on the new covered rink.

BOXES OF GOLD.

Sent for Letters About Grape-Nuts

330 boxes of gold and greenbacks will be sent to persons writing interesting and truthful letters about the good that has been done by the use of Grape-Nuts food.

10 little boxes, each containing a $10 gold piece, will be sent the 10 writers of the most interesting letters.

20 boxes each containing a $5 gold piece to the 20 next most interesting writers, and a $1 greenback will go to each of the 300 next best. A committee of three not members of the Postum Co., will make decision between Dec. 1st and 10th, 1901.

Write plain, sensible letters, giving detailed facts of ill-health caused from improper food and explain the improvement, the gain in strength, in weight, or in brain power after using Grape-Nuts food.

It is a profound fact that most ails of humanity come from improper and non-nourishing food, such as white bread, hot biscuit, starchy and un cooked cereals, etc.

A change to perfectly cooked, predigested food like Grape-Nuts, scientifically made and containing exactly the elements nature requires for building the delicate and wonderful cells of brain and body, will quickly change a half sick person to a well person. Food good food, is Nature's strongest weapon of defense.

Include in letter the true name and addresses, carefully written, of 20 persons, not very well, to whom we can write regarding the food cure by Grape-Nuts.

Almost every one interested in pure food is willing to have his or her name appear in the papers for such help as they may offer the human race. A request, however, to omit name will be respected. Try for one of the 330 prizes. Every one has an equal show. Don't write poetry, but just honest and interesting facts about the good you have obtained from the pure food Grape-Nuts. If a man or woman has found a true way to get well and keep well, it should be a pleasure to stretch a helping hand to humanity, by telling the facts.

Write your name and address plainly on letter and mail promptly to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

Hon. J. R. Stratton and The Power Company

The citizens of Peterborough were somewhat amused at the persistent endeavors of the Mail and Empire and the Toronto News to connect the Hon. J. R. Stratton with the Otonabee Power Co. and the lease of the water power privilege at Dam No. 5, on the Trent Canal. We all know that the power that is being developed at this dam is being generated for the purpose of supplying electric power to the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company, the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, the George Matthews Company and the Milling Company, which Mr. Meldrum is establishing. It is well known that Mr. Stratton has not now and never had any interest in any one of these companies. It is the parties connected with these Companies that are organizing the Otonabee Power Company for their own purposes. We have had the privilege of seeing and investigating the records and correspondence of the Power Company, and know all about the facts, and are able to state positively, what everybody in Peterborough knows to be the fact, that Mr. Stratton has not now and never had any interest, directly or indirectly, in the power company nor in the water privileges at Dam No. 5. It is true that the Examiner has advocated the development of power at this dam, as being in the interest of the manufacturers of Peterborough, its mechanics, its laborers and property holders. The very reason that factories are being attracted to Peterborough is on account of the abundance of cheap power awaiting development. It would be to Mr. Stratton's credit, rather than his discredit, if he had been connected with this enterprise.

Under all the circumstances, the citizens of Peterborough are at a loss to understand why the Mail and News follow up Mr. Stratton in this transaction with such bitter rancour, and seek to slander and misrepresent him without one tittle of evidence. Surely it must be because they have a weak case against the administration of the Provincial Secretary's department.

Reply.—Two years' residence, and registration on the books of a field cornet made an alien a second-class burgher of the Transvaal after taking the oath of allegiance and paying the fees, $10. After twelve years, a second-class burgher might apply to be made a first-class burgher.—Ed Times.

The Trail of the Serpent.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Word comes that Mr. C. F. Farwell, K.C., the local member at the Soo for the Assembly at Toronto, has been turned down and out. His successor was appointed in the way peculiar to these turning-down festivals. It is very questionable if the new blood is really the sort that this country stands in need of, at least. Are we on the eve of Tammany issues when brought to the front in this way. Ontario! God forbid. We see also that the country is to be covered this year with an immense supply of game—wardens, ostensibly to protect the deer, but really, we fear, to protect the Ross Government. This province is not Russia, where the game-keepers protect the game for the rich while the peasants starve. The science of government is appearing in a new light.

REX.

The America Cup.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Will you please inform me if the Cup now held by the Columbia is the original cup offered to the schooner yacht American by the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, or is it a cup presented to the American by Queen Victoria on account of the Royal Yacht Club refusing to give the American the cup, still retaining the cup in England?

R. R.

Reply.—The Cup isn't held by the Columbia; it is held by the New York Yacht Club. The Royal Ulster Yacht Club never offered a cup to be sailed for by the American. Queen Victoria did not give a cup to the American because the Royal Ulster Yacht Club refused to give up a cup which the American had won. Now for some affirmative facts. The Cup just defended successfully by the Columbia is the original Cup put up as a prize by the Royal Yacht Squadron, to be sailed for in a special race open to the world, and won by the American in 1851.—Ed Times.

TORTURING ASSASSINS.

How Assassins Have Been Put to Death in the Past.

New York, Oct. 17.—The approaching execution by electricity of the assassin of President McKinley recalls the punishment meted out to some of the men who killed rulers in the Old World

The murderer of Selim III of Turkey was publicly impaled. Those who did to death his immediate successor, Mustapha IV, were slowly starved to death, suffering barbarous tortures meanwhile. As late as the year 1831 the two assassins of Count Capo d'Istria, President of Greece, were immured in narrow brick vaults built round them up to their chins, and were kept supplied with food in this species of torture until they died.

Strangely awful was the punishment meted out to one, at least, among those implicated in the murder of the late Shah of Persia, the illustrious Nasr-ed-Din. He was encased in wet plaster of paris, which, on setting, slowly but surely crushed him to death. The assassins of his no less illustrious predecessor, Aga-Mohammed Khan, were (or, at least, some of them) immured in large earthen urns of water, which were slowly brought to the boiling point.

"Damiens' bed of steel" has become a synonym for extreme mental or physical anguish, unrelieved by even temporary respite. The phrase was first used by Goldsmith in "The Traveller." Damiens was the man who attempted the life of Louis XV of France. He was interned in the Bastile tortured by day and, by night for several days, and was eventually torn to pieces by four young horses after being publicly subjected to the most appalling torments. This terrible punishment was avowedly modeled on the lines of that meted out to Ravaillac who murdered Henry IV.

Very dramatic was the fate which overtook the nihilist who assassinated the Czar Alexander II. He failed to leap back with sufficient after throwing his bomb and himself perished in the resultant explosion. Five of his accomplices, of whom one was a woman, were executed, while the sixth—reprieved after sentence—is to-day expiating her share in the plot by lifelong solitary confinement in the fortress prison of St Peter and St Paul.

This lifelong solitary immurement, is, by the way, a sufficiently terrible punishment. Bresci, who killed King Humbert of Italy last year, preferred to die in his cell by his own hand rather than endure it. Passannante, who attempted the life of the same monarch so far back as the year 1878 and who was consigned by his judges to a similar death in life, destroyed himself in a fit of hopeless frenzy.

Only a few years ago a young and beautiful Russian girl, a student at one of the leading universities, set fire to her bed of straw in the dungeon wherein she was confined and so perished miserably. She had been interned silently, secretly, at dead of night, by order of the chief of the secret police on a charge of conspiring against the life of the Czar.

Looked Worse Than She Felt

She was richly but inconspicuously dressed and would have attracted no particular attention as she stood on the corner of George and Simcoe streets yesterday noon, had not her face, under a white veil, been writhing in a series of remarkable contortions. Several persons paused to watch her "make faces," and then came a feminine acquaintance.

"Why!" exclaimed the new comer, "what upon earth is the matter?"

The facial contortions ceased and were replaced by a smile.

"With me? Nothing."

"But you looked as if you were suffering terribly."

"Never felt better."

"But your face—you were twisting it into all sorts of shapes."

The lady standing at the corner laughed and held out her hands, in each of which was a parcel.

"I was only trying," she said, "to work the edge of my veil down under my chin."

YOU MAKE A MISTAKE

If you think that the more you eat the fatter and stronger you become.

If you think that the more hours a child studies at school the faster he will learn.

In concluding that exercise being healthful, the more violent or exhausting it is the more good it will do.

In imagining that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained

In thinking that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in.

In advising another to take a remedy which you have tried on yourself without special inquiry whether all the conditions are alike.

In eating without any appetite, or continuing to eat after it has been satisfied, merely to gratify the taste.

...dence had sent a few men into the world, ready booted and spurred, to ride, and a million, ready saddled and bridled, to be ridden."

"Persons of genius are more individual than any other people, and less capable, consequently, of fitting themselves, without hurtful compression, into any of the small numbers of moulds which society provides in order to save its members the trouble of forming their own characters."

"If there is no nobility of descent, all the more indispensable is it that there should be nobility of ascent—a character in them that bear rule so fine and high and pure, that as men come within the circle of its influence they involuntarily pay homage to that which is the one pre-eminent distinction, the royalty of virtue."

It is easier to preach than to illustrate in one's life the doctrines thus set forth. The best sermon—the only one that leaves no room for argument, question, or cavil—is the living man whose every deed is an unconscious illustration of his faith in man and in a growing good which men and women may make better. But the poet is needed, also the prophet and the preacher; for these see visions and dream dreams and proclaim them to those of us less clear of vision than they. It is well if we can receive ideals and inspiration from them. They have their place and office of usefulness. In another way—and perhaps a humbler—we have ours.

GEN. BULLER'S REPORT ON VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Looks Upon the 'Cycle as Valueless in Warfare and Useless to Soldiers.

GENERAL C. G. DOUGLAS THINKS OTHERWISE

Advices That Steps be Taken to Induce Men With Good Machines to Join the Corps.

London, Oct. 17.—General Sir Redvers Buller has just issued his report to the commander-in-chief on the work of the volunteer infantry brigades assembled for training at Aldershot, and on the value and work of the mobilized cyclists. He also forwards the report of Major-General C. H. Douglas, the director of the cyclists' operations, which report, he states, he entirely endorses, with one exception. "I look upon the cycle," says General Buller, "as the worst and most cumbrous means of transport for soldiers I have ever seen, and I cannot help thinking that all the advantage that could be obtained from a cycle corps could be better obtained from the same corps if provided with a better means of transport." Major-General Douglas on the other hand, recommends the increasing of the grant to induce men with good machines to join the corps, and thinks that with training it is possible to employ cyclist troops in this country in large bodies with advantage, the results of the operations having been favorable.

A DANGER TO BRITAIN.

London, Oct. 17.—A bill has been introduced into the Jersey Legislature prohibiting foreigners of any religious order from settling in numbers more than six, whether in one or more houses, under penalty of expulsion. This law has been framed in view of the immigration of the French religious orders, who, living in communities, are regarded as constituting a political danger, by the possible development of influence alien to the island, and is not intended to apply to foreigners settled in Jersey as religious communities prior to September 1, this year, nor to members of such communities who in the future may inhabit the houses of such orders. The feeling of the state is almost unanimous in favor of the bill. The bill was supported by his Majesty's Attorney-General, who characterized these rich foreign religious bodies as politically dangerous and an anti-English influence.

Desperate Brigand Captured

Rome, Oct. 17.—Mussolino, the notorious brigand, has been captured near Urbana by Italian soldiers. He is a notorious bandit and for two years past has terrorized Calabria. His outlawry began in 1899, when at the end of an alleged unjust imprisonment, he determined to kill all those instrumental in securing his conviction. It is said that he actually despatched twelve of the fifteen witnesses who testified against him. After the police showed that they were powerless to either capture him or check his crimes the Government sent a strong military force under the command of a General to run him to earth. They pursued him for months, but Mussolino was everywhere aided by the peasants and managed to retain his freedom until now. At one time it was reported that he was in the United States.

May Check Russian Grab

Pekin, Oct. 17.—Twice within a week Li Hung Chang has visited Paul Lessar Russian minister to China. Chinese officials assert that Earl Li has pressed for the recession of Manchuria, M. Lessar proposing that China should send a special envoy to St. Petersburg to arrange terms and Earl Li suggested for the mission his greatest enemy, Chang Chih Tung.

The story must be accepted with some reserve.

Slashed Wife's Throat

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 17.—Harry Henning, proprietor of an Atlin restaurant, attempted to kill his wife and commit suicide while intoxicated. He locked the door of his place and after slashing his wife's throat attempted to cut his own. Gold Commissioner Graham, who was notified, broke into the establishment and after a struggle arrested the would-be murderer. Mrs. Henning is in a critical condition.

RANSOM ASKED IS TOO PRINCELY

Reply of Mission Officials to Miss Stone's Captors.

NOT ENOUGH GOLD TO BE HAD

Advices That Ransom Should Not be Paid Until Miss Stone is Safely Delivered from the Brigands.

New York, Oct. 17.—Rev. R. Wardlow Thompson, director of the Collegiate and Theological Institute at Sofia, cables the following from Samakov, Bulgaria, to the Journal and Advertiser concerning Miss Stone, the kidnapped missionary:

"The headquarters of Miss Stone's captors is a thickly wooded mountain top near the boundary line of Turkey and Bulgaria. Miss Stone has only light summer clothes and a cotton dress. The brigands refused to allow her to keep her baggage, but let her have a Bible. The leader of the band is the notorious Boucho, from the Bulgarian town of Dubnitza. We sent word to Constantinople, pointing out that, being private individuals, we can't prevent the Government from pressing the brigands, also that the ransom is too princely. No rejoinder has been received. Usually brigands ask about a thousand pounds and then agree for half. Twenty-five thousand Turkish pounds means two horse loads of gold, and that is more gold than there now is in Bulgaria. Besides, the brigands demand payment in Turkish gold, for which it would be necessary to send to Constantinople.

"I should not give the brigands the ransom until Miss Stone is safely delivered to us, as they might murder her after the ransom in order to seal her lips for ever. We have three theological institute students who were captured in the Stone party. One tells pathetically how he was robbed of money intended to pay for his tuition."

ANOTHER MISSIONARY SENT.

Constantinople, Oct. 17.—As no news has been received here from Messrs. Baird and Haskell, the missionaries who have been attempting to get into touch with the two brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M. Stone, a third missionary has been despatched in quest of them and the brigands.

Selection of New Ameer

London, Oct. 17.—It is reported that when Abdur Rahman realized the serious nature of his illness he summoned his family, the leading statesmen of the kingdom and the chief priests. Then he spoke to them as follows in a feeble voice: "When a king becomes old and infirm and he nears his end he always desires to nominate his successor. I wish to have my successor chosen now. Consider among yourselves whom you believe to be fit to succeed me and name him to me."

His auditors unanimously declared for Habibulla, who was immediately invested with the State sword and belt, the Afghan precious stones, and a volume containing the Ameer's will and instructions for the administration of the country.

Although the late Ameer died October 8, his death was not announced until the 3rd, in order that the heir might have an opportunity to arrange a peaceful succession.

Scientist's Child Dies

Ottawa, Oct. 17.—Marjorie Wilson, six years old, the daughter of Mrs. Robert Wilson, a Christian Scientist, died on Saturday, a victim of diphtheria. The attending physician says he was called too late to be able to save the child. Mrs. Wilson says she did not think her child was seriously ill until she called in the doctor. The child had been playing around until the doctor was called, and the child's aunt, who is not a Christian Scientist, says she did not think a doctor was needed. Mrs. Wilson said: "I loved my child better than my life and God knows I would do anything for her." Mrs. Wilson took up Christian Science with the hope of curing her husband, who has been suffering for over a year from a malady which prevents him from working.

A FAST SERVICE ACROSS THE SEA

New Steamships to Cross to Ireland in Three Days

OIL TO BE USED AS FUEL.

Company Intend to Establish a Line from Narragansett Bay to Castletown, in Ireland.

New York, Oct. 17.—Edward I. O'B. Croker, of Cork, Ireland, said to be a cousin of Richard Croker, is here for the purpose of promoting rapid transit between Europe and America. Mr. Croker is the general manager of the Cork, Bandon and South Coast Railway, and it is said to be the intention of the company to run a line of steamers from Narragansett Bay to Castletown, Ireland. From Castletown there will be a railroad connection to Bantry, where the line will join the Cork, Bandon and South Coast Railway. The new steamships are expected to cross from Narragansett Bay to Ireland in three and one-half days. In order to attain this great speed, it is alleged a new style of machinery and fuel will be used—a fuel that will take up little space and furnish greater heat, namely, oil.

Russell Released

London, Oct. 17.—Earl Russel, who in July was sentenced by a court of the House of Lords to three months' imprisonment for bigamy, was released from Holloway jail early this morning. Earl Russel is in good health. The application of Countess Russell to make absolute her decree of divorce, will be heard October 22. In the event of the application being granted, it is announced the Earl and Mrs. Somerville will be married a few days later.

Another Carrie Nation

Hamilton, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Mary Oufton, of Hamilton, attacked a private club on the bay shore, where her husband and others were indulging in a smoking concert, there being on the list of refreshments.

CHARGE AGAINST A BARON

A Father and Two Sons Perished in a Mine With Black Damp.

Marriage Reform Needed in America—Trouble Between International Unions—Contemptible Extortion.

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 17.—Felix Liebsch, known in musical circles as Baron Von Liebsch, was arrested today on the charge of bigamy. He has been in this country about ten years, and, it is claimed, left a wife and son in England. Last June he married Mrs. Frona R. Hale, of this city. Recently the woman who says she married the Baron in England came here, having heard of the second marriage. Liebsch had been patronized by the influential people of Montreal and Burlington. For several weeks he has been at Springfield, Mass. Madam Ing Liebsch, who claims to be the first wife, is a native of Christiania.

FATHER AND TWO SONS PERISH IN A MINE.

Connellsville, Pa., Oct. 17.—Three lives went out in a little air shaft only two feet in diameter and twenty feet deep, but filled with deathly black damp, at the mines of the Juniata Coke Co., near Juniataville. The dead are:—John Gilliland, a miner, aged 60 years, and his two sons, James and Winfield, aged 11 and 15 years respectively. All three bodies were rescued, but in the effort John Nicholson, mine foreman at Juniataville, and John Baker, a mine fire boss, were seriously overcome by black damp.

EVIDENTLY A MURDER.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Charles Crockett, 37 years old, died last night in the Provident Hospital, under circumstances that led the police to believe he was murdered. In company with others, it is said he spent several hours gambling, and left for home with his winnings. He was found on the street unconscious, and died without being able to tell who were his assailants. When found his money was missing. Thirty suspects were arrested, and in the room of one was found a hatchet which the police believe was the weapon used in the murder.

TROUBLE BETWEEN UNIONS

New York, Oct. 14.—The misunderstanding between the International Association of Machinists and the Amalgamated Society of Engineers led to an exchange of words between the representatives of the two bodies at a recent meeting of the Central Federated union. The Amalgamated Society of Engineers has its headquarters in England, and has only a branch organization in this country. The trouble grows out of the failure, it is alleged, of the Amalgamated Society, which has a number of machinists in its ranks, to co-operate with the International Association of Machinists during strikes. The Amalgamated Society was suspended by the building trades section of the central body last week, for failing to strike in sympathy with the machinists. George H. Warner, delegate to the International Association started hostilities by demanding that the action of the building trades section be sustained. The whole question was finally referred to the affiliated unions for a vote.

TWO MEN DROWNED

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 17 — Louis Dowd, of Binghamton, a plumber, walked into Rondout Creek yesterday, and was drowned. A few hours later Thomas Cassavague rolled into the creek from the steamer Mary Powell while asleep, and was drowned.

UNKIND AND UNCALLED FOR.

New York, Oct. 17.—Il Movimento, an Italian paper published in Paterson, N. J., makes the statement that scores of Italians have been discharged from the silk mills in that city since the assassination of the President, because of their nationality. The paper strongly protests, and declares that there was nothing in common between the Italians and McKinley's slayer.

BITUMINOUS COAL OPTIONS

Columbus, Ohio, Oct 17.—The Columbus State Journal says:—The bituminous coal deal in this district is rapidly being consummated. Options in Ohio and Indiana are rapidly being secured by the people promoting the scheme. Jackson & Wellstone, one of the largest firms in the city, are the latest to give options. The options expire December 1. W. H. Teatheart, of Chicago, secured them. He was acting for New York men, who will finance the deal. The interests behind the commission are said to be those of J. Pierpont Morgan. It will take not less than $6,000,000.

THE SCHLEY INVESTIGATION

Washington, Oct 17.—Captain Francis A. Cook was the first new witness called before the Schley court of inquiry to-day. He was called by the Navy Department, but as he also is on Admiral Schley's list of witnesses, he was considered, like Lieut.-Commander Hodgson and Lieut. Doyle, a witness for both sides of the controversy. During the war with Spain Captain Cook was commander of the flagship Brooklyn and Admiral Schley's chief of staff, thus occupying the same relative position to Admiral Schley that Captain Chadwick occupied to Admiral Sampson. His appearance on the stand, therefore, created considerable interest, and his testimony was listened to attentively. Other witnesses summoned by the Department for the day were Lieut.-Commander William F Fullam, who was on the New Orleans during the Santiago campaign, and Lieut. Jos. Beal, who was on the scout ship Harvard, and who volunteered to go ashore and ascertain whether the Spanish fleet under Cervera was in the harbor of Santiago. These are the last witnesses which Judge Advocate Lemley expects to call for the present, and when they shall have completed their testimony he will "rest." A number of Admiral Schley's witnesses were in attendance about the court room to-day. It was expected that his first witness would be the Cuban pilot, Edward Nunez, and that he would be followed by Commander Mason, who was executive officer on board the Brooklyn during the Santiago campaign; by Lieut.-Commander Griffin and Lieuts. McCauley and Webster. All of these were present in the court room before the beginning of the day's proceedings.

OBSERVATORY AT SITKA.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The coast and geodetic survey has established a magnetic observatory at Sitka, Alaska, and is constructing another at Honolulu, Hawaii, to co-operate with the British and German governments in investigating problems of the magnetic force and needle variations throughout the world. This is in connection with British and German expeditions for the South Pole on plans long ago formulated. It is expected to determine whether all magnetic disturbances and phenomena are subject to a common and world-wide cause or are of a local character.

MARRIAGE REFORMS IN U. S.

New York, Oct. 17.—A London despatch quotes the London Times as commenting editorially on the discussion regarding the marriage and divorce question by the convention of the Protestant Episcopal church at San Francisco. The London Times says it sympathizes with the bishops in the difficulties which they and the clergy throughout America have to encounter. The condition of the marriage law is a subject whereon enlightened Americans, however confident of their institutions they may be, speak despondently, though they may just retort to criticisms that the marriage laws in England are not above reproach. The most obvious reforms in America, says the London Times, would be to pass a national law on the subject but apart from the constitutional impediments in the way of such a step, the condition of public opinion does not encourage such legislation. Twenty-five years hence another Protestant Episcopal convention may be debating the same problem, with no clearer prospect of its solution than exists at present.

CONTEMPTIBLE EXTORTION.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 17. — The following statement was made last night by E.N. Huggins, attorney for R. F. Wolfe, president of the Wolfe Bros.' Shoe Co., of this city, and also president of the National Shoe Co., with headquarters in Boston:—"At 18 years of age, R. F. Wolfe, president of the Wolfe Bros.' Shoe Co., of this city, was sent to the penitentiary in another State on the charge of assault with intent to kill. When released he determined to overcome the cloud that always surrounded the victims of the penal code and came to Columbus penniless. His success since is a matter of general knowledge. The story of his early trouble was known to a few, some of them, knowing all the facts and circumstances, gave him in the noblest way their friendship and support. Others saw in his necessity a means of extortion and oppression. As Mr. Wolfe's prosperity has increased, threats of exposure have multiplied, and have at last become intolerable. Knowing all the facts, and being his attorney, I have advised him to make this statement to the public. He knows that the world exacts a further penalty from those it has punished, but he authorizes this statement that he may be forever a free man." Mr. Wolfe was living at Spencer, Ind., at the time of the offence. It appears that he became involved in a quarrel with a friend, and in an encounter which followed, the latter was worsted. Wolfe was arrested, and while in jail attempted to escape, making an assault upon the latter. For this assault he was indicted, and sentenced to five years in prison, which he served, gaining all the time allowed by law for good behavior. The secret of Mr. Wolfe's early life was known to but few of his more intimate associates, and to the public it is a surprise. Mr. Wolfe is one of the most respected citizens of Columbus, and enjoys the confidence and good will of business men generally.

FRANCE DEEPER IN DEBT

A Point Reached Where There is Little Left to Tax.

Paris, Oct. 18.—With each succeeding month the situation of the government finance goes from worse to worse, the revenue for September being 4 million dollars below the receipts of September, 1900. The deficit on October 1 for nine months of the present year is 18 million dollars below the estimates, and 28 million dollars below the actual receipts of the corresponding nine months of 1900. The most dismal feature of the outlook is that this enormous deficit occurs at a time of profound peace, without even a little colonial expedition to cause an unexpected drain on the treasury. It is almost appaling to think how desperate the national financial situation would be in the event of war. The French national debt is by far the largest ever incurred by any nation in the world, and to go on adding to it seems pure folly; and yet this is what is probably to be done, for the per capita tax is already as heavy as can well be borne, and new taxes on furniture and wardrobes stretch matters to the point where elasticity ceases.

TURKEY WILL HAVE TO PAY

United States to Force Ottoman Government to Ransom Miss Stone.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 17.—Among the passengers on the Leyland line steamship Devonian, which arrived to-day, was T. T. Timayenis, the Greek consul general in Boston, who was just returning from a trip through Turkey, where he visited many of the principal cities.

"I was at Salonica," said he, "at the very time Miss Stone was captured about 100 miles from there. Miss Stone was captured by a band of Bulgarian and Turkish brigands under the noted bandit chief Yovanhoff, who is called the scourge of Bulgaria. Miss Stone was captured by these brigands in a territory which is watched by Turkish troops and they will hold her till they can get away from the Turkish territory. They are using her for a shield to protect themselves from the Turkish troops, and if the Ottoman empire will promise not to go after them they will let her go as soon as they get away from European Turkey."

When asked if he thought that the brigands would kill Miss Stone Mr. Timayenis said:

"No. They say they want a ransom or they will cut off her nose, but they will let her go. The Turkish government has promised to pay it, and even if the United States pays it Turkey will pay it back."

OLD COUNTRY NEWS BY SPECIAL CABLE

Strong Address Delivered at Birmingham.

KING MAY VISIT CANADA

No Truth in the Rumor that the British are Deserting.

The War Fever Showing Signs of Revival—The Friction Between Russia and Great Britain.

London, Oct. 17.

The Mail says that there is no truth in the story published to the effect that desertions from the British army in South Africa accounted for the large number of "Boers" now in the field.

The latest war news would indicate that Botha's forces are in a tight corner, and may be destroyed. Lord Kitchener's forces are forming a cordon around the Boers, which, it is hoped, will result in their capture.

The Post confirms the report that great friction exists between Russia and Great Britain over the Afghanistan frontier matter. It says that Russia is ready to pounce upon Herat in case of any outbreak against the new ruler.

UNCLE SAM'S RIVALRY.

That the prominent men of Great Britain are becoming more and more alarmed at the invasion of American industries in the United Kingdom and the gradual substitution of American for English manufactures in the markets of the world was evidenced by a speech delivered at Birmingham by Lord Rosebery. He dwelt at length on the necessity of Great Britain being better equipped in political and commercial education and upon the "dangers of British complacency."

NEWFOUNDLAND FACES CRISIS.

London, Oct. 17.—According to dispatches published today by the Daily Mail a crisis is imminent in Newfoundland unless the British Government pays more attention to the demands of the colony than has hitherto been the case. A special from St. John's says:

"Since Mr. Bond (the Newfoundland premier) left England last April he has not received a single word from the Imperial Government regarding a settlement of the French shore question, nor has Mr. Chamberlain ever answered the dispatch from the Newfoundland Government, sent five months ago, urging the imperial authorities to persuade Sir Wilfrid Laurier (the Dominion premier) to agree to a ratification of the Bond-Blaine convention."

The dispatch gives details of the recent Bond-Laurier conference and asserts that the Dominion premier based his refusal to agree to ratification on the ground that the joint high commission had discussed the matter, and, that all being well, the commission would not discuss it again.

TEST AIR IN SUBMARINE SHIP.

London, Oct. 17.—Continuing the experiments with the first British submarine vessel the admiralty caused six men to be sealed in the boat as she lay outside the water today. The compressed air cylinders were set going and after three hours the airtight hatch was opened, when it was found that the men had suffered little discomfort.

QUIT TRAINING SHIP BUFFALO.

Berlin, Oct. 17.—Advices to the Tageblatt from Kiel say that when the United States training-ship Buffalo sailed from there recently ten members of the crew failed to rejoin their ship in time and were left behind. The commander of the Buffalo offered a reward of $15 each for the capture of the deserters.

KING MAY VISIT CANADA.

Antwerp, Oct. 17.—King Leopold will not only visit New York, but also Washington, Annapolis and perhaps Canada.

Leopold II. doesn't think the business of king very confining. He keeps his crown in the royal safe, so to speak, most of the time and goes off for a good time, usually outside of his kingdom. He has a habit of mysteriously disappearing from Brussels and turning up in the most unexpected places—if, indeed he does not go straight to Paris, his favorite resort, or London, his second choice, for a hilarious holiday.

Leopold is very democratic in his ways when off the throne and fond of Americans.

Multimillionaire Thomas F. Walsh, the gold min owner of Colorado, is one of his favorites and is said to be the Kings financial adviser and partner.

C.P.R. ROYAL SOUVENIR

Three Beautifully Bound and Printed Volumes for the Duke.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company's souvenir of the royal visit—copies of which was presented to each member of the party—was three artistic volumes giving an account of the journey from Quebec to Vancouver. The entire production is worthy of the C. P. R., which is equivalent to saying that perfection has been attained. Two of the volumes are descriptive time tables, one being for the eastern and Lake Superior divisions and the other the Pacific division. These contain a brief account of every point on the road from ocean to ocean, with information of interest to the members of the suite, and of undoubted value to the British journalists, who accompanied the party. The third volume is a collection of the most delicately beautiful engravings ever printed in Canada, picturing the principal points in the leading cities and the entering of the royal train. The paper used is decke edge hand made and the binding the most costly and appropriate in material and design. The covers are of ooze calf, the inside being of silk to match in color. The type used was specially purchased for the work, and the title pages of parchment. A map showing the C. P. R. system, printed in four colors in a special packet, accompanied the volume. The entire work was gotten out by the advertising department of the C. P. R., of which George H. Ham is chief. His work and that of Mr. Thomas Bell, who had the typographical arrangement in charge, is worthy of all praise.

FIVE HUNDRED BOERS HAVE REACHED COAST

Object for Which the Burghers Have Long Striven Has Been Accomplished

HOPE TO LAND AMMUNITION FROM HOLLAND

General French is Directing Operations Against the Enemy Who Have Secured Recruits and Supplies.

Cape Town, Oct. 17.—The invaders have reached the sea, a commando of 500 men having penetrated the rich Great Berg river valley to Hopefield and Saldanha Bay, 90 miles northwest of Cape Town.

The republicans have secured a number of recruits and considerable quantities of supplies.

Gen. French is directing the operations against them.

The significance of the news that the Boers have reached the sea lies in the fact that if they are able to establish themselves in any strength on the coast they will be able to land arms and ammunition, of which they must now be sorely in need, from ships chartered by sympathizers in Holland and sent out to assist them.

The Boers have long had this design in their heads, for it will be remembered that many months ago they approached so near to Lambert's Bay, a point considerably north of Saldanha Bay, as to render it necessary to despatch cruisers to that place and to land bluejackets who threw up fortifications. This body was driven back without being able to establish itself, but the second attempt would appear to have been successful.

FIGHT FOR A CONVOY.

Bloemfontein, Oct. 16.—A number of traction engine trains, laden with one hundred and twenty tons of supplies, for the Boglieburg column and escorted by two companies (120 men) of the Scots Guards under Major Macgregor, was attacked at Lefuw Kop by a Boer commando of 200 men who were strongly entrenched on a hill. During the darkness, after a hard day's fight, the enemy fled, leaving twenty dead on the field. The British lost eleven men wounded. The convoy arrived at its destination without further trouble.

WHERE IS BOTHA?

London, Oct. 17.—According to the Dundee (Natal) correspondent of the Times, General Lyttleton's well laid plans for the intercepting of the retreat of Commandant-General Botha's force have been interfered with by rain. The main body is now in the neighborhood of the Pongola Forest and Botha is thought to be with them. A detachment of the force is known to have escaped west and north, accompanied by a few Cape carts, but no guns and waggons. In all probability a large portion of Botha's reserve convoy, with the families and waggons, are sheltered in the Shangapie ridges.

A British column under Col. Spens attempted to surprise a Boer convoy in the Ngome Forest, but was frustrated by the rains and heavy fog. The roads were so heavy that Col. Spens was unable to overtake the Boers when they trekked southwest.

LATEST MOVEMENTS.

Pretoria, Oct. 16.—British troops which entered the town of Piet Retief on October 11, found the place empty. Prisoners say that the Boers' losses in the encounter between Gen. Botha and Gen. Kitchener on October 6 were heavy.

THE GOVERNMENT JAUNT.

London, Oct. 17.—The commission of six English ladies appointed at the instance of the British Government to inspect the refugee camps is reported to be making favorable progress. They hope to conclude their labors about the end of December. The ladies travel about the country in saloon carriages. It is understood that the Government intends to reserve the judgement of the commission on all points for the Parliamentary blue book.

THE DEATH OF CZOLGOSZ

ONLY 26 PERSONS WILL WITNESS THE EXECUTION

Superintendent Collins Asks That Representative of Government be Present at Execution.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17. — Supt. Cornelius V. Collins will send a request to Secretary of State Hay to designate an official representative of the government to be present at the electrocution of Leon F. Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley. Only 26 witnesses will be present in the chamber of death when the sentence is executed. Many letters have been received, some by cranks, who have written about the species of torture to which they would put him if they had the execution of justice in his case.

It is stated, however, that it would be a matter of surprise if the names of senders of fruit and flowers were made public.

The state prison department has pursued a uniform policy in regard to Czolgosz. An effort has been made to prevent the murderer from gaining any notoriety while awaiting death, and to surround him by as perfect an isolation from the world as possible.

Desperate Father Drank Acid

New York, Oct. 17.—Frederick Buggelin, who made an unsuccessful attempt to kill himself and his three children on Monday night, succeeded in ending his own life to-day. On Monday he cut a gas pipe in the room where his children were asleep and laid down to die with them, but was discovered and dragged from the apartment before he or any of the children was overcome. To-day he drank carbolic acid, and was dead when the ambulance surgeon reached his house. Buggelin was a timekeeper on one of the rapid transit contracts, and his friends said that he killed himself because his foreman won the affections of his wife and induced her to leave her home.

Advice to Churches

Hastings Star: Too much caution cannot be taken by churches in the choice of strangers to fill the positions at times made vacant in church offices. It is noticeable in many cases that a stranger is picked on to fill some responsible position in a church society who makes a good fellow of himself on his first appearance but in the end it is found out he has only an axe to grind. Over a year ago a young man visited our town and installed a reading institution. His pleasant ways and fine voice won his way into a local church choir on a Sunday evening. At the Norwood fair last week he had a different song, something like this, "Come on boys! bound to win! 2 to 1 on the black, 2 to 1 on the green, even money on the red! round goes the wheel!" He had an axe to grind. At a quite recent date a man as a witness at court swore in a boisterous way to an act which he should be ashamed of, and the act was committed while he was president of a local church society.

DAN SPENCE MEMORIAL.

DIFFICULTY OF GETTING A REPRESENTATIVE MEETING.

A Circular Letter to be Sent to Each Subscriber—A County Memorial Suggested.

The third or fourth meeting of subscribers to the Dan Spence memorial fund, to decide upon what disposition should be made of the money, was held last night. It was prominently announced in all the newspapers and a good attendance was hoped for, but when 8 o'clock arrived the only persons present were Mayor Denne and the press representatives. The Mayor asked plaintively what he could do under the circumstances, and was cogitating the problem when some four or five others arrived. After an informal discussion, the suggestion was made that a personal notice be sent to each subscriber. On motion of Mr. D. W. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Robert Fair, it was resolved that a copy of the following circular letter be mailed to each subscriber to the fund:

"To the Subscribers to the Dan Spence Memorial Fund:

"The money subscribed for such fund amounts to but $160 and is insufficient to purchase an ambulance, as first suggested. Moreover, the enterprise of a worthy citizen has supplied the want and there is now a very useful ambulance in town. It is suggested that the tribute to the patriotism and self-sacrificing spirit of the brave men of our county, who gave their lives in South Africa to maintain the honor and integrity of the Empire, should be coupled with the names of the two citizens of our county who died in Africa as soldiers of their Queen, and that the County Council should be asked to supplement your gift to enable the erection in the Court House grounds of a suitable memorial in honor of both of the brave men who gave their lives for their country. The committee request that you will personally attend a meeting of the subscribers to be held in the Council Chamber on Thursday, 21st November, at 8 p.m., to consider the above proposition, and the committee will assume that all who do not so attend assent to the suggested proposal."

The employees of the Auburn Mills have formally protested against the money subscribed by them being used for any other purpose than to buy an ambulance, but it is hoped that they will withdraw their protest or at any rate have personal representatives at the meeting on the 21st. The association of the name of the late soldier Hammond, of Norwood, who also died for his country in Africa, with that of Dan Spence, would be a graceful act and would make the memorial a county affair.

Gas on the Stomach

result of imperfect digestion, pressing up against the heart, it excites alarming symptoms. Instant relief is afforded by taking half an hour after the meal, ten drops of Polson's Nerviline in a little sweetened water. Nerviline aids digestion, expels the gas and imparts a sense of comfort. Nerviline is good for lots of other things and wise people keep a 25c. bottle in the house for rheumatism, cramps, neuralgia, toothache &c. Try it.

Weather Notes

Probs—To-day: North-westerly winds; fair and cold.

Cool, showery weather continues in Quebec and Ontario and it is not improbable that flurries of snow may occur at some places. The weather is fine in Manitoba and the Territories, with a tendency toward higher temperature.
